

VIE PRIVÉE

DU MARECHAL

DE RICHELIEU,

CONTENANT

SES AMOURS ET INTRIGUES;

Et tout ce qui a rapport aux divers Rôles qu'a joués cet Homme célebre pendant plus de quatre-vingt ans.

TOME TROISIEME.

A PARIS;

Chez Buisson, Libraire, rue Haute-Feuille, Numéro 20.

VÉRITABLE

VIE PRIVÉE

DU MARECHAL

DE RICHELIEU.

Dítails des premieres aventures de M. le Maréchal de Richelieu, faits & écrits par lui même, pendant son séjour en Languedoc, à madame la Marquise de M***, qui lui avoit promis de le traiter savorablement à son retour, s'il lui saisoit le récit de ce qui lui étoit arrivé jusqu'alors.

Ly a long-temps que vous me demandez, ma chere amie, le récit fidele de mes aventures depuis ma prétentation à la cour de Louis XIV, jusqu'au moment où je vous ai connue, vous ne savez pas que ce sont des volumes que vous exigez que j'écrive. Cependant d'après nos conventions, mon amitie ne balance pas, & quoique paresseux, je vous promets de vous envoyer par semaine, une vingtaine de pages de mon histoire. Je con ferve scrupulensement tous le materiaux odceffaires pour l'écrire, & je crois qu'il y aura noe affez grande complication devenemens pour ne pas conuyer Jespere vivre long temps du moios on me lo predit, & jajoute oifément foi a une prédiction qui m accommode fort, je compte bien fournir de plus eo plus des faits iotéressass pour l'histoire de ma vie Jai près de cinquante ans & jaugure que je fuis à la moine de ma carrière car plusieurs aftrologues mont affuré que je mourrois cen tenaire, mais que je devois craindre le mois de mars, mais il ine tefte de la marge, & le ne mapperçois pas d'aucun changement dans mes facultés morales ni phyfiques

Α

Ż.

Nous ctions convenus avec lingti decitie mutuellement toutes les anecdotes lufloriques & feandaleufes qui se sont passes sous nos yeux. Il y en o boo nombre elles seroien connoître que de prands esses surtent a la cour, ou le tal nt dintripue doir etre le premier de l'homme qui veut s'avancer & sy conserver, & je n-doute pas qu'une his roite s'are d'après ces notes ne sur tres institutive. Ce oe froit pas, comme nous l'avons vu souvent, un amas de sa s'entrouves, dont un auteur avide du gain' que lui offre un libraire, grossit un volume, sans conoître même les personnages dont il parle, ni les rapports qu'ils ont cus avec ces faits qu'il rapporte. Sa tête forge un roman, l'adapte à la femme on à l'homme, qui, dans un genre quelconque, obtient de la célébrité, dont il sait seulement quelques particularités, & il décore cette rapsodie du " nom d'histoire. J'ai lu sur moi des relations qui sont entiérement fausses. Tous les jours' nous voyons qu'un événement, dont nous avons été témoin, est raconté diversement, exagéré, diminué ou falilifié, selon le talent de ceux qui en parlent, que devons-nous penfer de l'histoire des siecles passés, dont on nous garantit l'authenticité? Il faudroit, pour être certain des événemens d'un fiecle, que des gens mutiés dans les mysteres du gouvernement, se donnassent la peine de rassembler tout ce qui se passeroit d'intéressant Ce journal qui seroit fait par plusieurs personnes, ministres, généraux, courtisans & autres, feroit d'autant plus authentique, que ce que l'un auroit intérêt de cacher, l'autre le publieroit. Il est très-prudent de voiler la vérité, quand elle peut blesser des gens qui existent: mais quand ils font morts, pourquoi la taire? L'historien que choisiroit le roi, ( car pour-quoi laisser à tout le moode le droit d'écrire l'histoire? ) cet homme, dis je, quand cette geoeration scroit éteinte, afin de nossenser personne, o auroit plus qu'à lier ensemble ces évécemens & l'histoire bi n' vrait du sieclo precédeot se trouveroit tout e faite.

Pie privle

Cest cette idee qui nous avoit engages, Tingri & moi , à prendre la plume il ma dit qu'il moit dejà raisembl beaucoup de faits Ju commencé aussi de mon côté mais je fuis trop diffip pour maffujettir it faire le metier d'écriraio Je prefere le plaifit, tou jours nenf pour moi , de faire ma cour 3 une jolic femme, a l'ennui de m'enfermer dans un cabinet pour moccuper du passe. Il minte reste bien moint que le present Je vous promets cependant d'être plus fidele u la promelle que je vous at fane, & de vous don ner les details de ma vie le plus long temps qual me fera possible Sonner quals ne dot vent pas me outre autres de vous, & que fl vous me voyez toujours auffi coupable en amour que je le fus rarement en amitié , vous ferez pour moi lo du hesse , & vous jugeres fi , malpré mes infid lit's jas ceffe d'etre son ami Jeloignerai l'idle du prand travail que j'entreprends pour vous plaite , & comm il fe fera par à par , l'esp re le con duire julgu 4 la fin

Je sus accablé d'occupations qui me fatiguent & m'ennuyent, & le plassir de converser avec vons, sera une distraction fort agréable pour moi. D'ailleurs, le falaire qui m'attend à Paris, doit sourenir mon courage. Je vous ai déja mandé qu'il me falloit du temps pour rassembler mes idées, & faire venir de Paris des notes de ma main, contenues dans un coffre que Boquemare mon bibliothéquaire, vient de m'envoyer, j'aime bien mieux me rappeller les anecdotes de ma jeunesse, que de faire ici la guerre aux protestans. Je reçois continuellement des ordres de la cour pour les punir, & le petit St. Florentin est leur cruel persécuteur. Si je l'écoutois, le sang ruisseleroit; j'aime à être obéi, la résistance est capable de me porter loin : mais je n'ai pas, heureusement pour ces gensci, le fanatisme d'un missionnaire. Depuis long-temps Voltaire m'a convaincu que presque tous les cultes des religions n'étoient que grimaces, & que la vraie étoit tolérante, douce & consolante. Je m'en prends aux mi-, nistres qui ont fait de la nôtre, une religion fanguinaire, & je m'embarrasse fort peu que des hommes prient Dieu à leur maniere, pourvu qu'ils ne troublent pas l'ordre public. St. Florentin qui n'est pas plus dévôt que moi, prétend que des roues & des gibets doivent hâter

la convertion des protestaus, & je crois voir le peut homme bien urréligieux, armé d'un poignard de la ligue, parcourir tout le Lan guedoc laussons le errer au gré de ses petites idees, & revenous aux détails que vous me demandez

Louis XIV avoit foixante douze ans quand je sus présenté à la cour J'en avois quatorze, cest l'âge des prestiges & de l'illusion Je sus presqu'anéauti par la majesté de sa personne, & par l'éclat de sa représentation Il me resut en sourant il aimoit se nom de Richelieu que mon graud oncle a porté avec tant de célebrité, & il avoit trop de pénétration pour ne pas connoître l'insluence qu'il avoit eue sur son règne dont il avoit préparé la gloire. Le cardinal avoit mis le pouvoir absolu entre les mains du roi (1), & Louis XIV étoit trop jaloux de sa puis-

nome Langua dannie formaternia mar en a oft net nome la plofez de

<sup>(1)</sup> Le cerdinal de Richelieu ne rendu Louis XIII fi puis fant que pour commender plus despotiquement à fa place; il e perpétod dans les missifices ce pourour absolu dont ils ont abusté tant de sois & on lui dont cette race de tyrans qui e pris plaifir à accussuler tous les maux dont la France gémit educi-lement Louis XIV devoit fans doute almer le cardinal de Richelieu qui svoit tout assignisti su trôns & on étoit cause qu'i seu trouvoit point d'oblacter à l'exécution de projets sonstes il la France; mais ses signits avoites ils seu de le chétir? Qui de

fance pour ne pas reconnoître dans les descendans de ce ministre ce qu'il avoit sait pour lui. C'est-là sans doute la raison de bontés dont il honoroit mon pere, qui n'avoit pas été assez heureux pour se distinguer à son service pendant un régne si service en grandes choses, & la cause qui les lui sit répandre sur un rejetion de cette famille à qui il croyoit avoir des obligations. Remis de ma premiere timidité, je jettai les yeux sur ce grand roi que je trouvai encore audessus de tout ce qu'on m'en avoit dit. Rien

Etent fort indifférent, toutes ses astions ne tendoient qu'à son ellevation ou a satisfaire ses vengeances. Il étoit dévoré d'une ambition démesurée & vouloit que tout lui sut soumis Ensin il sut despote sans contradiction. Encore si ce despotisme qui lui a fait saire quelquesois de bonnes choses, est du moins pu s'enfermer avec sui dans la tombe, il n'auroit pas passe entre les mains d'une multitude d'êtres vils, appellés au ministère par cabile, ou en faisant bassement la cour a des gens encore plus méprisables qu'eux. Ces prétendus ministres, loin d'avoir le génie & les talens de Richelieu, forcés d'être guidés par des subalternes, des commis, demi-tyrans sous eux, ne se servoient pas moins tyranniquement de la verge de ser qui seur avoit été transmise, pour frapper aveuglément le peuple qui les maudissoit.

Le François n'osoit appeller la vengeance que seul, & sous le toît qu'il arrosoit de ses larmes la moindre plainte l'eût privé de sa liberte, & ce qui est a sa honte, le monstre qui le déchiroit trouvoit encore des flatteurs. O François, mes concitoyens, mes freres, qu'étiez-vous alors, & qu'êtes-vous aujourd'hui > Des eschwes sont devenus des hommes, & la tyrannie est disparue!

8 d aussi majestueux n avoit frappé mes yeux, & de tous les hommes que j'avois vus, il me parut celui qui etoit le plus digne de commander, & qu'il auroit fallu choisir pour être mis à la tête de la nation françoise, si sa naissance ne l'eût point appellé au trône Son air de grandeur im primoit la crainte, & je voyois l'empreinte du respect gravée sur tous les visages. Un de ses regards étoit un ordre que I habitude de voir le monarque fassoit deviner Tout malheureux qu'il étoit au dehots il confervoit dans fon in térieur l'étiquette la plus imposante Il avoit été trompe quelquefois, & croyon l'être fans cesse Il confervoit avec ses courtifans toujours l'air d nn roi, rarement I homme paroiffoit II nvoit necontumé tout ce qui l'entouroit à une espece d adoration, & il paroissoit naturel d'être à ses pieds On le plaignoit d'être assez foible pour n écouter plus que le confeil des prêtres qui égaroient sa vieillesse, en lui montrant le ciel irrité par ses égaremens passés , la religion convroit fes yeux dun voile faint & on lui faifoit figner des ordres qui ont porté de grands coups à la France Mais dans cet affaissement de lui même, on voyou encore le grand homme, & il indistoit bien qu'on ne cessat pas d'admirer le maître qui avoit donné des loix à presque toute l'Europe Dans un temps où l'on gémissoit d'une longue fucceffion.

succession de guerres, où l'état étoit accablé de continuelles défaites, on parloit encore de fes premieres victoires, le peuple manquoit, de tout. & à la cour on n'entretenoit le roi que de ses anciennes conquêtes. Eugene, enslé de ses succès, nourrissoit de plus ch plus la haine qu'il avoit vouée au monarque françois, dont il avoit essuyé des refus; il mettoit sa gloire à l'accabler. Vainqueur de Villeroi, de Tallard, du duc de Bourgogne, de Boufflers & de Villars , conjointement avec Marlboroug, il étoit perfuadé qu'il pousseroit ses conquêtes jusqu'à Paris, on le craignoit, & la consternation étoit générale. Le roi seul paroissoit tranquille, & ne négligeoit rien pour conserver cette grande représentation qu'il avoit toujours aiméé. Ceux qui l'approchoient dans son interieur, "témoins des plaintes qu'il laissoit rarement échapper, cherchoient tous les moyens de le diffiper.

Madame la duchesse de Bourgogne qu'il aimoit, étoit plus empressée qu'un autre à calmer les chagtins de son grand papa. Gaie, pleine d'esprit, elle amusoit le vieillard pai des enfantillages. Ses reparties vives le faisoient sourrire, elle imaginoit tous les moyens de lui faire oublier ses malheurs, les bals, les sêtes où l'on rassembloit ce qu'il y avoit, de plus aimable à la cour, étoient employés, & vous devez bien penfer qu'un enfant de mon âge le trouvoit tron heureux d'être admis à ces plaisirs Les malheurs du temps mintéressoient fort peu je ne fongeois quaux amnsemens de Versailles & aux moyens de me les procurer fouvent Javois une belle mere qui gouvernoit mon pere fort ågé & fujet à des infirmités, cétoit elle qui de rigedit tout . & la bonne dame fournissont bien mesquinement à mes plaisirs. Jetois vêtu le plus modestement possible pour mon rang, & quand je m en plagguois, elle me difoit en riant, que les graces de ma personne suppléoient à rout - le compliment ne rempliffoit pas ma bourse & me donnoit de l'humeur qui éclatoit souvent Jetois-plaisanté par mes camarades, & c étoit toujours aux dépens de ma belle mere, que je n aimois pas que je me tirois d'affaire Javois dit, un jour, où l'on avoit trouvé mon habit mesquin, que cela ne devoit par paroltre étonnant, que c'étoit un habit de belle mere Ceux qui connoissent la cour sont à même de juger combien ces petites choses là réussifient Aussi, pendant quelques jours ce bon mot en fit les délices (1)

(i) Ce qui fait voir qu'il faut peu de chofes pour l'occuper Les gens qui l'abbtent ent fort de donner à des riens un su d'importance; ils font roujours en corrulion pour des métres On a ru des pales de France se dépoter très sérieusement pour

J'étois un enfant, & je n'avois encore connu que les usages de la maison paternelle; j'avois eté mis sur la liste des danseurs, & je me trouvai bientôt dans l'intimité, à cause des répétitions qu'on faisoit des dauses que l'on exécutor devant le roi. Le jour des bals parés, je me tronvois là à peu près avec tons Les amis de la maison, comme à Paris, & mon age ne me permettoit pas de fentir les nuances de respect que je de ois à une telle assemblée. Un jour, madame la ducheile de Bourgogne ayant ouvert le bal paré avec M. le duc de Berri, & ne pout a it, comme fille de France, danser suivant l'étiquette du temps, qu'avec un prince ou un duc quand elle dansoit seule, après son premier mennet, avoit été prendre le duc de Briffac.

Il étoit d'usage que l'homme rendît le menuet à celle qui l'avoit choisi Mais M de Brissac laissa madame la duchesse de Bourgogue pour aller prendre une autre dame; tout le monde s'apperçut de sa distraction. La princesse même qui avoit été reconduite à sa place, s'étoit déjà levée, ne pouvant possió ler quelques pieds de plus dans un speciacle, & s'enfermer plus de huit jours pour calculer la discibilition des pluces d'une comédie, & mettre plus de soin qu'ils n'en auroient pris pour le campement & la subsistance d'une armée.

pas imaginer qu'on l'oubliât, mais elle prit le parti de se rasseoir, quand elle vit commencer la danse, & cela sit un petit mouvement dans la salle M de Brissac continua son menuet, quand il sut achevé, la dame qu'il n'auroit pas dû choisir, vint me prendre, & je sis, mais exprès, la même faute que Brissac avoit commise envers madame la du chesse de Bourgogne & an heu d'aller la prier comme je devois faire, j'allai prendre madame la duchesse de Bourgogne, en lui disant madame permettez que je répare les sautes de mon ami Brissac.

Cette plaisanterie qui pouvoit passer pour une impertinence, sit rire tout le monde, sut parsaitement bien reque, & rendit célebre le petit duc On admira ma présence desprit, le roi même seu divertit, chacun vousoit movoir à diner & à souper, on se dispinion ce plaisse, & madame la duchesse de Bourgogne, depuis cette époque, voulut que je susse de toutes les sêtes (1) Si juvois été timide les premiers jours que je parus à la cour, je fus bien vîte corrigé, car en peu de temps je fus trop hardi, je voyois que tout me réussifsoit : on ne parloit que de mes bons mots, de mon esprit, je devins un petit joujou à la mode, le roi même rioit quelquefois de mes étourderies, & sa présence ne fit bientôt plus d'effet sur moi. J'étois l'enfant gâté de toutes les femmes; madame de Maintenon me trouvoit charmant, disoit que je commençois d'être un homme. Mais en attendant la réalité de sa prédiction, j'étois bien étourdi & bien libertin. Madame la duchesse de Bourgogne me combla de bontés, toute héritiere du trône qu'elle étoit, je ne vis en elle qu'une jolie femme, brune, piquante, & chéri de toutes les autres, je ne trouvai pas étonnant qu'une grande princesse eût les mêmes yeux pour moi; en peu de tems je fus familier avec elle. J'étois admis à lui faire ma cour, j'allois trèsfouvent répéter des sigures de danse dans sa chambre particuliere, on jouoit aussi de petits jeux où je brillois par mes inconséquences; elles étoient applaudies, c'étoit m'encourager à de plus grandes.

<sup>(1)</sup> Cette anecdote de l'enfance de M de Richellen qu'il le rappelloit e ce plaifir e été suffi d'âlée à peu près dans les mèrethale d'Richellen par fon mari le 18 pain 1782. On devoit aff du ement supurer quelque chofe d'un enérat qui débuloit à bien & j'e teau encore au dell de ce qui ferablest promettre

Un jour avant que la princesse parût, je m'étois caché derrière les rideaux de son lit, par la curiosité d'entendre ce qu'on diroit de moi; je ne sus pas long-temps à attendre.

Quand on fut affemblé, on me demanda pour répéter Il a préseré, direct quelques danseuses de faire sa cour à d'autres semmes Mes camarades un peu jaloux murmuroient tout bas que c étost manquer à la princesse, elle seule mexcusoit à son âge, il faut lut posser quelque chofe, mesdames, ajouis t elle, d'autres que rous peuvent trouver cet enfant fort atmable . & il nest pas éconnant qu'on le retienne Je fis alors on mouvement qui agita le rideau Il fut remarque déjà plus done femme eut peur, qui peut être cache là ? La honte d'a voir été furpris avant de mootrer moi même, me fit gliffer fous le lit, nouvelle agitation de rideau, & je vis le moment où les femmes alloient fuir Briffac vieot , cest un homme, dit il, un homme 1 ce mot fut répété Heurensement qu'en se baissant il me reconnut car sans cèla, cette aventure auroit eu des fuites plus dangereuses pour moi Il me prit par la jambe en sécriant je tiens le voleur , c eff Fronfac On l'aida à me retuer, & je parus un peu hooteux & défrifé, chacun se regardoit, personne o osoit parler Jallal me met tre à genoux devant madame la duchesse de Bourgogne, qui se mit à rire, ce rire me sou lagea , je lui pris lo main que je baifai Pardon , madame ' je voulois faroir ce que ces tiames pensoient de moi, & je vous supplie d'oublier une étouiderie, en seveur du deser que j'avois de connoître la réputetion qu'on me dorne. On excuse tout, dit la princesse, hors la peur que vous nous avez fait, & elle sit commencer aussitôt la répétition qui avoit été retardée. Cette aventure qui prome ma hardiesse, iomte à d'autres inconséquences, me sit, quelque tems après, aller à la Bastille pour mûrir ma raison. Il est certain que je n'envisageois point les dangers de mes actions. J'étois tous les jours plus libre avec madame la duchesse de Bourgogne. J'ens la témérité une sois de vouloir l'embrasser, & je ne sais ce qui en auroit résulté, si j'avois cu souvent les occasions de me trouver seul avec elle, j'aurois tout hasardé, & sans doute j'aurois été heureux ou perdu.

Cette fougue de ma jeunesse que malheureusement on réprimoit peu, ne sit qu'angmenter.
Je passai bientôt pour le héros des plus agréables aventures. L'imprudence & la jalousse de quelques semmes, confirmerent la vérité à ceux qui n'avoient que des soupçons. Madame ** nouvellement mariée su une des premières à me mettre en réputation, elle me suivoit partout. Un jour surpris par son mari, au moment où je la tenois sur mes genonx d'une manière

conforme à mes desirs elle fit un en pourquoi donc, lui du je fans perdre la tête re fuser de membrasser? je ne vous quitte pas, & même devant M le marquis vous devez acquit ter la dette, nous avons parié jai gagné, il faut payer, cest dans l'ordre Vous devez ma dame, reprit le bon mari, M de Fronsac a raison on doit sacquitter. La dame feignit de se défendre encore, & me donnoit le temps de réparer le désordre où j'étois Enfin de l'autorité du mari i embrassat la semme parce que, selon lui , il falloit mieux céder que se faire décoeffer Je parus alors fans laisser d'indices de co qui sétoit passé Madame ** tranquillisee , ne put sempêcher de rire & le mari content s applaudiffoit d'avoir termine le différend. Sans moi , je crois qu'il seroit encore resté là longtemps, sécria-t il en embrassant à fon tour madame ** Le plus que paurois pu repliquaite Vous Lentendez madam. I voyez reprit le mari , l'obligation que vous m'avez! je le connois, il est entêté il l'auroit fait comme il le dit . & c est pour cela que je suis bien satis fait de vous nvoir tirée de ce mauvais pas.

Vous jugez bien de ce qui se passoit en moi Jétois tout glorieux de ma présence d'esprit, & madame ** men aima davantage. Elle ne put s'empêcher de conter cette aventure à une amie, celle-ci à un nutre, elle me sit un bon nour neur infini. Un amant avec cette présence d'esprit étoit, selon elles, un être rare & charmant les semmes me citoient entr'elles, surtout quand il étoit question de quelques gaugeries en amour. Fronsac n'eût pas fait cela, disoit-on On ne peut croire combien cette bonne réputation me valut des saveurs.

Au milieu de ce tourbillon, madame la duchesse ** voulut me fixer mais l'ai été longtemps à lui faire des sermens avant de la perfuader; elle me rencontroit au moment où je m'y attendois le moins, avec des semmes qui lui donnoient lieu de douter de ma sincérité, & cela retardoit le moment heureux après lequel l'aspirois. Elle me reprochoit ma jeunesse, mon étourderie mais ses beaux yeux bleus languissamment fixés sur moi, démen toient sa bouche, je voyois bien que j'étois aimé; mais je n'en étois pas plus avancé. La duchesse ** avoit réellement des principes, & c'est de toute's les femmes dont j'ai triomphé dans ma jeunesse, celle qui m'a coûté le plus de peme, elle estimoit son mari, sans avoir de l'amour pour lui, elle étoit perfuadée qu'une femme devoit tout à ses devoits. Mais comme tôt ou tard la femme la plus raisonnable doit faire une folie, je fus la pierre d'achopement sur laquelle le ciel qui se rit des vaines résolutrons des hommes, fit échouer ses romanesques projets de vertu Jétois piqué de sa résissance . & plus je rencootrois d'obstacles plus je mettois d'empressement à les vamere. Elle avoit été un des témoins de la fcene qui setoit paffée chez madame la duchesse de Bourgogne, & elle croyoit, ainsi que tous ceux qui y étoient avec elle, que la facilité avec laquelle la princesse m avoit pardonné annonçoit uoe intime liaison entre nous, Je voyou que c'étoit la rivale qu'elle redoutoit le plus & je faifois mes efforts pour la distuader Cependant j'étois glorieux de l'opi nion accréditée L'héritiere du trône dans mes fers! cette idée ménorqueillisson, & je me défendois de maoiere à laisser croire que le bruit répaodu nétoit pas sans fondement Je dison non, de façon à persuader le cootraire, & dans le food de mon cœur 1 étois intimément convaincu que si madame la duchesse de Bourgogne 'n avoit pas encore augmenté mon triomphe, cela ne pouvoit pas être éloigné.

тЯ

Cependant mes affaires n avançoieot pas avec madame la duchesse * Pallois me consoler de ser resus chez madame ***, mais souvent le besoin my cooduisoit & le dégoût meo sai soit sortir plutôt que je ne l avois projetté. Le desir de posséder une semme nouvelle détruit tous les charmes de celle quou a. D ailleurs on connoît ceux-ci, & on nn point encore admiré les autres ; & javoue que presque toujours l'impatience de les posséder répand sur eux une illusion qu'ils n'ont pas , & qui se détruit bientôt.

Un jour qu'elle me disoit qu'on ne pouvoit pas se sier à moi, que les sermens que je lui faifois étoient copies sur le même modèle de ceux que j'allois débuer à toutes les belles, je me mis à ses pieds pour l'adurer que mon cœur m'en fouruison de nomeaux & de trèsfinceres pour elle, un celat de rire sit sa réponse, en ajoutant qu'on ne pouvoit mentir plus impunement. Je sus d'abord déconcerté, mais reprenant courage, je lui pris la mam que se baisar, & me tenant long temps courbé, je la frottai doucement contre mes yeux. Ma position, le frottement léger sirent naître de la rougeur, je pensai aux choses les plus trilles, & mes yeux se remplirent peu à peu de larmes : je levai alors ma tête pour les faire voir ces précieuses larmes qui couloient fur mes joues. Je ne vous anne point, lui disje, d'un ton pénétré! regardez votre ouvrage, voilà les premiers pleurs que l'amour m'arrache, cet amour si mal récompense, & qui me rend malheureux! Jusqu'à présent j'ai eu des desirs, mais je n'ai connu de ventable attachement que pour vous, la seule semme bien aimée est la seule qui me soit cruelle Voilà à peu près mon discours que je prononçai d'une voix entrecoupée, pour lui, donner plus de valeur

La duchesse ** étonnée nttendrie, ne ponvoit croire encore ce quelle voyoit, machina lement sa joue s'approcha de la mienne, & recueillit ces délicieuses preuves de ma tendreffe, des foupirs fuccéderent elle leva fes beaux yeux vers le ciel , puis les fixant fur elle me dit dun ton fait ponr aller à lame vous maimez donc, je ne puis douter ... ah, cher Fronsac, que vous êtes dangereux! Sa tête retombs encore fur mes épaules, ma bonche lui appliquoit les baifers les plus ardens, & la sienne fit bientôt un autre office que de parler l'avoue que ce moment fut un des plus délicieux de ma vie. Il fut interrompa par le bruit d'une voiture, on craignoit le mail je me retirai pestant contre les importins & me difant en moi même elle est à moi! Jai réfléchi depnis combien le don des larmes étoit perfuafif en amour Je me fus bon gré de l'a voir provoqué en moi & j'ai eu grand foin d'en faire usage dans plus d'une occasion. L'ha bitude contractée on pleure affez facilement & il y n des femmes auprès de qui cela fait merveille

J'étois content de moi, plus amoureux de la duchesse ** que je ne l'avois encore été, j'épiois le moment favorable de la réduire, il sembloit toujours s'éloigner de moi, & j'étois bien contrarié. Enfin son mari qui avoit une charge considérable à la cour, fut chargé d'une mission particuliere en Languedoc; & la duchesse ** qui aimoit la tranquillité, obtint de madame la duchesse de Bourgogne la permission d'aller passer quelque temps à une campagne qu'elle avoit près de Mantes. L'apprendre & y voler fut presque le même instant. Il y avoit déjà quelques jours que la duchesse y étoit; plusieurs femmes fort aimables lui tenoient compagnie, & je me trouvai moi troisieme d'homme Je sus très-bien reçu; la duchesse rougit, & pendant quelques jours évita toutes les occasions d'être seule avec moi. Cette fémme combattoit, & tout en m'impatientant, me faisoit rire sous cape de voir la vertu en prise avec l'amour. Je prévoyois bien que cette premiere ne manqueroit pas d'avoir le dessous, & je m'apprêtois à me payer bien complettement d'une si longue attente. Enfin ce beau jour, ce jour charmant arriva. Nous avions cherché depuis mon arrivée tous les moyens de ranimer la gaieté, l'avois banni cet air de langueur qui avoit délà gagné la société, & chaque jour on inventoit des jeux, presque toujours d'enfans, où on samufoit à se faire des esplégleries Javois joue des tours à plu sieurs femmes & elles étoient sur leurs gardes de crainte de surprise Elles tinrent comité la duchesse à leur tête, pour me rendre ce que j'avois fait. Il fut d'eidé d ôter les cloisons d'une chambre près de la mienne & de les placer de maniere qu'avec peu d'efforts elles pussent tomber, on l'avoit percée de tous les côtés, & on avoit adapté des ficelles qui, attachees à de certains meubles, devoient, en les tirant d'une chambre voiline, les faire mouvoir à volonté Il ne s'agiffolt plus que de mo faire déloger de mon appartement, fans que je pusse en soupçonner la cause. Le soir on ôta les rideaux de mon lit où lon jetta beau coup deau, on brûla du linge dans ma chambre , & on fit conrir le bruit que le frotteur , en allant porter de l'eau que mon laquais lui avoit demandée après diné , avoit mis le seu à ces rideaux sans y prendre garde Des gens mis dans la confidence répandirent l'alarme, & J'arrival dans mon appartement que étoit encore rempli de fumée je vis mos lit entié rement mouillé Après sêtre récrié sur le bonheur qu'il y avoit de ce que cet accident n'a voit pas eu de fuite, accident qui nuroit pu consumer le chateau, si on n'y avoit pas pris garde; on décida qu'il étoit impossible que je pusse coucher dans cette chambre, & l'ou sit porter mes essets dans celle qui avoit éte préparée pour se venger de mes tours. Les semmes me seliciterent de ce que je n'avois rien perdu; la joie paroisoit sur leur visage, & j'attribuois à l'intérêt que je croyois qu'elles prenoient à moi, leur apparente satisfaction. Je n'imaginois pas qu'elles jouissoient d'avance du plaisir qu'elles se prometioient. J'étois, je l'avouerai, sans aucune désiance, & je complimentai moi-même la duchesse **, qui sourioit, de ce que tout étoit si heureusement appaisé.

On foupa gaiment mais à peine la compagnie fût-elle passée dans le salon, qu'on parla de s'aller reposer. On prétexta que l'accident arrivé dans ma chambre, quoique sans conséquence, n'en avoit pas moins essrayé au premier moment, & qu'on se ressentoit de cet essroi : on se plaignit de mal de tête, de lassitude; & au lieu de se remettre à jouer suivant la coutume, le salon qu'on ne quittoit jamais avant une heure ou deux, suit désert au plus tard à onze. Je me rendis dans mon nouvel appartement, saute de pouvoir faire mieux. Il étoit disposé de manière que mon laquais conchoit loin de moi Après avoir lu pendant quelque temps, j'éteignis ma lumiere, & je m occupat de ma chere duchesse Je oc voulous pas quitter la campagoe, fans avoir eu des preuves certaines de fa tendresse, & je me promettoit bien de ne pas laisser échapper la moin dre occasion qui se présenteroit Rempli de ces idées qui sotisfaisoient mon imagioatioo , je m endormis. Je fus bieniôt réveillé par un bruit que j'entendis un sauteml qui étoit près de la fenêtre, se trainoit pesamment vers mon lir Je me mis à moo féant, le bruit continue je demande qui est là ? Personne ne répond, & au même instant une caraffe d'eau placée fur la cheminée, tombe par terre avec fracas. Je ne favois ce que cela vouloit dire je faute' au bas de mon lit , & fans aucun dessein que celui peut être de fortir de ma chambre, je touchai avec la jambe noe ficelle qui s'étoit dérangée, je la finvis avec la main, & je vis bientôt ce qui en étoit je me recouchai , & restat traoquille. J'eoteodis de l'autre côté des éclats de rire , & en même temps je seous de l ean qu'on férioguoit vers moi

Pour me garantir je tirat mon lit, & mis les rideaux entre la muraille & moi je plaifantot en même temps les ocleurs, & leur eriat d'avoir de meilleures inventions. Tout cesse tout à

coup : mais un autre bruit succede au premier : des coups de marteau annonçoient une démolition, & l'attendois la fin de ce tapage, quand tout-à-coup la cloison tomba en plusieurs morceaux, comme une décoration d'opéra. Figurezvous ma surprise, de voir huit ou dix femmes coeffées dé nuit, armées d'une tasse remplie d'cau. qui font le cercle autour de mon lit, & qui difant qu'il fait assez chaud poùr se rafraîchir, me jettent sur la figure l'eau que contenoient leurs vases! Jé me tapis entiérement dans mes draps; j'entendois dire, il a peur | bon i il faut le punir des tours qu'ils nous a joués encore de l'eau! Non, non, s'écria une autre voix, il faut l'attacher dans son lit, de maniere qu'il nous demande pardon demain matin pour en sortir. Je n'étois pas à mon aise ; & il me passa par la tête de prendre ma revanche ' j'ôtai doucement ma chemise, & sortant précipitamment de mon lit, je parus aux yeux de ces dames dans le costume du bon pere Adam, quand il étoit dans le jardin d'Eden, avant d'avoit été désobéissant.

Cette apparition fit jetter un cri universel; la vue du diable ne feroit pas sauver plus vîte un troupeau de religieuses qui sortiroient de confesse, que la mienne ne sit retirer ces semmes. c'etoit à qui suiroit la premiere L'a plupart des lumieres surent éteintes dans cette suite que l'accélérois encore, en criant que l'allois me faifir d'une d'entre elles pour la retenir avec moi Moo lit étoit mouillé, & je trouvois très-jofte d aller memparer de celus d'une de ces dames Elles s étoient réfugiées dans la falon & moi je pris un escalier dérobé, que je coonoissois pen, mais qui me cooduilit par un petit détoir que i ignorois dans l'appartement de la duchesse il ne s y trouva personne Tout le monde avoit été occupe à préparer la niche qu'oo m'avoit faite. Je ne balance pas que me mets dans le lit en entrant par la ruelle, de maniere à n être pas vu Je me tiens entre la muraille & le lit, ma tête cachée de façoo qu'il étoit impossible de rien fonpçonner je a étois pas bien gros , & jaurois défié d'appercevoir qu'un homme étoit là le cœur me battoit d'impatience & de désir Peu d'instans après , la duchesso arriva , eo disent à sa semme de chambre il y a plus que de la légereté dans ce que vient de faire M de Fronfac. Oo convint pourtant qu'on m avoit un peu maltraité, & tout en parlant , la toilette de nuit s avançoit, je foulevois doocement la couverture, & j'appercevois de temps en temps la duchesse qui agiffoit fans contrainte, puisqu'elle se croyoit seule avec sa semme de chambre

Mon imagination exaltée embellissoit tout ce que je voyois, les moindres détails de la toulette me sédussoient plus que tont ce que j'avois éprouvé jusqu'alors, j'étois dans une ivresse inconcevable, & je baifois les draps, ne pouvant mieux faire. La duchesse crut sentir quelque chose courir sur elle ; sa femme de chambre chercha, & la mit presque dans le même état où j'étois dans ma chambre en paroissant devant ces femmes: je dévorois des yeux ce que j'aurois déja voulu sentir & caresser; Vénus, que les peintres font si belle en sortant de l'onde, n'eût zien été pour moi. La duchesse me parut célesse, & le cœur me battoit si fort, que je craignois de me trouver mal. Enfin elle se mit au lit; je n'osois respirer; l'étois coi, & tapi dans un petit coin : je tenois bien peu d'espace, & l'aurois voulu le resserrer encore. Elle demande un livre, j'étois au supplice ; la femine de chambre sort, ferme les portes, & me laisse avec ce que j'avois de plus cher au monde. J'étois combattu par le désir de l'approcher & la crainte de l'effrayer. J'étouffois, cependant, sous la couverture qui étoit remise en place, je présumois que ma duchesse lisoit; je l'entendis soupirer & prononcer ensuite mon nom. Je me hasardai de sortir doucement ma tête du lit, où je ne pouvois plus tenir. Ma duchesse, occupée, ne s'en apperçut pas, elle lisoit toujours. Quelques minutes après, elle passa le livre sur la table de nuit, cut off their arms and legs. The most beautiful it is already despiter in sall to he a stabled her-sall, to necess the violence which he offered. There is some satisfaction in rescribing the merited purishment of a weetch like that I being mable he brashed to a weetch like the I being mable he reside the nauffed his saddles this per loss stores, and first towards levens. On the second right he fell from her been and was taken by his personars I sendials path in an errors, and posed him is a care; if then orders do the sarry, nose hands, and foot he was off and left him as that conducts to explicit in the content of the property of the content of the care of

" blad Aslam was thus revesaged, but his condition was in no respect meliorated. The Mahrattas held lum in the most abject subjection and when Sandah leit Deib ad ta sarrounding territory in possission of $1.1 rron, a 1 reach adventurer who under his protection was farming an independent state t the I reach, bile they still need the name of the aged and blim monarch, treated he person with the most barbarous ladigarty. Upon this Frenchman, Scindish placed great reliance expecting by his means to oppose the British forces with equal terms. Il de liurne was the first rerson whe formed a body of regular troops in Scimbals a service and in solm and British as well as French officers indiscriming by a but 31 I error, when he succeeded to the communial, carefully arisaled the former that he mucks stablish a military power exclusion communical by his own countymen. lin hace t the time mented to about 16 or 17.000 regular and disciplined infantry a will apposited and again rous train of artiflery a lady of breeze ar triege, and from 15 to "O,000 berre, besides which he haded for reinforcement of caralry from the perty closels who a re life terbataries or then lin t thre were about $1,00,000. A

Frenchman never loses sight of the interests of Erauco—it is the best part of his national character. The French had been told, that England must receive her mortal wound in India, and M Perron was in just such a situation, as Bouaparte would have selected, for striking the blow. His headquarters were established near Coel, in a commanding position on the frontier of the British possessions, and on the vulnerable part of our extensive Empire Consistently with the safety of that empire, his power could not be suffered to exist, but before that question could be brought into discussion, Scindiali provoked a war A rival chief, by name Jeswuit Rao Holkar, disputed his authority over the Peshwali. The founder of Holkar's family was a man of low birth, and the orientalists, who embellish or disfi-gure every thing with fable, say, that in his bollood when he was keeping sheep, and had fallen asleep in the sun, the deadliest of the Indian serpents crept from its hole and extended its hood over his head to shield him from the heat. The fable is worth repeating, because a more appropriate tutelary genius for an eastern conqueror could not be imagined.

"Holkar began his career with considerable success, the combined armies of the Peshwah and Scindiah marched against him, but the Peshwah now conceived a hope of emancipating himself from the subjection in which he was held, and when the approach of Holkar diminished his teni of Scindiah, he seized the opportunity of proposing an alliance to the British government. It was immediately ratified by the Governor General, and an agent was sent to Scindiah for the purpose of inviting him to accide to the alliance, for it was thought that all parties would now find it advantageous to come to an agreement under the mediation of the British cut off their arms and legs. The most beautiful of the Flogat's daughters is said to the stabbed herself, to scenpe the violence which he offered. There is some satisfaction is recording the merited possible ment of a vertech like this t being unable to resist to Edish, he stuffed his caddle with precious stores, and field towards Persas. On the second right he fell from his becae and was taken by the personers is founding but thin 1 mms, and e possed flux is a cage; then ordered his sary, now hands, and feet to be cut off, and left him is that condition to explicit

" that Aslam was thus re enged, but his condition was in no expert amologated. The Mahratian lield lum in the most abject subjection; and when Specials left Deily and its surrounding territory in possibles of M Perron, a Pausch adventurer who under his protection was forming an independent state; the French, while they still nard the name of the aged and blind monarch treated his person with the seest harbarous indiente. Uron this Firtheli man Gendish placed great reliance expecting by his turate to organs the British Seres with equal terms. M. de Burgos was the first person whis formed a body of regular troops in beindiah's service and it mindited liminds as well as French officers inducerousiat by a but $1. P gross, when he speciated to the command, carefully excluded the former that he mult retablish a military passer excises by communiced by his own countryment. line force at the trees amounted to about 10 or 17,000 regular and describined infanty a will ap-pointed and numerous train of smallery a lody if strengths truops, and from 13 to "upon boron, be-ables which be looked for reinforcement of cavalry from the perty cluels who were life to butation of allow. Him t t thee were about Classifich. A

Frenchman never loses sight of the interests of Franco-it is the best part of his national character. The French had been told, that England must receive her mortal wound in India, and M Perron has in just such a situation, as Bonaparte would have selected, for striking the blow. His headquarters were established near Coel, in a commanding position on the frontier of the British possessions, and on the vulnerable part of our extensive Empire Consistently with the safety of that empire, his power could not be suffered to exist, but before that question could be brought into discussion, Scindiali provoked a war A rival cnief, by name Jeswunt Rao Holkar, disputed his authority over the Peshwali. The founder of Holkar's family was a man of low birth, and the orientalists, who embedish or disfigure every thing with fable, say, that in his boylood when he was keeping sheep, and had fallen asleep in the sun, the deadliest of the Indian serpents crept from its hole and extended its hood over his head to shield him from the heat. The fable is worth repeating, because a more appropriate tutelary genius for an eastern conqueror could not be imagined

"Holkar began his career with considerable success, the combined armies of the Peshwah and Scindiah marchod against him; but the Peshwah now conceived a hope of emancipating himself from the subjection in which he was held, and when the approach of Holkar diminished his fear of Scindiah, he seized the opportunity of proposing an alliance to the British government. It was immediately ratified by the Governor General, and an agent was sent to Scindiah for the purpose of inviting him to accede to the alliance, for it was thought that all parties would now find it advantageous to come to an agreement under the mediation of the British

The Prehwah, in whom the proposits originated, would regain his authority; by this means belieful would be accurred against a rival whom he was fittle able to withstand; and Hollar who was at present ands to withstand | and littler who was at present a more advertures depending upon rapides, might acquire a permanent exablement. But while the acquire was not keep the armies angaged in battle littler was victorous, and the Puhwah, escaping to the Colar spatied to the prevenence as Hombsy that it was he intended to the reige in that pre-sidency. Haltar means hils took possession of his capital, and placing another perior on the throne rerigient there in the sense. In this state of things both the rovernors of Madras and Bombay thought sent the governors of allows and positive store for instructions from Bengal to prepare their deposable force for immediate service. On the one band, Holkar earseatly pulsed to the resident at I outsit to effect an agregimentation with the problems octobilist, or the solvery requested a continuous of the librah friend ship wards him and his dependent sovereers as the ship wards him and his dependent sovereers as the ship wards him and his dependent sovereers as the solver the solver him to be a first of the solver him to him to the solver him to him to the British forces prepared to restore him to him sequial. The secret troops were those of the Madyna presidently assembled tiltory glut in the morth's wait for other fillyone waster Lieutessaut forestic himself and a new limits him to be a control to a large limit him to blake the secretary the command of it detailment required political judgment, not less than maintary shift. Level the without him the water considered, with as based the subman should be better considered, with as based the well-than maintain to be better considered, with as based the submitted of the second of the submitted of the submitted of the second of the submitted of the submitted of the second of the submitted of the submitted of the second of the submitted of the submitted of the submitted of the second of the submitted of the subm ence acquired during his command at Mysore, and his military operations against Dhoondiah and other refractory cinefs. The detachment consisted of 9,700 men, including one regiment of European

General Wellesley led his troops through the Mahratta territories The way was long and tedious, the season of the year unfavourable, yet so well had he provided for the supply and conveyance of his soldiers, that they suffered neither loss nor dis-tress. He maintained then, the same perfect discipline, in an enemy's country, as he afterwards did in France, plunder and excess were so strictly pro-hibited, that the natives regarded him as then protector and preserver At Akloos he formed a junction with the Nizam's subsidinly force, under Colonel Stevenson, but upon learning that Holkar had left Poonali, he disposed Colonel Stevenson's force so, that a speedy junction might if necessary be formed with it, and when within sixty miles of the place, made a forced march with the British and Mahratta cavaly, performing the whole distance in 36 hours, the last forty miles by night, over a rugged and difficult country, he arrived there so speedly that Amout Rao, Holkar's agent, had scarcely time for flight. Thus was the capital of the Mahrata country rescued from the hands of the enemy, the inhabitants protected from violence and rapine, again began to enter the town, and welcome cordually the English troops

* Quarterly Review, Vol. XIII.

38

A large force had been ruled by Scindlah for the apparent purpose of exposing Holkar. The British forces having relieved thin from all fear of his tival's attack, he began to regociate with his, and the Ralah of Berar for the purpose of amorying the Logilah government. If had probuged the time by a series of regociations and evasions; is designed to arrigh himself of the aid of the irrech force under M Perron : it was evident, therefore, that unless be met with a signal repulse, the way that mess be men with a signal repers, the way would be perparred for French arcendancy in the East. Vigorous measures were therefore planned, and a campulga, on a larger scale dum had wer hitherto hern attempted in folila, was projected. "It comprehended amost the whole of Hindostan. "It comprehended almost the whole of Hindonian, from Caloutt and Mairias on the existers, to Hornlay on the worters, to Hornlay on the worters Me, and from Delhi In the Eurhest north, to Foonsh, Hijdershaul Duzeral and Orleas. The latter country was to be stracked from Gaogna and Calcuts, thereby strilling as effectual blow upon the Hajsh of Berrar; it be given the services of the Caloutte when the services and very ment of Unbankay would selve the senjorns and territory belonging to beindlah in Unzerat, on the Orde frontier General Lake had to destroy the laftacuce of the French, and rescue the blad Megul from the barkarus indignity with which be was treated by these adventurers; thus twee ex-tending the power and valuing the character of the British. In the Decema, Conserta Welchedy had to oppose the confederated force under behindigh and the Haph of Herary to protect the Vizzon, the Peshwah, and deli er the Lompany's poseometers from danger. His possible was no important, so great the faitherers among the Mahratia chiefe, and so great the can'ideace sey seed in him, that he was to tell with a distinct healastic-rity subject toly to the Governor General in Council, but possessing full power to conclude upon the spot, whatever arrangements might become necessary either for the final settlement of peace, or the netwo prosecution of war.

On the 3th of August, General Wellesley broke up his encampinent, and marched to Ahmed-nuggur, a town surrounded by lofts walls, without ramparts, flanked at the angles by towers, behind the town was a fort, protected by a hody of horse A strong corps of Seindiah's infantry, with some Arab troops, composed the garrison. Almost at the moment General Wellesley came up, he ordered the assault to commence, considerable resistance was made, but the wall was at length carried, with the loss of 118 killed and wounded, which was principally caused by the Arabs, who kept up a destructive fire from the towers and in the streets. On the 10th, a battery was opened against the fort, the communder of which was speedly compelled to surrender. These operations opened the communication with Poonah, the capital of the district.

On the 29th, General Wellesley arrived at Aurungaliad No sooner were the chemy apprised of his arrival, than they menaced Hyderibad. On this occasion, they were disappointed by the able movements of the British, who moved eastward, along the left bank of the Godivery, causing the enemy to proceed toward Jalna. Soon after this fort was carried by Colonel Stevenson, who, a few days afterwards, defented a detachment of the enemy, and caused a good deal of loss. Hitherto the two native chiefs, had proceeded solely with their cavalry, and their irregular infantry, armed only with matchlocks, they were now reinforced by sixteen taitallous of regular braminy and a large artillery force, directed by French officers.

* Quarterly Review, Vol. XIII.

On the 21st September Opporal Wellcaley and

Colonel Stevenson met at Badnapoor and held a Oslond Stevenson met at Budnayoor and haid a conference there i they arranged a green's situate for the "ith. The General advanced by the eastern way round the bulls text sent Budnapour and Jelius; while Cokonel Stevenson was despitched by the western. The two divisions of the army having thus peased and occupied the deliler is note day thus passed and occupied the defiles in one day prevented the enemy eccepting to the southward, Intelligence was received that the enemy swee mos-tered is great feres around blackmun; secondingly General. Wellesley having assertained the best route reolived, norwith-tanding the great superi-ority I the enemy to bring them to a green's less graymont. He arrived at hashinkit we the Tack where he was approved that bendula and the Ha-ther than the superiority of the them. jui of here's received another most and that. The General perpared for the thek. Before him lay the strong and combined army f the two potentiates, drawn p on the hank of the river haiting. The right alog composed of earshry was hear Hokardon, and say drawn out to meet the frefantry ; which were escamped in the neighborhood of Amate. General Wellesley determined to at of Amarie. General Wellewig determines in an tack the left wing of the enemy where the guas and infantry were praced; rightly judging that a successful tack, you the troug point of the enemy would the derive. It possed the Anira, at a lort beyond their feft flank and formed his infan try in two lines I fee, ing the ca aley as a reserve in the third, and keeping in check a large lod of the everny's house by means of the Mysers travity. The enemy antiripating low internitions, after if the position of their infantry and guns, brought them to bear upon their assailants with terrible effect. At the distance of 400 yards, the British artillery opened, but with little ruccess, rome of the guns were silenced, the gumers and cattle falling fast beside them. On this the General ordered them to be abrindoned, and the whole line to advance. Colonel Maxwell, with the horse, was ordered to protect the right, they routed with great slaughter and drove into the Juah, a body of Mahratta cavalry, by whom they were charged. The vigorous mersures of the General were crowned with success, the enemy, dismaved, began to give way, they were driven from their artillery, the British, pressing rapidly on in pursuit, left behind them the gons they had so bravely won Still, their numbers were so few, that they could not at once secure the adanninges they had grined, and, in the heat and ar dour of victory, forgot the practice common among the native warriors, of feigning death, in the hope of escaping it. No sooner did the victorious Birtish pass, than starting up, they turned the guns agruist them. The fugitives, seeing this, rallied, and the combat had to be fought anew. At this critical juncture, Colonel Maxwell, in charging gallantly a large body of the enemy's infantity that had been formed, was killed, and the enemy's fire became so galling, that General Wellesley, at the head of the 78th regiment, and a corps of native cavalry attacked the artillery, from which his troops had already suffered so much damage, his horse, struck by a cannon shot, which carried away its leg, fell under him Still the conflict was not decided, large bodies of the enemy's horse hovered on the skirts of the field, as they threatened an attack, the General ordered the British dragoous to charge, and they were at length driven from the րեսո

40

The loss of the comperors was service, a third of the army was killed or disabled; of the energy 1900 isy dead upon the field, and counties numbers of the wounded were actived over the reighbourhood. The results were such as to repay the loss and labour of this hard fought is title. The defeat of these two great clieft, strock a final blow at their milliary repetation; it their their through and resources were broken; their artillary in which consolines were broken; their artillary in which consolines were broken; their artillary in which consolines were broken; their twenty in which consolines were broken; their twenty in which consolines were broken; their twenty in which consolines were a strong their twenty in their military while stores, amusantidon, camp equipped under so many disastrantages. Sepretice arms and disciplines have often prevaied agribut a great a mamerical difference. Lest it would be devenible; the less part of this day's givey to say that the number of the secury was as ten to not they had disciplined twenty than deviated the Drivich and the strong the less part of the day's givey to say that the number of the secury was as ten to not they had disciplined twenty than deviated the Drivich and the strong the security of the security twice wow with the layoust. It produced proposals from the enemy to see Seinfahl mulaisters were to repeat that Creamal well-sley would used as officer to his master's camp, for the purpose of reproducting terms of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever in the failin warm, of peaces. Lugitard has sever

they might afterwards disavow the act of their minister, and because it would appear if a British officer was sent to the enemy's camp, that the British were soliciting peace, instead of granting it to a beaten enemy. He declared himself, however, ready to receive with all respect, in the British camp, any person duly authorized to propose terms. It soon became obvious, that the Mahrattas were temporizing, and he lost no time in prosecuting his success."*

During the whole course of this campaign, General Wellesley showed, not only great military prudence and ability, but also diplomatic skill, of no mean order, as we might illustrate copiously, by many extracts from his dispatches, did our limits permit. He was equally indefatigable in attention to the comforts of his officers and of the army, and his kindness and liberality were distinguished. Of this, we cannot refrain from noticing an instance, attested by an eye-witness †

"He sent into every camp-hospital, a dozen of Madeira, from his own stock, and that wine is neither cheap nor plentiful here, to-day he was in amongst them before the camp was pitched, making enquiries, which are as honourable to his feelings, as they are agreeable and gratifying to the poor invalids. The men have every comfort that can be afforded in the camp, or procured here, which I fear are not very numerous, indeed, the refugees from the adjoining parts, and Scindiali's wounded men, are dying here every day."

The war was now drawing to a close, many of the strong places had fallen, Scindiah's infantry was nearly destroyed, and great numbers of his cavalry deserting him. General Welledey was in full pursuit of the Rajah of Berar who had meditated a predatory exemplos to the southward. So terrified now was he at the valour of his opposent, that be moved his camp five times without making any stand; and was repul-ed in an attack on a British convoy though sia numerical superiority was in the ratio of a stoone. He was so hotly pursoed that he had no opportunity of committing any ravages, except in the smaller villages. Forany ranges, except in the smaller villages. For merly, a native arm made such deprivations that it could not pass take to the harm ground; it could not pass take to the same ground; thought he army locketing camp follow rs, (a longer through the army locketing camp follow rs, (a longer through the army locketing camp follow rs, (a longer) are ever proue to plander) amounting to 4,000 see, Jack marched three times over the same road, and encamped at one place for four days, not one village had been pillaged or injured, searesty indeed entered by any but some of those officially consected with the public departments the that of gra in were untouched, not the slightest quantity being removed, succept at a fair piece by tenually arrangements are made to secure this. From rangements were mass so secure that the series is the series to forty well-rip men marched in front and on the flash; at every place which the army possed, serveral if there are placed at the gates. I the tawn until the whole corp, with its train of the tawn until the whole corp, with its train of the same protection, was also extended a through. The same protection was also extended a the tilizate; the native derived as much confidence to the British, from this processes treatment, that relying in the General's protection, they treated the great respect any officer who afterwards to he the mine route.

* Quarterly Review, Vol. AIII † Major General Sir J Nichols.

General Well-sley with uncertifying ambiety present on to terminate the rapidalism. The low

- Market St.

pan was endervouring to retreat to his own country; the British descended the mountains by the Rajourate pass, in order to strengthen Colonel Stevenson in the siege of Gawilghur On the 28th, he came up with a large body of Semdiah's cavalry, supported by the greater number of the Berar infantry. At Parterly he was joined by Colonel Stevenson as the troops were fatigued, and the day excessively sultry, he had intended to make a brief halt there , but the enemy afforded him a favourable opportunity of coming to an engagement with them. Strong bodies of cavalry appeared in front, and began to skirmish with the Mysore horse To repel this attack, the infinitry pickets were sent forward; General Wellesley advanced to recon-noitre, and perceived the confederate army drawn up along the plains of Argaum, in one unbroken line, five miles in length, composed of cavalry, infantry, and artillery Having formed his troops in a compact column, he moved down upon the enemy, he then formed two lines of attack, the first of infantry, the second of cavalry, the rear and left being supported by the Mogul and Mysore cavilry The British line begin to move slowly and steadily, when a body of Berar's Persian mercenaries made a furious attack at close quarters upon the 74th and 75th regiments, they suffered a total repulse Scindiali's cavalry now fiercely attacked a britalion of native infantry, but being routed with great loss, fled in confusion. The British line pressed steadily onward, when the enemy gave way in all directions, leaving thirty-eight pieces of artillery on the field. The cavalry continued the pursuit by mounlight, cut down great numbers, capturing many elephants loaded with baggage. General Wellesley thought, that with one hour's longer light, the whole force of the enemy would have been destroyed; and in that he would have succeeded, but for some of his mail a round may been thrown into confirmion at the commencement of the camounds. "What do you think," he says in a letter to Major Shaw "of nearly three entire battalions, who behaved so admirably at the lattle of Assaye, being broke, and running off when the cannorade commenced at Arrunning at more the camerance commerced a Arrayum, which we wor to be compared to that at Assayo I. Luckily I happened to be at no great distance from them, and was able to raily the figling troops, and ree-stablish the battle. If I had not been there I am convinced that we should ha a lost the day....The troops were under arms, and I was on brosciack, from six in the morning I was on boweleach, from at in the morning until treely at night.—Nothing could be move fortunate than my return to the sorthward.—I just sarried is time. Colonel Survenon are not delayed for me more than seed q y it is a review rich committee. I that after having been no long perparated, and such a disturbed between my, we look him a plotest at a morecut to critical. The Hajaka is much atarmed for Gas lighter, and I think he is abserted that the could be a fine of the colonial to the colonial material. The Hajaka is much atarmed for Gas lighter, and I think he is abserted that the fine of the not live size. Dure very Makratta chief is see hangiby, and so proce to deal that I are proported that indeed will be trained suffer that and only to the conditions I must require from that maken it to the conditions I must require from the minimum of the procedure of the state of II is extracted. them." Throughout the whole of il is campaign, therm." Throughout the whole of 11 is eampsign, the commander depathens show the greatest anxiety and real for the right peri meaner of his laborium and trying states; a which peri meaner of his states of the greatest and the full confidence of the generated and statistat the full confidence of the generated has been applied to the seasoning and reserved the states of the seasoning and reserved the seasoning of Inte of Wallerston's Investore plans; which testify, that as jet, he scarcely estim sted his abilities at their due value. Both these qualities, we need scarcely observe, so far from being inconsistent with, are the general concountants of a great and masterly mind. The following extract from a letter addressed to the Bonhay Government, is but a sample of many that night be quoted. He observes, "that in conducting the extensive duties with which he was charged, it had been his constant wish to conform to the existing rules and establishments, and to introduce no innovations, so that at the conclusion of the war, when his duties would cease, every thing might go on in its accustomed channel For this reason, and for others not necessary at present to mention, I have sent no commands to Colonel Murry, excepting two orders applicable to the general state of affairs, which have lately gone to him, but which were first submitted to the Governor for his approbation do not comprehend, and cannot say that I admire, the system-necording to which the connection with the Guickwar Government is carried on , but this possibly proceeds from ignorance of the subject. At all events, I know that I am not able to suggest any measure that could remedy it, and if I were to interfere at all, I might order a measure which would be inconsistent with the existing system am therefore very desirous not to be called upon to take a more active part than I have lutherto, and that matters should be conducted as usual, under the immediate orders of Government the Honourable the Governor in Council may think proper to call for my opinion upon any subject, I will give it him to the best of my judgment and abilities, and I will do so, whenever I think it necreary in all matters which have relation to our general situation."

Cawlighur a strongly fortified place built on a beight defended by lofty walls, ramperis, and towers, was now about to lail. A breach had been opened by the batterles, and the troops were ordered to the assault. "After carrying the north-west oparhed by the natures, and me troops were were too the assaudt. "After carry lar the north-west gate in the most plant manner the sail of the inner fort was escaleded; the gate in a opened for the atomitor, and the plane inner dutely my rendered. The row of the every [61] the different rendered. The row of the every [61] the different relative." The war was concluded, in consequence at the fift of this fortreer; the Bajab of Berrap being furred to send as ambasendor to dramand terms of the fifth of current. These propositions were concluded on the 17th of December 1 on the 50th another treaty was formed with Scradian 1 both on terms highly favourable to the English literests in India. Us the 5th of January 10th, the Journal of the 18th of Europeans int. the service of the Italah. It such the mean complete in exclude them altogether in peace and may unless with the consect of the placed in computer that the test and adject to be placed in competition with the great advantages of it is administratory to the Toulisma hash will confer advantages to the Norman are highly so the and afford a possibly ground of the II links Lithly be the mode of the Conference of treaty, and I am satified thet it will form a led liant point in the history of this country, and a co-ble berminate to I year address poor of

So much haspers, consequent on these regords tons, devoted on General Wellester that he did not reach Bondey till the month of April . It were observed during this period, that he was much ruxious to promote the interests and advancement of those officers who had served with him; risky of whom afterwards rose to distinct in a ster his for tering care. The General himself was received with the honours due to his distinguished merits. Congratulations and addresses both upon his military and political success, from official personages and public bodies, flowed in upon him , in his replies to which, with the mode-ty of a noble mind, he ascribed his success chiefly to the discipling and valour of his officers and soldiers, and the effective co-operation of the civil government. A monument in memory of the battle of Assaye, was erected at Calcutta, the inhabitants of that city presented him with a sword, his own officers with a golden vaso. while at home the thanks of Parhament were voted him, and he was created a knight Companion of But perhaps the proudest and most affeeting distinction of all, was the parting address of the inhabitants of Scringapatam. "They had re-posed," they said, "for five yours under the shidow of his protection they had felt during his absence in the midst of builtes and victory, that his care for their welfare had been extended to them as amply as if no other object had occupied his mind, they were preparing in their several castes, the duties of thanksgiving and of encrifices to the preserving God who had brought him back in safety, and they implored the God of all castes, and of all nations, posed, were so hundleating that no high-spirited soversign could be expected to submit to them with out a struggle. It was in effect to my "Surrender your ships to us, for you know you cannot defend them against Napoleon who will use them to our damage ; theref we intrust them to us, and we will damage i there we intrinst them to us, as a war hold them in piedge, until a general peace when we will restore them to you. If you do not give them up peaceably w will select them by force." Tame indeed must be a been the spirit, that would ha a pickled passively to this; and it was easy when his capital was in flames, and the eries of his whileth rose on high that the Crown I rince did successib to it; and give paccessed to the pre-dence and reflection must be a shewn, could only he ended by the discomfine f the rater party

The armament, consisting of twenty-seven ably-of the line get ready in severes was weeky planted upon a large scale. The troops amounting to 10,000 men, were communical to Lord Cathourt. Sir Lethur Wellcaley wa at the head of the reserve. The first was maker Admiral Gamber ; one d i alon sailed by the Great Helt, in order to blockade Zealand ; the other a th the army on leard have la arrived in the Sound, prepared for active open rations.

Is the only comfat of any importance which took place near klope for Arthur M Besley communical. If attacked a to by of I such to ga, manded. It is position to type when to yet which contested the position to person there is strong entreachment to their real tagels of the strong entreachment to their real tagels of the two them from the by a wealt, be forced into the town, and routed them with reselferable loss. This are tion acrelerated the conclusion of the campaign by depring the Greener of Copediagon of all larger of and later from the array

Although the subject of this memoir was not present during the bombardment of Copenlagen, we cannot refrun from alluding to the gallantry of the Danes, displayed in the defence of their capital. With the army all classes and ranks, the citizens, the students, and the peasantry, united in its defence. Various vigorous, though unsuccessful sorties were made, for what could these brave, though raw defenders, do against experienced generals and veteran battalions? On the 2nd September the land batteries, with the bomb and mortar vessels, opened their tremendous fire, which soon appeared to be followed by a general confingration of the town. The Danish ramparts, citadel, and crown batteries, replied to this, but their fire speedily slackened Many of the public edifices were in runns, and life and property fearfully destroyed, yet it was not till the 7th, that the unavailing struggle terminated the Crown Prince could now, without disgrace give up his fleet.

As soon as the Danes showed a disposition to treat, Sir Arthur Wellesley was sent, along with Sir Home Popliam and Colonel Murray, to fix the terms of the capitulation—Sir Arthur displayed the same promptitude in diplomacy, as in war, the terms were discussed, settled, and signed, in one night; all the demands of our government agreed to, and the gates of the citadel, capital, and dockyards, were given up to the British

On his return to England, Major-General Wellesley, having resumed his seat in the House of Commons, was addressed by the Speaker, who returned the thanks of the country to himself, and his brave conductors, in the following terms—"I should be writing in the full expression of those sentiments which animate this House, and the whole country if I forbore to notice, that we are on tide day crowning with our thanks, one gallant officer well known to the gratifude of this House who has long trodden the paths of clory whose centus and valour have already extended our fame and empire : whose sword less been the terror of our distant enemies a and will not now be drawn in valo to defend the seat I empire itself, and the throne of his hing. I am, file Arthur Wellesley charged to deliver the thanks of this House to you and I accordingly thank you in the same fit Commons of the United hingdom, for your seal, intropidity and exercion, di played in the various eccration necessary for conducting the siece and effecting the surrender of the eavy and arrenal of Courshagen." Sir Arthur's reply to this high enterium, House has entirered on myself and my friends, I factly considered by the effects of the savy and array as the bichest this country can offer t it is the object and ambition fall he are employed in his Majesty a service and to obtain it, has don't less been the metive of ma y of these acts of va-lour and good conduct, which ha a traded so emi-nently to the giory and ha a nd weed the pres-jectly and advantage of this country."

If ving resumed his d use as servicity for Irahand, by Arthar Welliche Frequestly has belin the deliberations of the Hause concretely livel queetion. If he phase were desting substituted penalized leveloney; by the a, unalityed by univerportization, were maderate and constitute; by partization were maderate and constitute; by partization were produced and constitute; by the relation of the properties of the appearant. For any he need to the respect of the appearant, for the same he no doubt that the continuous in the world nave produced much substantial good to his native country, but a new scene of action was now opening before him, the laurels he had acquired on the plains of India, were to be thrown into the shade by the glorious conquests of his Pennsular campaigns, he was to lead the British troops from one victory to another, to be cheered by the shouts, and rewarded by the enthusiastic thanksgivings of a liberated people

CHAPTER IV

Introductory remarks—Conquests of Napoleon—Affairs of Spain—Charles IV—Godoy—Ferdinand—Napoleon s de signs—Treaty of Fontainbleau—Departure of Portuguese Royal Family—Junot enters Lisbon—Intrigues at the Spanish court—King s Abdication—Ferdinand goes to Hayonne—Insurrection at Madrid—Vengenace of the French—Origin of the Peninsular War—Spaniards desire ald from England.

The commencement of the French Revolution had been hailed with delight by many of the noblest and most generous spirits of the human race—they saw in it only the dawning of a bright and auspicious morning upon the universe, and knew not the sangunary and fearful excesses in which that morning of promise was to close—The abuses of the French monarchy had been unquestionably very great, oppressive exactions and political servitude ground down the great body of the people, a numerous, haughty, and frivolous aristocracy, many of them destitute of legitimate claims to respect, of unbounded profligacy and worthlessness, stood aloof from the people, and refused the slightest redress of their grievances; other causes which we cannot particu-larize had also been working for a long series of years. When the people then succeeded in of tain-ing their legithmate rights, it reems as though fresh vigour had been infused into an assimil kingdom, and a noble example of the bicselegs f freeden and a noble example of the blessions. I freedom gie en to the world. Had the constitutional party in France taken their stand on the bread ground of principle, and treated to their own resources (they wave at first the decided majority of the houses of legislarure) without courting the support of the republican faction, the centing danger night have been at least delayed. Had the high beyen a first been at teast delayed. Had this hier been as firms as he was welf-dispused to his milyers, and had the scobles and great proprietors been true to him, the scobles and great proprietors been true to him, the party di lével and dustrected, now making indoctred demonstrations of bestility and gai granting wreping and large concerding, who they easily too longer serviceable to themselves, but only feld too longer serviceable to themselves, but only feld no longer services be to themselves, but only fed-tile films of revolutionary arthur second by their fully desirous of gl tog a practical proof that the theories of their republicacy opponents were will founded. Above all, it was surpreted that Lovi and his supporters meant to decer the people and every suspection of such orthy in pedicut, dur-ing period of permits restrictment, he immedia with the most disastrous consequences. The republica-nary obtained in effect the detactors by of tracers and what seemed the fatt from a set of it fill takes country was some or restrict the head of distances. constry was seen or resit or note or arthora. One o territor was succeeded by such or it great institution of the landwere crumted, a 13 rejector in hierarch and suppose the Aur is while y shell-high, the Aura of threats and drops table, the such furnit and creat or expansion, possessing the supreme sway, and ruling by the guillotine and the sword, reason deffied, and a Republic proclaimed. What history proves to be the end of such a headlong career of national change followed in its course, and after France had been drenched with blood, its trembling people were glad to seek slicher under the military despotism of Bonaparte.

R.E

This astonishing man had been the favourite of fortune. After having ascended by the commanding force of his genius to the throne, it appeared as if his lofty elevation had deprived him of much of that forethought and comprehensive wisdom to which he owed his supremacy The man who had risen from the people, perished by endeavouring to rule them like a legitimate monarch, the successor of republican chiefs strove to mutate the brilliance of the old regime. Grasping and insatiable ambition led him, like another Alexander, to attempt the conquest of the world | The peace of Tilest had left him almost sole master of the continent, the greater part of it he actually possessed, the rest was under his controul No German Emperor had before acquired such dominion over the principali ties of that country as Napoleon The mountaineers of Swuzerland, forgetting Morat and Morgarten, submitted to his protection, received his edicts, and recruited his armies Occupying the triple throne of France, Flanders, and Italy, he had placed one brother on that of Niples, "made a second king of Holland, and erected a kingdom in Germany for a third, with territories taken indiscriminately from his foes and frends His sister's husbrud Murat possessed a principality with the title of Grand Duke of Berg, Eugene Bernharnois, his wife's son, was married into the house of Brania, and ruled

Italy as his viceroy; his nucle, Cardinal Feech, would upon the next vacancy to placed at the head of the Reman Cathollo Church. Like the here of a Spanish researce of chivalry he portloard out hingdoms, principalities, and dakedows, from his companions in arms, and we companions in arms, and we read of Dukes of Dulmaria, Regron, and Dhastig, among the new mobility of France.<sup>28</sup> His reputation, political, and military was at its height; he had done more than Lews XIV had attempted, lehad a wider sphere of utbority than Charlemagne, His fortunes had reached their senuth, and, as a most seguesses poluciant told him, such farther advance must be in realty a step in decline. In his pride and medaces, he darregarded the warn-ing ; the decatrons invasoon of byens and Russia ing ; the thest-room to account to the last showed its truth. It polera binocili, in his sarty days, would have at once seen that his true policy and only chance of safety lay in defending and strongthening what he lad already guined, and that he weakened husself in proportion at he draw out his lines. Destreating this, he resolved to lave the whole of Lurope at his feet, and threw down the gauntlet of dehance to the world; and only awel from his drame when he found blanelf a solitary dethroned, and descended alia. Like a mad gamilier amagished by excitons and ose-cooled winnings, he stand that all 19 on the cast, fame wealth, empers to hait, and was left to be ment has folly on the rock of St. II iron.

E or since the Premed Benchma had accorded the threse an unbroken alliance had ambanted bet ren france and Spain; and the latter as the neutre sountry Lud seted to submission to the former Af er the draufall of the per I family to France, Spain had remained neutral; Bomparte found the weak Charles IV a convenient instru ment, his will was regarded as law. The Spanish government at this time was thoroughly corrupted the profigrey of the court had been equalled at no former period, the poison overspread the whole body politic, perioding every branch of the legislature. Yet still the mass of the people retained their old national character and spirit, in spite of had government, and demoralising superstition Spain before the French revolution, remained at heart unchanged Improvement seemed slowly steading on , agriculture and commerce extended , the arts, sciences, and literature cultivated, the Inquisition if still as vigilint as before, had abated in cruelty. But the unsuccessful war which Spain had waged with the French Republic, exposed the weakness of her resources, and the imbecility of her councils, it was ended by a dishonourable peace, for the conclusion of which the worthless Godoy attained the title of prince —hostility with England, so dreaded by the Spaniard, of course followed.*

Their commerce almost ceased, their navy was destroyed, the finances were grievously embarrassed, public credit at an end, and her supplies of foreign treasure extorted by the French. "The burden of such an alliance," says Dr Southey, "became at length too galling and too heavy to be endured, and even Charles IV and Godoy, the weakest of monarchs, and the basest of favourites, began to devise means for ridding themselves of the yoke. This disposition they made known to Prussia, when that power was preparing for its first

<sup>* &</sup>quot;Peace with England, and war with all the world," is

m

struggle with Boraparts. He scorer was the Prus sian was declared, than Godoy issued a proclama-tion calling upon the people not to be divasqued at their situation, for they possessed great resources, and their government was bout to make a power-ful armanent. This are of polery gave rise to a strong remonstrance from the French ambassador t who discovered t Berlin their rener amountment the better dens terrafeed Charles, and Hompart who discovered t Berlin their correspondence ith the P under court, accused to control himself with he ving their expressed it depressaries. Had be marched an armylox Spale for the avowed purinaccined an artist of space see the avoison pur-love of dethrosing the Bon hom spon this quar-rel, he would certainly not have prevoked the same kind of opposition, that opposition he afterwards a recked his power and exputation. His condect then would have been in the alread course of open authorized war. It would ombre have so multiply the understanding of the Spaniards, the sutraged their moral sense t he would have snow teper a regular moral series I are would state where they is reported in initiating replaced from weak disorganized my not the moral prolatates which is immental 1 he send has a controlled with the carriers of a rotten povernment, and not the spirit and soul of a mation. Napoleon however did not adopt this direct course; he perferred the de hats path of treaty and course; he perferred the de hou path of treaty and intrigen, to take hi favoures obsect; the plact of one of his breathers on the treaths throse he as an interestic course not ascenario defensed by willy policy. Gadory had formed an affend a and detensive heaps with the histories; it wistes of which, calling you just for her contingent of troops, hy paids societied of day a ring freez the cutting and conveying to theretay it he have t the 'spaalla arm' commanded by the Starpels de-

Romana. He next entered into a secret treaty with Charles, concerning the partition of Portugal, the third of which was promised to Godoy, as a principality, another, for the Quoen of Etrura, while the city of Lisbon, and the remaining portion, was to be ceded to Irmiec. Ho also domanded from the House of Braganza the adoption of the entire continental system, including the total renun-ciation of British alliance, the confiscation of pro-perty, and the imprisonment of English residents The Prince of the Brazils, conscious of his defenceless state, gave up every thing but honour and conscience, he warned the English to depart with their property, and then prepared to bow to the tyrant's decrees. But the secret treaty of Fontambleau having transpired, he threw limiself on the protection of the British fleet, the Portuguese navy was got ready, the king and Royal family, with the court, and vast numbers of attendants, of every age and rank, prepared to embark for South America, at Belem, "the very spot whence Gama had em-basked for the discovery of India, and Cobral for that of Brazil" Slowly and aimd tears, the melancholy procession moved to the water's edge—the princes and princesses, pale and weeping, prised through a mournful and silenterowd—"Uncovered and weeping, the people behild in speechless sorrow, the deputure of their ancient rulers. They saw the descendants of a long line of lyings forced to seek, in mournful exile, an asylum from the hand of the spoiler It was some consolution to the crowd, who watched with aching eyes the receding sails, to see the Royal fleet, as it passed through the British squadron, received with a salute from all the vessels, suitable to the rank of the unfortu nate family emblematic of the protection which

m

Great Britain now extended to her ancient ally and an earnest of that herole support, which, through all the desperate conflict that followed. England was desthood to afford her courageous inhabitants. Never had a city been penetrated with a more unanimous feeling of grief; the literal Family kind and warm hearted, had long enjoyed the affections of the people; the literaness of conquest was felt, without its excitment. In mouraful silence the people lingered on the quay from whence the Illus-trious party had taken their departure; and resh, in returning to his home felt as if he had lent a pa rent, or a chiki."

Scarcely had the Royal squadron cleared the har when Jamos advanced guard 1800 foot, and a few horsestics, arrived at the sowers of Lisben; just in time to see the Perturness fleet in the distance. The French soldiers were so exhausted by fireed marebes, and the suggestions of the wa that man of them dropped down in the treets from famine and fatigue. It hashes was tarnely surrendered to this band of wretebed converipts, whose train budy was scattered in evalution or train tain paths 200 miles at length ! June occupied the paluce ; and in pure of a slight termilt, a A the pairce; and in jete of a slight tenuit, is down the arts. I "secured, placing in their steal those of the Laprone. If treated the people a compared soluperts, and fing seed extraction exceed is a political of a guines and half are the whole population. The treates of localization which provides the propose of amodify and deriving the Spaintarty, were medicisted and card as for it the curries. If therefore an except of the 200 Perch, and 77,000 Epichell, and 77,00 a reserve are y of 40 mm aven, was examined at

Bayonne The decree was indeed gone forth, "That the house of Briginzaliad ceased to reign" Napoleon ordered the reserve at Bayonne to Napoleon ordered the reserve at Bayonne to much into Spain. It advanced in two divisions, under Moncey and Dupont, while a third corps, under Duliesme, crossing the Pyrences, occupied Barcelona, Pampeluna, and San Schastian, so that Napoleon was already in possession of the whole country that commanded the main roads from France to Madrid. The fortresses which by a succession of artifices had fallen into the hands of the French, were strengthened, and stored with provisions.

Meanwhile the Spanish court, torn to pieces by party intrigues, uniesistingly beheld the country overrun by French armies Ferdinand, Prince of Asturias, engrged in plots against the authority of his father, was desirous of entering into a matrimonial connexion with the Emperor, while Charles and Godoy solicited Napoleon's aid to punish the treason of the son. As both parties were being amused by negociations, Bonaparte was silently preparing for his intended conquest, and mustering his strength to overcome any rising of the Spanialds. When the news of the occupation of Lisbon reached them, the court, struck with consternation, resolved to sail for America, and with this view intended to set out for Scyille Against this intention, the populace trose with indignation, they surrounded the palace at Aranjuez, where the court then was, and with loud threats of vengeance, demanded an explicit assurance that the Royal family would remain The riot spread to Madrid, where the mob attacked and plundered the house of Godoy; who with difficulty escaped being torn to pieces, by flying to a garret, and linding himself be neath a heap of mats. After thirty-six bears had clapsed thirst compelled him to guit his retreat t he was discovered, and only rescued from death by some guards who collected around him, and whe, at the risk of their own lives, dragged him, covered with brui-on, and nearly someless with terror to the meanest prison amki the shouts and curses of the populace.

Charles, terrified by them violent scenes, alsii cated the throws; and Terdinand we proclaimed hing at Madrid, amid the rejoicings of the multitinde. Ferdinand' authority was soon at an end. Murat, at the head of the Ferneh troops, speedily draw near; ha ing dispered 30 000 men around the city be entered it with 10,000, on the 23rd Marel There he recei ed a communication from Charles. Is the shape of a protest against his on addication, which had, he alleged, been a tortal from him by terror and tracifery. Murat ref. and to acknowledge as high fertilization, who concred the city in pulled the following day a the I rince thatle an un worthy attempt to concluse lum, by presenting to has the ord of branes ! a trophy ! til rapturn at the Lattle of 1 via. Maras received the gift, but said the recent the of Ferdmand a monreh depended on Napole in pleasure, Napoleon, whose plus were not yet mainted, was exed at Morat he hasty advances ; he d patched heathermisary by ry, to jut to tiers to right. I column, the chosen bloged the rate of denominal by his for an a trainer and near per 1 4 ,000 French troops serrond I have, and the title which he had holed 5 a timeresard of Li treachery was still annaturel. He was I fort convents and get he any related to from h tule out liar-a latte and bye that the Bonaparte's favour would be conciliated, and the plans of Charles and Godoy defcated. He set out along with Savary, but found the Emperor neither at Burgos nor Vittoria, Bayonne was not far off—just within the confines of France, and hither Ferdinand was induced to go The inhabitants of Vittoria, fearing for his safety, became clamorous when they heard of his intended departure, they even cut the traces of his carriage, but the blinded and infatuated Prince, was determined to place himself in the liands of his false friend

At Bayonne Ferdinand was at first received with ostentatious politeness, he dined with Napoleon, who engaged with him in apparently amicable converse—all things were a fair appearance, but he was speedily informed by Savary, that he was

I'w a prisonor at the Imperial disposal, and that ie time was come when the Bourbon dynasty had assed to reign. The plans of the French Emperor ere not yet entirely accomplished, the persons of ie rest of the Royal Family, together with Godoy, ere secured. Like silly birds they were all now of thin the "fowler's net." To Charles was assened a pension, with a pleasant retreat in Italy, ie profligate Queen and Godoy were also pensioned of, with permission to reside any where out of pain

Napoleon's triumph seemed to be secured, the toyal Family had received a suitable reward for iter alliance with a faithless nation, and a stern illitary despot. Spain and Portugal were at his isposal, French troops garrisoned the fortresses, and paraded the streets, French governors directed the local authority, it remained only for the Emperor to appoint a viceroy over the conquered kingdoms, and Joseph had accepted the crown from his brother Bert Bonaparte Lnew not that the reward of his perfidy was preparing; that the schemes he had formed were at last defeated; that the Lings of Europe, who had eroughed at his Autatool, were to see in Spain-priest-ridden and degenerate Spain the first outbreak of freedom, As his troops watched from the walls of the furtrewes the angry comtanances of the sullen and discentented people, they know not that in spite of Isal government and a false religion, the muse still cherished noble and patriotic sentiments ; that the old heroic freling which for five bundred years had animated the nation in their struggle against the Mores, was not yet dead; that their Jealous and harghty temper loathed the exactions and invasion of the Preprint and was uncrealingly britated by their presence. Within the surface of society the secret fire was shready gathering, which required I tile to make it burst firth in a conflavration from one end f the hand to the other. They had shown this by the arithtion caused at the departure of the Royal Family and by the alarming templia which is different places broke out against the French troops. Already the peasantry lad raised a riol at Tolch, which was only put down by the advance of a French division.

French division.

Al Mairid so the 2nd f May a crowd collected round the palace watching a carrage is which if was reported that flow Association the last of the hyanish princes was to be conveyed to N prices at Raysone ji in was a solution amongs the centiquences of great section's version delice it. The profiles of angree the carriage bank, and iterate to into furthess impreciations against the 1 reach. As added-carrage of Mental years was the included of the delications of the apparatus was the cases of the desirchance jube apparatus was the signal for renewed uproar, and he was with difficulty rescued from the grasp of the mob. The officer returning with a party of soldiers, they were furiously attacked, and the Spanish war dates its commencement from that hour

This was the signal for general revolt. In vain did Murat by discharges of grape-shot, attempt to disperse the crowd in the neighbourhood of the All Madrid flew to arms, the inhabitants of every street fell upon the astomshed soldiery Everywhere the people armed themselves, the gunsmith's shops were emptied of their fire-arms, the French detachments surrounded, and in many cases cut to pieces. When regular weapons could not be found, stones, knives, and daggers were employed. The attack raged furiously for several hours, it was impossible, however, for these brave insurrectionists long to maintain this unlooked for struggle against regular troops Reinforced by numerous battalions, which poured into the city, and supported by artillery, the French returned to the charge, repeated volhes of grape cleared the streets, while the Polish Lancers, and Mamelukes of the guard rode furiously along, cutting down the flying masses, and taking a bloody revenge for the death of their comrades The Spanish troops, locked up by the French in their barracks, could not aid their countrymen, though some who had been attacked by a body of the French, drew out their guns, and fired several fatal rounds upon their columns, they were however mastered by a sudden rush, and most of the artillerymen bayonetted. By two in the afternoon the insurrection was put down three hundred French had fallen. The news of the revolt had caused crowds of the peatanity to ruse to the gains 5 they were charged by the cavalry and after a great simplifier dispersed. Murat adopted the most sanguiary measures. Many prisonors had been taken in the conflict, among whom were some clittenes, and even stran-gers who had unwillingly witnessed the disturbance; to those were added Spaniarla, who, bosted in beir ordinary arecations, or appearing in the streets, were seized in preat sumbers by the schiery on the charge of he ing taken part in the tumel' hurried before a newly forested military comusion, and summered to be seen. Immediate preparations and summered to be seen. telligency spread through Madrid; each found lost his own friends might be among the slaughtered. As night drew near the firing commenced, and the regular discharge of hea y platoons in different quarters of the city told that the work of death was guing on. Numbers were executed merely an sus-plaint. "Tied two and two, they were manuacred by repeated duchanges of untolevy; the murders were continued on the following morning; and mercy an innover lad parties morang; an nearly an innover lad parties before on the carnest interressoon of the hyarish maisters, Harat concented to put a stop to this battany; " This cottage as might he a hern expected, made the Spaniards desperat forces associations already though the standard the raths of the Free k and ery straggler was mercifically cut off. Abother grouped attack was soon made and ere Murat eased th placed to less, they had bearly as and foundation of my yearted to be ty. Advances in personal to be and it is expected the troops to advance if the troops to advance if the top is a substitution of the troops to advance if the top is a part of the troops to advance if the top is a personal to the troops to advance if the top is and is report, and if were deposit he spen your less that it was a substitution of the troops to the troo ment took their station so as to command the arment took their station so as to command the ar-senal The slaughter was not put a stop to, till the French Generals, with the municipal authorities, traversed the streets with white flags and implored the populace to retire The fruit of this tranquil-lity was the establishment of a military tribunal, invested with the most absolute powor Next came an order of the day, "directing that all groups of Spiniards seen in the streets, exceeding eight in number, should be fired upon, that every village in which a French soldier was slain, should be burned, and that all authors, publishers, and dis-tributors of papers, or proclamations inciting to re-volt, should be led out and instantly shot."

The same scenes which had taken place at Madrid, occurred at Cadiz, Seville, Carthagena, and other places. The populace wreaked their vengeance upon all whom they supposed to be treacherous, or even indifferent towards the safety of their country. even indifferent towards the safety of their country. Their old prejudices against the French were maddened into fury. The sight of the advantages their enemies' perfidy had gained, only added depth to thoir resolutions, and increased bitterness to their revenge. The rising was simultaneous, as if the people had been aroused by beacons blazing from hill to hill. "The movement," says Alison "was not that of faction or party, it animated alike men of all ranks, classes, and professions. The flame spread equally in the lonely incountains as in the erowded cities, among the hardy labourers of the Basquo provinces, as the light-hearted peasantry of the Andalusian slopes, annulst the pastoral valleys of Asturias, or the rich fields of Valencia, as in the cowded emporiums of Barcelona and Cadiz Within a week after the untoward fidings reached Bayonne, A cooleon was arready engaged in a strag-Bayonue, A moleon was arready engaged in a struggle which premised to be of the most sangulary character with the Spanish people ***

hapoleon was alarmed and wared on hearing of the riots at Madrid, and is said to have exclaimed that "Murat was going on wrong and too fast." Provineral and local juntus were formed, with power to levy money and raise troops. Communications were opened with the English fleet on the coast s deruties were sent to England to solicis the aid of revernment. The land rescanded with the eries, Vica Fernando Beptimot Guerra con la Francia! Pas cun Indeterral Querra co el mondo! Meanwhile, Joseph Bonzerrie, late hing of Napies, reached Bayonne on the 'th Jane. Thither an as-sembly of setables, amounting to one hundred, had been convened, who, as a matter of course went through the form of electing him to the vacant throm; and at the same time approved and accepted the new constitution last before them. Electrical by his troops, Eing Joseph solves! Madrid, and was proclaimed according to the tenal formalities hing of Spain and the lades, and a stient and enraged population, autromoled by French bayonets, and saluted by French easters.

Allow (thirty of Earner Vol. VI.

CHAPTER V.

Remarks on the Spanish Peninsula—Desire of British aid— First Military efforts of the Spaniards—First Siege of Saragossa—Defeats sustained by the French—Capitulation of Baylen—Events in Portugal.

THE Spanish Pennsula has been the theatre of splendid military achievements, both in ancient and in modern times. Of old it has been distinguished by the exploits of Hannibal, Seipio Africanus, and Pompey, among its mountains a desperate conflict raged for centuries, between Christianity and Mahomedanism, and the advancing tide of Mussulman conquests was there first driven back. In more modern times, as memorable deeds have been done on the Spanish soil "the standards of Charlemagne have waved in its passes, the bugles of Roncevalles have resounded through the world, the chivalry of the Black Prince, the skill of Gonzalvo of Cordova, have been displayed in its defence, the genus of Napoleon, and the firmness of Wellington, have been exerted on its planis"

Its inhabitants have always been distinguished by a peculiar mode of warfare. Soldom successful, or placing their main dependence on the shock of battle, defeat seems to loso its power over them, and they tenaciously maintain the contest after having suffered reverses which would have totally broken the spirit of almost any other nation. Hardly is the combat over, when they again unite in hostilo bodies, which, sheltered among the mountain chains that intersect the country, hover upon the track of theassalluits, and attack them on weak and defence-less points. No people maintain the conflict more despectably behind the walls of a fortices; the greater the extremity the more rigorous becomes their defence, as Bargooss and Girons have lately proved. After the invader conceives that he has put down completely the opposition of a district, these springs up again is every quarter armed rethered the control of completely the same power over the around re-

In every corner the insurrection against the inthe people, " a convulsive thrill run through every fibre of Spain; indignation against wrenge, the scare of national hundlistion, the deep thirst for yeaof mational numbers on, the corp terms for years of the granter cased one numerical cry. To arms I to ring over hill and dale. The sews pread with the utmost raphility: and as the Firthe frongs were chiefly drawn towards one point, the armsed surfaces of the Spariarch met at first with little opposition. This was no transfers rebuilting, let as the breach soon found to their sont was to be main-Freen soon town to their own was to meaning the state of the different previnces, under the guidance of separate and independent previncy justs, gave system and regularity t their efforts; though after and stop of their own of their stops of thei authority was averely felt, in di-bled evenetic and contradictory plane. All classes realously forwarded contributions to the cause of their country."

At Ladiu the first important thee was struck against the French. Their fives, crediting of a shape of the line and frighte containing the shape of the line and frighte contained put only an experiment East Chings of the tall French operations constructed laterities which consensated the French ships, and a set first a mine of guest energy manufactory per and a few for the miner of guest energy manufactory per and a few for the successful.

negociation terminated in the unconditional surlender of the vessels five days afterwards

Peace was immediately concluded between England and Spain, and preparations made for sending aid to the Spainards. Meanwhile, Napoleon, who saw the importance of the struggle, was not idle. Reinforcements were despatched into the Peninsula with all possible speed, General Dupont's force was moved towards the Sierra Morena and Andalusia, and was to overrun Seville and Cordova, and Marshal Moneey was detached into Valencia, with orders to put down the violent insurrections which had arisen in that province.

The news of the revolt in Spain was received with the utmost joy in Britain The hearts of the British beat in mison with those of the Spanish, as they heard of province after province rising against the invadors, and boldly hoisting the flag of freedom "Never," says Southey, "since the glorious morning of the French Revolution, before one bloody cloud had risen to over cast the deceitful promise of its beauty, had the heart of England been affected by so generous and universal a joy." The hands of the aristocratio party, who in their resistance to France had long been formidably opposed, wore now strengthened by the adherence of great masses of the British people, and of the genuine lovers of freedom, who saw a great nation endeavouring to throw off the chains of slavery A mational resistance had spring up against the iron condage of Napoleon, and England, ever ready to and a just cause, resolved to east in her lot with the Spanish patriots. "Never was the fellowship of -car sentient nature more intimately felt, never was the arresistable power of justice more gloriously dis-played, than when the Bratish and Spanish nations, with an impulse like that of law ancient hereses throwing down their was poss and reconciled in the field, cast of at once their averagines and emilies, and mutually embraced and the convention of lore and the convention of lore not by the festivities of the convention of lore not by the festivities of posses, but by combactigate the convention of lore not by the festivities of posses, but by combactigate, in the development of posses, but by combactigate, in the development of posses, and the second posses of the compact development of the compact of the semblages, and took away their arms; they always effered re-latance, but in valu. The division of remained of them at Legroms, and put their chiefr to death after the combat. The cavalry of Levalle fell whon a hody of Spanlards at Torquementa, and put a wast number to the sweet; after which exploit, they burned the town. There was concluding like a Spanish force at Segovia ; General Friere like a Spanish force at Segovia; General Friers defeated it, and took thirty pieces of manon. At Cabeyon there was a battle fertnern the Spanish troops and Coesta, and the French di alons of Generals Merie and Lauslia. Here again they were butten, but their artillers, were butten in troon by the brigatio of caralty ander General Lauslia, distanced of som thorough of muchat, and a randomitive real to pieces. By these active operations, and by the unpop ing and unsysting servicing which the Trench word the whoch, these provinces were a week, and for a time selled; and the power here and unhappy presently saw the flores between most of the cuerity ride about to extrect messay and crewisions, which they furnished in frar Curvia, however undispayed by his defeat, collected, another army and hi furnises at Benevrote and was ther army and hi (aguives at Benevrole and was closed by Hisla (run, Astropa, alwassing with 25 000 Infantry a few handred covarity and from results at His News, and aged a weatered sea fasting position at His News, and aged a weatered sea fasting head of 13 000 men with hir pows. The Har-shall had two di bloom of the tripows. The Har-shall had two di bloom of the tripows of 1 dr. carrilry and his reverse was a emposed of four lattalesses, and a swell healy of these press dark; all of the importal great. The 'pandards were ap-saftly defeated, but they were best degrated 1 when their front line was dr. in 2 and deed bud-to three of

also full of churches and couverts, strongly built, and surrounded by high thick walls. A broad street, called the Coseo, best almost has a semi-circle, concounte with the wall, and terminated at each and by the Evro, divided the city into an ester and inner part. It occupied the ground on which the Morntah walls had formerly stood, before the the Moortals walls that formerly stood, before the city attitude its present also. This arrest was the scene of that heroic resistance in 1628, which kept the French at they after the walls and see half of the place had falles into their hands. On the left of August, rather more than a recent after the commencement of th siege, the convent of 55. Engracia which formed parts if the will was becarbell; and on the 4th it was atortwed, and the leterious troops carried all before them as far as the Cuseo, and at hight were in posteroists of use half of the city. The French General one considered the city as his own, and commend the surrounder has posteroisting only the containing early these woods. Head-quarters, 54. Engracia, Capitation. The craphate revity is well known, and will become provertical litedsurprised, Capitation. The emploise reply is well known, and will become proverbial. Head-quarters, Sarageman, war is the 1 of point. "The contents which was now rearried so, it mere ampled in history. One side of the Como, a street about as wide an Tail-Tail, we prosented by the French, and in the centre of it their General." In deep of the orders from the 2 processor courses. The appealse side was manistalised by the Arragement, who takes we posterior at the speece courses. The popular side was manistalised by the Arragement, who takes we posterior the processor courses. The present with the two parts of the cross-streets, within a few parts of those which the French rescend agreed them. The barrering pane was presently beaped with dead wither than you the judge of three was fit from the unsolven. It is that the amount of the parts of the surface.

It is a surface were greeted a report to several to renew their efforts for completing the conquest. One cry was heard from the people, whenever Palafox, the governor, rode amongst them, that if powder failed, they were ready to attack the enemy with their knives-formidable weapons in the hands of desperate men Just before the day closed, Don Francisco Palafox, the General's brother, entered the city with a convoy of arms and ammunition, and a reinforcement of 3,000 men, composed of Spanish guards, Swiss, and volunteers of Arragon, a succour as little expected by the inhabitants, as it had been provided against by the enemy

"The contest was now continued from street to street, from house to house, and from room to room, pride and indignation having wrought up the French to a pitch of obstinate fury, little inferior to the devoted courage of the patriots. During the whole siege, no man distinguished himself more remarkably than the curate of one of the parishes within the walls, by name P Santingo Sass. He was always to be seen in the streets, sometimes fighting with the most determined bravery, at other times administering the sacrament to the dying, and confirming with the authority of faith that hope, which gives to death, under such circumstances, the joy, the exaltation, the triumph, and the spirit of martyrdom. Palafox reposed the utmost confidence in the brave priest, and selected him when any thing peculiarly difficult or hazardous was to be done.
At the head of 40 chosen men, he succeeded in introducing into the town a supply of powder, so essentially necessary for its defence
"This most obstinate and murderous conflict was continued for eleven successive days and mghts, nore indeed by night than by day, for it was almost certain death to appear by day light within reach of those houses which were occupied by the other party. But under cover of the darksess, the combatants frequently dashed across the street to attack each other's butterless and the battless which attack each other's batteries; and the hattles which began there were often carried into the houses be-yond where they fought from room to room, as from foor no from. The boulle lattries were so near each other that a figuralized in one place made way under cover of the dead bodies a bich completely filled the space between them a suff factored a rope to assoft the 1 rench camons; I as the straggle which to see the strain of the st conned the rope broke and the Saragozane lest their prize at the very moment when they theught thermelves sure of 16 "A new borror was added to the dreadful electrostances of are in this ever in-moralist circum-itances of are in this ever in-moralist signs. In properal engagements the dead are left upon the field of battle, and the survivors require to clear the ground, in order to keep as maintained attem-phere; but here, in Spein and in the month of Angust, where the dead by the struggle was still surried sat, and positiones was directed from the coorness accurrentation of potenty ny toolers. As-thing in the whole or was of the access or much au-b rrassed Palakia. If only Timedy remedy or raised Fannia to evil flowery reacty raise to be reported by reserve and push then form rid and the dead and dy g correct the holes and bring them away for interests I ca for his necessary solve there was no true and it would be Leen ever an death to the Arts. most it would be the activities and it would be deter-poseen who he the act registly sey are it has the processes or in general new fifty of their or solders, and he the manager it a of way he many degree distribute. The correct of many or help to the figure of the tell, not for the purpose which is now most lied.

RΩ

such councils, but that their heroic resolution might be communicated to the people It was resolved, that in those quarters of the city, where the Arragonese still maintained their ground, they should continue to defend themselves with the same firmshould the enemy at last prevail, they were then to retire over the Ebro into the suburbs, break down the bridge, and defend them till they perished. When this resolution was made public, it was received with the loudest acclamations. But in every conflict the citizens now gained ground upon the soldiers, winning it inch by inch, till the space occupied by the enemy, which on the day of their entrance was nearly half the city, was reduced gradually to about an eighth part. Meanwhile intelligence of the events in other parts of Spain, was received by the French, all tending to dishearten thom. During the night of the 13th, their fire was particularly hence and destructive, in the morning, the French columns, to the great surprise of the Spaniards, were seen at a distance, retreating over the plain, on the road to Pampeluna "*

The French continued to meet with reverses in different quarters of the Pennisula. The peasant y of eight districts of Catalonia 1000 in arms, defeated General Swartz at Pruck, and afterwards routed Chabian's division. General Duhesme had been repulsed from Girona, and Moncey from Valencia, but that General afterwards defeated the Spaniards at St. Felipe, and Caulincourt put down the resistance of the inhabitants of Cuenca. In Andalusia, General Dupont, who had plundered and sicked Cordova and Andujar, was forced to capitulate at Baylon, with 14,000 troops, to the Spaniards, hended by Castanos and Reding

* Southey's History of the Peninsular War

The result of this hat mentioned battle so disgraceful to the French, was most remarkable. It was more important in its consequences than any since the commencement of the revolutionary war. It was the first impace of a large body of the in-vadors laying down their arms. A killed series of movements had disabled one of their ablest Occarale. It raised the purits of all Spain, and con-incod them that the French were not invincible; yat it had this unfortunate tendency that of in-spiring the Spaniards with too much rash confidence. A number of the nobles and granders, hitherto A number of the mobiles and granders, hitherto mentral, now joined the patriotic cause; the expi-tial, and the chief terms of the linguism, with the exception of the incurre farmers, fall into the hands of the incurre farmers, and in the chief of a this expiration, was demanyed; in neight; is since the battle of Textalgur had affected him no meach; in Minature, airmord in the depression, thought be had become whichly independ, its your majery ure UT. "Alved the Minature far-length of Maria. And "Has America declared awar" "Would to Hat that was all?" What sarf" " Hoold to God that was all " " What warr' "Would be Used that was all I "What then has happened!" The besmitting terms of the epithalition were precounted by Napoleon, be alsed, "That is an army should be because in sorthur, is to the daily fate of our and to easy yespates, the that had about submitted to declaration explicitly that the about submitted to declaration explicitly that is a stain on the given of our areas, which can serve be offered. We seem I defined to homeour can serve be efficient. It came i terreted un historie are becarable. The moral fermed the crais-tray his will be terrible. What I they have had the inflore to consent that the favorance of our nuthers above he rearrhed this those of rethern! Loud 10 or have period that of terreted forman, a men when I hereit and was your ago become a marrial!

but not before success had reached the town. In a few days the French lowly latting cannot made a breach, the truck lowly but in the but were attacked by a body of 10,000 mer in the rear. Afterwards the besieged made a vigorous sally against their lose, powersated the lattine, splited the cannotes, and set fire to the worklabeane could not hars made good his retreat had be not eartified all his rillery and stores. These successes afted to the enthrealm of the Sprainfacts townsparrs were established adventing the paper lar cause; the blood se profunely sheel in the massuccess of the invaders, could not quench the sucred flavor of freedom.

Biliring events were also going on in Portugal ; there the recurrection of Cautina independence had the mest powerful effect. Junot vanity falled to percel the gathering storm. The news of the managers of Mairit, was the signal to relation at Operio y sideh was not suppressed without much trouble. Junot kennetiately disarmed 2,000 Bya nish troops in the capital but he roulf not present the presents in the neighbourhood of Operio from again raising the standard frevolt. A Junia was formed, and the Beliep, a realise ration, made president. General Loins was sedered to proceed from Amelda, to rivek the limiters on the pro-vince of Latte Distre-Blabs, which had a nest vince or leave insure attents, where had a final formithible appearance; but it up to defeated the peasantry is few with great angles. In wa-roughlied to retreat to Lisk w. In the south, the i tricks realled or eral bedow of the I reach; in the real, the labelitude of the book of This were only put down by a Livedy nectured seconds. Jer m. 1. return to the expensional second by the second of the risks in the Abril to Where a land said provisional government had been formed at Evora. The propinquity of this town to Gibraltar was so alarming, that a powerful expedition of 7,000 infantry, 1,200 cavalry, and eight guns, was dispatched against it, under the sanguinary Loison, who had been trained to barbarity in the Egyptian campaigns. A battle was fought, in which the combined Spanish and Portuguese forces were defeated French entered the town, and a bloody slaughter ensued, neither age nor sex being spared, the French boasted that they had lost only 290, while 8,000 of the insurgents had been put to death the hour of retribution had come, and Loison was roused amid his fancied security, by the intelligence that a British army had been seen off the Portu-- guese coast.

CHAPTER VI

English expedition sails from Cork—Sir A Wellesley proceeds to Corunna—Issues a Proclamation—Landing in Mondego Bay—Junot's proceedings—Combat at Rolica—Reinforcements—Battle of Vimiera—Sir A Wellesley superseded by Sir II Burrard—Sir II Dairymple—Convention of Cintra—Court of Inquiry—Napoleon's Efforts.

THE English government, as soon as it perceived that the Spanish insurrection was no transient display of enthusiastic feeling, but the commencement of a severe struggle, had resolved to send a force to the Peninsula. Proops to the amount of 10,000 men, at first intended for a South American expedition, had been collected at Cork, the command was given to Sir Arthur Wellesley, whose military genius government seemed now to appre-

cine. Two smaller divisions were afterwards propered at Rampate and Mangate; and Sie John Moore, who with 12 000 men had been sen to the tingen to offer and-tance to the King of Sweden, against Rassia, was Rhewbe ordered to follow the expedition as a reinforment: Yet though Sir Arther Wellesdy suited from Cork as commandenthic way, on the arrival to Terripal, de-timed to be superseded to a senten offers. Sir Harry Borrard; who again was only to lead the troops will the arrival of Sir Hess Baltymple from Gibraltar strangements both unject in themselves, and cal calculated to president suiterstate consequences.

"When "A. Welliche treedvel the enumand."

of the expedition t Cork, government gave him as reason to belie that he was in the represent to reason to believe that he was not be reperfected to the september directions of it. The first indimntum, he had of that monthers was by letter from Land (andhereigh, dated 1 th 3 tr, 1877, which was re-crived by him to see, set Mondeyn Hay Many officers who had the trained, and archived the victories which he had m index, would have at cross recogned the command, in high he a he to re-duced to such a herd rate takes but fir A. Wellerley with the angle hearted feeling and patriolle devotion of tree greatmen, arted therein I answer to Lord Castlereach, be if you'll be and Burghersh has approved one fittle arrange is one for the fitting or normal fittle array. All rouse for the former normal. I the army All fitted can see the religion to be before I arm as I medical en art, I shall do my best to entire in access in any series of a post total I shall said a region in a series in error to a series in a series to a series. The previous of all discharges for one is a series. The previous of all discharges for one is a series to a series to what way they will employ me hereafter, whether here or elsewhere' When asked by an intimate firend, after his return, how he who had commanded armies of 40,000 men, received the order of the Bath, and the thanks of Parliament, could thus submit to be reduced to the rank of Brigadier of infantry, he replied, 'For this reason-I was nimute-wallah, as we say in the East, I have ate of the king's salt, and therefore consider it my daty to serve with zeal and promptitude, when or wherever, the king or his government may think proper to employ me' Nor was this disinterested and high-minded patriotism and sense of duty without its final reward inferior men would probably have thrown up the command, and rested ou the laurels. of Seringapatam and Assaye, but Wellington pursued the path of duty under every slight, and he lived to strike down Napoleon on the field of Waterloo "#

The expedition sailed from Cork on the 12th of July, General Wellesley proceding it in a fast-sailing frigate, to procure the necessary information for regulating its destination. He landed at Corunna on the 20th, and entered into communication with the junta of Gallicia, by whom he was told of the unfortunate defeat of Rio Seco, but though they declared their willingness to accept stores and arms, the self-confident junta declined the aid of troops. Money and arms, they said, were all they wanted, they had still men in abundance. They even offered to send an army into the north of Portugal, to assist in driving away the French, and recommended that the British forces should be landed on the brinks of the Douro. At Oporto, General Wellesley had a conference with the au-

* Desputches.

thorition and hishops, who argod that the leasting absolid be effected nearer to Librae, where the number of the French by under James. By making the his best plan result of manifestation of the properties of a Ferriques of the state of the corporation of a Ferriques of the of 5,000 mes, and estite for descriptional fool. It is the present of the state of the corporation of Departs accretion between the present of the state of the corporation of the present of the state of the corporation of the state of th to his own.

Before handling be issued the following proclamation to the people of Portugal, entirectly descriptive of the true nature and objects of British interferences with the English soldiers who Lard upon jour above, as we with overly sentiment of friend align latth, and heaven. The glorious strangels in align latth, and heaven. The glorious strangels in man, the protection of our views and cilialization, the restoration of year hand pelacet with the substrated of year religion; objects like these can only be obtained by datinguished examples of fortitude and constancy. Then his struggle against the tyrange and exemptions of France will be jointly maintained by Portugal, Syske, and England; and the contributing to the success of a case or just and glorious, the view of the Britannia like we just and glorious, the view of the Britannia like was an interest.

Al Messingo Bay the whole flect assembled on the 31st of July Rext norming the disembaria fone consecuted; and in spins of a strong west what and heavy surf which cassed the loss of several boan and a number of lives, was rougisted by the 5th when flement Spirster. Figure came up. On the 8th at night, the united forces, amounting to 13,000 men, bivouacked on the sea shore, and next morning, the advanced guard began their much towards Lisbon. Previously Sir Arthur had held a conference with the Portuguese generals, with whom however he found it impossible to fix a satisfactory plan of co-operation, they were so exorbituit as to demand that their army, 6,000 men, should be fed by the English general, as a compromise he was obliged upon their own terms, to incorporate a battalion of infantry and 250 horse. The British were every where hailed with joy by the inhabitants.

Junot had been compelled by the insurrection to disperse his troops, amounting to 25,000 men, throughout the country to garrison the fortified towns, and put down various bands of insurgents. He himself was at Lisbon with the main body; but could not advance to meet the English, because of a strong tendency to insurrection manifested by the inhabitants, he was therefore compelled to detach Laborde, one of the ablest French generals, with 3,000 foot and 500 horse, to check the British, while calling in his various detachments, he ordered them severally to effect a junction with Laborde. The obvious course of the English commander was to prevent this, an object which the skill and celerity of his movements enabled him to effect in the most important instance

By various reinforcements Laborde's force had been increased to nearly 6,000 men, he was in the direct line between the British army and Lisbon, Loison with 8,000 troops, was hurrying by forced marches to meet him, from the south—But the rapidity with which the British advanced, driving I aborde before them, disconcerted their plans.

Leiria, where Laborde and Loivon were to have not, had been already selected by the English. Lelvon retreated to Santarem, to recruit his exhausted troops.

This General Wallesley having a perpoolerating breen, was enabled to attince Labords at Rolling, which be did on the 17th of Angred. The beights of Rolling, though steep and difficult of access, yet want the attender and soors imposing features or mountain accept 1 per and there their face was ladented by deep ro. iness, worn by the winner formus, the precipitons banks of which we've in different parts wooded; below were proves of the cert tree and oil; in the middle rows Oblden, with its ancient walls and forteres, and suppressions algorithms of the second of the state being being a supposed to the east the shifty literal cents was to say that the second of the sec

Labords occupied a strong position. If is foreincluding 100 ca sizy and five gurs, was drawn upon an levated plateau, at the upper rad of the valbey i datactiveness were stationed on both wides of the fillin which closed the valley so as from the rocky thickness and close undersood, to open a formidable five upon the assallants. General Wellesley divided his force into whore columns; the right of Portuguese and 50 hours mader Colonel Tract, was to trust the mountains to the rear; the centre is led in person, to attack the French in Ironi; the jeft suder General is ergown to accord the hill that fround Olidou, and meases the French right, by turning it in the mountains.

" As the centrand asced, preceded by alor gues,

the corps on the right and left proceeded simultaneously forward in the hills, and the aspect of the body in the plain, 9,000 strong, moving majestically forward at a slow pace, in the finest order, and constantly closing again, after the array had been broken by trees or houses in the line of its advance, strongly impressed the French soldiers; most of whom, like the British, were that day to make their first essay in real warfare, against an antagonist worthy of their arms. No sooner did Laborde see his risk of being outflanked on either side, than he fell swiftly back in admirable order, and took up a second position, much stronger than the former, in a little plain projecting into the val-ley, higher up in the gorge of the pass, and shut in by close rocky thickets on both sides. Hither he was rapidly pursued by the British, the right centre and left still moving in the same order. Never in the whole progress of the pumusular campaigns, did war appear in a more picturesque and animating form than in the first engagement of the British soldiers The loud shouts of the advancing columns, re-echoed from the surrounding hills, and answered by as confident cheers from the enemy; the sharp rattle of the musketry among the woods, which marked the advance of the assailants as they drove before them the French light troops, the curling wreaths of smoke which rose above the folarge, and were wafted by the morning air up the sides of the mountains, amidst the rays of a resplendent sun, formed a scene which resumbled the numic warfire of the opera stage, more than the opening of the most de-perite strife recorded in modern times. At every point at which cannon could bear, a shower of that swept down the raying

Allega History of I n. a

among the British. Undhamayed, however the co-lumns moved on. The 25th regiment, though sof-fering from attacks which they could not repel, kept on their course unbroken; Colonel Lake, their commander, fell, as the head of the column sur-mounted a hill, and became acrossed to a destroctive fire from the vineyards occupied by the enemy tive fire from the vineyards occupied by the enemy The greendier company of the libth, was in the act of forming, when a Preach battation charged, after pouring in a volley and overpowered for a moment this mostl and unprotected body but the real of the regiment come up, and alsied by the Pin, the colonel of which was like use lilled, dro a back the enemy and maintained themsel or in the position. Generals IIII and Pergueon, now formed on the beights ; and Laborde atundoning the ground su neutrable, retired to Zambureiro from a hich how-ever, he was driven in a pulsar manner by Gene-ral Spencer. In this combat, both parties had an equal number of men killed and wonnied. The lightish gained nothing from their numerical force cient speed up the parent, he was readile in follow the energy at once. The engagement closed at five or block in the fermions. The engagement closed at five or block in the fermions of the parameter of the interaction of the parameter of the parameter at the first arthur the fermion of action. The following day it was amounted that General, Australian and Lackhard's division were self the own at part that June bad drawn all his disposable forewer from Listons to hazard the chance of a decidiry lattle. The ways therefore proceeded to the sex cases the two as they sould not bring a greater number bits action than the amount of the recent a force. The Franch effected their retreet is good order; for as Sir Arthur Wellesley had only a few cavalry and troops and tannou could not be brought with selfteet the landing of the reinforcements. Junet meanwhile advanced at the head of 14,000 men, including 1,200 horse, and 26 pieces of cannon By the 20th, the brigades of the two generals were landed; the Euglish army now mustered 16,000 troops, but this superiority was counterbulenced by the strength of the enemy's cavilry and artillery, the British having only 18 guns, 180 British, and 200 Portuguese horse Sir Arthur Wellesley had intended to turn the strong position of Torres Vedras, and gain Mafra with his advanced guard, while the main body seized the heights, and intercepted the French retreat to Lisbon, but this plan Sir Harry Burrard, who was now off the coast, (and who was more cautious than enterprising) disapproved. Sir Arthur Wellesley went on beard his vessel, and urged in vain, the adoption of offensive measures, he returned to the camp in disappointment, unconscious that next day he was to have an opportunity of engaging the enemy. At midnight, a German officer of dragoons, announced that Junot, with 20,000 men, was within a league of the camp Patroles were immediately sent out, and the pickets and sentinels enjoined to be on the alert, but the rest of the army was undisturbed *

"Vimiera is a village prettily situated in a valley

*&quot;No general ever received reports with such calm caution as Sir Arthur Wellealcy Suddenly awakened, he would receive an alarming account from the front, with a quiet, and to many a bustling, intelligent officer a provoking coldness and turn again to his sleep, as before. Few, if any, are the instances during the war, o' his putting the troops under arms by night, or disappointing them unnecessarily of one honr of repose. An hour before dawn, the British, when near an enemy, are always under arms. The sun rose upon them on the 21st of August, but discovered no hostile force in motion."—Sherer

LIFE OF THE stratching in a north-westerly direction from the interior and about three miles distant from the era. On either side rise hills, and to the north, a range of absupt heights overhangs the plain; over the summit of which is the great road to Lisbon; on the south-east is a sort of high table-land, covered in the navines with myrtle, in the open part here; over which the pproach on the side of Force Vedras passes. A still lotter reass of height a everlook these in the roar, and its bets see them and the sea." On this rugged ground, the British key, on the night of the 20th. boon after sen-rise a cloud of dues was observed on the high road; coloning of dust was observed on the high road j cobum; after coleran was seen releved against the sky on the top of the opposite embreach gainst the sky on the top of the opposite embreach; a runs and bearing filtered in the son. The French were manifestly bearing down in formidable strength upon the British left. So soon as they described the bright they were lost to the spe, and the advanced grands are upon the English richtes almost as soon as they were even. But for Arthur Wellesley Judging their object, from the line of road which they sook, strongthened from the live of road which they sood, arresplience the left, which was his most vulnerable post, by four brigades. The I reach immediately secured hard their forces on their own right. Laborde with 6,000 men, moved two ands the littlish centre; Breemier with 5,000 and Margaron with the cavalry was in readiness as a reserve whether the left and might be required. The left of the Heitish was commanded by Generals Frequence, Nithinghale, morphed in the valley is madely in the control of the Heitish was companied by Generals Frequence, Nithinghale, morphed in the valley is made to the control of the control of the Heitish was companied by the control of the Heitish was companied to the control of the Heitish was companied to the control of the Heitish was considered to the control of the Heitish was controlled and the centre; and Hill's, formed by a movey or and the centre; and Hill's, formed by a movey or lumn, and composing the right, rested on the top of the heights, which bounded the valley to the south.

Junot's army moved in two divisions, commanded by Laborde and Loison The first of these advanced impetuously against the British centre, coming in contact with the 50th regiment, its light compames were driven in, and the French, confident of victory, loudly cheering, mounted the hill to the north-east of Vimiera No sooner, however, did they reach the summit, than the British artillery opened a destructive fire upon them from the edge of the steep, and the troops were terrified by tho effects of the shripnell shells, then first used against them, which after striking down whole files of men in front, went off with most destructive explosion in the rear Still breathless from the ascent, they were put to flight by a volley from the 50th within pistol-shot, followed by a charge with the bayonet. An attack on General Fanc's brigade was as decisively repulsed, and a body of French advancing on the village, by the church, were opportunely attacked in flank by General Ackland, then proceeding to take up his position on the heights. The squadron of dragoons commanded by Colonel Taylor, charged and completed their discomfiture, but the few British horse being set upon by Margarou's cavalry, were obliged to retreat, leaving their gal-lant leader dead on the field. While the French were thus beaten in the centre, a severe conflict -raged in the hills to the left, where a road winds up the steep to the north of Vimiera, here, under Brenmer and Solignae they were losing ground, and Junot ordered Kellerman to support them with the whole reserve of infantry The French proceeded unpetuously, covered by a cloud of sku mishers, and were met by Ferguson's brigade on the top of the ridge. Servetal terrible vollies of musicity were ridge, is ever at terrible voites or measury were acchanged by these herve anisgonists, almost within pistol-shot; but at length the brigade supported by a reinforcement which searly deabled their numbers, reshing facroly on drove the Frenchestre their beyonest down the steps with this loss of all thair artillary. Such was the wrecytion of the bayonet on this occasion, that the a hole front fine of one of the enemy's regiments went down like grass before the seythe, not three hundred seen by dead as they had stood in their ranks." Janet made a last bold attempt to retrieve the formeof the day by ordering Brennier a and h Berman troops again to advance. The men having been fermed behind rooks and woods which acreeved them from the notice of the liritals, advanced in good order and came upon our troops as they were in lose array acts of them even hing so the ground, and drove them lack, recovering the guns ; but this success lasted but a moment, the firstanh again railled upon the heights in their rear and facing about, powered in a deadly voiley then charging ith load harrabt, not only again supraced the artiflery but took prisomer the French general, and again drove his troops in confeden down the hill. Sullenan was dangerto consider down the first of the ground in a different direction from Drynaiers, world have been captured, had not as me pected order from Bir Harry Burrard, compelled Gronral Ferguson to halt at the moment of success. The tracken guon as an a rear nonners of success. And the series french, in consequence of this, had time to mally they fell back as the march of their position in the morning—the heights on the opposite side of the valley, leaving in passenders of the titeliah historia pieces of examon, and a large quantity of anomarition, and 400 prisoners. The English lost 800 men in killed and wounded; of the Leonch 2,000 were left dead on the field.

Had Sir Arthur Wellesley been left to himself, this hard fought buttle would have been the earnest of decisive success. Three brigades of his army and the Portuguese, had not fired a single shot, and two other brigides had scarcely at all suffered; the whole army was in the highest spirits and order; "the shouts of victory, the triumphant clang of trumpets, was heard along the whole line, and from the direction which the broken French had taken after their defeat, they were entirely cut off from the retreat to Lisbon, while the British, who had repulsed their oblique attack, and driven them off in a north-easterly direction, were masters of the great road by Torres Vedras to the capital." Activity and energy promised to be followed by the happiest effects, Sir Arthur Wellesley was most anxious to follow up the advantages thus placed within his reach, and had it rested with himself, would have turned them to the best account. proposed to pursuo the retreating columns of the onemy with 14,000 British and Portugueso troops, and drive them back in a north-easterly direction away from the capital, while the rest of the troops, should push on for the defile of Torres Vedras, and cut off the French retreat, all of Junot's artillery that remained, and probably the greater part of his army as prisoners, with the possession of Lisbon, would have been the precious reward of this movement, but the clear discernment, the cool judgment, and enterprising plans of Wellington, were now superseded by the tame caution of Sir H Burrard That officer, who had landed during the battle, had, with honour to himself, deheately refrained from assuming the command of the army lill its whose. Considering, however that the responsibility of ultrefor open tiese devoted upon himself, in greaters to hait an all points, and await SF John Moor redeem to hait an all points, and await SF John Moor redeem to Marketon, with military frankesses armonistic production of the production of the production of the production of the capital. Best SF II Burrard a formed diseiple of the capital. Best SF II Burrard a formed diseiple of the old school, could not be induced to mers. The Fresch resumed their ranks, armed with asterialment at being unpursued. That very aight, almost, by a forced and clevidious roots replaced Torres Vadras, thus securing his retreat to Lindon. SF Arthus weding the reads, article with affected guisty and real betterness and disappointment, who has the Green of the Control on the provision of the latter of the second substantial to be but to go and shoot red legged partridges."

On the moveting after the least the III Burrard's

On the mosening after the lattle for il Berrardia herief and unknopply used authority was at an end by the arrival of her liew Dalrympia. Its helds accessibilities with Ser Arthur and her II. Berrard, and had resolved on the Tack to more against dense at Tourse Verdus, when he received information that a French flag of truce was waiting at the total partial model of the theorems nerviced, the bearer of a proposition from Jenot that an arrivale who all takes a factorized by the thought that SI John Moore reinforcement was about to land; that Islamo with bootle propolation of 300 000 was at the rare it facts and defences incapable of tanling a sare against 30,000 Brids, and that a retreat through the meantale rilews of Portugal with the exerter

tive of the greatest loss, he had no other alternative before him Agreat advantage then would be gained, should be obtain an arrangement by which his army might be safely transferred to France, with a view to the renewal of hostilities in the north of Spain He perceived also that the British did not know how to profit by the advantage which they had gained, and thought he might obtain good terms from those who did not seem to know their own strength selected the able and acute Kellerman for this mission, -who, by his knowledge of English, discovered from hints dropped in conversation, that Burrard and Dalrymple did not share Sir Arthur Wellesley s confidence in the result of the army'sadvance, -and, by dwelling largely on the means of resistance still in the power of the French, and their determination even to be "buried beneath the ruins of Lisbon," rather than have their honour tarmshed, paved the way for the favourable reception of the terms he was about to propose, the substance of which was, that the French should not be considered prisoners of war, but sent home by sea, with their artillery, arms, and baggage, and liberty to serve again, that their partizans in the country should, without molestation, be permitted to depart with their effects, and that the Russian fleet in the Tagus, should occupy Lisbon as a neutral harbour To the last article in particular Sir Arthur Wellesley strongly demurred, and Sir Charles Cotton, the British Admiral, positively refused to agree to it. It has been said, that in a military point of view, all the three British Generals concurred in approving the convention of Cintra Buirard and Dalrymple must accessarily have been imperfectly acquainted with the state of the case, and Sir Arthur Wellesley, having soen his opinion over-ruled and rejected at the moment when fortune was at fit flood, and the obsaces to success impaired, may have considered that, as the war rejelt now be incelligitally protracted, the liberation of Percipal, with its new-coast, ports, and fortuness, and of the castern line of frontier epochag a communication with Spain, might be not disadvantageously perchased at the expense of the articles creded to the French. And no one can doubt that these were unquestionably most important advantageously

But whatever may have been the expediency of this treaty it is most certain that the greatest dismiliafaction and disappointment were felt and expresed, not only by the Portuguese bet still more at home, when the news arrived a the enhauntful good which might secres from the measure was set askle, and load outery of indignation arose from all quarters of the kingdom; it was said that the honour of the British antien, and of its allies had been secrificed , and that we had been a fooled out of what we had samed by the sword, in nestellations." It was seen that the interference of Sir II Burrard had prevented Sir Arthur from following up the victory be had wos, and so caused an ac-rangement to be necessary which, it was thought, were a de-graceful appearance ; a court of enquiry was demanded, the result of which showed that the superior officers had erred, from an acres of cuttion inducing an erreneous view of matters; yet they were never again employed in the public serview ; and their alleged delinquency even for a time east a shade upon the acknowledged merits and military genius of the victor of Aways from which his great services and informulal family connections did not wholly defend him.

In carrying the articles of the p.avcation of Cla-

tra into effect, difficulty, arising chiefly from the injustice and repreity of the French, was attached to all the contracting parties. Notwithstanding the proximity of the British forces, who approached close to Lisbon, and though the French troops were constantly in masses, it was found impossible to prevent the indignation of the populace from finding vent in various acts of aggression, crowds of the peasantry flocked into Lisbon, waving in their lists the motto, "Death to the French!" and at night, repeated skirmishes took place between the mob and the French posts Much trouble also arose from the immense loads of plunder of all kinds, which the French, from the highest general to the lowest soldier, were compelled to disgorge They had packed up the whole furniture of the palace, rifled the museum, libraries, arsenals, and other public buildings, robbed the churches of their plate, and laid hold of all the money in the public offices. Junot even demanded five vessels to carry off his personal seizures The French commander was at length compelled by the British, to issue a general order for the restitution of all the property, and there was then exhibited a specimen of the wholesale system of plunder and spolation carried on by the French They succeeded however in carrying off with them a considerable part of their booty

Before proceeding briefly to narrate Sir John Moore's campaign, we must give a short sketch of Spanish affairs during Sir Arthur Wellesley's absence in England. The French had been defeated in various quarters, and a centre and superior junta had been formed with the concurrence of the local authorities. Joseph Bomppirte, the King of Spain and the Indies, had arrived at Madrid, but was forced to retreat in ten days, after rifling the palace, and carrying off the crown jeweis. Aranjoes was made the seat of government, and the patriots made vigorous efforts for carrying on the war There were now in Spain 60,000 French troops, strongly posted, having the Ebro in their front, the river Arragon on their left, and the Bay of Biscay on the right. To meet these the Spaniards strong to organize three armies, one on the right under Palafox 1 a second under Castance, colourated for his deliverance of Andalusia; the left under Biake who had accurred fame at the battle of Illo Seco t the whole nominally amounting to 130,000 men, but nover neonally half that number Even them, with the exception of 10,000 disciplined troops under Blake, were either raw recruits, or had been enervated by an sile and listices life at house. The officers, though many of them larges were almost all inexperienced. The commissariat was in a wretched state and the troops therefore mutlaces and discontented only kept together by hatred of the hyader, the goodness of their cases and the particle spirit of the people. One immediate effect I the convention was most unfortunate. Not only did it render the Spasienth concentral distractful of on, but most valuable how was lost; the transports which should have converted the Ritch troups to those places where they might cooperate must advantageously with the Spanianth being empired the scarriges for French home in serms of the treaty. On the 3min of Am goet, the convention was algored 14 bind here determined that a British army should be sent to the such of Spain plat 16 the direct section of the 15 does Moore was speciated over mander and control of the 15 does Moore was appealed over mander and control to form the form of the sent to the sent to the sent to the sent of the plat hir John Moore was appealed over mander and each of Spain plates, as

Leon with 15,000 men, who were sent to Corunna, under Sir David Baird Sir John Moore's advanced guard did not enter Salamanca till the 15th of November The first news he heard was, that the Estramaduran army of reserve undor Count Belvi-dere, had been put to flight at Burgos Meanwhile Napoleon had not been idle, his operations commenced almost before the British troops had begun their march from Portugal His object was, to defeat Blake's army before the English could join it. In the first action, Blake succeeded; though his men had suffered the most dreadful privations, having been without clothing, shoes, and scarcely any food, among the snowy mountains of Biscay But the French bringing up fresh troops, at length defeated him

In the meantime Soult and Bessieres attacked the army of Estramadura, which did not muster more than 12,000 men, composed chiefly of recruits and volunteers, among the latter were the students of Leon and Salamanca, who almost all fell in their ranks, and by their death spread mourning through many respectable families in Spain. There remained only the army of the right, pressed by Lannes and Moncey in the front and on the left, while Ney menaced the rear Castanos was defeated with great loss at Tudela; but Ney being occupied in plundering Soria, did not reach Agrida till the day after the remnants of the Spa-insh army had passed through it in their retreat; this last defeat of the Spaniards happened ten days alter Sir John Moore entered Salanianea

"Sudden and prompt in execution, Napoleon prepared for one of those majestic efforts which have stamped this age with the greatness of anaquity. His aimies were scattered over Europa-

101 LIFE OF THE In Itsly and Dalmatia ; on the Rhine, Darobe and Elbe; la Prosia, Denmark, and Peland, his legion were to be found. Over that vast extent, above 500,000 disciplined men maintained the ex-premary of Franco. From these lands he drew the imperial guards, the select soldiers of the war-I is nation in governed, and the terrer of the other continental troops. The veterans of Jens, Austrolius, reduced in emailer, but of continend furtilehood, were collected into one corps, and marched twenter Spain. A host of contrary propulled for entarprise and moviedity of war was also directed entarprise and moviedity of war was also directed arraiset that devoted land ; and a long train of gallant soldiers followed, smill 200 000 men, accessioned to battle, had procurated the gloomy fart messes of the a cetera i gradiers ! 48,000 troops of inferior repotation, drawn from the interest of France, from Rapies, Tuenay and Predmont, were assembled at Perpignas. The march of this sub-thade was incessent; and as they passed the explain, happleon, neplectal of nothing a bleb could excite their courage, and evel their military subseraddressed to them one of those pervous orations that shoot like fire to the beart of a real soldier

In the tranquility of peace it may seem inflated, but on the eve of battle it as thus a general should speak. Boldiers I after triamphing on the banks f the Visitah and the Dansto with rapid seeps you have passed through Grammy. This day without a moment of rapes, I command you to traverse France. Schliers I have need along the helperance of the Legard commission to the Periodia of Spais and Portugal. In sever he iones fly before yes. Let us beer our trianglal agen in the pillars of Hercules (there also we have mjuries to avenge Soldiers! You have surpassed the renown of modern armies; but have you jet equalled the glory of those Romans, who, in one and the same campuign, were victorious upon the Rhine and the Euphrates, in Illyria and upon the Tagus! A long peace, a lasting prosperity, shall be the reward of your labours. A real Frenchman could not, ought not to rest, until the seas are free and open to all. Soldiers! all that you have done, all that you will do for the happiness of the French people, and for my glory, shall be eternal in my heart.—Thus saying, he caused his troops to proceed to the frontiers of Spain."*

CHAPTER VII.

Aspoleon's advance to Madrid—Sir John Moore's Expedition—Retreat—Sufferings and Insubordination of the Army—Battle of Corunna—Death of Sir John Moore—Operations of the Spaniards—Defence of Saragossa—Soult advances into Portugal.

Narourov entered Spain on the 8th November, and the influence of his presiding genius was soon apparent in the defeats which the Spainards experienced from the French generals. Belvidere had been routed, and Blake's army, after a series of combats, almost annihilated at Reynosa on the 13th,—a defeat which involved the loss of the greater part of the Spainsh veteral soldiers who had been conveyed from the Baltic. With the remnants of his army Blake fled to the Austurian mountains, and in conjunction with Romana, attempted to re-organize the fragments. Bonaparte rapidly approached the capital, defeating with care the Spaniards under General St. Julius. As the b reuch approached Madrid, the central jumn fied ; and Moria, who remained in command, if no traitor at least showed little zeal or energy in his country season. The city in a size of alarm and amoney was summored to surrendar by Napoleon on the 2nd December : so asswer was returned ; Lut when the French batterses were opened, and the Retire carried by Villatte a di selon, a capitalation was agreed to, and on the 4th the sarrender was made t though load prefessions bad been made at first of reastance against the Prench and each individual second to bara a th patriotic ardonr No somer were the terms completed, than a body of nobles, clergy od public authorates, waited on the Emperor at Chamartin, with an address. Itaalatance from the Spanerule seemed now for a time to be at an end; and a single livinch army numerically weak and an appropried, was the end approximation of the Pennessa. The French army was divided throughout the previnces, to complete the ecoquest flected in the capital; an arrangement which might well be made seeing that after deducting the number of troops required for garrisons and communications, a force of pe less than 160,000 men was dispusable for setire everations.

* Napier's Peninsular War

Tir Jahn Moore who was placed at the head of the British army, estype eld very light military reputation; in tachetts were universally achieveledged, his courage had been repositedly treed, and he was endeared to his felthorne by gendere and knothens of heart. T appreciats has nevrite, we must take list account the difference with the

was fully conscious he had to encounter: he was - aware of the weakness and disorder of the Spanish armies, and the imbeculty of the government; no general plan of operation had been forwarded to him judging from the apparent apathy of the people, and not having had means of forming a full estimate of their character, he believed that the French would require "little more than a murch to subdue the country" ne must add likewise that the sense of these difficulties, acting upon a naturally grave temperament, made him doubt the ultimate success of the struggle "The probability," said he in a letter to one of his brothers, " is that the French will succeed, and if they do, at will be from no talent having sprung up after the first effort, to take advantage of the enthusiasm that then existed The Spaniards have not shewn themselves wise or prudent. Their wisdom is not that of action, but still they are a fine people; a character of their own, quite distinct from other nations, and much might have been done with Pray for me that I may make wise decisions, but if bad ones, it will not be from want of consideration " There is no doubt that the early vigour of the Spaniards had in many cases sub sided into an mert hatred of the French had pressed heavily upon them, they were desti tuto of experienced troops, and had scarcely any artillery, they were almost without generals of talent, and magazines, and their leaders were, divided and at variance. The supplies from England had been in many cases misapplied,—and they were quarrelling about their distribution, when they ought to be using them against the eremy.

Sir John Moore arrived in Spain too late to save the Spanish armies from defeat; and while be remained six weeks at Felamanon, uncertain how he should set, the course of verota went to rapidly of as still more to increase his indecision. After defeating Blade it was wriden their hypothero would advance on Matriel; Six John plainly saw that there were jest too courses open to him, either te march to the defence of the capital, or retreat and assume a defensive position; his own inclination was in favour of the latter for it appeared inposition and an army which did not exceed 30,000 men, could contend spanish has been affected which were now than six times that number which were more than six times that number which were more than six times that number has been also as the six of the six nore than pomman, except in men over money and neighbourhood. Of an ardent imperament, and trusting too implicitly to the representations of the junta, Mr. Frere monoactually represented to Sir John Moore matters as they really were not, and triged increments in advance, which Moore found urged increments in advance, which Moore Seared would be pregiment with disaster and destruction. Ferre whiled him to take the "quartan production of advancing at once to defend. Madride, proceeding obviously most ra. h. Antalous, however to distinct po bid aday in the feet measure provide stratego bid aday in the feet measure provide service by the sem feelings, and the importantiles of the Spanish provingent of contract of the feet against the mortel-western part of the Trench sarry both to prevent them from preveiting upon Romana, who was endeaveuring to result the premains of the Galifein array; and also so hisher them from marching to the scott in complete the compact of the Parlicuia. In 10sernal Nove perceived that by this hold measure, for me the risk of drawing upon himself a predominant force of the enemy, before whom a retreat would be both difficult and perilous. He ordered Sir David Baird, whose retreat from Corunia had already commenced, again to occupy Astorga, and determined to advance, though he added at the same time, these ominous words, "I mean to move bridle in hand, for if the bubble bursts, and Madrid falls, we shall have a run for it."

An intercepted dispatch from Napoleon, first acquainted Sn. John of the fall of the capital, and also of the unsuspecting security in which Soult's troops lay in the valley of the Carrion. Moore resolved to strike a blow at him. Notwithstanding their disappointment, in consequence of the retreat of Romana, the English forces still pushed on. On the 20th, a junction was formed with Sir David Baird, and next day the troops reached Salagem, near which Lord Paget, (since Marquis of Anglesca) with only 400 horse, fell in with, and after a short but builliant action, defeated 700 French cavality, thirteen officers, and 150 men being made prisoners. Soult, seriously alarmed, called in his detachments from all quarters, and prepared for an attack.

Napoleon heard of Moore's advance on the 21st, the evening of the following day 50,000 men under his own immediate orders, were collected at the foot of the Guadurina pass. The French troops at falaverawere also in full march upon the British. Moore was compelled to retreat, or Nev's advance would have rendered the situation of his army desperate, for his was now nearly girdled in by large in isses of the Emperor's troops. It was only by twelve hours that Moore saved the passage of the Esla, and escaped finding Napoleon in his front. Su John blusself with the rear-grand, was threatened by a large body of Ney's bores, but Lord Fager, a suly two synchrons, drove them lock by a successful charge. By this thacky retreat, the Bottish reached Besserents before the seesny The Enperies returned to Fauce, but the parent was earried on as supercelly as before.

"Since the commercement of the retreet, the sol-diers had been in a state of discontent and disorder and the authority of the officers was almost suand the authority of the officers was almost sup-borded. Ravages and pleader marked their eay; and the cestle of Romewate, almost mecualled in Europe for extent and splendour was roday dis-munt, broke and destroy et by fire and the cholecut works of Spanish art, toru down from the walls to serve for each. From Asianys to Lopp the English like of nearth was a serve of the practice self-ma-and the most exchost thereas. The roots was miscrable roads, and an exhausted country. They were built famished, showers of rain and sleet drached them to the skin, and even at night they could not always procure shelter from the elebents. As description can equal the borror of this drawful retreat. Along the more reverred rook thy the deal and the dying left bettind by the columns, which and the dying left-lethed by the columns, which were compelled to post on oith accelerated speed. The practical desired gallantly kept the enemy back yand observer the came same facin, about, drove there away with shargher; but the rest of the teroop, wanting this excitement, such in remi-ter implies the right of the season, or key down, the victims of later prevares; when the rest-grand chosed up the array they had so fare their wa-through a motier crowd of langths and Spanish soldiers, strugglers, and maranders, who recied not of the houses in disgusting crowds, or lay stretched on the road side, an easy proy to the enemy's ca-valry, which thundered in close pursuit. The condition of the army daily became mere deplerable; the frost had been succeeded by a thaw, and the rain fell in torrents, the roads were almost broken up, the horses foundered at every step, the few artillory waggons which had hitherto kept up, fell ene by one to the rear, and being immediately blown up to prevent them falling into the enemy's hands, gave melancholy token, by the sound of their ex-plosion, of the work of destruction which was going en Sir John Moore was constantly with the rear, deing his utmost to arrost the disorders, and protect the retiring columns. At Villa Irmea, a sharp skirmish ensued with the rear-guard, in which, though the French cavalry were at first successful, the British light troops, with the loss of several hundred men, including General Colbert, who fell while gallantly leading on the van-guard Such was the general wreek, however, in other quarters of the British army, of presence of mind, or forethought, that at Nogale, the military chest of the army, containing £35,000 in dollars, having stuck fast in the mud, was rolled in the cash that contained it, over a precipitous descent, and because the prey of the peasantry who picked it up at the bottom. All subordination was now at an end, the soldiers, exhausted by fatigue, or depressed by suffering, sunk down by hundreds, by the way-side, and breathed their list, some with prayers, others with curses on their hips, and the army, in fright ful disorder, at length reached Lugo, late on the evening of the 6th of January "

* All on # Hiltory of I utope, Vol. VI

At Large St John Moore butted, and leased a proclamation, in which he attrought reprohested the insubordination of the soldiers, amounting at the same time his intention of giving battles to be snearly. He posted his array strongly along a ridge of levilla, familed on both sides by storp rocks. Ne society was his resolution of fighting known than a magic change seconed to have passed upon the troops. Disorder for the time creared; the reads were filled, and stranginger came up, read fase was lit up with joy each hand was bovy in stansiting looks, learning finits, and subgreening spraceria. About midday the French columns appeared at About midday the French columns appeared at each other without locatile movement an either side. E edge came oo, and the troops returned to their quarters.

Next moreing the eventy opened a camounde from four game, supported by a few synadrone of cavalry but were assessment by the British with surfect that one of these pure we dessented. A column of French and anexal, but after peaching the English out ports, was no accountably repaired by the light treops under Sir John Moseva is monotonic to the surface of the mark of the treops which the treops and the destruction in hattle-array facing seek other but South about an inhabit to gittle the street of the night. Jaded and fatigued, and many of them without shoes, they marched knee-deep in mud. No discipline could be preserved, and the number of stragglers was very great. It was ten next morning before they reached Valmeda. The troops were so exhausted that a halt was absolutely indispensable, the men lay on the ground for several hours, exposed to torrents of rain. This brief repose was broken several times by erres that the enemy was coming up, and at each alaim the troops were ordered to fall in From Betanzos, which they reached next day, the army arrived at Corunna, with little molestation from their pursuers. "As the troops successively arrived at the heights where the sea was visible, and Corunna, with its white wills and towers, rose upon the view, all eyes were anxiously directed to the bay, in hopes that the joyful sight of a friendly fleet of transports might be seen, but the wide expanse was descrited, and a few coasters and fishing boats were alone visible on the dreary main."

They lind no alternative now but to fight for the means of embarkation, for the enemy was believed them and the sea in front. Each brigade as it arrived, was successively placed in the town, and every neans adopted in conjunction with the inhabitants, to strengthen the land defences. Next day, two powder inagazines, containing 4,000 barrels, were blown up with a terrific explosion. "Corunna shook as if convulsed by an earthquake. Huge masses of rock were east from their pedestals. The calm waters in the bay become furiously agitated. A vast column of smoke and dust alose perpendicularly and slowly to a great height, and then bursting with a roaring sound, a shower of stones, and fragments of all kinds, reverted to the earth, killing several pursons who had incantiously remained near the seems of peril. A stillness only interrupted by "the lashing of the waves on the shore snoceeded, and the business of war went on."

When the transports arrived, immediate preparations were made for embarkation. The cavalry horsos were destroyed, and all the artillery conveyed on board, with the exception of eight British and four Somial grant, reserved for broadstatuse.

The bulk of the army new reduced to 14 000 men, was drawn up with great care by Eir John Moore on a series of beights which sirved in the form of an amphitheatre around the village of Eivise, at the dumper of more then a mile from Corusus. These were commanded by a lettler range Birwhich Marshal Soult, with 20,000 men was alstructure Marinal South with 20,000 mm was ar-ready posted. The French were well supplied with artillery which awept the ground occupied by their gallant adversaries; their gass commenced a bot discharge noder cover of which, three benry co-immes advanced to the attack. These, throwing unit sionis of ughtroops, and driving in the Linglish advanced posts, got possession of Elvins, in front of the centre. As they drew near they deployed into a line which greatly xtended beyond the British a time which greatly Attended between the Bittines left, but the 4th regression had the bravery and steadiness to advance three may have its right wing and engage with the viscony absoring a freat testion in two derections. Hard division in the course in two directions. Hard' division in the cruits was warnly engaged with Memset thesps whe, having carried Eruna, were breat; j through the enclosures which his between its booses, and the British. The action was more greened abong the whole like; the opposing entree archanged repeated voilies which privide blost is epicaled bayened clarify from the John and 22 and re-memsel, drost set clarge from the John and 22 and re-memsel, drost the enemy back again through the village, and a considerable way up the opposite slope. The pursuers, however, went too far, and being unsupported, were severely checked; while entangled among the enclosures and walls behind the village, they were attacked by fresh. French troops, and again driven through its streets, leaving Major Napier wounded and a prisoner. Moore instantly rode up, addressed the 42nd in the memorable words, "Highlanders, remember Egypt!" and bringing up a battalion of guards to strengthen them, led them forward to the charge. After a desperate struggle, the enemy was repulsed at the bayonet point, but this was Moore's last exploit, a cannon shot struck him, as the tide of battle was just turning in favour of the British Sir David Baird also, was carried from the field severely wounded.

The enemy made fresh attempts, an attack on the British centre was successfully repulsed, and the ground being more elevated, the guns were brought to play with good effect. On the left, the enemy having got possession of a village, kept up a fire, but was driven out by Colonel Nicholls, at the head of a few companies. Day-was closing, the enemy had lost ground at all parts of the field, though the firing still continued at intervals, and night put an old to the sanguinary contest.

It was while leading the gallant 42nd to the charge that Sir John Moore received his death wound. The shot struck him from his horse, but his countenance remained unchanged, and without even a sigh, he sat upon the ground and watched the progress of the battle "His eye was steadfast and intent, and it brightened as he saw that all went bravely and well" He reluctantly allowed himself to be taken to the rear Theu was the dreadful sature of the wound seen; the aboulder was shattered to pieces; the arm hanging by a fills of skin, and the breast and large almost had open. As the soldliers phaced idm in a blanket to extry him away, the hit of his exord entered the wound; Captain Harding would have taken it off, but allows stopped him, expire. It is as well as it is; I had rather it should go out of the field with me?'

It was a long way to the sown and the torture of the motion was great, but the expression of his countrance was calm and resolute. As he apconsistence was cause and resolute. As he ap-proached the sumparts, he several times made the bearers stop, and turn him round, that he might see the field of hattle; and as the retract of the firing showed that the enemy was driven back; a anile overspread the focutive that were relaxing in death. After he was tool on a couch in his in the overspect to the course of the control of th

There was deep silence as they laid him in his bed of glory,-

"By the struggling moonbeams misty light, And the lantern dimly burning"

No shots were fired above his resting place; but the distant cannon of the fee paid the funeral honours to lus memory

General Hope, now commander, conducted the comburkation with decision and judgment. It com-menced at ten that might, before day, all but the rear-guard were on board, which, with Generals Hill and Beresford, did not embark till three o'clock the following day The French, satisfied with the desperate courage of the Lughsh, melested them The Spiniards, with bravery and generosity, manned the ramparts when the British troops were withdrawn, so that the siek, wounded, artillery, stores, and prisoners, were all got on board. Tho guns of the French, however, from a neighbouring height, caused inuch confusion, but little damage among the transports After the last of the baggrige and stragglers were on board, the inhabitants, seeing further defence useless, surrendered the town

The intelligence of this disastrous retreat caused great sorrow and alarm in England, but the grief was not unningled with triumph, and the cyprus was blended with the laurel Tho British lind failed not by their fault, but their misfortune, they had been unavoidably forced to retreat, but with untarmshed honour, repeatedly had the daring pursuers been beaten back with desperate bravery, and the whole had been covered by a docisive and successful battle, in which the French had lost 3,000, the British only 800 men, though to this loss is to be a lded that of their brave chief, whose alleged errors and deficiency, his countrymen gladly forgot, while they gloried in his warrier-death, and will ever clearsh his memory with love and hereour

Before hatroducing Str Arthur Wellesley upon this great stage of excelling deeds, we must interpose a sketch of the movements going on among the Spaniards —a full account of the efforts made by them at this time against the French would lead us berond our finite.

The Spaniards resolved to profit by the brief pasitis which had been purchased for them so dearly 'bey were still nasters of the south hanh of the Tagna. The Duka del Indantais collected the trunnants of the dispersed armice at Concra, with which he even hoped to recover Modrid. But his Sentenant, Yanegera, being defeated in coursewore or realmoss and improvidence he retreated into Yalrecia, whence the junta semmoned him to Savitzlie was deperted of the constant, and the Cartanos, reparded with surplicion. Altowat the sole defence of Andahaia, were now the armice of Carta

In Catalonia, St. Cyr defeated an attempt to recover Barcelona, Rossa was likewise taken. In Arrayon Europasa was besieged by Hossery. Romana and his small body of mera sheltered binovelf among the montation of Galicia, while Soults erran the province; and who, in addition to Corumaa, had also gaised Ferrol.

and the Maruels of Palaci-

Joseph re-entered Madrid on the 22nd January I the populace without any outrand manifestation of the populace without any outrand manifestation of totallity received him to suffersalizes; they even clearly be according to the contrast concle, such the oath of all relations to the sunger. A military tributed was formed fairly instituted for the total of all sespected of disattercion to the gr. 12 mans. Though it may be regarded as rather a deviation from the man course, we cannot resist giving some account of the second famous defence of Saragossa, which was one of the first places of note attacked by the French. After the battle of Tudela, Palafox, with 15,000 regular troops, had thrown lumself into the city. Stragglers and fugitives, together with crowds of peasants, monks, and mechanics, soon doubled the number. The utmost enthusiasm animated this confused mass, in the numeteenth century their bosons still scenicd to glow with the glories of Numentia and Saguntum, and to patriotic fervour, deep religious enthusiasm was joined.

Since the former siege, the defences of the town had been much strengthened. The Spanneds had repared the runed parts of the walls, built additional parapets in exposed places, included the suburbs in the fortifications, drawn barriers and trenches across the principal streets, and made loopholes in the houses, so that even were the rumparts gained, the enemy would still have a formidable task before them General Doyle had ably superintended the fortifications, a large quantity of English muskets had been distributed among the inhabitants, abundance of aminumition and provisions had been stored up, the magazines seemed too solid to be affected by a bombardment. Trusting in the strength of these defences, and what they deemed still more efficacious, the protection of Our Lady of the Pillar, the peasants, as the French army approached, flocked through the gates in crowds, unhappily bringing with them the seeds of a contagious malady, destined in the end to be more fatal than the enemy's sword

The brave Palafor assumed without dispute the supreme authority His orders for the public de

lostantly excented.

fences were unhesitatingly obeyed. All the house within 700 toises of the walls were demolished, and the materials used for the fortifications; the groves and gardens of the city fell brossit the area. Their molutor particition was prepared for every scarffice. All were actively employed; the women made clothen for the soldiers, and the mounts cartridges i those not employed in the lines of defence practiced the use of arms. Each calored his neighbour to noble deeds; religious processions frequently traversed the streets; the glory of the former dege was called to mised; services the surprise of the against coverides, and zone acressested trailors were

The united corps of M rabals Moncey and Mor-tier amounting to $0,000 men, with a battering ner amounting to $0,000 men, with a halfrring train of $00 pecer, appraced before the walls on the 20th of December A fortified expost was speedly carried by the Fronck, the partison has ing white drawn into the city; an assault upon the a burble in the same quarter through at first socressful, we repulsed with great its ghere by Pashos, who ber-rieds to the spot, and by the example doff much to ried to the spot, and by his example did much to restore the sky. For a hort time after this all was quiet without. The defenders were busily engaged to completing the fortifications; they stores to strengthen every possible point of attack. On the 30th Morier proposed an bonourable eagle laties, telling the minkst Madrid had been taken, and that happeness was deriving the Drillah back for the habitat in the green was the store would, but that the had fallen, if he mories were suitcombed, and rather mas not ray it man new sever wood, but that the ramparis of faragoesa were unincethed, and rather than capitalate they would be harded beneath for raims. The French now invested the place on both select of the river; and baring a transcriptory lels, opened a heavy fire upon the wall, chiefly di-rected against the Augustine Convent, that of the Capuchins, and Santa Engriers. On the 2nd January, Marshal Junot assumed the command of the besigners. The Spaniards made almost drily sorties, but without any sensible suc-cers, though many a bloody contest took place. The Prench had now grined all the fortified places without the walls, their cannon soon levelled the feebla parapets, but the Spanish gunners piled up bigs of earth, which were replaced so soon as shattered by the enemy's shot. After much trouble the French effected the passage of the Plucrha, the efforts of the beneged were therefore confined to the town, breaching, and counter-batteries mounting 50 gins, now played against the body of the place. Still the citizens obstinately contested every inch of ground, their spirits were raised by ru-mours of the defeats the French had sustained in other parts of the Peninsula Truly they stood in need of this encouragement, contagious malady was working fearful havoc among the numbers who were driven into crowded cellars to escape the enemy s bombardment.

Marshal Lannes was now sent by Napoleon to prosecute the sage more vigorously. The attacks were made with fiercer energy, and masses of troops co-operating with each other advanced to the onset. The trenches were slowly carried, the terrible fire of the heavy artillery ceased not, on the 29th, four breaches were declared practicable. That night four columns marched to the assault. The Saragossans were aroused by the tolling of the great bell, as the French made their way through the breaches, they were met by crowds of the defenders rushing from the trenches to attack them. But 122 such was the vigour with which they fought, that three of the columns established themselves, in spits of a murderous fire form the Spaniards. The ramparts of the city became the first line of the Freech treaches. Now was this the whole weight of their misfortance. "The lever demon stalled through the streets like a destroying angel. The number of the dead was between 200 and 400 cach day besides the victims of war. The hospitals were cay nessons the victims of war. The hospitals were too small to contain the hosts of patients, and the necessary sacdidons were exhausted. The surjive grounds were colocide with sorpess; and harp pits were dong in the streets, into which the dead were based indicatininately. Heaps of bisated and patrosees theories wave piled came the churcher, which were often struck by the shelis; I and the maimed and gha-dy careasers lay dispersed along the streets, a frightful spectacle of horror " the streets, a frightful spectarie of horror." The walls of Baragonas were beaunt to the ground, but "Baragones bernell remained erret; a and as the burkers gridle fall from the herole styliche besiegere started at the view of her tailed arreagth. The regular defences had indeed creambled before the tailful of the assuitants, but the popular resistances we immediately called with all its terrors into action." The was was, as formerly fought in the streets and The war was as formerly fought in the streets sed bosses, the slam bell rang in every part of the city and the lahabitanas, assembling in eyewds, filled the houses marries to the long-ment snade by the French Additional traverses and feartinades were executed in the principal streets; a mines were propared in the mare apon spaces; the seamonications from house to house were stillulated, till they formed vast labyrinth whose fattenes windange could only to travel by the werepost and the deal choice of the deferders.

The assailants now determined also to put in requi-eition the slow but sure instruments of the matteck and the mine. In spite of many negonites from the inhabitants, they worked their way through some of the neurost house. Underground galleries were pierced to avoid the batteries with which the Spamards raked each street. Sometimes the defenders setting fire to some of the intervening houses, interposed a burning barries between themselves and tho enemy "The fighting was incessant, a construt bombardment, the explosion of mines, the crash of falling buildings, clamorous shouts, and the constant coho of musketry desfence the car, while volumes of smoke and dust clouded the atmosphere and lowered continuity over the heads of the combatants, as hour by hour the I'rench with a terrible perseverance pushed forward their approaches to the heart of the miserable but glorious city" Priests and women took part in the heroic struggle, the former carried munitions, and gave ghostly succour to the dying, annuating the soldiers both by word and example The latter bore reficalments to their sons, husbands, or fathers, and sometimes when one of these was struck dead by their side, they seized his arms, and rushed to revenge his death

Still the Fichich gained ground, on the 1st of February they took the convents of St. Augustine and St. Mornica. An awful scene took place in the church. Every chapel, every column, every altar, became a point of defence, the pavement was covered with blood, the aisles and nave were peopled with the dead, the roof, broken by bombs, fell in. The survivors fought over the bodies of the dead and dying. The assailants next strove to quantitie into the Cosso. Each house, each room, borains the stage of mortal combat; the dead bodies were plied several feet above ground ; upon this ghestly scuffolding the sombat went on with anch obstinacy that neuther side gained ground for several hours; at times, by the explosion of the mines beneath, the whole dead, dying, and combatants, were blown into the air torother Even the rained walls caused by these dreadful estantrophes gave no defence to the French; for the unerring alm of the Arragonese markeness brought down from windows, and toopholes, every French-man sees dimly among the ruins. To avoid this the French demusished their charges of powder to blow up the intersor of the bottom only, leaving the outer walls standing; through these they came in to new attacks, and pushed through fresh passages. Still they could not farre from the Spaniards the convents and churches t the besieged often made successful sailies, and met them with countermines. The French began issues to dequate of comparing this heroic city; they found each house a rimilet, each acrest dranched with blood, rach surveys bought by enormous earnage. The ranks were broken by the immense number of the wounded and sick t it seemed as though the blacksted rains would be their tomb.

The attaction of the Spaalard was now terrille indeed. In the middle of Fursary servard bloomands died of pertilence we were cut down by the about as the word 'rery day. The charach-bases and receptacies of every kind were full of corposa in the printing and the dense were shat by ingrither in subternations abodies, while the rear of artifary the explosion of mines, the errais of hilling bases, the flames of configuration, the altest and diff's.

of the combitants, shook the city night and dry without intermission over their heads."

"On the 18th a general assault was ordered to take place, and the French at the right attack having opened a party wall by the explosion of a netard, made a sudden rush through some burning ruins, and carried without a check the island of houses laying down the quay, with the exception of two buildings The Spaniards were thus forced to abandon all the external fortifications between St. Augustine and the Ebro, which they had preserved until that day. And whilst this assault was in progress, the inines under the university, containing 3000lbs of powder, were sprung, and the walls tumbling with a terrific crash, a column of the besiegers entered the place, and after one repulse, secured a lodgment. During this time, 50 pieces of artillery thundered upon the suburbs, and ploughed up the bridge over the Lbro, and by mid day opened a practicable breach in the great convent of St Lazar, which was the principal defence on that side Lannes, observing that the Spaniards seemed to be shaken by this overwhelming fire, immediately ordered an assault, and St Lazar being carried forthwith, all retreat to the bridge was thus intercepted, and the besieged falling into confusion, and their commander, Baron Versage, being killed, were all destroyed or taken, with the exception of two or three hundred mon, who, braving the terrible fire to which they were exposed, got back into the town General Gazen immediatoly occupied the abandonod works, and having thus cut off above 2000 men that were stationed on the Ebro, above the suburbs, forced them also to surrender

"This important success being followed on the

126

19th by another fortunats attack on the right bank of the Ebro, and by the directaing explosion of 1600lbs, of powder the constancy of the besieved was at last shaken. An aid-de-camp of Palsty came forth to demand certain firms, beface offered the Markats, adding thereo that the parrison abould be allowed to join the Spaalsh armics; and that a certain ansaber of covered carrieges should follow them. Lannes rejected these proposels, and the fire centimed; jo to the hour of surrouder was come 1.50 pieces of artilliery on the left bank of the Ebra, tald the bousses on the quay lo raise. The charch of Our Lady of the l'blar moder whose superall proceeding the edge was supposed to salet, was prayed it salet, was prayly effaced by the bombardward; and the sale timber under the Comes, loaded at his many those came forth to demand certain firms, before offered and miner moner the come, based with many tendences explosion; which would have hid a quarter of the remaining bouses in the dust. In fine, war had done its work; and the rancry of farzyman sould no larger be sudured.

"The bombardment, which had never cessed from the 10th of January had forced the women and children to take refuge in the vanis, with which the city abounded. There the constant comwhich the rity abounded. There the constant remi-lection of oil, the closeries of the atmosphere innered diet, and four and reall-scores of subset, combined to produce a positioner which is seen presed to the garrison. The strong and weak, the daring addier and the limid child will before is silke; and such was the time of the atmosphere and the dis-position to decare that the aimsophere and the dis-position to decare that the aimsophere and the position of the case of the aimsophere and pra-gressed, and because incurable. In the beginning of February the destite were from 200 to 60 daily it is living were smaller to larry the daily and long the production of the control of the constreets and court-yards, or piled in heaps at the doors of the churches, were left to dissolve in their own corruption, or to be licked up by the flames of the burning houses, as the defence became contracted "*

"On the 21st of February, 12,000 men, pale, emacated, and hvid in hue, marched out, and having surrendered their arms, which they had scarcely strength left to hold, to their courageous enemies, were sent to the besiegers' camp, where they received the rations of which they were so much in need. The French troops then marched into the town, and never had such a spectacle before been exhibited in modern times. Six thousand dead bodies still lay unburied in the streets, among the fragments of buildings, or around the churches half the houses were in ruins, infants were striving in vain to get nutriment from their dying mothers, from the vaults and subterraneous rooms, a few squalid persons of both sexes, like ghosts, were assuing, drawing corpses, hardly distinguishable but by their stillness from the objects that bore them the pestilence spread almost visibly from those living charnel houses alike on friend and foe around. There perished during the siege 54,000 men, of whom only 6,000 were killed by the sword or fire of the enemy, the awful plague had carried off the rest. Of the sick 10,000, most part in a dying state, encumbered the town when hostilities ceased, and filled every quarter with woe The French had 3,000 killed and 12,000 wounded during the struggle Fifty days of open trenches had been borne by a town defended only by a single wall, half that time the contest had continued with more than 40,000 besiegers after that feeble de-* Napier's Peninsular War isons had fallen, and the town, in a military sense, was taken; $3,000 camon shot, and $15,000 bombs had bom thrown into the place; yet at the close of the siege the assailants had only mastered one fourth of the town; thirteen convents and churches had been taken, but forty retunised to be forced. had been taken, but forty retnaised to be ferred, it was domestic positioner, not foreign arms, which subdood Saragosas. Modern Europe has not so nearmorable as degre to recount it and to the ded of the world, even after Spain and France have small before the waves of time and all the gloties of modern Europe have passed away it will stand forth in undecaying leater as moniment of heroid develors which will theil the breats of the leaves and the greaterous is avery secreting again." After the slege of Saragosas, the recompeted of Devitigal was the first of the Francis Boottle, appointed governors of the country reveired sentent and Lagieses from Contail Rodrigt, were ordered to act with blue. South and needed to add assed direct time though a first time ordered to act with blue. South and needed to ad ance direct upon Oporto, after exceeing the aimne pear its mentil ; but the plan h we can pelied to abanden in consequence of the aimned pearanty : he was therefore object to take a resolution to the pearanty of the was therefore object to take a resolution to the pearant of the was of great kerport, considering that Previousle could ha a off red but seen printingly a feelile restance. It was the 10th of March before he entered by the western provises of Trans to Mooree. The Prach made the Provision of Trans to Mooree. The Prach made the Provision of the pearants or trace 2 torce. The stream made the Post-ance of the penantity on three-base troops. I fol-wing a perical for military severity and a Landsord licence which afterwards careful the were god and irritated Perunguisses to mak. Movely repetable. Alson's Franck Hardwides, Vol. VII.

128

On the 29th Soult stormed Oporto A scene of dreadful carriage ensued after the assault. The cavalty charged through the streets, slaughtering the inhabitants without regard to age or sex. Terrified by the sight of such horrors, the people fied in crowds to the bridge, but there they were met by showers of grape and musketry. Some tried to cross in boats, but were fired on, 3,000 citizens were here either drowned or shot. The slaughter would have been greater, had not Soult exerted himself to end the savage cruelty of his soldiers.

But Oporto was to be the limits of Soult's conquests. Behind him Romana, who had rallied his constantly-increasing army, found Ney full employment, and Silveira was still master of Tras os Montes. In the south Victor could not invade Alentejo till he should have defeated Cuesta and the Estramaduran army, and Lapisse could not make himself master of Ciudad Rodrigo, which was defended chiefly by Sir Robert Wilson with his Lusitanian legion

The plan first adopted by Sir R. Wilson of improving the Portuguese soldiers by placing over them British officers, worked so well, and was so much approved of by the authorities, that the Prince of Brazil sent General Beresford a commission as Field-Marshal and Generalissimo of the Portuguese army Some reinforcements also had arrived from Eugland, and Sir J Cradock, commander at Lisbon, had under him about 14,000 men. Colonel Traut also commanded a promiscuous body of Portuguese troops at Combra. All these considerations deterred Soult from advancing further unsupported

CHAPTER VIIL

Bir Atthur Wellandy appointed Communder in Partograllia pinns—Pannega of the Deutre-Scelik Rimides—Obstacted in Etr A. Wellandry way—Josephan Schmenjandle of Takwen—Exclusi of the Victory—Difficulties— Rir Atthur Wellandry processis to Dadajos—Preparators for the defence of Ferrigal.

Sum was the state of affairs when Sir Arthur Wellasely irreasted with the experience command in Poringul arrived at Labon on the abol of April, 1809.
Itself is exceed as though a complication of difficulties presented themsel es, which only a masterprized could surmount. The partiel armies hadseatabed repeated defeate, and their andisciplined harvey could not cope with large smasses of an prefenced and veteran propril that defiremence which her own children had been mable to work only was to be precured for the Fransuch by the grains and skilled armagements of British a preat military chief. His arrival constructed a new era
military chief. His arrival constructed a new era military chief and the second of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of their affley, and accreated to you the jethoules and divisions, which had weakened the strength, and paralyzed the efforts of the friends of freedom.

paratyzed the effects of the friends of freedom. Believing that the numerical supervisity of the French was neutralized by the expansion of their corps, Six Arthur Westeedy determined you may large boddly against South as Operto, authoris that communication read east between the array and that of Victor. Westeeley a jalan was, first, if possible to free the north of Portugal, and their returning to the Tagus as speedify as percell, is fait.

upon the army of Victor In case flus latter general should meditate an attack upon Lisbon, two British battalions, and two regiments of cavalry, with 8,000 Portuguese, were arranged along the right bank of the Tagus, possession was taken of the flying bridges of Abrantes and Villa Velha, and a body of troops posted at Alcantara, under Colonel Mayne, with orders to blow up the bridge there, should he be compelled to retreat in consequence of the French advancing Cuesta was next informed of the British plan of operations, and requested to keep Victor in check, till the English returned from Oporto, when the two armies might combine, and act in concert to the south of the Tagus

In pursuance of this able plan, the British army reached Coimbra on the 2nd of May, where the inhibitants greeted them with shouts, illuminations, and bonfires, Sir A Wellesley in particular being hailed with great enthusiasm. Here the alhed army was concentrated, and divided into seven brigades of the line, two of German infantry, one of guards, and one of light cavalry, including four britialions of Portuguese, besides 6,000 under Marshal Beresford. Meanwhile Soult was in difficulties, around him were enemies, in his own camp even were traitors. He was desirous of securing a retreat to Spain. Silveira occupied the bridge of Amarante, a strong position on the very road of the French, orders were given to Laborde and Loison to secure this at any price, the post was bravely maintained from the 18th to the 30th of April, during which time, the French were repulsed in daily attacks, and the Portuguese fought in the streets of Amarante, from behind the piles of dead bodies. Colonel Patrick, a brave and skilful ofheer, was killed.

the find of May Soult, who had come up in person, fured the position; having as he imagined thus secured his retreat, he returned to Operts.

While General Derectord advanced from Com-

bra, Sir Arthur proceeded to the Douro as quickly as possible and gained it after a few skirmi-hes. He had determined to cross this ri er, and drive the enemy from Operto at once. While therefore Generals Murray and Sherbrook were detached to different ferrios, Str Arthur with the main body resolved to erose near the convent of Sarea which overlooked the town. At eight eleck the British columns were assentiated behind the heights on which this building tands. They lay on the ground with their arms ready. The Bouro is here 500 yards broad, and flows with a mydd stream. "Lef a loot, he found," said Wellerley to his talk Colonel Waters found a slift which ercoard from the city is the night, concealed at a head in the river behind the night, concealed at a lead is the first behind some burbon i be permutical some persons that attood by to accompany him, and swadeng the first-particles, succeeded in telenging or three or four larges from the opposite abova. Altern which the Arthur was informed that a least was ready "Well, let the non-cross," was his berefunder; an officer and 23 soliders of the Hills, crossed over said are a someon of the pende and the entark de-specially the semisary. Other beats were quickly de-specially the scal of the pende and the entark speciated by use seaso use proper and investigation with applicit cea.

General Paget was among the first; three companies were now over, but scarced. Lad the last will tiese reached the lasts, when the drama and their prise of the energy sounded as alternal treeps herized on, and made a violent attack types the small body of some opposed to them. They defined the sendent has the first the sendent has the first three the sendent has been proposed to them. They defined the post with great gallantry, till they were strengthened by the 48th, 68th, and a Portuguese buttahon General Paget lost an arm, and General Hill, who assumed the command, was still muntaining a severe contest, when the brighte of guards and the 29th, appeared on the right of the French, and of their left troops were pressing from Aventas. The enemy's columns were driven back in confusion The British charged up the streets, and made many prisoners. They were received by the inhabitant with great joy, handkerciness waved from the bal comes and windows, and blessings were pource forth on their brive deliverers.

Had the English army been able to take advan tage of the panie of the enemy, their retreating co lumns must have been almost cut to pieces, thi unhappily could not be done, and the troops wer so fatigued, that some period of repose was neces sary Still, however, the crossing of the Douro, ii the face of a powerful enemy, was a bold and brilliant action, and one that added lustre to Wellesley's military fame. The action on his side, was comparatively bloodless, only 20 men being killed, and 95 wounded, the I rench had 500 killed and wounded, five guns were taken in the flight, a quantity of ammunition, and lifty guns were found in the ar-enal - That night, Oporto was brilliantly illuminated, and the sounds of rejoicing were heard in its streets. Sir Arthur Wellesley's first act was to take measures for the protection of the prisoners from the fury of the Portuguese a proclamation enjoining meres to the I reach that might fall into their hands, was issued the very next morning. Sir Arthur took up his quarters in the house which had been occupied by the I rench general, and a dinner which had that day been prepared for Soult, was served up to him

Pressed on all sides, Soult only escaped after sa crificing his artillery baggage and military chret, by rugged mountain paths; and by a morement to the left, avoided Charce, where the Portuguese awaited his approach. On his way he was subjected awaited an appropriate or many awaited to much annoyance from the peasantry who fired from every height and defile. On the 6th, the British vanguard came up with Scultz rear which was stationed at followouse to cover the passars over the Salador ; owo olley drove them from their position; the English guanopened a discharge and they fell in great numbers. The bridge was choked up with leading; the dead were stread on the rocks around t and wounded men and horses fell into the guil. The I crock, mortified and en-raged, plundered and burnt the villages on their way, and numbered the persona, many of whom the British found imog up by the road side. Just verigeness was exacted of them, every strappler from the line was cut of without mercy. The British could not overtale Poult ;-" If an arra says for Arther in his despatches, "threes away sery thing and abandons all those who are retilled to its protection, but impede its progress, it must obviously be enabled to march through routs where it cannot be overtaken by an energy whe has not made the same sacrifices." Soult lest frees 7,000 to 8,000 men, a third of his army; with these fractile pushed across the frontier; and important obferm recalled Sir Arthur Wellesley to the south.

Thus, in the space of two days, was it is brief at brilliant campairs, so fruitful in results, cracks lead. The passage of the Dours was must restrict a yet it has been well abserved that atrictly speaking it was one of those I believe abstractions from refluenrate which it occasionally belong as tight praise is make, and which men of common minds would have unsuccessfully attempted. To see and take advanige of these cases of exception, however, let it be remembered, is the exclusive attribute of a powerful and original mind

But Sir Arthur Wellesley's plan was impeded by many obstacles. The Spanish chiefs, owing to various reasons, were very far from co-operating efficiently with the British, and did not keep the French in check till Sir Arthur could return, so that though the Spanirds had two organized armies under Vanegas and Cucsta, yet Victor was enabled to fall back upon the corps of Joseph and Sebastiani. This unfortunate fulure rendered nearly nugatory all the efforts of the British, while, had those generals done their duty, the result would have been widely different, the capital would have been taken, and the British army would have found no difficulty in procuring sustenance. This distress was now severely felt. The Spanish commissariat was in a most wretched state, our own was but beginning, by the active exertions of the commander, to become a little efficient, and was interfered with by that of our allies, while by our excessive scru-pulousness and delicacy, which the Spaniards did not know how to appreciate, even all the available resources were not made use of Thus a proper search at Talavera would have discovered large supplies of grun, sufficient for both armies, at a time when the British suffered much from want of bread, and means of transport

On the 7th of June, the British troops encamped on the south of the Tagus. Sickness was prevalent among them, and they duly lost some men; they remained stationary at Abrantes till nearly the end of the month, and one favourable opportunity glided by after another but still für Arthur who was fully aware of this permissions delay had the mortification of being coopalied to remain where be west planest without moosy could not obtain supplied from the country and was destitute of the means of trat-part either by land or water. The mean were without shoes, the officers and soldlers without pay, and unabove, the omerst and soluters without pay, and ta-able to procure the necessaries of life p and the ho-pitals were erowided. Though relaforements had come, he had only 22,000 men under arme p a force too Rulled to allow of tending and decided operasee manues is allow of the termina and neckled opera-tions. Occasions afterwards repeatedly occurred during the war in which the same surful bregularity existed in pro-sling for the pay fithe prope and the demand of the communication. Dut all three shata cles, which weak! have paralyzed an ordinary man overcame not the skill and gen us of W. Beday; yet from his despatches we know that to a man of his public lategrity and great regard for probling and good faith to all parties, and who felt the greatest desire, as their protector and commander that hi soldiers, for the axis of petters and deceptive absold-have their pay regularly this neglect caused no-only much incontrastence but the deepest retrict. The army on they part behaved, verything being sonablered, well; they stertained as pyrthesisions concerning the requestions or secretaints, and live were fully sometions that their contamator would do them all the poster in his power.

1. Intro already mentioned that one of fir A. Welleshey's main difficulties consisted in securing recensive a main unitequires constitute in secreticy the co-operation of the Symbia processe, particu-larly Cassia, a brave and innest, but most brysted and clutimize feeder. Their armies were this the commanderse, a mostly and ill-disciplined horbs of passamis, crowded in to tallows I III at pointed with concerning the logastaness of their claims, and they arms, ill clothed, and slow in their movements, with plenty of artillery, which they did not know how to use with effect.

At the end of June the British commenced their march into Spain, with a view to join Cuesta, and commence active operations upon Madrid, which was defended by at least 50,000 French force was posted at Talavera do la Reyna, and Cuesta's at Almaraz Tho British army marched up the valley of the Tagus, a route not free from danger, for on the left, beyond the mountains, lay Soult and Ney These required to be guarded against, and accordingly Sir Arthur committed to Beresford the defence of Puerto Perales, and urged the Spa-mards also to direct their attention to this point This Cuesta was with difficulty prevailed upon to consent to, and the force eventually sent was made-

quate.

Cuesta likewise promised to secure provisions for the British, while on their advance At Oropesa a function was formed with his main body, and on the 22nd, the advance continued, and the enemy were driven across the Alberche, where Victor drew up his army in position Sir Arthur Wellesley wished to attack him next day Cuesta refused, and, obstinate and lethargic, fell asleep during the conference The promises which he had made to supply the troops with provisions also proved to be vain, and Sir Arthur was obliged to inform him that unless his demands were answered, he could not consent that his troops should advance to a greater distance from their resources The Spamard persisted in moving alone, and on the 26th his van was driven back by the enemy, and his army only saved by a brave charge of the Duke de Albuqueryon a dirision so that without much damner to fell back again to the Alberche, where a liritish force was stationed to support him. Coreta, though the ground was low and milarourable diversibled to meet the enemy here; Sir Arliner harkeling is distance him from his reabsets, found the greenal askey in his tent, and his army is confiction; the liritish commander's arguments were valu; Coreta was only conviceed of his nathers when he are the British troops withdraws, and was giad once more to unit with them.

No scoure had intelligence of the movements of the allied armser reached Marind, than King Jeesph, with Marshal Jourdan, his major general, advanced from the capital with all the deposable foreys until figs with Victor and Setartian mer Tarda. Marshal South was likewise settlered to join A y and Mortler 1 three combined forces were repailly to marsh on likemise settlered to join A y and Mortler 1 three combined forces were repailly to marsh on likemise settlered to join A y and Mortler 1 three combined forces were repailly to marsh on likemits, and more than that the burner has wrater to defeat this consideration required as eviliately relations and harvery to extracts the army from its perificus position rigores and promptionds were to dispensible. In consequence of the fairness of the Spaniards in support of retreat would have been senous thereinthe had not the except intend I standing on the defensive, resolved to attack the simulation of the product of the fairness defended and rigorous accounts of the great battle of Tala ra which followed.

"The luglish general lead only two brigades in pursuit of the enemy beyond the Albertie, having already begun to experience that pressing want or provisions and the means of transport, which some had such important effects on the issue of the camprign The whole allied army took post at Talavera, in a battle field well calculated by the diversity of its character, for the various qualities of the troops which were there to combat for the independence of the Peninsula On the right, the dense, but disorderly array of the Spaniards, with their flank resting on the Tagus, occupied the town and environs of Talavera, with the olive woods, intersected with enclosures, which lay all along its front, filled with light troops, and their numerous artillery planted on an advantageous position along the front of their line, and commanding all the avenues by which it could be approached Far beyond the in-closures, the British stood in the open field, on the uneven ground which extended from the olive woods to the foot of the hills, forming the first range of the Sierra de Montalban A deep ravine, in tho bottom of which flowed the Portina rivulet, lay at the foot of these hills, and formed the extreme British left, the streamlet turning sharp round, and winding through its way to the Tagus at Talavera, ran across the front of the whole allied line. On the heights, on one side of it, the French were placed in a strong position, with their batteries on the right, placed on some lofty heights overlooking a great part of the field of battle Right opposite to them stood the British line, on a similar ridge of eminences, and their guns also sweeping the open slope by which they were to be ascended In the centre, between the two armies, there was a commanding hillock or mount, on which the English had begun to construct a redoubt, and in which some Spanish guns were placed, it was evident, that on its possession, the fate of 140

the approaching battle would in a gadamage About three o clock on the afternal though Derti h T'th, (July 1809) Victor's advanced Hermined proached the British outposts, station(stenling to Portina streamlet, and tramediately cone general attack. Some of the English regiments on t the then seem fire for the first time were the Cuesta confusion by the anddenness of the onest, has the linkton, who was with the advanced posts, rimore escaped being nucle prisoner; while 19,000

ards who were on the right, were so alarmeds of French Eight envalvy riding up to them, andh charging their pistols, that they broke after a s

The eract French and Allied forms at Talarers, at tained by Kansler from the War Office at Parls, was A. Derwa >-

Revol Omeric Victor's come, in heavy and armitery 3,783 Chestry Belantian's corps, intentry and artiflery 37,310 Bearing divisions infantry and artiflary 7,541 73 Pattalleus, 3 Squadrous M.172 LUEL Deltich I faster (215 betteller Artiflery Engineers, &c. 2017 Caralty ....

Preside Infantry and artiflery CATALOT

their muskets, and flying tumultuonely had such ines to the rear, gave out that all was lost, paign Th, however, brought up somo veteran vera, in a he scene of danger, and checked the dissity of its elie at the same time, the British advantroops which vered by the brave 45th regiment, and dence of then of the 60 h, retired to the position of but disord body on the other side of the stream. hark uraged by this success, Victor, as night ap-ched, was induced to hazard an attack on the sections has induced on their line of heights, and filled this purpose Puffin was ordered to charge with plan division, supported by Vitalle, while Lapisse of the on the German Legion on their right, so as to whitent assistance being rendered from the other clos rts of the line The forces which thus were unrought into action by the French, were above 20,000 mon, and the assault was so quick and vi-gorous, that though Colonel Donkin gallantly repulsed the men who attacked his front, his left flank was at the same moment turned, by several French battalions, who, having advanced unperceived through the valley, suddenly appeared with loud shouts on the heights in his rear General Hill, however, with the 29th regiment, charged them without an instant's delay and immediately bringing up other battalions, formed a convex front facing outwards, which effectually covered the British left, for Lapisse, soon after opening a heavy fire on the German Legion on the right, and fresh battahous of Ruflin's division emerging from the hollow, resolutely advancing to storm the heights on the left It was now dark the opposing lines ap-proached to within 30 yards of each other, and the frequent flashes of the musketry enabled the daunt-less antigonists to discern each other's visages 142

through the gloom. For a few minutes the event seemed doubtful I but soon the lead cheer of the seemed monotor; pot soon the send ener on the British soldiers was heard above the receiling roat of the must-stry the French fell back in disorder isto the hollow while Lapissa drew off on the right; and the soldiers, on either side worn out with fa-tigue, sunk into sleep around the first of their bl VOUROS.

"Not discouraged by this bloody repulse, which cost him above 600 of his bost troops, Viotor con-trary to the opinion of Jourdan, who controlled thirty to the opinion of securiar, who comments as strongestly that all the offenive operations should be suspended till Soult was sometently pear to threaten the enemy a communication, prevailed on dowest to permit kim to resew the lattle on the following morning. The centre of the living herloaving morning. The scatter of the British ing deemed too strong, by reason of the navise which covered their front, it was determined in revew the stack on the brights on the left. At eight o check, Ruffin e di islon again advanced to the attack expected by Whitta e, and the French troops with an intrevel step accessed to the sum off of the hill, while the artillery on both sides kept up a rephotical fire, and soon made frightful. chasms in the opposing ranks. Having gallantly made their was to the summit, the brench instantly closed with Half's di leben, and for half an hour a comes with Hills di toles, and for Salf an hour a desperable traggle took place. In the course of which Hill Himself was wounded, and his mes were fail-ing fast to hit the French hose was till greater I le-sensibly their line give ground, and at lexit lene; forced bank to the orige of the slope the whole broke and were barried in will disorder to the foot of the Silf. Fastful from these reported at-facts, that the openy would at learth surreed is forting his fail, Wellington g well has an alright at the entrance of the valley, obtained from Cuesta the succour of Bassecourt's division, which was suctioned on the hills beyond its outer side; and guint to reinforce Hill's batteries, which were bravely served by the Spanish guinners, and rendered good service during the remainder of the day "The extreme heat of the day, non for a few hours suspended the combat, during which the lines were re formed on both sides, the ammunition waggons replemshed, and the wounded withdrawn to the rear In this interval, Joseph held a Council of War, in which Jourdan again renewed his advice that they should retire to the Alberene, and Victor urged that they should recommence the at-The latter prevailed, chicity in consequence of the arrival of a courier from Soult, announcing that he could not arrive at Placentia till the 4th of August, and the threatening advance of Venegus, who was already near Aranjuez Meanwhile, the troops on either part, overcome by thirst, straggled down in great numbers to the streamlet which ran - at the bottom of the ravine which separated the not a shot was fired, nor a drum was beat, peaceably the foemen drank from the opposite banks of the same rill, and not unfrequently the hands which had so recently before been dyed in mutual slaughter, were extended and slinken across the water in token of their admiration of the valour and constancy displayed on both sides lington meanwhile was sented on the grass on the top of the hill which had been so obstuntely contested, eagerly surveying the enemy's movements, which indicated a renewal of the conflict with redoubled forces along the whole line At this moment Colonel Donkin rode up to him, charged with a message from the Duke of Albuquerque, that Coesta was being leg him. Calmly continuing his survey. Wellington desired Donlin to resears to his brighted. In a few minutes a rolling of dross was heard along the French line, the bread, blick masses of the enemy appeared fill in view; and, preceded by the fire of thi pieces of artillery 50,000 wen advanced to the attack.

The French columns came down their side of the ration at a raid pose and though a l'illé direc-dered by ensuing the atream menuted the spoonts hill with the atmost interpolaty. On the extreme British right, Rebestian! corps (El with the at-most fary on O neral Campbell' di islam and by their bood eries indicated the confidence of limnedista victory but the attack we m column, and the English were in line and then the labercut ries of that arrangement became I some apparent. The Dritish regiments which tood against the frost at the mass drawn up three deep, kept up as increasing the first of the things of the carriery while these on elements put rolling fire on the enemy, while these on elements of the carriery while these on elements of the carriery while these on elements. ther side, incl a me forwards an I d recting their fire against both fis & of the col ann, soon ceravioural against twin in a way that even the intropolity of the importal tet runs sunk under the fuel and they kroke and fell int confusion. On recked (ampcrose and 101 int crostation. On rethed Campell's distance, onepart did the arequirests affered by lifetime and one of example, however in proceed with anxended stend new by the cris replied it is allies; and public given depress of manufactor that described that described are affected that described are affected by a distance then F. F. a. a. Mallate a distance or of crises. At the names then F. F. a. a. Mallate a distance or of crises. to rules on the carrier octave right, is over to turn by it close of the Herra de Mastalan, it is I lood-whited bill, which the 'la li a surptice carry by acoust. 'It ellipton francolarly whend the 1st German hussars, and 23rd dragoons to charge the column in the bottom of the valley. On they went at a canter, but soon came to a hollow cleft which lay right across their path, and which it seemed impossible to cross

"The veteran German, Arenstcheld, with charactenstic coolness, remed up his men on the edge of the hollow, but Seymour, at the head of the 23rd, with true English hardiliood, plunged headlong down, and though half of his men fell over each other in the wild confusion, at the bottom, where Seymour was wounded, the survivors, under Ponsonby, coming up by twos and threes, charged right on, and disregarding the fire of Villatte's columns. through which they passed, fell with mexpressible -fury on Stroltz's brigade of chasseurs in the rear, which, unable to resist the shock, opened its ranks to let them through The heroic British drigoons, however, after this man vellous charge, were assailed, when blown and disordered by success, by a regiment of Polish Lancers and a body of Westphalian light horse, and broken with great slaughter, the survivors, not half of those who went into action, found shelter on the broken ground behind Bassecourt's division of Spanish infantry, on the mountains beyond

"While these terrible conflicts were going on inthe two wings of the army, the centre, where Sherbrooke commanded, and the German Legion and Guards were placed, was exposed to a still severer trial The great batteries, mounting 50 guns, which there stood right opposite to the British line, at the distance of only half a cannon-shot, made fearful chasms in their ranks, and the English guns, greatly inferior both in number and weight of metal, could make no adequate reply Under cover of this fearful shorm, Laplace a division crowed the ravine in their front, and secretifing the opposite hill concealed by the smoke pot close to the Hei this line, and already set up the short of victors. They were received, however by a close and reli-directed volley followed by a general rush with the squoret, which heatault there the assailment back in great confusion; and the guards following fast on their beeds, not only dry a them down the hill, but created the rivalet as the bettern, and were but crossed the rivsky at the bottom, and were soon seem in disorderly arms streaming up the op-posite bank. Here however they mot the ene-my's reserve who advanced in chee selves throwth the throng; powerful batteries, doublarging grayi-bers down where rank at every discharge as so-fund, and some regions to of everly threatened the other. The grand thus nevely prevail and the other The grand thus nevely prevail on the property of the intrinsect; that wellington, who had forever the connectioning of the schlass. In advantages a siintudional i lati Melinguos, who had forware the coursequence of the galland, to increasible the arrange of the guards, had provided the means of reacting the combat. Instantisp proving forward the statis regiment, which was in resert. He directly it against the right flash of the I runch who, is their time, were some had deserted by secretary. When this guillant required yet mis the late glary road the stream, it was as beset by the crowd of multi-late in the secretary to crop of a runks to let them through just businessed, of or of the runch and the stream, it was no best by the crowd of runks to let them through just in secretary to deep darmans to let them through just in section of the stream of the results are as a first of the stream of the stream is the results are and dependent on the pure and dependent on the pure received their first and Cottons brights of it is cavalry having come up on the other flank at the same time, the advance of the French was effectually checked in the centre. This was their last effort. Their columns now drew off in good order, and retired across the Alberche, three miles in the rear, which was passed in the right. Shortly after the firing ceased, a frightful medicant occurred the grass, dried by the excessive heat, accidentally took fire, and spreading rapidly over part of the field, scorched cruelly numbers of the wounded of both armies.

"Such was the glorious battle of Talavera, the first for a century past in which the English had been brought to contend on a great scale with the French, and which in its lustre equalled, in its ultimate effects exceeded, the far famed days of Cressy and Azincour 22,000 British had engaged for two successive days, and finally defeated above 40,000 French, for the aid which the Spaniards afforded in the battle was very trifling, and not more than 10,000 of the enemy, including the Kings' guard, remained to watch their lines in the olive woods of Talavera, who never fired a shot Seventeen picces of cannon, several tumbrils, and some hundred prisoners, taken in fair fight, were proud trophies of this hard fought action The loss on both sides was enormous, but greater on that of the French than the British, owing to their much superior numbers and their system of attack in close column. The latter lost 6,268 in the two days—that of the French is now ascertained, from the returns in the War Office, to have been 8,794 'This battle,' says Jomine, 'at once restored the reputation of the British army, which during a centuryhad declined it was now ascertained that the English infantry could dispute the palm with the best in Europe'

In valid the mercantile spirit, which look for gain in every transaction, and the virulesce of faceton, which has ever accompanied the nobless events in history fastened on this far-famed field, complained of the subsequent retreat, and ached for durable results from the laurest of Talavera. The odd or settlish calculations were asswered by the sauding throb of every British lever; it because the surface of the subsequent glorious career and long continued security of lag-land. Far from every guestone become he that fright spirit which would measure the knoperturbable, the from every guestone become he that fright spirit which would measure the knoperturbable, the form every guestone has an order of the spirit which would measure the knoperturbable put the fame officer, and order and an order of the spirit which would be the first the state of Talavera, its first will indeed be lost, for the hat hoor of British expire will have attack. "*

When the British army entered Talavera, they as westificient evidence of the have and destructive caused by the French army. All the pattle bellifiers of the place had been destroyed; the towher had been volunted and riffed, the stars of the charches correturned; and half the beaves were to mins. They had carried of the charch talles, and saher farmiture to their camp, where after the main ander farmiture to their camp, where after the main ere of their station, they had established at their, and their had bellified to the state of the farm with straw undursthed. A sifeer stated is his journal, that hear the Elary of Casalague they found the believe of two Equancies recordly third one having been found with arms in hi tasels, had been known to death by the breach and shy with his arms lifted up, his hands clenched, and his fertures distorted, his whole frame having stiffened in one dreadful expression of agony I

ATLAN HISTORY of Empe Vol VIL

one dreadful expression of agony in the general plan of this campuign has by some been objected to as involving too great risks, but, by universal concession, during the whole of it, Wellesley's skill, proinpittude, and unhesitating self rehance, were conspicuously manifested. The position he took up against the Freuch at the battle, was admirably selected, and his manœuvres during it, were those of a great general who perceives and is resolved to improve the advantages he has gained. In short, the whole could only have been planned by a most energetic and vigorous mind. ous mind

The glorious victory of Talvera, though it added a fresh triumph to the many which the British army had gained, yet in certain respects did not improve the prospects of our troops. So far from having it in his power to follow it up, Sir Arthur Wellesley could scarcely procure assistance and support for his wounded men Cuesta refused to send one of his divisions to attack a French convoy of provisions which might have fallen an easy prey, he also withdrew his troops from Talavera, leaving the British hospitals unprotected By great exertions and many socrifices Sir Arthur collected forty cars, and with these brought off 2,000 of the wounded, though he was obliged to leave 1,500 of the worst cases in the hands of the French Victor, to his honour, treated them with humanity Since the Spanish chiefs had not followed up the share allotted them in the arrangements of the carn paign, since they had sustained several decisive defeats, and since the English army, deprived of the hearty and and co-operation of the authorities.

found it impossible to procure support, it was quite evident that Sir Arth 'r Wellseley had dose all that was in his power, and that "it was necessary he should withdraw fato I oringal, as the locality pertioniarly pointed out in his instruction." Into his military chest was nearly empty and it second a if the Spaniards were determined to leave their allies to starve. Lavish in promove, they were slow and indeed unwilling in performance, and this too, when timely and abundant supplies might have enabled the English army to march straight spon the capi-tal. From the period, when a junction had been formed with the Spanuh forway the British could never obtain more than half semetimes not even the third of a full ration and that composed of meat without sait, nd flour or grain kestend of bread. The caratry find to forage as a decimer and pick up anhabitence wherever they could ; so that more than 1,000 horses were deficient, and the cattle ka l scarcely streagh cough to drag the artillery Great numbers of the officers and men f. Il sick, and from the had quality of their food, and the want of any drink but water dywatery was very prevalent. Sir Arthur accordingly left his you tion on the "Oth Awoust "In communicating the ten to the mini-ters at home he mated that he had never hown he should be seen at the stand appropriate the stand in Shein I that he are pilled to sub, the parket blood to the stand he produce the stand he produce the stand he produce the stand he produced the produce the stand he produced the produ ried money or neartunities, to con y the worn! midlers to the herrital at Elvant that he was off pe f to lay down a quantity of amounts a at M a d'Hor and Deleyton, which was d'I sted t. the Spenish general ; and that if he had wanted be per Le could not have moral at all well-out les eg te-A behinds has be clarger Lake from the d fersed state of the French armies, and the losses they had sustained, the Spanish troops were not likely to suffer any inconvenience from the absence of the allies, and that upon the frontier of Portugal he hoped to supply his distressed soldiers with every thing they might want." The French on their part resolved upon no offensive operations, but determined during the autumn and winter to employ their disposable force in subjugating the south of Spain

The central junta now expressed their senso of Sir A Wellesley's services, by nominating him a captain-general in the Spanish service, and presenting him with six And dusian horses, in the name of King Ferdinand. These honours he accepted, (submitting his acceptance of them to the pleasure of his sovereign) but disinterestedly refused to take the pay attached to the rank conferred on him. Higher honours awaited him at home as soon as news of his victory arrived, he was raised to the peerage by the titles of Buron Douro of Wellesley, and Viscount Wellington of Talavera, and Wellington in Somersetshire

Shortly after the battle of Talavera, Marquis Wellesley superseded Mr Frere as British ambassador Though waimly greeted by the Spaniards, he also, like other discerning men, speedily perceived the ignorant incapacity and intriguing spirit of the junta. Indeed it is not too much to say that had not their evil influence been over-ruled, the Spanish cause would have been ruined. One thing was plain, that it would never do for the British to act in unison with the disorderly and unsteady levies of Spain

On the march to Budajos, Lord Wellington was so much indisposed that for two days he had to tra

rel in a carriage. In their cantonments, the British army now had food and rest; but ague with internitiont fover any very prevalent among them. The number of deaths in one month was 700 in another 1500. This fever always prevails in that quarter during the autumn, and informately the hospitals were not anticiently supplied with bark, and other medicioes, and the medical attendants deficient in number | Lond W | Dureton himself was attached with it, but f exemptely it soon left bim.

About this time the "pun sh contest begun to as-sume a new feature that of the goerilla warfare which afterwards as a such a scource to the French. It soon became almost universal, for the people had now found their real arrength. The lavaders had hitherto defeated early the brealth armies ; they had now another enemy to struggle with Aman sinations and desperate aktronishes thussed their ranks a each rock, each clump of trees, each rola, furnished shelter to the markaman. A the pearant ploughed the ead his forg gun lay in a furnor boar him, he was ready to join a y explicit going on in his neighbourhood, or ent off any tragger that came pear. The mos taln pasers were lived by these bra a men. T lead and per these lands, the pricet girded up has black role and smelt pin-tota to his brit ... the sturbest three wie his Londa, and grasped a sword, the slepterd formalt his furk with herbanders his borne

To the gorilla or partition vortice, too grains at the Spanish people and the character of it ir men try were pecularly suited ; and the resistance then given to the French ly arathered lands was more formidable because for more direct to the beep direct. than that of regular armire which I y a general erthe middle crushed. The hardet vile, were perite, hardy, veiling under a cold demeanour an aident and fiery character, is capable of waiting long to gain an advantage, and is little discouraged by difficulty of defeat. In general a good shot, and able to handle skilfully the lance, sword, or dagger, the guerila was formidable in ambush, and unencumbered with heavy accourtoments, and accustomed to the free air of the mountains. Prost other than a match even for veteran soldiers Proof alike than a match even for veteran soldiers. Proof alike against promises and threats, the severities practised against them in fulfilment of menaces, only inflamed the spirit of public hostility, by that of private revenge, to which they are prone. These guerillas were led by various officers all well qualified for the task,—some, men of high birth and education, others smugglers and peasants. All displayed the greatest gallantry possessing perfect knowledge of the passes, fastuesses, woods, mountains, and wilden ne-ses of the country, and receiving exact intelligence from the peasintry, they harassed the French incessantly, watched every movement, and cut off every weak detachment, so that a courier was obliged to be attended by a large escort. courier was obliged to be attended by a large escort, "nor could the intrusive King take the amusement of hunting, however near to his capital, unless, like Earl Percy in the ballad, attended by a guard of 1,500 men" The numbers of these warners variof these warners varied, some chief led little armies of 2,000 or more, while others, or the same under a reverse of fortune, headed only ten or twenty men. They seemed to baffle all pursuit, when apparently surrounded they dispersed, and cut then way through in Various quarters, or were traced only by the havor they had caused. "To chase them was to pursue the wind, and to eigenwent them was to detain water with a never the same of t upon himself the charge and heavy responsibility of defending Portugal, looking forward without dismay to the issue of the context. He had the satifaction to find that his augmentions were adopted, and that he enjoyed the good-will, and respect of all classes.

The Portuguese army in all other respects but the summiserate, was rapidly assuming a new appearance, under the instructions of Hilliah effects —but that one will was nearly enough to parsh as the difficiency of the whole; jet by Wellington a nations endeavours, much was done to surrest and antificiate it.

We he streety mentioned that the Dritish bead-quarters were at Vicen, on the 10th of Japusary 1810. The army was so stationed as to occupy the strong and rosed tree of the living freather ; the troops were placed in consumous a lith an ex-pectal view to the preservation f their health and discipline. In Catalonia, the expansion will met with reverses | libal was defeated by Suchet with great loss-his artiflery bring taken, and 4,500 pri soners made. Gerons, bowever sectained a public defence against its bearingers; after six mouths en-durance of grievous suffering from famios ichness, and the sword, its bra e garried were compelled to relimit. The brentants had seffered trove from the misfertune of thrana, then from any prophers the mistream of thems, than from any problem defeat. The French verpressing (process) give them they had I med the power of the berra Moreta, almost without revisioner prompted Au-dicais, made their way into Ferlit and had rel-less revenued from setting Calls, by the al-norman of the Bule de Altermetrou. The supercolour of the Bule de Altermetrou. The supercolour form setting the process is not give a property of the transfer of the supercolour and were they the compelled as process in my side of the

these lines had been altogether abandoned, as the position was too extensive, and capable of being turned The French about this time made various demonstrations against Ciudad Rodrigo and Bada-Upon the side of Alentejo, whenever tho onemy moved down from Merida, and showed the heads of thoir columns, Hill, in pursuance of his instructions, put himself in motion, and marched a little forward, but, in Beira, Lord Wellington never moved at all, nor could they ever tempt him to betray his dispositions, or disconnect his divisions, and these he had so posted that he knew they could not be troubled or disturbed in that stage of the campaign Meanwhile the guerillas of Navarre and Biscay, sent reports of the entry of large reinforcements from France, and, as the spring advanced, the plot, as had been expected, thickened During this period, Loid Wellington was much and closely occupied in his bureau There he worked alone, with the simplicity, and common secresy of reserve, but without the slightest ostentation, no solemn mystery, no pomp of concealment, and never one look of importance He commanded the corps of Hill, with as much minute attention to the detail of its movements, as if it had been under his own eye, though it operated far away from him in the south In like manner he directed every movement throughout the land, looking upon every road, every stream, and every strong Sieira, from the still observatory of his own mind, while, as he bent over his maps and plans, he considered the correspondence and reports submitted to him He answored all important communications with his own hand, and conveyed his instructions with that minute clearness, which precluded the possibility of his being misun150

22,000 evaplatants."

In March, the Freech under Jenot advanced upon Astorpa with 12,000 men, they were at first repulsed with the loss of 2,000 tecep, but the partiason afterwards capitalated. Jenot them was been old Castle, and Johned the craps which had already commenced operations against the festive of Portugal. In expectation of a steps, Castlad Rodrigo and Atmelda were por his attack of defense a British Colonel, with 3,000 Demograces, being appointed governor of the latter. In May three serges of smite, called the army of Dorough, before open and the step of the "Child of vectory" oil is "pecied by Napoleon, that his multary takens would success the self-dule to control and placing it finally us by 22,000 combatants." of the "Could at receiving to the a property of the "Could at receiving the contrave and placing the contrave and placing in subduling the country and placing it find a few particles of the property of the Prince, Berlin, I was followed by 70,000 of the heat warders of was followed by 70,000 of the heat warders of the great among the Mill hy bit Blinthe arrey, atteng in valour and determination, and pres determination, and pres determination, and the property of the prince of the fall spectration that the Physica would by the fall heat and him, endered him sending the conflicting the property of all the Likhon would be, in the presence. When he are well expected the prince of the send and monating constantial property of the Lice of the prince of the send of the prince of the send of the prince of the prince of the prince of the send of the complete of the prince of the prince of the complete of the prince of the complete of the complete of the prince of the complete of the

I shall drown the Leopard" His rash boasting was soon at an ond, he left 5,000 men killed or wounded upon the mountains, and as many more were left disabled at Coimbra. By some mistake, Colonel Trant could not occupy soon enough a circuitous and difficult road by which Massena, after his defeat, was chabled to turn the left of the English position, but entering Coimbra after the French had left it, this officer was enabled to capture the wounded, and hospital stoics, and cut off the French supplies

It is almost incredible, that at this period when Lord Wellington in his difficult position, with a host of enemies to struggle with, should not only have been inadequately supported by the Government at home, but likewise exposed to the mad violence of party-spirit from the opposition The heart of the nation, however, was still true, though there were not wanting individuals who said, in their place in Parliament, that the contest was hopeless and should be abandoned, and who seemed to do all they could to weaken the hands of our commander by endeavouring to make it appear that they had lost the confidence of the country The arguments of Government however triumphed, and measures were taken for strengthening the British army We have alluded thus briefly and cursorily to this subject, and shall not probably recur to it again. indeed the same remarks apply to other periods of the contest, and there can be no doubt that these ebullitions of partizinship had, whenever they occurred unfavourable results, they added confidence to the common enemy, by seeming to indicate a divided people, they were eagerly taken hold of by Nipoleon and exhibited to the French in his mendacious bulletins, but over all these attacks Wel-47

163

llagton triamphed—thay only exhibited his great schlevements in stronger and brighter relief—and at the close of the loop and brighter toutest be absented the fully of such real or professed fram, be pointing to the issue of the whole the housest? Britata meanthed, the Professals liberated, and he Cordian describes, to a transmiss secretic, sea are Cordian described desired to his solitary rock to the Yallington but foreven the rests the entry would take, and made his depositions accordingly. He had taken up his position on the freetire mountains of Bette, in the form of the segment of a clerks, of which the course part was presented as the quarter from where the enemy most approach. The defensive line was rearrly thirty miles! rates; that it had this advantage fores its circular form, that its several position were done a from such above the proportion to the length of the circular form, that it is extractly positive to the clark form, that it is extractly positive were done a from such above the proportion to the length of the circular form, that it has extractly place are the proportion to the length of the circular form day the transers of the ground's sold the Case, we had trivially streams, flowed along the free at the intrinctury streams, flowed along the free at the interheuropeans the greater part it is retreated.

Cloded Rodrigo entreendered aster a trick dief wee during which the basiegree hose $7,000 man; alshoo is the steps went on very owns the Instale army Loud Williagton, consciour of the hazard with we targe a proportion of his turney half doc friend and entree, could so per residue; and doc friend and entree has a steps of the ste to resist long, as it was well garrisoned and provided, but on the second day the powder magazine blew up, and it was no longer tenable. As Dr. Southey well remarks, "Throughout the whole of Lord Wellington's career in the Pennisula, the accidents of war have been uniformly against him, nothing therefore is to be detracted from his merits and carried to the score of fortune"

These successes rused the spirits of the French Agitation and alarm were likewise felt at home, Lord Wellington had no precise course marked out for him, his instructions enjoined caution and defensive operations. Nevertheless with that firmness and confidence which well became him, he hesitated not to take upon himself the responsibility, which the Government had taken care should not, in case of disaster, press upon themselves. Weakness and vacillation were never discernible in his conduct. He was ever firm and collected, resolute in purpose, though even those around hum might be faint-hearted.

The French in their advance carried on that system of cruelty and plunder, which had disgraced their armies in the Pennisula. The most infamous excesses were committed throughout the country Lord Wellington issued the following proclamation. -"The Portuguese must now perecive that no other means remain to avoid the evils with which they are threatened, but a determined and vigorous resistance, and a firm resolution to obstruct as much as possible, the advance of the enemy into the intemor of the kingdom, by removing out of his reach everything that may contribute to his subsistence, or facilitate his progress. The army under my command will protect as large a portion of the country as is possible but it is obvious that the people alone can defirer themed or by a vigororresistance, and preserve their goods to remove resistances, and preserve their goods to remove there beyond the reach of the eveny. The dujor there beyond the reach of the eveny. The dujor there beyond of Postupat, and in the Lottagree mation, obligs me to make use of the power at authority with when I am intersact, to coupsil it exactions and indolent to make the secremary. If the exaction and to have their country. It therefore make the preserve the contract of the exaction of the local many their country. It therefore make the authority of the exaction of the exaction of the authority of the exaction of the exaction of the authority of the exaction of the exaction of the tary officers to rower from them; and all persons of whater r clean they may be who if all maintains the post or unmorrower of them; and all persons of whater r clean they may be who if all maintains the post or unmorrower than the considered as an effecte to be also and tred and punished as an effecte to be forced as the exaction of the exaction of the exaction.

The fall of Almentia allowed the exaction of a de-

lines and on the 16th of September Manera servi-Cred his march into Portugal. There hird during Methogon crassed the Mondays, and seconthe slop Basses range with his whole force as all Wellingfrees harmy in that treng justices. Proposition to however the evaluation of revested the the sing Dissect range with his whole force a wait willing from he arry in that urrey proteins. Frogenition the however the excitation ferrost of the could not yet the multimod of pair presume a stack an essent floride line Lisben, produced the range has a constitute of a sity of making as we could be ready half duty he was the range half of a sity of making as we could hereof half of a sity of making as we could hereof hereof half duty hereof half of the presuments of the total parts of the first hereof half of the could half her of the first hereof a situation of the could half her of the first here of the could half of the present hereof a first here the hereof place of the first national factors of the hereof hereof where it unites with the great ridge which reparates the valley of the Mondego from that of the Donn

"Thus this Sierra forms a natural barrier, running across the northern bank of the Mondego, and the same ridge continues along the same mountains under the name of Sterry de Marcella, which runs in a southerly direction till it pairs the great chain which separates the viller of the Mondego from that of the lagues. On the summat of the northern portion of this ringe, Wellington collected his whole army on the evening of the Joh, in all about 50,000 men, while Missens, with 72 000, lay at the foot, determined to force the passage

"The I reach Marshill was not ignorant of the strength of the position which the Lugheli General had now assumed, or of the perilous nature of the situation in which he was placed for while lying it the foot of the ridge of Busico, he received intelligence that Colonel I runt had, with ten regiments of militia, attacked the reserved artillery and military chest near foul, and captured the whole, with 800 prisoners, and already the communication by the Spanish frontier was entirely cut off by the Portuguese light parties But the orders of the Emperor were pressing, and he was well aware that fight he must at whatever disadvantage * Next day, collecting therefore all his force, Massena * In an intercepted letter from Napoleon at this period to Massenn he says I ord Wellington has only 18 000 men Ilill has 6 000 and it would be ridiculous to suppose that 24 000 English can balance to 600 I reach, if the latter do not trille, but fall boldly on, after having well observed where the blow may be given. I ou have 12 (80) cavalry, and four times as much artillery as is necessary for Portugal. Leave 6,000 cavalry, and a portion of guns between Cludad Rodrigo Alcantura, and Balanmuca, and with the rest commence operations" remmenced a desperate attack upon the English position, at day break of the morning of the 17th, 11to British army during the night, bay in dense masses on the samuelt of the mountain.

"The sky was clear and the dark pocky evaluation."

"The sky was clear and the dark pocky evaluations of the pass, were crowed to by the first of incomerable byteasts. The veterans in the English army accessment to similar seniors of outclement, step performed on their stress more to exclusive, step performed on their stress more to the times a lattice for the first times were not to the stress that the stress is the stress of the same around these. A the first treats of daws were beginning to appear are very the extress fills, a restling poise was brand in the second della which ray up to the createst of the mountain. Have from the I reach compete, who shading non-kernel day ing the might, had then yet of see the so the surjects of ing the fight, had there goed one he had required of the fight, had there goed one he had the entire to make the first and the first and the first arrived he had a mean at a first a first a farm was instantly given, and the frequency of the first and the first arrived he had a five the first and the first arrived had been more than first had the mean against the livingh left, by the great read hading to the convent of Busson; while lightly with three angles the livingh read had been proved by the Antonio & Chantara, sparset their right, about three smiles downs. The first had the first had been provided by a choice of first invoke, came rapidly up the livingh and a first himself of the first had the first had been provided by a choice of first heads to Heads and first disorder. One first, he wently breathest and in disorder. One first, he wently breathest and in disorder. One first, he wently breathest and in disorder. One first, he wently he wently a first provided a statished the statisty mass taken the state of the first the fi gans were worked with extraordinary rapidits, nothing could stop the undaunted advance of the large troops. Linerging bravels from the hollow, they took their stand upon the edge of the mountain. The British artillery wasquickly drawn to the rear. The shout of victors is already heard from the I reach line, when suddenly, Crawford, with the 43rd and 52nd regiments, springing out of a hollow beland the highest part of the ridge, where they by concealed, appaired on the summit, and 1,800 British bivonets spirkled on the crest of the hill. The head of the I reach column instantly fired, but in vain, it was broken and driven back, both its flanks were over lapped by the I ughsh, and three terrible discharges, within a few vards distance, drove them headling down, in wild confusion, and with dreadful loss, to the bottom of the hollow.

"The attack on the British right by the two divisions of Reginer's corps, met with no better success. The ground in that quarter was indeed of comparatively easy ascent, and although the British and Portuguese skirmshers opposed a vigorous resistance, and twenty pieces of cannon played incessantly on the advancing column, yet nothing could arrest the ardour and gall intry of the I rench, who mounted with an interpret step up the hill, and after routing a Portuguese regiment is itioned before them, established themselves on the summit, and were beginning to deploy to the right and left, at this instant, however, when the British position in this point appeared to be almost carried, and the hird division, (part of which had been forced to give way) could with difficulty maintain itself against the dense and intropid column which had forced itself into the centre of its line, General

Leith and Ceneral Pieton largegle up their dirisions, and charged them with such vigors that the commy after a draperate straggele were harbed down the hill, the littlish firing upon them as long as their maskers would carry belt only paradicy lest their ranks should be broken, and the erest of the hill be again von. The other French division of Reguler's corps, which advanced up a billow way a tittle to the left of the main redumn, so we pulsed by the left of Pieron a division, before they reached the summit of the mountain.

"After these blowly defents, the French make as attempt again to carry the top of the fit, though Loisses and Marchand maintained. Dogs and elaptoness and Marchand maintained. Dogs and elaptoness are conflict in the boldows at its foot; but their effects were effectually had be rived by the left gades of Facilities and French and at length ownered areas of Facilities, after the length ownered grows off his troops, after his leng assistance a loss of Lipson Miles, and I John Wenneld, among head were General. Loy and March while the bird has of the allies was not as the 'effect of them.

"The battle of Bosone produced as a resulting effect at the time at which it was I work part it and let its addinate consequence, a beginned at apartical cose of the most important that and piter by the whole Pennawhar ar. It, for the first law brought the Durg gove through labe talks with the fresch and anoter such I man grown circumstates as at once giver there a teary. Include the transpect and the effect produced by their givines through the best free produced by the givines through the barbon is best from the barbon of the produced by the givines through an article during the desired that the barbon is a pictured by the produced by the barbon be easily in the curpicips. W Copt of processory bestoned the highest professeur? In a nelater for battle, and declared in his public declared, that if they were worthy of contending nathrown in reduction with the British soldiers in this intercal general It may exfely be admined that on the day after the battle, the strength of the Portugues a troops was doubled.

"The night of this ruspice is change di period every desponding technic from the Briti h army No presemments of ultimate discontinue wereasty

longer entertamed

"The plan of before when the far-seeing transity of their chief had formed revealed it off to the meanest sentined in the runks, and the troops of every nation, prepared to follow the standard of their leader whitever he should lead them with that ready absents and undocting contained which is at once the forceumer and the cause of uluming triumph."

On the 28th September both armost retained their respective positions, and a partial engagement took place between the light intents on the left of the line. But Massena, as already noticed, had heard from the peacantry that a road existed by which he might turn the position of the British. His movement did not escape the violant eye of the English commander, but it was then impossible to take measures to counteract it. The result of Colonel Trant's mistake was, that the enemy were suffered to pass through a series of defiles without opposition, in which they must otherwise have sustained great loss. As soon as he had ascertained the movements of the French, Lord Wellington ordered the position of Busaco to be quitted, and the retreat to go on. He moved on Combra with

* Alison s History of Europe, Vol. VIL.

LIKE OF THE the main body while General Hill retired as So-tarcers; Colonel Trant was posted on the serthers bank of the Venge, and Viren was occupied by a corps of militis, for the purpose of cruiting off the resemps communication with Spain. It was not the pointy of Wellington at this time to prove the Franch, he declined the effer of a second buttle on the Monday, and, crossing that river continend his retreat to Luira, which he reached on the Tod Catalan. On the alth he merce that the energy were October On the 5th, bearing that the enemy were October On the out, nearly that he enemy were coming on in force the retrest was resumed. Hamens, who laid expected to come my with the Brillah, was compelled by the exhaustons of his soldiers, and wast of provisions, to mak a hypef-halt. Wellington and Hull continued their retrest beta process, one on Torre verian, the other to Albandra on the Tages. Proclamations had been been been been required the close that is full back on the approach of the corner; and the reschance of the fearful atrocture absort main fermly practiced by Rapoleous army on their way-which made them receptle the "securpto in the hand of God" that advanced upon the falling Homan emptre-deduced it who population if the country the British left behind them, to fy from their dwellings, bearin as h them all the from their automate, nearth with them all the property their med a sale lagitudiaries retreated to use accompanied by these naturable crowd of outcommission of allow membed my with life but without the means of architicagit. with life. Let without the means of archibing its They left their homes and the transcribul swises of their youth with the full courietoes that as their return they would fail on a light-seed and runnous walls. "Mediers with triasts at their levesting a hill row happy in their transcript at a vailing and the second domain a shaft say.

rounded them, palsied grandsires, mining too in the second infancy of dotage, men robust and sigorous, with features wrinched by strong agony of the spirit,—the blind, the manned, the crappled, the diseased, all animated by the common and overpowering motive of e-caping from the saving cruelties of the involers, were seen crowding the roads, and flying for protection to the capital." As the army approached I isbon the bulk of the fugitive multitude became greatly increased. The way side was strewed with a ticles of furniture which the people could no longer carry with them. Those who had thrown thems lives on the ground in exhaustion, no sooner heard that the enemy's columns were coming up, than they started up, and attempted to renew their journey with convulsive energy. But, as a writer on the subject says, no description can convey an adequate idea of the sad reality, those who with essed it declared that its impression can never be effected but by death

On the 10th October the British troops took up their position on the lines constructed for them, and next day were joined by Romain, with 6,000 Sprinards from the Alentejo It was not till these celebrated fortifications of Torics Vedrus were behold, that the army could form a right estimate of the military genius of their commander, who had so placed them that they might bid defiance to the utmost efforts of the enemy. Till Massena advanced to Sobral, he had no conception of the formidable position in which Loid Wellington's army awaited his approach. He immediately halted, at night made a retrograde movement, and three days clapsed before he again ventured to udvance. For some time he reconnoitred the ground, and though the full strength of these criebrased lines were not revealed to him, he raerough to contribute him of the very formidable obtacles in his way. Attack he new was hopeless, and he arranged his corps in himsee sea traceor incipits seconding from Vita France sea the open particles of the history of the proof of poorly less the history of the proof of the poorly less than the foot of a mountain, which formed part of the position, but his troops, after a series coulcit, were provided. We other attack upon a reducte t the foot of a accountial, which formed part of the position, but his troops, after a severe country, were repaired. No other, after a severe country, were repaired. No other middent of importances excerned for several works. Likbon is situated as the entire ty of a position, the neck of shuch in creased by several trappered and monutainous chalms, structuring from the Tayons-an distance of this products, according from the form a form toward the sea. Along these believe the form is no long fortials at two very strong satural forms—one croadership is subverge of the other—than there is no long fortials at two very strong satural forms—one croadership is not trace of the other—than there is no long fortials at the season strong materially all the recognizes of relaxing scheme had been to maked. The value re-serolled sea toughty and map regulate fortiers. Monatains had been searped perpendically streams and in our dammed to took invaditions of all roads by which as recognized to the had not all roads by which as recognized to the had not seen to the had the season of the forms. attenues and ri ere dammed he mid. Insulation's all roads by which as menny recible at most bridge approach to the problem of the property of the same problem of the problem of the defeated of the defeated force of the terms of the defeated of the problem of th first, he would still, before reacting Liebon, brise

had to force a barrier of amminae stre with

On the southern side of the Tagua the heights commanding the city and anchorage of Lisbon were likewise strongly fortified, and marines from the ships landed to defend them. At the entrance of the Tagus entrenchments were also throng up round fort St. Julian, to secure the embarkation of the British, should Massens Iv any marret woold in forcing the The great rid coffle Monte lines of Tetres Veden Junto rises, and extends unbr ken it r tifteen mites. this ridge could not be crossed by roads so that in case of attack the forces on the authorit sides could give assistance to each etter, as it c u' lou's be rounded by a march of two dies. I obreden communication, on the contrary, was kept up through British lines, and in a very few hours the whole force could be collected to detend any part that might be endangered

Meanwhile Missena laboured under great difficulties. His communication with Spain were cut off, and from the descrited country he could not drive provisions for his troops. his craces from I hance had to traverse Spain a distance of 600 mil s. before they could reach the frontiers of Portugal, and exposed all the way to be cut off by guerilla parties. Indeed, frame must have driven his out of the country,
if the people had strictly obeyed, the orders of Lord Wellington and the Government, to remove all provisions, but this was so slowly carried into effect that a great quantity of private stores were found by the enemy, while the barbour of I ishon could be entered by supplies from England and all parts of the world

The French hoping for reinforcements, had taken up a position at Santarem. Lord Weilington did 174 not think it advisable to attack them here as this not think it advised to attack them here as this would have cost him much lose; and he am not would have cost him much lose; and he am not make the man that the man that the man that the man to the lose and the man that the man to 10,000 mem week. Massarchief, at the rate of 10,000 mem week. Massarchief, and the man that the man necommodation. During the remainder of the year no farther occurrence of importance took place; both armies remained quick in contouments, and owing to the carelessness of the inhabitants, the French were much less incommoded by the want of provisions Massena sent to Aspoleon, earnestly demanding reinforcements

Lord Wellington still met with embatrasments from the Portuguese Government. His utmost efforts failed to call forth the full energies of the state, and excue the sluggish authorities to proper activity. He had received hitherto but a small accession of force from I ugland But confident in his resources, he effected all that was in his power, and calmly waited the issue. In the preceding spring, while Massena was collecting his forces, he thus wrote to a friend in England —"I suppose the people at home think me in a scripe I do not think so myself, but if I am, I ll get out of it"

With the same calm feeling did he hear of the overwroughtexpectations in England when Massena began his retreat, he was prepared for the re action whon they now taxed him with maetivity. Ho was gratified, however, by the arrival of a fresh body of troops at Lisbon, which he had before solicited in vain

We must now glauce for a moment at the state of matters in Sprin C thiz had been saved by the vigour and decision of the Duke de Albuquerque, who vigorously superintended its for theations. He drew a line of contravallation of twenty-five miles, and fortified with care, a city which enjoyed natural advantages British and Portuguese troops to the number of 6000, under Sir Thomas Graham, were admitted, and by his orders meessant labours were carried on to improve the defences Only one of the French latteries could cert a few slot into the town. Booth, during the spring overring fine the town. Booth, during the spring overring the spring overring the spring overring the state of the most async execution. Every triumph, but he most async execution of the surphy retrieval. If the French, above feed of thood were on this property of the French and resulting the property of the forestern of fourtees, he may state the surphy retrieval. French and the surphy retrieval to return and enhanced countries on the state of the surphy and the surphy of the revenue of the surphy of t one of the French latteries could east a few sluth

About the end of Becoming Scale advanced into About the end of 13,779 point during fairnessians as her littleware a like Speakast of the Speakast S

"the Spanish army have lost their brightest orniment, his country its most upright patriot, and the world the most zealous defender of the cause in which we are engaged, and I shall always acknowledge with gratitude, the assistance I have received from him, as well by his operations, as by his counsel, since he had been joined with this army"

Massena now perceived that nothing but a retreat could preserve his troops, and his immediate wants rendered it impossible for him to await the result of Soult's operations for his relief. His army was new sickly and dispirited llaving, therefore, gradually removed his sick and wounded to the rear, with his baggige, and almost all his artillory, he retained in the cantonments only the men and horses ht for active duty. He advanced by three routes to the frontier, and as these converged towards one common centre, he had it in his power On the 6th of March, the British commenced the pursuit, and the I reach seemed determined to contest their advance at Pombal Lord Wellington attacked them, drove in the advanced posts, and took 200 prisoners, but the enemy, after setting fire to the town, fell back on Redmina, where they posted a strong real guard. The murch of the British was thus retaided for

The much of the British was thus retaided for several hours, and the I rench biggage and aithlety conveyed across the Soure in safety. At Condeiva, they again made a demonstration, as their position was strong, Lord Wellington did not choose to attack them in front, a thank movement of Pieton's division, however, caused them to fall back. The French centinued their retreat on the frontier of the road leading to the Poi te de Marcella, but Lord Wellington's skilful mixements prevented them from entering the Jet unexhausted country.

beyond the Mondege, and envised the British is hold communication with the northern previaces. I of they were much retarded in the pursuit by the enemy selecting for the line of retreat, a country presenting a succession of admirable defendire proftions. Nevertheless, the French rearcorps sustained a series of repulses from the advancing evianes of the British. On one occasion, part of their troops were pressed so hard in flank, they were crosslog the Colra, that ther were driven back upon the bridge in eventurem, many if these being troubles down and drowned, so the diriness and server Lord Wellington, however was now compelled to relax his persoit, by the scarcit of protheton. The I ortaguese trucks, deut to of four required to be supplied from the limitsh store. A half was there fore preded, to give more for the arrival of forage and provident from the trar Lord Wellerten presimble fallowed the exemy with the curalry and light trusps, supported by two di turns. Man-sons, instend of fling turk on the tal finings and Almeida, determined a take up a strong position sear Guarda which is accusted on a strong mount sain, commanding the plans. The fiventh not see precing to be tracked in a situation a struct feel thought the pursuit over and ride ed to their rid lance & their construction, theref we was great, when they are five attacking ordered servelision canly appear on the different soles of the recents of and about at the securit. The save so he was surregly t the French presignately retreated without Bring a shot, as I rushed armen the Con-

Thus air on from finantia, they penetral is made a last ext ext on malatain thermore with midel in her. They were tree - y found along the haits of the si very the roy 1 that at the say year.

left at Sabugal, and the 8th corps at Alf wantes. Their left flink only was exposed. On the 3rd of April, the light division was ordered to cross the Coa, at a ford several miles above Sabugal, in the rear of General Regmer, who was to be attacked in front by the 3rd and 5th divisions, the 6th was to remain opposite Ruivina, and part of the 7th watched the budge of larrars. The div was dark and cloudy, and must, with storms of ram, confined the vision within a vard or two. An almost inipervious fog hid the light division after it had crossed the river, they drove in the enemy s picquets, and pursuing them, came unexpectedly upon the left of Regnier's main body, which they were The advance was draven back intended to turn upon the 43rd regiment, and Regimer, the mist dispersing, seeing the scanty numbers of the force opposed to him, sent against it a strong infantry column, with horse and irtiller. They were boldly repulsed, and Colonel Beekwith's brigade having advanced against the I renel, was attacked by a fresh column of infantry on the left, and a regiment of horse on the right. Beckwith was enabled to maintain his ground against mereasing numbers, by promptly returning behind some stone enclosures, by promptly retiring beaming some stone enclosures, he then charged successfully, captured an howitzer, but was compelled to retire by the French cavalry again advancing upon his flank. Beckwith, aided by the other brigade of the light division, returned to the attack. "In vain did Regnier bring forward." fresh and strongor columns, in vain did cavalry fall in upon the skirmishers of the 52nd, and cause a inomentary confusion, the fierce offorts of the ene my were all firmly repulsed, and the brave light division kept the howitzer, and still crowned the hill In this short and bloody struggle, the French lost more than "00 dead apon the greated and their wounded were very monroom. The likitish had only "00 tilled and womanded."

Regular was previous before send out his reserver, when the fifth when carried the bridge of failure hands took the road for the tild threaker of the track like reserver of the property of the road for Coulad Rodrige, and on the took the road for Coulad Rodrige, and on the old April, citered span. These were the trook of April, citered span. The word the trook of April, citered span. The word the trook of the trook o ranquished, and faul left half their menutes is her more lain-passer.

Yet away a ward to M seem the fitness of their manners of their menutes of their menutes of their menutes was necessarily as a second of their menutes of the definite desire of their menutes of the definite desire of the recognised to greater the different set for recognised as parties or season of their menutes of the recognised to produce parties of their menutes of their

Lord Wellington, "throughout this retreat, his been marked by a barbarity soldom equalled, and never surpassed Even in the towns of Torres Novas, Thomas, and Pernes, in which the headquarters of the corps had been for some months, and in which the inhabitants had been induced by promises of good treatment to remain, they were plundered, and many of their houses destroyed en the night the enemy withdraw from their position, and they have since burne I every town and village through which they passed" The town of Leyrin, with the Bishop's pilice, was sacked. The convent of Alcohrea, one of the most ancient and maginficont structures in the kingdom, shared the same fate. They like wise destroyed Butallia, the most Gothic building, not in Portugal alone, but almost in Europe, the royal tombs were broken open, and among the bodies taken out to be torn in pieces for the meckery of the reckless enemy, was that of Prince Hemy, the first patron of maritime disco-All human sympathy and compassionate feeling seemed extinguished in the breasts of these ruthless barbarians. The claims of igo and sex were both etat it rught. The murdered Portuguese lay unburied in the road, especially those of the priests, mutilated in the most disgusting manner "This is the mode," says Wellington with honourable indignation, "in which the promises have been performed, that were held out in the proclamation > of the French Commander-in chief, in which the mhabitants of Pertugal were assured, that he was not ceme to make war on them, but, with a powerful army of 110,000 men, to 'drive the English into the sea. It is to be hoped that the example of what has occurred in this country, will teach the people of this and other nations, what rehance is to be placed on such promises and a sucreme, and that there is no security for life, or for anything which rendera life valuatif except in decided resistance to the enemy " But this is a very imperfect description of the borrors caused by the French ; the extent of these were only revealed to these who me the cantonments is which they had remained for several months. They were such that a veil must be drawn ever them. In the dutriet of Coimbra abort, as Napier remarks, "Every horror that could mak was heless attended this dreadful march." On the Otth March, reinforcements sofficient t form a seventh division, moved from Singland. They had been embarted in Japanery ; but contrary which detained them till the 2nd March. Had if ey but arrived a month mener Level W Plant w mist alone mearly $,000 persons were murdered. In have carried on themive eperatures, before the

CHAPTER X.

Operations in the south west of Spain—Battle of Barrossa—Position of the British—Description of the neighbourhood of Lisbon—Massena a retreat—Battle of Albuera—Almeida—Battle of I uentes d Honore—Lord Wellington a movements—Proceedings in pain—Blockade of Ciudad Rodrigo—Affair at translate—Alden de Ponts—Lord Wellington a difficulties.

THE abandonment of Portugal by the French raised the expectations of the people of England, and added nower and weight to the government Lord Wellington's successes induced both Parliament and the country to resolve to enable him to carry on the war with vigour and energy. In consequence of the illness of George III, affairs were now directed by the Prince Regent, who continued in office his father's ministers Party spirit was however far from having died away, there were not wanting men who-though the honour and interest of the country were pledged to the Peninsular war, and the withdrawal of our troops would not only endanger the safety of this country, but cover it with disgrice-still urged that the contest should be abandoned-that Portugal was untenable-that the retirement to Torres Vedras was a proof of this, and equivalent to giving that country over to the French. Even when British valour and ability had driven Massena beyond the frontier, they alleged that this was only a feigned movement—a change of position from the Zezera to the Agueda, -so as to lead the British from their resources and ultimately crush them, when worn out, by numerical superiority Happily these views were held neither by the majority of Parliament, nor did they express the voice of the country : £100,000 were voted for the relief of the suffering Fertnesse and fare parato subscriptions raised for the same purpose; as which timely all the lives of themsubers preserved, many of whom fought in their country's cause, and contributed to repel the inveder 'in Partugal, Lord W llington is used a preclama a warning the propie to prepare gainst forther of forts of the French-recommending that each man about accustom himself to the new of arms—that places of safety and refuge be prepared in each detrict-that all valuables to conceated-and and sinces of proximos could not be recen indirector preted, destroyed. If these metrocures should be faithfull adhered to, be told them that be doubt would exist a to the i-we of the mainst.

After defeating it advantal from a record the sleys of Radyon with increased may It was garrisoned by 8,500 norn; but theneral Mensel a who had conducted the detence with mark story; was killed by a canara sind and be sweener wit a man of her beavery and decree at the tat he pla successfed in taking the place ; the gerroom nor produced as presente of war Cargo Marera

Allegurigue men fell Mennalule and spore over t & piece le the south west of huma. A count med but yet hereafted and British marchard worth of from Cites at men artison rescent were no trees a first better approached the north est can bress y aft it better excepted by the least of the best goods and face was commanded by fireness tasks as the six of the first and the six of tal irence was received of the advance In Prince cupe Graces I raine have that the taight at Burrows, which has b. I feel bill more the tort of the punition he largeducing some over that has troops, and lind gone but a little distance, when he found himself close upon the enemy, whose left division was seen ascending the hill of Barrossa, while their right stood on the plain exposed to artillery Retreat was impossible. Graham resolved. though unsupported by the Spaniards, and informer in numerical strength to the enemy immediately to attack the I reach who suffered considerably from a battery which opened upon their right division; still they continued to advance, but a bayonet charge drove them back with great slaughter similar conflict with the like speciesful issue took place with the other division on the ascent of the hill, both sides fought with courage, and both sides tained a great loss, the limits 1,200, the brench nearly double. The action fasted in hour and a half

During this engagement the Spiniards under La Pena, remained mactive, had they pushed on, Victor must have been compelled to retreat Graham was so emaged at this conduct that he crossed the Santi Petri next morning, resolving to proceed no farther During this period the marines and seamen succeeded in disminiting the sea defences of the enemy from Rota to Sinta Maria. Victor marched to Seville for reinforcements, leaving his force concentrated at Acres, and, in consequence of the supmeness of the Spaniards, the want of harmony and union among the French generals alone afforded to the British an opportunity of escaping serious peril. His own countrymen disgusted at La Pena's conduct, appointed a Court of Inquiry, who convicted him of incapacity and want of enterprise

The French, however, were now about to meet with more formidable opposition for Marshal Bereaford

188

as advancing with $2,000 men, directed to here the basis, before the partieon equid complete their defermen. He advanced on Campa Mapy which he reached by the Jah March 3 and from a height at the distances of a mile the Friench were abserted maning from the town, and having forming them when it is marching order while a convey of previsions and storre were seen approaching Had [as. Directed the Control of th of the county, while the 13th light strayment, under Colonel Head, with some aquadress of Portegreese caralty drive back the French horse apon the infantry, which halted, formed enjars, and com-pelled Head to retire. Doth parties had a favour-able present for the exercise of military at it. Colonel Head even captured part of the course but, wasting support, who ecompiled: I relationship to the norm, who persond the I greek in the with of Radjars, naturated consideration has been the of the canon. Hereafted now prepared serves the Omedians, which he did so a refu, and established that find quarters at a small a laye so the left of that fiver subers has troops were almost supprised by the French . He then took it venes. It sust lay the French. He then took it versa. So not be presented Licid Wellingto. In oil, previously, and solverdact a opportunity to red, previously, for its president section of the president section of the president section of the first presented assemble to the section of the first present of the present of fect, as the guns being of brass, were made useless by the firing in a few hours. Fresh artillery was ent for, but Soult's advance, at the head of a considerable force, compiled Beresford to relinquish the siege. Soult's object was to relieve Budajos, and he had drafted from various quarters large reinforcements. Nevertheless Beresford awaited him on the heights of Albuera. Of this buttle, important in itself and in its consequences we shall extract Colonel Napier's ammitted and picturesque account.

"The hill in the centre, commanding the Valverde road, was undoubtedly the key of the position, if an attack was made parallel to the front, but the heights on the right presented a sort of table land, bending backwards towards the Valverde road, and looking into the rear of the line of battle. Hence it was evident that, if a mass of troops could be placed there, they must be beaten, or the right wing of the allied army would be rolled up on the centre. and pushed into the narrow rivine of the Aroya The Valverde road could then be seized, the retreat cut off, and the powerful cavalry of the French would complete the victory. Now the right of the ullies, and the left of the French, approximated to cach other, being only divided by a wooded hill. about cannon shot distance from either, but separated from the allies by the Albuera, and from the French by a rivulet called the I ema This height, neglected by Beresford, was ably made use of by Soult. During the night, he placed behind it the artillery under General Ruty, the fifth corps under Girarde, and the heavy dragoens under Latour Maubourg, thus concentrating 15,000 men and 40 guns, within ten minutes' march of Beresford's right wing, and yet that general could neither sec a main, carely suddenly quitted Godinot's column, and crowing the ri er Alborra alors the Iride as-crowing the ri er Alborra alors the Iride as-cended the left lank at a piling, and sweeping round the rour of the 5th corps, joined latour Manbourg also was already in face of Londey's squadross. Thus half an hour land sufficed to reader Herroforcia position nearly desperate. Two thirds of the French were in a compact order of lattle so a lin perpendicular to his right, and the army described and composed of different nations, was not lin the difficult act of changing its front. It was in with that he endeavoured to form the Spanish line said clearly in advance to give room for the second di-violen to support it; the french gen spened; their infantry three out a heavy medicity and their caratry out-flanking the front and charging here and there, put the Sponlande mathematalli points; in a short time the Litter gave way are boult, thinking the whole army was pellorg, peaked forward his columns, while his receives the me under the hill, and tieneral fluty placed all the latteries in position. At this critical moment, Q peral Wanter Store art arrived at the fast of the beight, with Colonel Cultures a brigate which farmed the head of the 2nd division. The Colonel, meting the cost ones abore, desired to here in order of battle previous to meesting the servet | Lut berwart, where beautif

truring overlaid his judgment, led up suchest and day as relumns of companies, and attempted to open out his line in succession. The hazalone arrived at the surreit Heing under a discretion for the fremot charged by the seast them; but a heavy rate percent may abled from heavy de-investy ners, and four prepriets of known and factors came grouply; he spend the seast con-sistent as the committee of the seast of factors are the season of the seast of the entropy of the season of the seast of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the season of the season of the season of the entropy of the season of the entropy of the season of the seaso instant of its development, and slew or took two thirds of the brigade. One battallon only (the 31st) being still in column, escaped the storm, and maintained its ground; while the French horsemen, riding violently over every thing else, penetrated to all parts. In the timult a lancer fell upon Beresford, but the Marshal, a man of great strength, putting his spear aside, east him from his saddle, and a shift of wind blowing aside the mist and smoke, the mischief was perceived from the plains by General Limbey, who sent four squadrons out upon the lancers, and cut many of them off

"During this first unhappy effort of the 2nd division, so great was the confusion, that the Spamsh line continued to fire without cessation, although the British were before them, whereupon Boresford, finding his exhortations to advance fruitless, seized an ensign, and hore him and his colours by main force to the front, yet the troops would not follow, and the man went back again on being released. In this crisis the weather, which had ruined Colborno's brigade, also prevented Soult from seeing the whole extent of the field of buttle, and he still kept his heavy columns together. His cavalry, indeed, began to hem in that of the ailes, but the fire of the horse artillery enabled Lumley, covered as he was by the bed of the Arova, and supported by the fourth division, to check them on the plain, while Colborne still maintained the heights with the 31st regiment, the British artillory, under Major Dickson, was likewise coming fist into action, and William Stewart, who had escaped the charge of the lancers, was again mounting the hill with General Houghton's brigade, which he brought on with the same vehemence, but, instructed by his previous mislor-time in a junter of the relation of the control is a junter of the relation of the control is the control in the control is an extended and a deredial fire poored into the take of the Trench columns, convinced from the day was you to be you.

I to go the representation may be forting on the authority of the best part of the control in the control in

Destruction stared him in the face, his personal resources were exhausted, and the unhappy thought of a retreat rose in his agitated mind. Yet no order to that effect was given and it was urged by some about him that the day might still be redecined with the 4th division. While he hositated, Colonel Hardinge boldly ordered General Colo to advance, and their riding to Colonel Abercrombie, who commanded the remaining brighted of the 2nd division, directed him also to push forward into the fight. The die being thus cast, Beresford acquiesced, and this terrible battle was continued.

"The 4th division had only two brigades in the field, the one Portuguese under General Harvey; the other, commanded by Sir W. Myers, and composed of the 7th and 23rd British regiments, was called the Fusileer brigade. General Cole directed the Portuguese to move between Lumley's dragoons and the hall, where they were numediately charged by some of the French horsomen, who were beat off with great loss, meanwhile he led the Fusilcers in person up the height.

"At this time six guis were in the enony's possession, the whole of Werle's reserves were coming forward to reinforce the front column of the French, and the remnant of Houghton's brigade could no longer in matim its ground, the field was heaped with excusses, the lamers were riding furiously about the captured utility on the upper part of the hill, and on the lower slopes a Spanish and an English regiment in mutual error were exchanging volleys behind all, General Hamilton's Portuguese, in withdrawing from the heights above the bridge, appeared to be in retreat. The conduct of a few brave men soon changed this state of affairs. Colonel Robert Arbuthnot, pushing beteren the deaths fire of the missales troops are rested that inlaching a while Coke, with the Frailerer, flanked by a battakin of the Levizaian lepton under Cokonel Harbachuse moured the hill, dispersed the lancers, recurrent the entirely guns, and appeared on the right of Horgistan a brigade exastiy as Abercombie passed it on the

"Such a gallest line issuing from the milet of the sanche, and rapidly appearing limit from the confined and braken malistude. Intrict the preriy havy masses, which were horecastig and pressing curvaries as to an assured rictory, they a recruit heritard as the an assured rictory, they a recruit formal title and there number from all their artillery which the through the limitsh racks. Myres was tilled; followed as directly distributed through the limitsh racks. Myres was stilled; followed the limitsh racks, if in, full ready and Hawkasha a fed wounded and it of fundery buttleful, struck by the dress here peet, received an augment kine sinking ships. Rad lendy and wendy recovering they closed so their profile woman's and then was seen with what a strength and malwely the British andler of rice.

"In rail del North by released probers and make the Frencherro it is and it the hardsom otrains, extricting thermal in fron the error for clamma, accretive their is one or as the forforman hardsom the for- it is the fortherman their laws p, and for-cell with g intuitive formation of the for- it is the forlett remaining types from the fact, threaten forlowermen, to create go on the fact, threaten forcharge the sel markey from the trees of control a technical policiesty is madeline trees of conplesed values no nervous extension, read-out the stating of these refers from thems of a were bent on the dark columns in their front; their measured tread shook the ground; their dreadful volleys swept away the head of every formation, their deafening shouts everpowered the dissonant cries that broke from all parts of the tumultuous crowd, as foot by foot and with a horrid carriage it was driven by the incessant vigour of the attack, to the farthest edge of the hill. In vain did the 1 reach reserves, joining with the struggling multitude, endeavour to sustain the fight, their efforts only increased the inrendable confusion, and the mighty mass giving way like a loosened cliff, went headlong down the ascent. The rain flowed after in streams discoloured with blood, and 1,500 unwounded men, the remnant of 6,000 unconquerable British soldiers, stood triumplant on the fatal hill."

Lord Wellington reached the army some time after the battle of Albuers, and determined to renew the siege of Badajos. Breaches were made in the walls, and twoattempts at assault were hazarded (6th and 8th of June) but in vain, the advance of the French army from the north, in concert with that of the south, necessitated the rusing of the siege. Here ended the active operations of the year. Our army remained some time encamped in the central part of Portugal, after which, Lord Wellington marched northward, and threatened Ciudad Rodigo, but retreated before a superior force collected by the French

Lord Wellington had returned from the Alentejo, and fixed his head quarters at Villa 1 erinosa on the 28th of April. Massena, afterorganizing his army, and recovering it from the state of disorder into which it had been thrown by the retreat from Portugil, and being reinforced by 1,500 cavalry, con centrated his divisions near Canted Redorin, with the view of throwing supplies into Alaresta, and with his whole army errored the Appets and the Anava. Lord Wellington because of deficiency in earliery could not in this appears him and acceptlegly the bores and light infantry fell tack to isentes of licences. Massers had 60,000 foot, and $0,000 horse; Lerd Wellington had $0,000 foot, and $0,000 horse; Lerd Wellington had $0,000 foot, and had $0,000 horse; Lerd Wellington had $0,000 foot, and had $0,000 horse; her with the himself and the way of great consequence that Alares' is haded not be reflered.

At Almelia, the Con is a viver of considerable magnitude and from the temporous of its leaks, affords few points at which an area is an expectation of the lanks, affords few points at which an area is an expectation of the frequency of the frequency of the frequency as to be seen impossible, the student traje varieties about two fee grown ato. Almesda, so that we like an bott this was thereone a defertile recognization; there is the was a defent temporation of the other frequency of the frequency of the seen of the frequency of

A small there exist the D is those year pretterly perfy part of the Congress of Baile to stilling in term year until the his hard more ground to the pretter that he had been the Congress of the the pretter the property through the Congress of the the pretter the property through the pretter the property through the pretter than the pretter than unders Alari la al co-

troops were arranged behind the villago; which was occupied by Colonel Williamson's light infantry. In the same line with these divisions, on the left, and in the rear of Almenta, where is a bridge over the Duas Casas, were trenerals Craw-. ford and Campbell stationed General Pack's Portuguese I rigide with a british battalion, blockaded Almeids, the great road leading to which was guarded by Lishme's division. Two miles beyond the right of the line the guerila horse, under Don Juliun Sanchez, were posted in the village of Nava d'Aver, to add to the security derived by that flank from the difficulty of tho ground in the rear

On the 3rd May the French appeared in front of the position, and took up their ground on a ridgo above I unites d'Honore, almost parallel to that of the Bruish A skinnish ensued between the light troops, followed by a heavy enmonado, and a ficree attack on the village, which post Wilhimson gril uity defended, but as the enemy advanced in great numbers, it became necessary to support him successely with three additional regiments, these charged so severely, that the French were at length driven across the Dins Casas Night ended the contest, after 260 of the allies and a greater number of the French had

Next day Massen arrived, and having been joined by Bessieres with 1,200 horse and a battery of the imperial guard, spent the day in reconnoiring the British position, Wellington, anticipating that he would endeavour to turn his right by crossing the Duis Cisas, at Poço Velho, moved Houston's division to defend the passage of the river at that point Wellington's expectations

tallen

were jest. On the morning of the 6th Jures, eveps with the carning appeared in the element on the opposite side of the wall v of the least Casas; to strengthen this point N linguous sent the light division on and the exactry and letent moved the first and third division more to the right.

About seven a clock the rarmy draws in the lift.

tish advanced guard, and made themselves master of Poco Velbo ; their exestry under Monthess, having driven in the guerall horse made geret t charge supported by infantry and gum, force g the British carnity to retire behind the infustry wie opening a smart fire here'rd the was arts. The order of battle on the plane. And abe the partite chief had fallen back they wore enabled to form the right of the 7 h d mon, and charged it British envaley which had convent up to ruppers it, and who were compelled to withdraw before a papering force, after ros shock had been her ir men Houses a drawing, thus people as siron, to charged, and Captain Ramons Sorre arrivery was cut off mileurous, inch. It light do be on furthwith threw stoolf take oppares, it is in wall tody of the French cavarry was pron there cotter a am d parit tot t matern t to deligrorya blance were cut down, the great man of he trungs and firm, and it I sware thutangers, bet rue to Lind a lame will, governed in both to fire it is the courty propertied. The French squadered were more electrical to be to great electrical and at brotter offeren," say in play hard secur forms to sele see peaks where a third dust was picted a factory beat grown and the se the gal had and to Subag of the la between more occurrence Suddenly the multitude was violently agitated, an English shout arose, the mass was rent agitated, and Lorgian Shout aree, the mass was ten-asunder, and Norman Ramsay burst forth at the head of his battery, his horses breathing fire, and stretching like greyhounds along the plain, his guns bounding like things of no weight, and the mounted gunners in close and compact order protecting the tear" But while this brilliant action was passing in one part, the enemy were making progress in the wood, and a separation having been made between the English divisions, and the right wing nearly turned, Wellington's genius was demanded to ensure success by regaining the original position

Accordingly the 7th division was ordered to cross the Turones, and moved down to Frenada on the left bank of the river, the light division to retire over the plain, and the cavalry to protect the real The first and third divisions were withdrawn, and placed in line with the Portuguese along the steep, which runs perpendicular to the ravino of Fuentes d'Honore The utinost regularity characterized this retrograde movement, though the I rench cavalry strongly supported by artilicry, made repeated charges upon the retiring divisions Montbrun threatened to storm the light division squares, but held aloof in awo All this time the vast plain presented a most singular sight, "it was covered by what appeared a confused multitudo, amidst which the squares appeared but as specks, for there was a great concourse, composed of commissariat followers of the camp, servants, buggage, led horses, and peasants attracted by curiosity, and finally the broken picquets and parties coming out of the woods" As the troops took up their ground in the new line, the cavalry were thrown into some confusion in passing through the intervals. Montbron, taking advantage of this, ordered all his treepter design. To protect the Heighth divisions on the orderse. To protect the Heighth divisions on the of span. These instantly opened the year the of gam. These instantly opened sevent close wis five, and estified with this research handling likely terms troops retracted metabolic.

Meanwhile the 6th bronch corps made stream terms troops or gink increased likely the day this was those or a library stream time day this was those or a library stream
time day this was those or a library stream
to the day this was those or a library stream
to the day this was those or a library stream
to the day this was those or a library stream
to the day this was those or a library stream to the day the protection of a library stream to the desired the protection of a library stream of these groups of the stream
of these groups of the stream
to the defended the place of the protection of the protection of the day of the stream to the defended the place of the library stream to the day of the stream
to the court of the stream
to the court of the stream
to the day of the stream
to the

the lower part of the village was abandoned to the silent possession of the dead, the British keeping the chapel and crags, and the French returng to the distance of a cannon shot beyond the stream. This hard fought buttle, cost the British about 1,700 and the I reach in rethin 4,000 men. The neighbourhood of the village, the lines, church, contyards, and garden, were hereally covered with the dying and the dead.

Messens saw then urther attempts would be van During the 6th, unbroken tranquility prevailed in both lines, and on the 7th, the literal were withdrawn from the front of the alhed position. Orders were secretly conveyed to the Covernor of Almerda to blow up the works, and escape across the Agueda, with his guirison. On the same day, Marshal Marmont arrived, and superseded Massial Marmont arrived, and superseded Massial Marmont arrived.

вепа

Massena, whose name had be for a been considered as the "watchword of victory, here concluded his services with sulfied fame. Age had frozen the activity and vigour of his prine, vet on the morning of the 5th, his judgment and skill seemed unimpaired, he attacked the British position in its vulnerable point, and his temporary success placed the English in a more danger ans situation than any luring the war. But he taled in all his other movements, and neglected to improve his advantage, though he had the superiority in every kind of force, and had advintage of the ground, while the British were exposed I and Wellington again displayed great genus—a skill, sagaci v, and confidence which shewed him to be a tretician of the first rank lle knew that his original line was too extended but the communication with Sabugal was too important not to be struggled for, at least so long as it did not divert him from his main object of covering Almoda. When the evern movement rendered it necessary for his to one centrate his army he at once retingueled the prefable line of communication, relying on his was skill and the bravers of his soliton, as a relative to the control of a retreat. Hencing bravel a result the coccessity of a retreat. Hencing bravelar succeeded in biswing up part of the works of Aboel lat. Leftere General Camplell, who was sent his arbitrates, arrived; not also in repicion the bravels army, but with the laws of "No of his axes, and its officers, who were made presents.

rection of the operations in the Cuelum. The divisions detacted f on the porthern array parts up in a few da | | and on the "th, if a piece was completely in exect. On the "out the treates were opered and on the six I have a break was made in Fort to Christian. The fill of a night the place was assaulted; it is through a pole take of the engineers, the attack fully The dish had not been around of beat was duly 1 garrison had been accupant to remon up the morth and publish from the total and of the each author seven feet of the all come of he The and I ants could not supposent that to wir t it fo hat dere were to start, at I though the see gilla tip strengted the will, the west and as given toy all the which tasts got pent were above which tasts and the standard with the standard to the st darrage patter ! If their aunt a had turn, & on sparty retroit to the state actions the free mittel after amount and a the s the truck and almost on the party of the truck and the party of the truck and the party of the truck of the party of the p

The enemy had thrown in reinforcements, and the leader of the "Enfans perdus" was killed Still the troops pressed on, but the same cause which had rendered their efforts vain on the former occasion, operated also in this, and they were compelled to retire, after losing nearly two thirds of their force

On the 10th, an intercepted letter from Soult to Marmont was brought to I ord Wellington, from which it appeared that those generals had determined to unito their forces, and advance against him. He therefore converted the siege of Badajos into a blockade. He also learned that Druet's eorps of 8,000 men was on its way to join Soult, that Marmont had put his army in motion towards the south, and that Soult was gone to Marida, to meet lum Lord Wellington therefore prepared to fight Soult, should be advance to relieve Bidajos, but as he had formed a junction with both Druet and Marmont, Lord Wellington crossed the Guadiana, and took a line on the Caya, protected on the right by Elvas, and on the left by Campo Mayor The invading army numbered 70,000 men, of which 10,000 were cavalry, while Lord Wellington had only 56,000, including Spencer's corps, and 4,000 horse, for such was the unhealthness of the elimate, that more than 12,000 British were in hospitals The Portuguese troops, ill paid and supplied, had fallen sadly out of discipline

Lord Wellington therefore determined, though he would not shun a battle, not to invite it He restricted himself, accordingly, to the defence of Portugal, and formed an encampment in the woods, along the banks of the Caya, which was commanded by Sir Rowland Hill, the left under Pieton, was posted on the heights in the rear of Campo

All this while the Cortes, instead of sp leaveur-All time with the corres, measure a parents ing to take active measures, wasted most precise time in modess wrangings, and apeculative securities to the second security of the second s duals had little wright throughout the country I for in most cases, their interference produced mech more harm than good.

Lord Wellington having collected his array on the Cas, resolved to blockade Chalad Rolling The enemy hastened to concentrate their fares for its rehet, by which the English command a for its rebef, by which the English commonly called two Important blyces (scalleds was freed from the common and the 1 work cores with the second scalleds). Freed cores we first been seen that of very sor pat down the peach in the seen when they told the provinced make help to the common and the peach of the common and per prepared to heave and festivant and common the common and per prepared to heave the prepared on heave the prepared of the prepared of the common that the common the prepared to the common the common that the common the common that t whereby he might keep up a strong a trussell orth as long as possible h strongtheast by first and as long as possible is strengthened by fluid work the heights helver Garatis, and arranged he trucpes I such a manufer policy descently the might be really concentrated in that proceedings to granulosed I growth force new gamestance to proceed the processing of the processing to the processing the process The evaluated 1 years force your garacterist of 10 to 00 treats of 0.00 of shi an even a section of 10 to 000 treats of 0.00 of shi an even a section of 10 to 10 treats of 10 to 10 treats of 10 to 10 treats of 10 their tradiction.

The allied army still remained in its position, and Marmont had no certain knowledge of the intentions of the English commander On the 25th, twenty squadrons of French cavalry, with a division of infinitry and twelve guns, were seen in motion along the great road leading to Gumaldo To meet these General Colville's brigade had scarcely takon up its position, when the enemy s guiss opened a fierce cannonade, and the envalry succeeded in driving back the Portugueso gunners from their posts. Their success lasted but a moment for the 5th regiment, pouring in a brisk fire as they advanced, made a bayonet charge when within a few yards of the enemy, the guns were regained, and the French cavalry chased down the slope of the height, and across the ravine. The French, however, again charged the position of the 5th and 77th regiments, but being met by a volley within a few prees, were driven off in confusion. In another part of the field, a few British and German equatrons of dragoons successfully opposed greatly superior numbers, but Lord Wellington having no desire that a general engagement should then take place, had ordered the divisions if hard pressed so retire on Guina'do, a measure which was hastened by the sudden appearance of a column of French, who, had by the inequality of the ground, had almost succeeded in turning the British right Orders were therefore issued that the heights should be abandoned. As the troops proceeded, they were repeatedly changed by the French cavalry, who were on each occasion defeated. At one time two regiments were charged on three faces of the square at the same moment, but these, along with a Portuguese regiment, though repeat edly enveloped by the hostile cavalry, steadily con ti wed to retreat. Lord W. Hington, whose per-pose in fortifying Gunnido had been fully sonwer-ed, would now but for various circumstacres, one of which was a mistake in trabustic orders t of which was a messas in transmitter tracer is the light division, have a bandened it. Fixen and Col. new stationed there to protect the junction of Crawford a force; and depositions were made to receive Magmont, should be violated a stack the position. The whole of or telay lamever be remained quiet, occupying humarif in a triog his troops through a arrey of military y letera, which they performed with such a schross and pergularit, to the Installed of the United.

Lord W Hingam now w therew her army to A'teyates, for any his rear guard. A film de l'hair.

Rust day the enemy tached the if ye af these streenled in groung it, lot were hair driven tack by the 4 h ds man, who re-mand differe lack by the 4b de most, who press and masters of their questig one. At right, the lath returnd father lack to general rate height hypoid. Since, where the world of 1 = Cas give procedure to 4b de 1. Here Level W. E. yas he in, at an and traying gam, 1, of red to on; but though the position was strong and best feature as we have becomed, secured. I false was as we have becomed, secured. as only which perm that retreat, and had the country galdred, their success search he has fitted better 11 littled. M reseate he y returned he had better 11 littled. M reseate he was an extensive distinction, non of but with a see reserved. th bitman, man of both wit it is not provinced the most. I will be all own one year has the provinced that the provinced former. The fit have a reach, the treat quart to be go French to have been been been able to be positive to a more of the former bearing that the most not be able to be a fit of the provinced to be able to be neglected their duty, the regency uttered no pro-clamations to call upon the people to bestir them-selves, the bridges on the line of retreat were left unrepaired, so that the roads were nearly impassa-ble, and as the rainy season was centing on the army was placed in scrious danger. The Pertu-guese pleaded it docks that they had no money for these operations which, if true, was entirely owing to their ewn negligence, for, with the exception of the devistated districts, the people were richer than they had ever been, not in goods, but in hard cash, derived from the great expenditure of the British army. Thus were Weilington's hands hampered, and difficulties he ipid upon him, be-sides the men resisting a greatly superior force, neither necessity nor remuneration could obtain for him adequate assistance and supplies.

neither necessity nor remineration could obtain for him adequate assistance and supplies—while Marmont and his generals had only to issue orders to the Spaniards through the prefects of the provinces, if they wished to be punctually provided with transports or other help.

A not this saying is recorded of Lord Wellington as he was preparing to quit Ciudad Rodnigo. A Spanish General, of great zeal and gallahtry, to whem the British hero was much attached, observed to him,—"Why here you have a couple of weak divisions in front of the whole French army, and you seem quite at your ease,—it is enough to put any man in a fever "—"I have dene according to the very best of my judgment, all that can be dene," said Wellington, "therefore I care not either for the enemy in front, or for anything which they may say at home." This is an illustration of the whole character of this great man, always to make the best of present circumstances.

and means, to see all foresight and prairre and then leave the leave to Providence.

The sely other initiator operations of evenquences performed by the Bright irreps la 1813 was a daring enterprise of figure and Hill's. At Arrays de M. Taos, he surprised by a rapid partia lody of 2,000 mee, who were incremending Cotation in his efforts to orientee an array in 1. tramadura; committed great has ce among them, taking 1,500 prisonors, with all their artillery stores, and language.

CHAPTER XI

5) or not Captered Child Ho promoting of Publish Conservations between hint and Somewhat to technique of American Section of the London Section of the London of Landon Section of American page 18 percentages of Landon Marieta Alarest page 18 percentages of Landon Marieta Children and Landon Section of Landon Section of Landon Section of Landon Marieta Section of Landon Section of Landon Marieta Section of Landon Section of Landon Section of Landon Section Section of Landon Section Section

Watta the drop was by a read-consens, that it littless active twice to compare the first properties of the properties are the properties and the properties are the properties and the properties are and processing acts to be constituted to each different but present process in the compared with the construction of a little of the consequent to the present that of the consequent the presentation of a little of the consequent to the presentation of a little of the consequent to the presentation of a little of the consequent to the attached, were allotted to the different parts of the army. Another method of approved conveyance was effected by the engineer force, the Douro was made navigable to the confluence of the Algueda, a point forty miles higher than boats had before been able to proceed. By this much land carriage was saved, at a period when all available means of transport was needed to carry the battering train required for the siege of Ciudad Rodrigo.

So well satisfied was Marmout that this fortress was in no danger, that he remained perfectly quiet in his cantoniccuts on the Tagus Perhaps General Hill's activity in the south of Estramadura, made him suppose that a large part of the British army had been sent to the Alentijo Under this impression he suffered his forces to be much divided Montbrun was sent to Valencia, Bonnet to the Asturias, and Dabreton to the district of Las

Montanas

Lord Wellington, thoroughly acquainted with all these proceedings, resolved in-tunity to lay siege to Ciudad Rodine Tascines and Gabions were prepared, and by the 6th of January, 1812, overy thing was ready for the attack. A bridge had been laid down at Salices, the stores brought up, and the place already surrounded by the light The head quaters were removed to Gallegos, and on the 7th Lord Wellington, attended only by Colonel Fletcher and a few officers, forded the Algueda, and reconnoured the defences investment was fixed for the following day Four divisions were appointed for the siege, no camp equipage was taken with them, and as the ground was open and afforded no cover, they took up their quarters in the nearest villages, one division, car rying a day's provision ready cooked, it was ar razerd absold ford the sirrer every it only four boars, and thus alternately every so the works. The first object was to spirrer a redoubt alterate or the upper Titon, which, after some trouble and loss, was fireted. Ground as immediately brok a upon its flash and, though the soil was stony, by daylight the with was three feet deep and four wile. On the 5th, 1,200 workmen commenced three betteries for leven guns each under a heavy fire of shells and graps. He fore the ne t merning the labourers were under co and a datch sunk in thousers were sender to any a nation suar in fresh to pro it earth for the learners every made eighteen feet there it top it result be very power, and actilizery of the beauged. I said up the did fileds laboured in the trenches a speech to a beauty for and by sight the removant is from the pure of the the pure of the the pure of the these senders. after the magazinesta had theres were raral il. and the approact re I and, but the fire was den tracts. At we bit came so fact it the direct he from that the traces were mithern and the otherwise reso the same. Machilea was care tained by mal on of help with hery force whene a thicknesses glosing ert by the purpotation remarkation manner. The French also knowl her there there is been for a mean per per u.by. I him ty mean be so him of a wearla. During the night Lit programmatical authors ther a specifical to the samp from truck play p. U that of the 12th the movement of franchises an exerciand a Litymers Corted to H. Lard D Lugt a alconomisano a capacidi in i inal am I a place I be roud of thorother I decuted we a a pare question, he optice to the course to the course tends to the course to the co storm without blowing up the counter scarp. The whole army was brought up from the distant quarters, and posted in the villages on the Coa, prepared if necessary to cross the Algueda, and give battle. On the 14th the French made a sally and over-

On the 14th the 1 reach made a sally and over-turned the galacius of the sap, they even pene-trated to the parallel, and had nearly entered the batteries, when a few workmen collected and kept them back till support came, and thus saved the guns. This accident, together with the death of the engineer on duty, and the fire kept up from the ramparts, delayed the opening of the breaching-batteries until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when a canonade from twenty five heavy pieces commen-ced upon the 'fausse brave," and the rampart, two pieces being likewise pointed against the convent of St. Francisco 'Then," says Napier, "was beheld a spectacle at once fearful and sublime. The enemy replied to the assailants fire with more than 50 guns, the bellowing of 80 large cannon shook the ground far and wide, the smoke rested in heavy volumes upon the battlements of the place, or curled in light wreaths about the numerous spires, the shells, hissing through the air, seemed fiery serpents leaping from the dickness, the walls erashed to the stroko of the bullet, and the distant mountains faintly returning the cound, appeared to mourn over the falling city. And when night put an end to the turnion, the quick elatter of muskerry was heard like the peltering of had after a peal of thunder, for the 40th regiment assaulted and carried the convent of St. Francisco, and established itself in the suburb on the left of the attack." Next day so much impression was made on the ramparts that the breach was commenced at the turret, and five more guns were mounted In the 16th, operations went vigorously forward, though a thick for exmewent rigorousy forward, month a thek for exme-no, the small breach had been opened and the place was sen moted, without effect. A slarp for a musketry wa kept p at sight sgainet the great herach; and the riference of the 1 ght division, from hereach; and the reference of the 1 ght division, from the pitts and off the service. Next if pitts and off the pitts are considered in the pitts are considered in the consid lattering game directed guest the actionry of his FAMILATE. The arrangements of mana re f man

The arrangements of some restriction of the some of the some restriction of th g tribs. I not to flast a thought or f tribs innite a thought or f tribs innite a thought or f tribs innite a tribs and the notification of the tribs are visited tribs and the tribs are visited tribs and the tribs are visited to the tribs and fact that the tribs at the tribs and tribs are tribs and tribs are produced tribs the tribs and tribs are produced tribs the tribs are produced tribs the tribs are produced tribs the tribs are produced tribs and tribs are tribs are tribs are tribs and tribs are tribs are tribs are tribs are tribs and tribs are trib

"All the troops reached their different posts without seeming to attract the attention of the memy; and before the signal was given, as Lord Wellington, who in person had been pointing out the lesser breach to Major Napier, was still at the convent of St Fruicisco, the attack on the right commenced, and was instantly taken up along the whole him. Then the space between the army and the ditch was covered with soldiers, and ravaged by a storm of group from the request. by a storm of grape from the ramp ats The storming parties of the 3rd division jumped out of the parallel when the first shout are c, but so ripid had been the movements on their right, that before they could reach the ditch, Ridge, Dunken, and Campbell, with the 5th, 77th, and 94th regiments, had already scoured the 'fausso brive,' and were pushing up the great breach, amidst the bursting of shells, the whisting of grape and muskets, and the shrill cross of the Prench who were driven fighting behind the intrenchments. There however they rallied, and aided by the musketry from the houses, railied, and aided by the muskerry from the houses, made hard buttle for their post—none could go back on either side, and yet the British could not get forward, and men and officers, falling in heaps, choked up the pissage, which from minute to innute was raked with grape, from two guns, flanking the top of the breach at the distance of a few yards, thus striving and trampling alike on the dead and the wounded these brave men maintained the combat.

"Meanwhile the stormers of the light division, who had three hundred yards to clear, would not wait for the hay bags, but with extraordinary swiftness running to the crest of the glacis, jumped down the scarp, a depth of eleven feet, and rushed up the 'fausse braye' under a smashing discharge of grape

216 LIFE OF THE
and intricate, and the forform hope (seek too much
and intricate), and the forform hope (seek too much to the breach, which was no contracted that a gue hased keepthwise across the top hourly blocked up these opening. Here the forform bops rejolated the stormers, but been two thirds of the ascent were galood, the leading mea, crushed topecher by the surrowness of the place, suggered under the weight of the enemys first and such is the instinct of eigledefence that although no man had been allowed to lead, every mostler in the crowd was sumpped.
The commonder Major Napher was at this moment stricken to the carrie by a grape about which state the had been to the carrier of the surrowness of the their hap overta, and all the softerers simultaneously syrong to the front, when the harpy was rewend with a furforce shout, and the switnness was girbed.
The supporting regiments coming up is sections, abreast, then reached the rampour, the 55 and wheeled to the left, the 43cd to the right, and the place was abreast, then treached the rampour, the 55 and wheeled to the left, the 43cd to the right, and the place was une. During this content which letter donly is for minuter, after the fausee bray was passed the filling had continued at the green breach with minutes, after the farmes bray was passed the fighting had continued at the great breach with unalized violesco, but when the 42rd, and the stormers of the light divident, cames pouring down upon the right flank of the French, the latter best before the storm; I the some moment, the ex-plosion of three wall magazines destroyed many persons, and the 3rd d islon with a might effort broke through the unreachments. The garrison indeed still fought for a moment in the treets, but dividy field to the eastle where Mr. Gorswook, who, though womended, had been arounged the foremost at the breach received the Gorcenor's award. "The affice has plugged this but be street from all quarters, for O'Toole's attack was also successful, and at the other side of the town, Pack's Portuguese, meeting no resistance, land entered the place, and the reserves also came in. Then throwing off the restraints of discipline, the troops committed frightful excesses. The town was fired in three or four places, the soldiers increed their officers, and shot each other, many were killed in the market-place. Intoxication soon increased the tunnit, disorder every where prevailed, and at last, the fury rising to an absolute midness, a fire was walfully lighted in the middle of the great magazine, when the town and all in it, would have been blown to atoms, but for the energetic courage of some officers and a few soldiers who still preserved their senses.

"Of the French, 300 had fallen, 1,500 were made prisoners, and besides the immunise stores of amminition, above 150 pieces of artillery, including the battering trum of Marinont's army, were captured in the place. The whole loss of the allies, was about 1,200 soldiers and 90 others, and of these about 650 men and 60 officers had been slain or hurt at the breaches. General Crawford and General Mikimon, the former a man of great ability, were killed, and with their died many gallant men General Vandalem, Colonel Colborne, and a crowd of inferior rank, were wounded, and unhappily the slaughter did not end with the battle, for the next day as the prisoners and their escoit were marching out by the breach, an accidental explosion took place, and numbers of both were blown into the air."

The capture of Ciudad Rodrigo was undoubtedly a most brilliant and important exploit. It was ta-

* Napier a Peninsular War Vol VI

seems of Soult's corps of $5,000 men. It was probable that if he united with Marmont, who had a mitch stronger force at command, a battle would take place for the relief of the fortress. The preparations at head-quarters were now completed after much assertion on the part of Lord Welling ton, who, in consequence of the inactivity of the Portugoese authorities, had personally to superiord and arrange even the mest infunite details.

Lord Wellington, in company with the consumulation of the control of the control well may be under the consumer of the control of the contro

the outworks strongly finished, and a portion of the the outworks strongly finished, and a portion of the scredate covered by an unpassable numblishes. The castle was so strong, that it sectored impossible re-gularly to attack it; for the Drittsh army had no mortars nor miners, and the suppers were without to the number and weight of those mounted on this self-armed and pro kied fortrees, the protection to the number and weight of those mounted on this self-armed and pro kied fortrees, the protection of which had anceceratily repulsed too former at tempts, with much fower resources and a lews steady parties than the had now at command. It was plain that against a regular took he was re-current it remained to be seen whether the could curs it remained to be seen whether he could resist the courage and re-orderino of the British. On the 17th the weather before fine, became cold and temperature. He had been dead in terrents during the afternoon and through the night; this becurity was taken advantage of by the English, who broke ground within 130 yard of Fort Fiel-rian. The whole of sext day the trope laboured in the trenches, exposed to a heavy camenada from the town, which bewerer had little effect. The gurison raised the pumpets of La Pédrian, liked

One datachment of 200 to puse round the flank of the work, and force the gorge 3 another of equal strength to march upon the communication with the town, and leaving one half of its numbers to meet the advance of any ancistance that might be sun, and to support with the remainder the movement on the gorge 3 and a received to the movement on the gorge 3 and a received to the one of the form the form of the force of the work of the force of the work of the force of the work, but were revised by the dopth of the dicks, and the shading stakes which against the face of the work, but were revised by the dopth of the dicks, and the shading stakes which summonized the bruke work. A the combast tilek surmounted the brick work. A the combat thick surmounted the brick work. A the combat thick send and became more desperials, the suremy firing with deadly effect, the reserve was ordered to rost an the fort, and a force conflict assured, for a battalian was despatched from the town to sid it, but was beaten tack by the party on the communication. "The gross of Hadisha, and of the castle are opened the grant of the trunches replied with numbertry, rockets were thrown up by the bestered, and the shrull scould of stars belief, mixing with the shouts of the combatants iscreased the templt. Still La Fledrina sees out streams of fire by the light of which, dark figures were seen feriously struggling on the reaspears ; for the reservaires secaladed the front where the artillery had besten down it pales; and the other scallants had throw their laiders on the flanks in the manner of bridges, from the brink of the dich to the sharing sinkes, and all were fightle hand to knot with the enemy remaintle the answord of the light division, com-passing the fort, discovered the give and baving it down, broke in by the rear" Sull the struggle continued several British officers fell wounded, on, or beyond the runparts, one was that two yards from the gate, and several had fallen outside. It was not till more than half the garrison were slain that the command out with 86 men surreidered, while some, who had rushed out of the gate, were drowned in attempting to cross the mundation. The total loss on the part of the British amounted to 200 men. The capture of La Pieurina enabled the British to establish their second parallel with comparatively little loss, on the 26th three breaching-batteries opened within 300 yards, and General Leith's division arrived at Livas four days after, and also joined the camp before Bridgias. On the morning of the 5th of April, the breaches were reported practicable, and in the large one, a wide opening was made.

Does not well in the saw that no time must be lest in case of Soult's advance, and who was aware that Marmont was menacing the frontier of Beira, was at fir' anxious that the assault should be made that same evening, but upon examining the fortress, he suspected that there were interior and formidable intrenchments. The attack was therefore deferred for twenty four hours, which were occupied in directing a very heavy fire against the old wall of the curtain between the two brevelies, so as to make another, by which the intrenchments might be turned. Under the fire of the united batteries, the masonry of the old curtain crumbled away, and a third brevel was made. Orders were given for the assault, which was appointed for 10 o'clock on the night of the 6th. The following was the outline of the plan. Picton with the 3rd division, to attempt the-eastle by escalade, the 4th and light di visions, under Collville and Barnard, to storm the bruches in the bastime of La Trindickla, Santa Marks, and in the connecting curtain; Leith with the 5th to sexhaled the rampurt near the western gate; Walker with the left brigade, to feign an attack on the Four Furchieros, convertible, under Larournble electrostances, Into a real one; and Power with the Portuguesse division, to threaten the stee dis post and the other works on the right of the Gazdances.

or the translate.

"The sight was dey but olouded, the air thick with watery chilakatons from the rivers, the ram parts and treebee uncomaily still yet a low murpare pervaded the latter and fat h former lights ware seen to fill been and there while the deep roless of the sencinels at times proclaimed that all was well in Badalou.

White Indiagon.

The French, conditing to Philippon's directle of the sattle of the state of the sattle of the sat

"Former fallans there were to average and on other side such such as a left no extruse for weak were in the hear of trial; and the possession of ladajon was become a point of homer, persons with the soldiers of each miner. But the strong desire for glosy was in the hirthan, dashed with a batter of the retilers on as old grad - and recent toll and hardably, with much spilling of blood, had not made many therefolds as yet for these things.

bridge, under a terrible musketry and then re-form ing, and running up the regred hill, had reached the foot of the easile, when he foll severely wounded and being sarried back to the trenches, met Picton, who hastened forward, to take the command. who hastened forward to take the command-likenable his troops spraading along the frost, respect their beary saiders, some against the lofty cattle, some against the adjetting frost on the left, and with incredible conveys accorded analyst and with incredible conveys as the conveys abeliar rolled of the property of the conveys abeliar rolled of the property of the conveys the history of the fact the conveys of the conveys abeliar rolled of the mandey with a fearful repility and in fruit, with pitters and beyoners, stabling the bealing assistants, or probe the halders from the write I and all this attended with descript abouts, and the created to treating halders, and the shriptian of created soldiers and early to the stillers are for the fattler arieties.

and the errand of treating failures, and the surrous of erousined soldiers answering to the sulfue struke of the failing weights recorded the remaining Ladders, these medianted velocines arrive who should first elimbi until all being overturned, the Presch abouted Victory and the British, Laffied but untained fell back few pares, and took belies under the roughed edge of the half. Here when the broken annia were conswhat re-formed the hereoft Colonel lides, springing forward, called, with a stationian vice, on his men to follow and setting a hadder once more rareed it against the castle, yet to the right of the former attack, where the wall was fower, and an embrasaire offered some facility. A sectod builder was soon pinned slooppids of th first, by the and folighe wore on the rampart, the shooting trooppressed after them, the gurrison americal said in a names expressed were deliver fighting through the deadled gits loto the town, and the exatte was were

A reinforcement, sent from the Trench reserve, then came up, a sharp action followed, both sides hard through the gate, and the enemy retired, but Ridge fell, and no man died that night with more glory—yet many died, and there was much glory—"During these events, the tumnit at the breaches was such as if the very earth had been rent asunder, and its central fires were bursting upwards uncontrolled. The two divisions had reached the glacis, just as the firing it the castle had commenced, and the firsh of a single musket discharged from the covered was as a signal, showed them that the French were ready, yet no stir was heard, and darkness covered the breaches Some has packs were then thrown, some ladders were placed, and the forlorn hopes and storming parties of the light division, above 500 in all, had descended into the ditch without opposition, when a bright flame shooting upwards, displayed all the terrors of the seeme The rumparts erowded with dark figures and glittering arms, were seen on the one side, and on the other, the red columns of the Binish deep and broad, were coming on like streams of burning lava, it was the touch of the magician's wand, for a crash of thunder followed, and with incredible violence the storming parties were dashed to pieces by the explosion of hundreds of shells and powder-brirels

"For an instant the light division stood on the brink of the ditch, am ized at the terrific sight, then, with a shout that matched even the sound of the explosion, flew down the ladders, or disdaming their aid, leaped, reckless of the depth, into the gulph below, and nearly at the same moment, amidst a blaze of musketry that dazzled the eyes, the 4th division came running in, and descended with a like fury. There were, however, only five to storm.

indders for both columns, which were close together; and a deep cut made in the bottom of the ditch, as far as the counter-guard of the Trinkind, was filled with water from the invadation; into the water, same the head of the 4th division fell and it is said that above 100 of the Fraileers (the men of Alburra) were amothered. These who follows de, checked not, but as if such a divertor had lowed, checked not, but as if such a disawer lead been expected, turned to the left, and thus came upon the face of the unfluished ravelle, being rough and broken, was mistaken (which left) and the left and the man is the wide and deep chana as satill between bleam and the ramparts, from where even a deadly first wasting their rasks. Thus besided, they also consumered a rapid decharge of meakerty and discovered a rapid decharge of meakerty and discovered in the left of the left of

to storm.

"Great was the confusion, for now the rarelin was crowned with men of both di know, and white some continued to fire others jumped shows and rate from the treatment of the continue of the continue of the continue of the continue of the treatment of the Trindded the two distors got mixed, and the reserves, which should he remuleed at the quarries, also came pouring in, wuilt the dilich was quite filled, the true till crowding forward, and all cheering betwenty. The exemp a shoots also were loud and terrible; and the berning of shrike and greasder the roarting of the grows from the Sank, answered by the iron hownzers from the battery of the parallel, the heavy roll and horrid explosion of the powder barrels, the whizzing flight of the blazing sphinters, the loud exhortations of the officers, and the continued clatter of the muskets,

"Now a multitude bounded up the great breach made a maddening din as if driven by a whirtwind, but across the top glittered a range of sword blides, sharp pointed, keen edged on both sides, and firmly fixed in ponderous beams, which were channed together and set deep in the ruins, and for ten feet in front the ascent was covered with loose planks, studded with sharp iron points, on which the feet of the foremost being set the planks moved, and the unhappy soldiers, falling forward on the pikes, rolled down upon the ranks behind Then the Trenchmen, shouting at the success of this stratagein, and leaving forward. leaping forward, plud their shot with terrible rapidity, for every man had several muskets, and replace, for every ment that several musicus, and cach musice, in addition to us ordinary charge, contained a small cylinder of wood stuck full of leaden slugs, which scattered like hall when they they were discharged

"Again the assailants rushed up the breaches, and again the sword blades, numoveable and unpassable, stopped their charge, and the hissing shells and thundering powder barrels exploded unceasingly Hundreds of men had fallen, and hundreds more were dropping, but still the heroic officers called aloud for new trials, and somotimes followed by many, somotimes by few, ascended the ruins, and so furious were the men themselves, ruins, and so furious were the men themselves, that in one of these charges, the rear strove to push the foremost on to the sword-blades, willing to make a bridge of their writhing bodies, but the others frustrated the attempt by dropping down; and men fell so fast from the abot, that it was hard to know who went down tollmatrily and a be were stricken; and many steeped nature that nover see again. Vain also it would have been to break through the sworth blades, for the tranch and parapat behind the break were finished, and the availants, crowded even int a marrower space than the dittel was, would still have been separated from their ensembles, and the alaughter would have combined.

"At the beginning of this dreadful conflict, Colonel Andrew Barnard had with prodictions of forts separated his division from the other and preserved some degree of military array; but how the tumult was such that no command could be heard distinct: xeeps by those close at hand, and the mutulated careames beaped on each other and the monitated careaved neeped on each other and the wounded, struggling to avoid being tram-pled upon, broke the formations; order was im-pedible? I of officers of all stations, followed more or loss numerously by the men, were seen to start out, as if struck by a seddent madness, and real-late the breach, which; withing and gillitering with into the breach, which y ming and gilltering with steel, seemed like the smouth of some large dragon belching forth smake and flame. I one of these attempts, Colonel Mactered of the 43rd, a young man, whose freshe body would have been quite and for as I if had see been available by an successory and the steel of the steel of the raise was heartly, there his sodient gathered, and with such trong resolution did he lead them sey he fatal relate, that when one bettind kim, in fall-ing planned a beyond finds his back, he complished and, and, continuing his curres was abec dead within a yard of the sword-blades. But there was no want of gallant leaders, or desperate followers

"Two hours spent in these vain efforts convinced the soldiers that the breach of the Trinidad was impregnable, and as the opening in the curtain, although less strong, was retired, and the approach to it impeded by deep holes, and cuts made in the ditch, the troops did not much notice it after the partial fadure of one attack which had been made early. Gathering in dark groups, and leaning on their muskets, they looked up with sullen desperation at Trinidad, while the enemy, stepping out on the ramparts, and aiming their shots by the light of the fire-balls which they threw over, asked, as their victuus fell, why they did not come ento Badagos ?

"In this dreadful situation, while the dead were lying in heaps, and others continually falling, the wounded crawling about to get some shelter from the merciless fire above, and within a sickening stench from the burnt flesh of the slain, Captain Nicholas, of the engineers, was observed by Mr Shaw, of the 43rd, making meredible efforts to force his way with a few men, into Santa Maria bastion Shaw having collected about 50 soldiers of all regiments, joined him, and although there was a deep cut along the foot of this breach also, it was instantly passed, and these young otheers at the head of their gallant band, rushed up the slope of the ruins, but when they had gained two thirds of the ascent, a concontrated fire of musketry and grape, dashed nearly the whole dead to the critical Nicholas was mortally wounded, and the intrepid Shaw stood alone! After this no further effort was made at any point, and the troops remained passive, but unfiniching, beneam the enemy's shot, which streamed without intermination; for, of the rillsmen on the glacis, many leaping early into the ditch, had joined in the assault, and the rest, raked by a cross fire of grape from the distant bastions, haffled in their aim by the smoke and flames from the explosions, and too few in number had entirely falled to quell the French musketry

"About midnight, when 2,000 brave men had fallen, Wellington, who was on a beight close to the quarries, sent orders for the remainder to retire and re-form for a second assault ; for he had just then beard that the eastle was taken, and thinking the enemy would still hold out in the town, was re-solved to awall the breaches again. This retreat from the ditch was, however not effected without bother carmen and confusion, for the Evench fire mover slackened, and a ery arose that the enemy were making a sally from the dieta t flanks, which caused a rush towards the ladders; the grouns and lamentations of the wounded who could not more and expected to be slain, increwed ; many officers who had not heard of the order endeavoured to ston the soldlers from going back, and some would even have removed the tadders, but were trable to break the erowd. "All this time the third division was him close in the castle and either from a fear of risking the loss of a point which ensured the capture of the piace, or that the egreen was too difficult, made no attempt to drive aw y the enemy from the breaches. On the other side however the fifth diri-fon had On the other size, however, the full devices have commonced the false attack on the Pardaleras, and on the right of the Guerlans, the Portugues were harply songred at the belle of these the trem was pixely with him for General Walker, brigade ha ing peased on daring, the hint on the I archieva, was escalading the distant bastion of San Vincente His troops had advanced along the banks of the river, and reached the I'rench guard house, at the barrier gate, undiscovered, for the ripple of the waters smothered the sound of their footsteps, but just then the explosion at the breaches took place, the moon shone out, and the I rench sentinels, discovering the columns, fired. The British troops immediately springing forward under a sharp fire of musketry, began to hew down the wooden burrier at the covered way, while the Portuguese, being pame-stricken, threw down the scaling ladders. Nevertheless the others snatched them up again, and forcing the birrier, jumped into the ditch, but the guiding engineer officer was killed, and there was a lunctle which embinities of the column, and when the forcinost men succeeded in rearing the ladders, the latter were found too short, for the walls were generally above 30 feet high Meanwhile the fire of the liench was deadly, a small mine was spring beneath the soldiers' feet, beams of wood and live shells were rolled over on their heads, showers of grape from the flank swept the ditch, and man after man dropped duid from the ladders

"Fortunately some of the defenders having been called away to aid in recovering the eastle, the ramparts were not entirely manned, and the assailants, having discovered a corner of the baston where the scarp was only 20 feet high, placed three ladders there under an embrasure which had no gun, and was only stopped with a gabion. Some men got up, but with difficulty, for the ladders were still too short, and the first man who gained the top was pushed up by his comrades, and then drew others after him, until many had gained the summit; and though the French shot heavily against int; and though the French and from a house in front, them, from both flanks, and from a house in front, they thickened and could not be driven back; half the 4th regiment entered the townitself, to dislodge no an regiment entered the town itself, to dislodes the commy from the houses, while the others pushed along the rampart towards the breach, and by dist it in large fluiding, successively won three basicons.

"In the last of these combain, General Walker based forward, award in hand—at the moment when me of the eventy's camoneers was discharged. when me of the enemy's canonaers was discharging a gun—all covered with so many women that it was wooderful how he could surri a; some of the seldiers immediately after perceiving a lighted ratch on the ground, cried out, A mine if At that word, such is the power of imagination, those trough whom neither the strong larrier nor the deep dict, nor the high with, nor the deadly fire of the enemy could sop, stagment lack prailed by a eitherns of their own staining and in this disorder a French reverse, under Cherryl Viellande, determ of them with a fire and enail dealers of their way mader. drove on them with a firm and rapid charge and pitching some men over the walls, and killing others outright, again cleansed the ramparts even to the San Vincenta. There, however Leith had placed Colonel Augent with a battalion of the Jith as a reserve and when the French came up, shouting and slaying all before them, this battalion, about 200 strong arose and with one close velley destroved them.

"Then the panic ceased, the soldiers railied, and is compact order core more charged along the walls towards the breaches but the kruch, although turned on both flashs, and also lond by farinowing the soldier on both flashs, and also lond by farinowing the soldiers of the 4th regiment which had entered the town when the flash Vinceries was first farried was strangely situated, for the streets were empty and brilliantly illuminated, and no person was seen; yet a low buzz and whisper were heard around, lattices were now and then gently opened, and from time to time, shots were fired from undernorth the doors of the houses by the Spaniards However, the troops with bugles sounding, advanced to the great square of the town, and in their progress captured several mules going with ammunition to the breaches, but the square itself was as empty and silent as the streets, and the houses as bright with lamps, a terrible enchant-ment seemed to be in operation, for they saw no-thing but light, and heard only the low whispers close around them, while the tumult at the breaches

was like the crishing of thunder

"There, indeed, the fight was still plantly raging, and hence, quitting the square, they attempted to take the garrison in roverse, by attacking the rainparts from the town side, but they were received by a rolling musketry, driven back with loss, and resumed their movements through the streets last the breaches were abandoned by the French, other parties entered the place, desultory combats took place in various paits, and finally Generals Viellande and Phillipon, (who was wounded) seeing all ruined, passed the bridge with a few hundred soldiers, and entered San Cristoval, where they all surrendered early the next morning upon summons, to Lord Fitzroy Somerset, who had with great readiness pushed through the town to the drawbrige ere they had time to organize further resistance. But even in the inement of ruin the night before, the neble governor had sent some horsemen out from the fort to carry the news to Soult's army, and they reached him in time to prevent a greater musfortune

"Now commenced that wild and desperate wick closes which tarnished the lustre of the soldier between. All luded we not allike for bindreds ricked and many look their lives in attempting to stop the violates, but the madeous governelly provided; and as the worst men were leaders berny all the drauful possions of burnan nature were displayed. Shameless raprocity burnan to be building of their soully and merder shreak and pitting of their burnaling from the houses, the crashing of thors and whole was not be reported or merkers used in violence revounded for two days and algibits in the streets of Badajos I On the third, when the city was sucked, when the soldiers were enhanted by their own crosses, the transit rather subsided than wa spetied. The wounded size than looked to and the dead drepered of.

repeated to and the dead offered to the Park of the Pa

"Let any man pleture to himself this frightful earnage takins place in a space lose than 100 square yards. Let him consider that the slain died not of a oddenly nor by one manoer of death; that settle

DON'S OF WILLTAMA terished by steel, some by shot, some by water, ferrance up area, crushed and mangled by licary weight, some trimpled upon, some displied to ntons by the fury explosions, that four hours this destruction was endured without shrinking, and that the town was won at last, let my man consider this, and he must admit that a British army bears with it an auful power And filte would it be, to en that the French were feeble men, for the Karrison strong arenes were recording, nor the garrison stood and fought manfally, and with good discipline.

Shame there was none on any side. I get who shall do justice to the branchy of the soldiers? ble emulation of the others? When the extent of the might's have was made known to Wellington, the firminess of his nature gave way for a moment, and the paide of conquest yielded to n passionate burst of gricf for the loss of his gallant

It seems unnecessary to do more than invite the reader's admiration of the energy and genius displayed by Lord Willington in thus taking from the French, two such strong for tresses as Ciudad Rodrigo and Badajos, and that too in the face of Soult and Marmont, whose combined numbers seemed enough to crush the British force The Trench were prinfully astonished at his success, and Napoleon looked with surprise upon the disconfiture of his best generals and chosen armicy He knew not that the tide of I rench victory and success had already turned, and though Portugal was wrested from him, and Spain, after 80 much toil and blood, still unsubdued, he was preparing to set out on his mid expedition to Russin, unconscious of the grenter reverses he was to meet with there, and ignorant that before an enemy whom he regarded * Napler's Peniusular War, Vol. 1V

as harlarian, the flower of his army were to peri-kandd the snows. Meanwhile his preparations for the Russian war drew off much of his attention from Scale.

The honours Lend Wellington received from the Spanish government, did not add much to his ac-tual resources. The Spanish character indeed was teal resources. The Spanish character indeed was clearly shown throughout the war ," so thing cookle subdue the spirit of the people, nothing teach wis-dom to their ruless." The Curice wasted their true kily and often wore than kily; a borying themselves with theoretical plans, instead of striving to obtain practical results some real griorances they dil indeed remova, and samon others abilished that execrable and iniquitous tribunal, the Inquisition. Dut to countertainnes these unquestionable benefits, they violated justice towards the cirrgy and nobles; and acted so as so britists and offend the pation. The armies were still unimproved t the pation. The armine were still interpreted I like colly milliary dependence on which by billinging read reports, as in hi over troops and the Portiquene J for the bravery of the Epandard was almost strays nectrelized by the Ignorance rachines, perfectled to their generals. I was still possible however that some striking receive galand by the Illidia, ingeli rouse to survivious over the same and the properties of the propert government and nelte anew the people to such puble deed as they had done in the commencement of the struggle.

In the arrangement of the control of the same state of th

rebility and skill, and in June, Lord Wellington led his army from the Agueda to Salamanca, took the forts which the French had constructed in that city, captured 800 prisoners, and pursued Marmont to the Douro Marmont, however, having possession of all the bridges, concentrated his troops between Pollos and Tordesillas, where he was joined by Bonnet's army from Asturias, which, as it gave him a considerable superiority of force, compelled Wellington to withdraw "It was an awful sight," says Southey, "to behold two great armies in an open and level country moving parallel lines, in full march, and apparently within half cannon shot of each other, each waiting for a favourable moment in which the antagonist might be found at fault. The weather was at this time so sultry, that, on one occasion, when the I rench pressed upon our rear and were driven out of a village by the bayonet, some of our men fainted with heat

"On the 21st July, the whole of the allied forces were assembled on the formes, the evening was overeast, and a thunder storm began as the enemy took up their position,—the whole sky was kindled by almost continuous lightnings, and in spite of heavy rain the enemy's fires were seen along the line. The two aimies were now drawn up near Salamanca, on opposite iring grounds, the French having their left, and the allies their right, each upon one of the two remarkable rocky points called the Araples. Here the French general, who, confiding in his superior numbers, was determined to bring the allies to action, extended his left, in order to turn the right of their position, and interpose between them and Ciudad Rodrigo. Lord Wellington was at dinner when he was informed of this movement, he saw at once the advantage which had been given; he rese in such haste as to overture the table, exclaiming that. Marmont's good genius had forsaken him, and in an instant was on horsobeck issuing those orders which won the hat the of Salamerea.**

"When Wellington saw that the French left was in motion, and pointing towards the Choical Rodriov road, he repaired to the high ground, and observed their movements for same time, with a stern contentionary, for their left a tig was cuttledy segsteted from beitr croits. The fit is was figurally, and he stand on it with the stories of a themselved and the stand on it with the stories of a themselved.

and he fixed on it with the strole of a thunderfolial. A few orders based from his Type Mta the incanta those of a winard, and weddenly the dark mass of troops which certered the English Angaldes, was seemingly possessed by some mighty spirit, and reading vice-lently down the interior shop of the mountain, entered the great basic sanidar a storm of buildes which seemed to shear away the a hole surface of the earth very when the olders me extracted the earth very which we have the earth very which we have the earth very water the earth very sealing alloying up on the right of Brandfurd, closed this troot of leating.

"The 6th and 1th divisions, flanked on the Vight by Amonh light nearing which now moved from the Araptics, were ranged at half cannon shot to a second line which was probanged by the Spaniards in the direction of the 3rd division, and the lest relatived by two spanisons of the 1th directions, and by Division a Protegorese borreners, formed the extreme right of the army Thehind all, on the highest ground, the 1st and light of thors, and

Prek's Portuguese were disposed in heavy masses, as a reserve

"When this grand disposition was completed, the 3rd division and its attendant horsemon, the whole formed in four columns and flanked on the left by 12 guns, received orders to cross the enemy's line of much. The remainder of the 1st line, including the main body of the cavalry was directed to advance whenever the attack of the 3rd division should be developed, and as the 4th division must in this forward movement necessarily lend its flank to the enemy's troops stationed on the I rench Arapiles, Packs brigade was commanded to assail that rock the moment the left of the British line should pass it. Thus, after long coding and winding, the armics the Thus, after long coiling and winding, the armics came together, and drawing up their huge trains like angry scipents imaged in deadly strife.

"Marinont, from the top of the French Arapiles, saw the country beneath him suddenly covered with chemies at a moment when he was in the act of making a complicated evolution, and when, by the rash advance of his left, his troops were separated into three parts, each at too great a distance to assist the other, and those nearest the enemy neither strong enough to hold their ground, nor aware of what they had to encounter. The 3rd division was, however, still hidden from him by the western what they had to encounter Tho 3rd division was, however, still hidden from him by the western heights, and he hoped the tempest of bullets under which the British line was moving in the basin beneath, would check it until he could bring up his reserve divisions, and, by the village of Arapiles, fall on what was now the left of the alies' position. But even this, his only resource for saving the battle, was weak, for on that point there were still the list and hight divisions and Pack's brigade, forming a mass of 12,000 troops with 30 pieces of artillery, had been given j he rose in such baste as to overturn the table, exclaiming that Marmont's good groins had forsaken him, and in an instant was on horseback issuing those orders which won the bat the of Salamanca.**

" When Wellington maw that the French left was in motion, and pointing toward the Ciudad Rodrigo road, he repaired to the high ground, and observed their movements for some time, with a stern contentment, for their left wing was entirely sepa-rated from their centre. The fault was flagrant, and he fixed on it with the stroke of a thunderbolt. A few orders issued from his lips like the incents tions of a winard, and suddenly the dark mass of troops which covered the English Amplies, was seemingly possessed by some mighty spirit, and rushing violently down the interior alops of the mountain, entered the great basin amidst a storm of bullets which seemed to sheer away the whole surface of the earth over which the soldiers moved. The 5th division instantly formed on the right of The 5th division meanity nemied on the right or the 5th, connecting the latter with Bradford's Por-taguess, who hastened forward at the same time from the right of the army—and the heavy cavalry calleging up on the right f Bradford, closed this front of lattle.

"The Oth and 7th divisions, flunked on the right by Anson's light on a first, which now moved from the Arapies, were ranged at half cannon shot in a second line which was prelonged by the Speatrest in the direction of the 3rd division and this last relativest by two equations of the 14th directions, and by D'Utlan's lettingence hereness, formed the entrees right of the army. Defined all, on the highest ground, the 1st and Bght di klons, and

Courtety Rethe Yel XIII.

Pack's Portuguese were disposed in heavy masses, as a reserve

"When this grand disposition was completed, the 3rd division and its attendant horsemen, the whole formed in four columns and flanked on the left by 12 guils, received orders to cross the enemy's line of march. The re name of the 1st line, including the main body of the cavalry was directed to advance whenever the attack of the 3rd division should be developed , and as the 4th division must in this forward movement necessarily lend its flank to tho enemy's troops stationed on the I rench Arapiles, Pack a brigade was commanded to assait that rock the moment the left of the British line should pass Thus, after long coiling and winding, the armus came together, and drawing up their huge trains like angry scrpents innoted in 1 adity state

"Marmout, from the top of the I reach Arapiles, gaw the country beneath him suddenly covered with cuernies at a moment when he was in the act of miking a complicated evolution, and when, by tho rash advance of his left, his troops were separated into three parts, each at too great a distance to assist the other, and there nearest the enemy neither strong enough to hold their ground, nor aware of what they had to encounter. The 3rd division was, however, still hidden from him by the western heights, and he hoped the tempest of bullets under which the British line was moving in the basin beneath, would check it until he could bring up his reserve divisions, and, by the village of Arapiles, fall on what was now the left of the allies' position. But even this, his only resource for saving the bat-tle, was weak, for on that point there were still the let and light divisions and Pack's brigade, forming a mass of 12,000 troops with 30 pieces of artiflery, the village itself was well disputed, and the English Arapiles rock stood out as a strong lastion of de-fonce. However, the French General, nothing alamed, despatched officer after officer some thates up the troops from the forest, others to stop the progress of his left wing; and with a rangeline expectation will looked for the victory until he saw Pakenham with the field division shoot like a me-Pakeniam with the fird division shoot like a mo-ter across Thomiero- path is then prick and hope alike died within him; and despenticly he was burrying to that fatal poly, when an explosing shall stretched him on the earth, with a broken arm and if deep wounds in his side. Confusion craused and the troops distracted by Ill yndred orders and counter-orders, howe not where to move, who to fight, or who so avoid.

"It was about it o clock when Palesham fell upon Thomleres; and it was at the maint when that General, the head of whose column had gained an open leulated bill at the extremity of the south-an open isolated hill at the extremity of the southers range of heights, expected to see the silles, in full retreat towards the Grada Rodrigo read leastly followed by Marmoot from the Arapike. The counter-strake was terrible I Two batteries of artillery placed on the summit of the western heights, souddenly took his troops in flank, and Pakenham mass! columns supported by ea siry were coming on full in his froot, while two-thirds of his was division lengthscored out and winconnected, were still behind in a word where they could hear but could not see the surner which was now berreing. From the chief to the lowest addition in the still rest that they were but; and is an instant lakenham, the most freak and guilast of mes, contracted the factors which the counter-strains as there.

"The British columns formed lines as they

enriched, and the Propelt growers standing up traduity for the homor of their country, containment of graps into the advancing masses, while a croud of hight troops poured in a fire of rans betty under cover of which the main body endervented to display a front. But bearing onwards through the ekermelors with the mulit of a first, Pakenham broke he had formed lines in fragincits, and sent the whose in confusion upon the advancing supports one one offer with unvield ing spirit remained by the artificia, standing alone, he fired the list you at the distance of a few vards, but whether he had or there died could not be seen for the small seme specialist of the field decision, but the other regiment repulsed them and Delebra's Partugueschorsemen reintered by in requidions of the 14th dragoons on her left in Harvey, graned the enemy's flink. The Oporto regiment, led by the Lighsh Major Wats in instantive charged the French infantive vet vanly. Watson left deeply wounded, and his men retired

"Pakenham continued his tempestions course against the remander of Thome ies' treops, which were now arrayed on the wooded heights behind the first hill, yet imperfectly, and offering two fronts, the one opposed to the field division and its attendant horsemen, the other to the 5th division, to Bradford's bright, and the main body of cavily and artiflery, all of which were now moving in one great line across the basin. Meanwhile Bonnet's troops having failed at the village of Arapiles, were sharply engaged with the 4th division; Maucine kept his mencing position behind the Prench Arapiles, and as Clauzel's division had come up from the forest, the connection of the seatrs and left was in some measure restored; it of divisions were however still in the rear and Boyer's dragoons were in march from Calvarias. Ariba. Thomisers had been killed, and Bonnet, who succeeded Marmont, had been disabled, house more confusion; but the command of the army develved upon Clanusl, and he was of a capacity to meatant this terrible orbits.

"The 4th and 5th divisions, and Bradford's better guide, were now holy engaged, and standily gaining ground; the beavy os airy Anson's light dragons, and Bulle troop of artillery were advantaged at a trot on Pakenham's left; and on that General's right; D Urban breemen overhapped the caseny. Thus in less than half an boar and bores an order of battle had been even formed by the French, their commander-in-chief and two other generals had falled; and the left army was turned, thrown into confusion and enveloped. Chin artificial than the confusion and enveloped. Chin artificial than the confusion and enveloped. Chin it was loose and orfit to rest; jet of the trops were some in doubte lones, some in columns, some in sourcers in powerful sen alsoor full in their vers. "The 4th and 5th divisions, and Bradford's bri some in double lines, some in columns, some in squares a powerful sun shoot full in their eyes, the high soil, stirred up by the trampling of men and horres, and driven forward by a becaze which arose in the west t the moment of attack, came foll upon them diagrid with smoke is sure it stiffing clouds, that, scarcely able to breathe and quite mable to see, their fire was tyien at random.

"In this almoston, while l'akendam, bearing onward with a conquering vidence, was closing on their finalt, and the sith division advancing with a sterm of fire on their front, the interval between the two attacks was out lendy filled with a whirling thought dust, which mortize, withly forward, canried within its womb the trampling round of a charging multitude. As it passed the left of the 3rd division, Le Marchant's heavy horsemen, flanked by Anson's light cavality, had a forth from it at full speed, and the next instant 1,200. I reach infantry, though formed in several lines, were trampled down with a terrible clamour and disturbance. Bewildered and blinded they cast away their aims and ran through the openings of the British squadrons, stooping and demanding quarter, while the dragoons, big men and on big horses, is do onwards, smiting with their long glittering swords in uncontrollable power, and the 3rd division followed at speed, shouting as the I reach masses fell in suc-

ecssion before the dreadful charge

" Nor were these valunt swordsmen set exhausted Their own general Le Marchant, and many officers had fallen, but Cotton and all his staff was at their heid, and with rinks confused, and blended together in one mass, still galloging forward, they sustained from a fresh column, an irregular stream of fire, which emptied 100 saddles, set with fine courage, and downinght force, the survivors broke through this, the third, and strongest body of men that had encountered them, and Lord Edward Somerset, continuing his course at the head of one squadron, with a happy perseverance, captured five guns. The kirchel left was entirely broken, more than 2,000 prisoners were taken, the French light horsemen abandoned that part of the field, and, Thomseres' division no longer existed, as a military body Anson s cavalry, which had passed quite over the hill, and had suffered little in the charge, was now joined by D'Urban's troopers, and took the place of Le Marchant's exhausted men, the heavy German dragoons followed in reserve, and with the 3rd and 5th divisions, and the gurs, formed one formidable line two miles is advance of whore Pakesham had first attacked; and that imperious officer: with unmitigated strength, still pressed forward, spreading terror and disorder on the enemy's left.

" While those signal events, which occupied about forty minutes, were passing on the allies' right, a terrible battle raged in the centre. For whon the first shock of the 3rd division had been beeved from the Arariles, the 4th division, moving in a line with the 5th, had passed the village of that name under a recolligious carsonade, and vigorously driv-ing Bounet troops lackwards, usp by step to the southern and centern beights, obliged them to min-gle with Changel and with Thomseron broken remains. When the combatants had passed the French Arapiles, which was about the time of Le Marshant's charge Pack e Portuguese annilled that rock, and the front of the battle was thus completely defined, because F y division as now exchanging a distant cannonade with the first and light divi sions. However Bouset a troops, notwithstanding Marmonta fall, and the loss of their own general, fought trough and Clauzel made a surprising of feet, beyond all men a expectations, to restore the lattle. Already a great change was visible. Ferey's division, drawn off from the beight f Calva ram Ariba, arrived in the centre behind Bonnet a men; the light cavalry, lloyer's dragoons, and t di looms of infantry from the forest, were also united there, and on this mass of fresh men, Clau m I railled the remmants of his own and Thomieres di Lion. Thus, by an able movement, Surrut a, Breamer's, and I erry a unbroken troops, supported by the whole of the caratry were so disposed as b sover the line of retreat to Alba de Tormes, while Maucine's division was still in may skilled the French trapiles, and boy's remained intouched on the right

"But Clauzel, not content with having brought the separated part of his arms together, and he a combition to effect a retreat, attempted to stem the tide of victory in the very faluess of its strength and roughness. His hopes were founded on a misfortune which had be fallen General Pack, for that officer, ascending the French Armides moncheavy column, had driven lack the enemy a skirmishers, and wes within three var leaf the summit, believ ing hunself victorious, when suddenly the I reach referres, leaped forward from the tocks upon his front, and upon his left flank. The hostile masses closed, there was a thick of ad of smoke, a shout, a stream of fire, and the side of the full was covered to the very bottom, with the dead, the wounded, and flying Portuguese, who were scoffed at for this fulure, without in justice, no troops could have withstood that err hapon such steep ground, and the propriety of attacking the full at all seems very The result went in h to shake the questionable whole battle, for the 4th division had just reached the southern ridge of the bism, and one of the regiments arrayed in the service, was actually on the summit, when 1,200 fiesh adversaries, arrived on the reverse slope, charged up the hill, and as the British fire was straggling and meffectual, because the soldiers were breathless and disordered by the previous fighting, the French who came up resolutely and without firing, won the crest. They were even pursuing down the other side, when two regi ments placed in line below, checked them with a destructive volley.

"This vigorous counter-blow took place at the moment when That's defeat permitted Materiaes, who was no longer in pain for the Arrapide's bill, to manner the left flank and rear of the 4th dividual to the left aim of the 4th regiment inspectivally wheeled about, and with a rough charge cleared the area. Mannen would not cupage himself more deeply at that thus, but Gascral Ferry's troops persent (normally against the front of the 4th division, and Brennier did the same by the first line of the 8th divided. Boyer' dragooss the first line of the 5th division. Boyer, dragooms has cause on repelly and the athies, before compared to cause on repelly and the athies, before compared to the second of the first line of "The crisis of the battle had now arrived, and the victory was for the General who had the strongest receive is hand. Wellington, who was seen that day at very point of the first carried recognition of the second residual consolidation, and its charge was rough strong, and received. Newtwheleas the struggle was no slight to one. The near of General Hubes brighed which was on the first, went down by hwaffrad; and the sligt and lith regiments won their wy desparately and throatic work, after as British budders out reas sustain. Some of Policis draptions also breaking in between the 5th and 6th divisions, their many men, and crused to no disorder in the 5"rd; but that brave regiment lest no ground, nor did Chuzels impelious counter attack availat any point, after the first burst, against the steady courage of the allies. The southern ridge was regained, the French Gereral Menne was severe v. General Percy, mortally wounded. Chuzel himself was hurt, and the reserve of Bover a drageous coming on at a canter, were not and breken by the fire of Hulse's noble brigide. Then the clanging current of the fight once more set for the Brinsh The 3rd division continued to outfly k the enemy s left: Maucine abandoned the I reach Arapites, Foy retired from the ridge of Calvanian and the allied host righting use's is a grilliant by after a sudden gust, ugain bore enwards in blood and gloom, for though the air, purified by the storm the right hefore, was peculiarly clear, one east cloud of smoke and dust rolled dong the basin, and within it was the bittle with all its sights and sounds of terror

"When the Lugush beneral had thus restored the fight in the centre—he directed the commander of the 1st division to push between I or and the rest of the I reach arms, which would have rendered it impossible for the latter to rally or escape, but this order was not executed, and I or's and Maucune's divisions were skilfully used by Clauzel to protect the retreat. The first posted on undulating ground, and final ed by some squadrons of drigoons, covered the roads to the fords of Huerta and Enema, the second, reinforced with 15 guns, was placed on a steep ridge in front of the forest, covering the road to Alba de Torines, and belind this ridge the rest of the army, then falling back in disorder before the ard, 5th, and 6th divisions, in dism der belore hie Red, dib, and tim curvators, the lingto immediately sent the light division, framed in two lines and financed by some syndromes of dragonous, against Foy; and he supported them by the let division in columns, the light by the best division in columns, the light by two brights of the 4th division, which he had drawn off from the courts when the 6th division restored the fight. The 7th division and the Sounlards followed in reserve; the division and the Spaniards followed in reserve; the country as covered with throops, and a new army second to ha pseud out of the earth.

"For throwing out a cloud of altimathers, retired about by sungs, aroung no dring heavily from every rising ground opto the light divisions, which marched for and teadily subset returning a alot, was by its altimathers; for three miles the march was under this meakers; which was researched; was under this meakers; which was the march was under this musicary wincu was oversionally thekened by a camonasis and sylvery few men were lost, because the French aim was laffled, hardly by the sullpht, partly by the erea order and rapid glid og of the lines. But the French General Leegan sers was killed, and the fishing brigades from the 4th division has ing now passimated between Manurone and Fey il seemed difficult for the latter to extricate his troops from the action : nevertheless he dod it with great dex terity. For he ing increased his skirmishers on the list defensible ridge, along the fact of which ran a marshy stream he redoubted his fire of increketry and made a memoring demonstration with his horsemen just us the darkness fell—the British us nowemen just as the daymoss fell the British grass immediately opened their fire a squadron of dragnons galloped fewerards from the left, the leavery erosals; the marrhy stre m, with an importance pace hastened is the permish of the bill and you in allock seemed in third be left there are 10.

longer an enemy, the main body of the French bad gene into the thick forest on their own left during the firing, and the chirmshers fled swiftly effer, covered by the sincke and by the darkness.

" Meanwhile Made one maintained a noble battle He was outflanked and outnumbered but the rafets of the Lici charmy depended on his courage; he kness it, and Pakenham, marking his hold demean our, advised Cluston, who was momediately in his front, not to assail him until the 3rd division should bave turned his left. Nevertheless the 6th division was soon plunged afresh meo action under great duadvantage, for after being lept by its commander a long time without reason, close under Maucune's Latteries, which ploughed heavily through the ranks, it was suddenly directed by a staff officer to attack the hill. A sixed by a hiregade of the 4th division, the troops their rushed up, and in the darliness of the night the fire shewing how the battle went. On the side of the British a sheet of flame was seen, sometimes advincing with an even front, sometimes pricking forth in speat heads, now falling back in waving imes, and anon darting upwards in one vast pyramid the apex of which often approached, yet never gained the actual summit of the mountain, but the Prench musketry, rapid as lightning, spaikled along the brow of the height with unvarying fulness, and with what destructive effects the dark gaps and changing shapes of the adverse fire showed too plainly Yet when Pakenham had again turned the enemy's teft, and Foy's division had glided into the forest, Maucune's task was completed, the effulgent crest of the ridge became black and silent, and the whole French army vanished as it were in the darkness.

"Meanwhile Wellington, who was with the leading re-iment of the light division, continued to advance towards the ford of Huerta leaving the forest to his right, for he thought the Spanish garrison was atill in the castle of Alba de Tormes, nd that the enemy must of necessity be found in a confused mass at the fords. It was for this final stroke that he had so skilfully strengthened his left wing, nor was he diverted from his aim by marehing through stand ing corn where no enemy could have preceded him nor by Foy's retreat into the forcet, because it pointed towards the fords of Enrina and Gonzalo, which that General might be endeavouring to gain, and the right uing of the atlice would find him there. A squadron of French deagnons also burst bastly from the forest in front of the advancing troops, soon after duk, and firing their pistols, passed at fall gallep towards the ford of linerts, thus indi-cating great confusion in the defeated army and confirming the notion that its retreat was in that direction. Had the castle of Alba been held, the French con d not have carried off a thurd of their army nor would they have been in much better plight If Carlos Dellapana, who soon discovered his error in withdrawing the garrison, had informed Wellington of that fact ; but he suppressed it and suffered the Colonel, who had only beyed his orders, to be ceasured; the left wing thereof continued their march to the ford without meeting any encury and, the night being far spent, were there halted; the right wing exhausted by long fighting, had ceased to person after the action w in Mancase and thus the French galand Alba semoleted; but the action did not terminate without two remarkables accidents. While riding slose behind the 43rd reg ment. Wellington was struck in the thick by a spent mustet ball, which payed through his hole to; and the night projects had just been set at Huerta, when Sir Single ton Cotton, who had give to the ford and returned a different road, was shot through the arm by a Portuguese sentinel where challenge he had disregarded. These were the last events of this famous battle, in which the shill of the General was worthly seconded by troops whose ardons may be appreciated by the following ancedores.

Capt Bro berton of the 14th drag sons fighting upon the Bili at the triarena amongst the foremost, as he was always wont to do, had a sword thrust quite through his side, yet on the 22nd ho was again on horseback, and being demid leave to remain in that condition with his own regiment, secretly joined Pack's Portuguese in an undress, and was again hurt in the unfortunate charge at the Araphes. Such were the others. A man of the 43rd, one by no means distinguished above his comrades, was shot through the middle of the thigh, and lost his shoes in passing the marshs stream; but refusing to quit the hight, he hisped under fire in the rear of his regiment, and with halled feet, and streaming with blood from his wound, he marched for several miles over a country covered with sharp stones. Such were the soldiers."* with sharp stones. Such were the soldiers "

The immediate results of this splendid victory were the capture of eleven pieces of artillery, two engles, and 7,000 prisoners. Three French Genorals were killed, four severely wounded, among whom was Marmont himself, the total loss of the French was estimated at 14,000. On the side of the allies, 5,200 were killed and wounded, including six general officers, of whom one was killed.

Fin oured by the night, the enemy continued their

* Napier & Peninsular Wur

retreat, and next morning the allica messed on in present. The retiring erroy would have emissined such greater loss, bad not the Spaniand by absa-doning the easile of Allia de Tormes, seffered them to cross the "iver at that point without delay or pe-titions and the second of th sestance The cavalry however, came up with their setance The cavalry however, came my with their reargapart in the morning and General Rock, with a brigade of German heavy dragoma, charged three quarter of industry brube theca, and took 900 pri soners. The French acres that the grade of the sone of the son July the like crowed the Doore; not on the fill a August, made a morement gainst the army of the centre; part of the force which had sufferd most in the battle being left; to deserve the line of the Doure, while their gets to deserve the line of the Doure, while the mann being at meet; the capital ly Regords and St. Hild force. King Joseph had already retired thinker. We ellingtion enter dilletenson on the 9th f during the next two days his troops crowed the mountains and decended into New Casille. On the 11th a cavality eltimals took place, in which the Portuguess borns enfirred, but the advance of the Germans at once checked the the advance of the Urrmans at once one care to the high hereby with Marshal Jourdan harded from Madrid, marched his troops on Analysis, and growed the Tague, anxious to less it as a barrier between him and the British. On the 16th he couloued his retreat to Valencia.

On the 1"th of August—a memorable epoch—the allied array and its illustrious slife function like functions.

did. Pieir estraree everted in the inhabitants rentments of the greatest his rud endusmem, which found utterance in chouts of admiration rud gratice. All business was suspended thousands of people, terring learn branches, welcomed them at the gree. The same divide Ketiro which was granuoused by the I reach surrendered, the spend found, am in el to 110 pieces of ordinates, 20,000 rand of mass and in attach to every Ind On the 13th, Den Cirles de Espana was apjointed governor et Muleid and the new constitu-tion was proclaired am let the Lind vivas of the exulting crowd. The whole perform was in the streets, jet bear ed unevery counterance, and de-light trembled on every hip, haireds and flowers decorated every place, tapestry him, from the bal-comes, but Wellington was the "elserved of all observers,' the ejected least of then prove and honour, wherever he appeared least of then prove and honour, wherever he appeared least of the prove at the air of "Long live Wellington!" Green boughs, flowers, and shawls, were fluing before his horse's feet, they crowded around him, hings upon his stirriups, touched his clothes, or throwing themselves upon the ground, blessed him about as the friend of Span. His transit was indeed a two allowants. Spun His trium h was indeed a pure, glorious, and noble one

We must not omit to relate, that when, on the 22nd of August, the new council wanted upon Lord Wellington with all state ceremound, to ofter him a congratulatory address as Duke of Ciudad Rodrigo, couched in fit terms towards a great conqueror, whose victories had subserved the cause of justice and freedom, Wellington replied with that simple dignity, and unaffected modesty so conspicuous in his character, all that he said in reply to their long and highly wrought enumeration and proise of his successes, was simply "The events of war are in the hands of Providence," feelings such as these, so remote from the elation and intoxication of triumph, were the sure preinde of future and still more glorious exploits.

more plotious exploits.
But the war was very far yet from being near a termination, and Lord Wellington a objects in advancing to Hadrid were mily partially gained; the supports upon which he had calculated did not reach lim, and boothe had dispersed his men in Catalouia and valencia before the troops from Sielly could arrive at the eastern coast of Spain; and they remained shut up in Alicants. \[ \] at the wickery of Selamanca freed Anddress from Soult, who, upon the fall of Madrid raised the blockade of Cadis, and when he found Seville occupied, bettock himself to

Grands.
Buildes the fallers of his expected supports, a concurrence of circum-tances compelled Welling on to quit Madrid. No receily active and hearty cooperations were made agriced the enemy now any efforts used to organize a regular system. His military chest was empty and a few thomand deliberation of the compelled that could be raised, though the English general made the utmost affects. The main wright of the are rested upon the British, while, toke prodestly of the corps of Soait in Granda almost 100,000 troops might be brought to bear admiss them. With these large forces, the Freuch almost 100,000 troops might be brought to bear artised them. With these large forces, the Freuch care measuring the capital, and Clausel, with Marmostly army had again advanced to the Bours above driving lack the Figurial through a Galicia. To preserve his communications, and to open others with the sorth of Figure, whereby to receive such reinforcements and stores as could be sent from England, it was necessary that active steps should be taken by Lord Wellington. He therefore left Madrid on the let of September, leaving behind him his two weakest diviewns, and directing Ser Rowland Hill to cover Madrid from the ride of the Jarana. Wellington with four divisions crossed the Douro on the 6th driving before him the Prench from Valledolid, and pursuing them beyond Valence a; where he was joined by a Spanish army in great disorder, but numbering about 12,000 mem. The Prench continued to reture before him. On the Prench continued to reture before him. On the 17th, Clauzel appearedness Burgos with 22,000 troops, but he retired immediately, and was next day reinforced by Souhain with 9,000 mem. Two Jays afterwards the army entered lingos, 12,000 of the allies invested the castle in which were 2,000 I reach, the remainder advanced to cover the siege, and the head quarters were fixed at Villatoro.

and the head quarters were fixed at Villatoro

Burgos castle is upon an eminence, and has strong outworks, the acebyity had been defended by two lines of formidable field works, bristing at all points with cannon, and the base of the hill was also eneircled by an uncovered scarp wall, of very difficult access. The reduction of this place was of great importance, for it contained a large store of ammunition and provisions, and it was required as a point of support for the army, to enable the proposed operations to be conducted satisfactorily. The castle was immediately ordered to be invested, though our troops had only three 18 pounders, with five 24-pound aron howitzers, and a very scarty supply of ammunition. The 5th and 6th divisions were the besiegers

On the 19th, a formidable horn-work on the hill of St. Michael was carried after an hour's hard contest, and a very severe loss, in consequence of the brave rasistance of the garrison, and the hot flee kept up from the cealled three gene, and a captain with $2 men, the sole survivors of a strong statistics, were taken. Next day the guns were dismounted. On the 22nd at night, a beave attempt made to excelled the exterior line of works, unfortenately failed. Lord Wellington resolved to have recourse to the slower process of supplier.

A breach baying been effected on the 29th, by A present saving occur on receive on the 221s, of the explosion of a mine in the outer wall, a party of the lat division, ad — cod to storm it; but the enemy had placed such obstacles at the month, that after considerable loss, the artack was unsuccessful. On the 4th of October another mine exploded, and made a breach. The terror line was carried, and the 4th regument rushed p, and frected a lodg peent between the outer wall, and the first line of field-works. The garreon is we er having made assertie, dro tack the linguish, regained the lodgment and destroyed it. On men being reinforced, under a most deviractive fire again took the works, and drove back the I repeb to their interior defenees. Still the best pers trade is a progress, for obstacles which their limited torans pre- ential them from surmounting, presented themselves at levery step. On the 6th, the everny made another sortie, acc. On the str., the cormy made another sortle, and destroyed all the work of the best-germ will by the outer wall still the labour was continued, and an establishment was formed within 100 yards of the second bins. On the 18th, preparations were completed for an assault. The Guards and German begins after nor no measure. The Guards and German begins afternated an escalule and flected an en-trance; but so beary a fire was kept up for the garrison that, after a severe lass, they were com-jled to retire.

No more efforts were seed to only this Kerter

the advance of the enemy rendering any farther operations impract cable. The stege had lasted almost a month during which the besiegers had lost more than 2000 men, its failure areas merels from want of the necessars means of attack, and not from any deficiency of ardour or perseverance on the part of the troops, who, with an adequate engineer force and a proper supply of artillers, would not have spent a third of the time before they had taken the place. But its explore was of such importance as to justify the attempt even with such inadequate means, and the firmines and perseverance of Wellington, though in this ease unsuccessful, we recalled into action for a worthy object. During the whole Biege, the vigilance and active supermitendence of the Commander were unremitting, the arrange-ments for each attack were written out by himself as he sat on the ground watching the movements. He was so often within fire, that it was wonderful that he escaped mjurs. As he closely observed the assault on the right of the 29th of September, he was in miniment danger, for a held which he crossed was literally ploughed up by the grape and musketry

On the 18th, most of the besicging corps joined the covering army, and two days after the General and his staff moved to the front. The siego was finally raised on the 21st, a measure rendered absolutely indispensable by the combined movements of the armies of the south and the centre, under Soult and the intruding sovereign. On the British front was an army reinforced, and possessing such a large proportion of cavalry as greatly to out-number that of the albest he retreat had to be made in the presence of this superior army, along muddy roads, with the castle of Burgos commanding them, and the bridges on the Arianzon. Let in one night, by word Weilington's al.liful arrangements, the army with all is baggage and stores reached the other side of Burges; and in such an orderly maner were the movements conducted, that the lat division flied ever two bridges within masket shot of the fort, without losing a single man, though it was bright moonlight. Afterwards indeed the artillery fired on the bridge but very few arcidents happened. A march was thus gained on the enemy Next A march was thus gained on the cosmy Next day a cavary aktreats took place. Order were given to destroy the bridges so as to retard the French, which for the most part was selected. Sir Rowland Hill fell back and joined Lord Wellington on the vertexal, and the French armies amounting to 50,000 foot, and 10,000 berns, formed their jum-tion in pursus, troon the Tormas; while the allies had not more than 50,000 nors, of which $,000 were eavalry. In these circumstances, though a victory had been gained, the results could not have been such as to countertalance the risk and certain loss; the retreat was therefore continued to Cindad Red rigo, and so far as regards active operations, the tumpalen of 1812 was closed.

During the whole of this retreat, though the conmy camed title treaties all our troops saffored moch ; for the weather was botterous and cold, so absiter was procurable to tight, and the torrests of rain pervented fare from long lighted. Provisions were trergularly inseed, in consequence of the wretched and in many cases impassable state of the roads, and is spite of all the efforts of the offcerts, the bounds of disciplings were much relaxed; if a argument, cuberation, and even threatening have fulle weight with soldiers who are alreadstarring. To them, the drives of given in the extensive woods presed through by the arms, were I ut too tempting; and many quitting the lines at mightfall hunted, and shot them for food. No rooner had the army reached quarters, than Lord Wellington addressed a letter to the commanders of latitations, censuring strongly the inseconduct of many of the men

In Lugland the news of the retreat from Burges caused great disappointment and discontent-the brilliant opening of the campaign had raised such high hopes, that this unlooked for reverse was felt more keenly. Within and without Parliament loud accusations arose against the Ministry, who had unquestionably been too tardy in furnishing supplies and remforeements, which, when they did come, were neither sufficiently large or efficient, and had thereby afforded opportunity to their enemies to say, that the blood and resources of Lugiand had been lavished in a hopeless struggle-and the Sprmurds were satisfied that the contest was vain, and were content muckly to bow their necks beneath the feet of their insolent oppressors-and that it was needless to oppose longer the power of Napoleon, A shade even seemed in the even of many to have presed over the renown of that illustrious chief who had so often led the army of Britain to victory, for a time he was not "gracious in the people's eye" Yet though it was mortifying to have been compelled to retire from Madrid, the great objects for which he advanced to the capital had been attained, the only two fortresses which enabled the enemy to menaco Portugal had been captured—a number of French troops equal in amount to that of the allies, destroyed—and the whole south of Spain freed, and that too at a time when the Spanish military power had been at the lowest obb Besides the pursuit of an enemy overpoweringly superior had been total'y builded, over when the French had 20,000 men inhefield, breided by roteran leaders, with whose feels of arms "all Europe had rong." Whatever facilities can claim a might be raised, Wellington was not the man to be as od by it, nor induced for a moment to quit the plans which with calm self-possession, perspecting and far-alpheabase he had latd down.

perspectify and far-aghindress he had laid down-Temporary and vulgar popularity be them—as ever since—set askie and he secured the averant in receiving the leading graduate of his country. The time was close at hand, when he who had already done so much with means no mesleysais, who withouten operation and support, had taught the French so many replacive levenes, and had looseed the chains of bpain, no shall no in heave the thropes of the intrue. Many was to drive the last French man from the eventry and from the lefty ridges of the French secreted by he arrily to descend upon that territory which its people had so valuly called "the accrete odd of French."

The measuremental reason of the attempt upon Borgon did not supprise Weiturgton jor an important end he had justifiably be sugged it, with small means; and when the extendire combinations of the French Marshale rendered it seccessary that he aboud return the shall of his movements, the firm face he showed to the severy the abortness of his marches and his frequent hates, demonstrated the great master of the mitisary art; as (what observers remarked) the pitchicity and composers of his conficusation mastered the day composers of his conficusation in the composers of the conficusation of the conficusation of the conficusation of the conficus of the configuration of the conficus of the configuration of the conficus of the configuration of the con

rade such short marches, reason while they made such long and repeated halts; no on which the retreating armies were so little present on their war by the one by. The army met with no deader, it suffered no privation is truch as mulit hisse here presented by due care on the part of the efficient and no hardship, but what maximishly are so from the inclemency of the weather. "I or my part," said the Marquis of Wellesley, speaking with a due and becoming pride of his brother's merits and services, "were I called upon to give my insportial testingons of the merits of your creat renepartial testinony of the merits of your great general, I confees before Heaven, I would not relect his victories, brilliant as they are —I would go to the moments when difficulties pressed on him, —when he had but the choice of exarcimities—when he was overhung by superior strength! It is to his reoverhung by superior etrement. It is to his re-treats that I would go for the proudest and most indoubted evidence of his ability? To this wo may here add upon Colonel Super's cool, and with respect to Wellington, impartial testimony, that during, not only this campaign, but the whole war, "no adequate notion of Lord Wellington's vigorous capacity and hereulean labours can be formed, without an intimate knowledge of the financial and political difficulties which oppressed him "

At this period, honours and rewards, so justly his due, were decreed to 1 ord Wellington by his grateful country. The restrictions on the Regency had now expired, and the first use the Prince made of his new power was to create him a Marquis of the United Kingdom, to which was added the Parliamentary grant of £100,000, to purchase lands, and enable him to support the dignity of the Peerage. The Prince of Brazil conferred on him the additional title of Duke of Vittoria. We must also here notice, that from the beginning of the Peubsular war. Lord Wellington had uniformly refused of the emoluments attached to the dignifies conferred on him by the Spanish and Portuguese governments, though these amounted to upwards of 17,000 deliars a year. The value of this honourable merifice, and disinterestations, will be better understood when we mention that his my as commander of the forces dld not defray his ex penses, while he had a family to maintain in Eng-and; till the Parliament voted him the income and the graat to support his titles, he was really the power for having served. Nor most we omit to posses for invite several a great deal of money in charity; and that during the invasion of Nortigal in 1810, he contributed most liberally from his pri-vale resources to the relief of distress and misery rate resources to the relief of distress and misery it is therefore seminatory is find that in January 1813, his income was materially enlarged by the appointment of Galesied of the Bloss, or Boyal Horse Guarda; which, Ills all his other honours and smoduments, as moniletted, and afforded him pe-culiar pleasure. "So far says one of his bloggra-phers," was the from making a high and rate sail mate of his services and claims, that, when he anaconced his appointment at his own table he ex-claimed with the li cliest joy, "I am the lucklest fellow in the world, I must have been born under some atmortimary planet."

During the winter some reinforcements arrived

During the winter some reinforcements arrived and an Engined, particularly carriery of which there was great want. At this time with providence and forethought, Wellington bent his attention to the letter evilupment and organization of his arraw He caused the large from camp kettles to be diseased and the scales employed in their carriage to the appointed to the remarks of it is tents for a company the test the record of the following of them a cover in the fell the test to be a for a steen were gover line property of the feel that a control of the men could be corrected in tention in the test of a king of a could be corrected in tention the test of a king of a mid dividing the companies in the rail rate of price of the confort, and consequent of a case of the trapped A pontion from what hierarchy in record to a confort, and consequent of a case of the trapped A pontion from what hierarchy in record to according the arms on its line of march the following campaign. We ment on the athogs really test to interests and efficiency of his rollows.

To facilitate in cossars arrangements, Marquis. Wellington went to Codiz to communerte in 1477 n with the Spanish government. Here he has recerted in a becoming manner. In the first first ance, he was writed upon he a deputation from the Cortes, and when he afterwards entered their half in the Spanish umform, they greeted him with loud reclamations, and showed the greatest por and satisfaction when he replied to their address in their own language. The visit appeared to succeed in promoting that good understanding and corded union between hunself and the Spanish executive, which were of so much consequence to the common cause, and they promised him the co operation of 50,000 Spanish soldiers. He returned to the army by Lisbon, where he had also a most distinguished reception, as he rode along the streets, the greatest enthusiasm was manifested. The city was illuminated for three nights. He was received with every possible mark of respect by the Lords and Regent of the Kingdom, in the place of government, where an entertainment was given him. He appeared in the great theatre of San Carlos, crowled to the roof with speciators, and the applaces and shouts were almost unbounded.

CHAPTER XIL

Kepision's declining power—Mervessets of the Alberl'assages of the Carries and the Live—Inside of Whieries— —In results—Steps of the Scientishs—South's undervours to relieve l'angulans—Operations musing the lyvesove —Scientist of the Scientism—Operations on the Prestier

Uran reflection, it will appear probable, that area though Napoleon, at peace with the other nations of Emrope, had been able to breed his whole attention to the studyingstion of the Penhasia, he would not area that the particular of the Penhasia, he would not even that the substitute of the Penhasia, he would not even that substitute of the Penhasia of the Penhas

It was absolutely necessary for the security of the I runch, to employ numerous armies, to keep up a strong unbroken line of consummication throughout the country and lisyonme; so long as they could to this, the Heithis army did not seem to hav made much progress towards the liberation of Fpainlast their difference of force was prepared with in fire to the French most very the time is not by their inv to the livered and revite line, in the few ter anded their line, it was property and a weaker of the could not be present at hips at least of three to put down termines, no worse man the saturation excited in a od invision it be not forth in another. To proceed to their terminations are compelled to down whither of accompanies are motions of compensations. To limited, investing—no don't regard their to and commit a large a trust of and commit a large of willington, therefore, and that if the content and motionary, the time would committee the strait prolonged, the time would come when he should meet his opponent on more equal terms, explicit his manufactor of a larger cold, and enter upon a course of more brilliant and exceeded operators. That period come at last. The reconstruction Europe, the work of Napoleon's arms in the Russing retreat—had slicker last injure—and the lair of Spanish deliverance was might for the main obstack against which the Braish Ind struggled so nobly was the constant influx of reinforcements, which made up to the I reach for the less of each successive defeat-like the fabulous Hydra,-to sooner was one head out off than mother great. One disastrous defeat sustained by Wellington might not have been remedied by the whole avail able resources of hughand, while fresh supplie col what the unfeeling Corsican called "fond for cannon," could be poured by thousands into Spain. But these supplies were now closed up, and so far from being able to send reinforcements, Napoleon's necessities compelled him to withdraw 20,000 of the troops already in Spain. The vengeance he had so richly merited, overtook him amulat the flames of Moscow; and leaving the relies of his gallant arms to fall among the snors, with only a single atten dant, he field in a ledge from the seems of horror trustin select the opportunity to throw off his yeles; all the strength he sould collect was needed for the strength he sould collect was needed for the strength of termany. But though Soult had been recalled to Germany. But though Soult had been recalled to Germany there were still above 109,000 French troops in Spatin; and thoughts a great number of these were dispersed in garrisons, and throughout Catalonia and Valencia, a force of 70,000 was ready to that he field significant in allied army in the opting of the field significant in allied army in the opting of King Joseph, who did not judge it safe to tremain in his capital, accompanied him. The band quanters were at Valisabilit. Towards the end of M y Marquis W Histogon, who had received large reinforcements and supplies from England, including several regiments of cavity; took the field at the bead of the allied army of 80,000 mm; but of these several times were still in a state of the near wretard as extensive semicircle around that of the seminal seminal seminal content of the french of unique the past winter that their views were chieffy directed to the defence of the Down. The ground on the northern bank of that river, naturally strengt, bad been farilified at every assailable point by works and lattractives and an applicative of a large franchistic dowled was covertained that an insupervise tarner wedt to expend with proposed the

Well opton's trespoperate led in three fixed to at mo under Sir Thomas tiralians expect the Downs with orders to more than 12th True on Norther, & 1 Bracanta and Zan ara, to as to join the rest at Vallade'id; the eccond under Wedington in the son, moved on Salarianca by the direct in the 3 th Sir Rawanni Hill on the right, with the fixed from Letraira lues was to adva or on the tame point by Alba de Tormes. This was a masterly plan, for thus the enemy's position on the Deuro was turned, as well as that of their who'e free s on the south of the river. With such riphlits. were the movements of the centre and right executed, that the French commander at Salamanes had scarcely time to quit the town, before beneral Fano with the British casairs entered it, purified the repregented, and took 200 prisoners and extub guns. The right and centre were then placed by Wellington in cantonincuts between the Tormes and the Douro, and passing the river on the Ilst of May, joined Sir Thomas Gribam's force

This part of the army had encountered great difficulties from the character of the country through which their route has It was wild and mountainous, the roads were steep and narrow, intersected by rivers and ravines, and the ascents from some were so steep, that without drag ropes and strong fatigue parties the guns could not be drawn up. But by great exertions all these obstacles were overcome, and Graham having reached the frontier on the appointed day, established a communication with the army of Gallieia. No sooner did Graham's force appear than the French

Annals of the Peninsular Campaigns,

repaise and were pursued to Espeja. On the 19th Wellington state-lad their rearguard posted behind the river Bayas, and drove them upon the main body of their army. The sense day Joseph arranged his troops for battle at Vitteria. During the 20th Wellington cloved up his rear collected his divisions, and recommodized the enemy a position. The French occupied a line which axtended his divisions, and recommonited the enemy a position. The French occupied a line which extended nearly eight unites, the ground was megual, and affunded them considerable and analogus; at the time of the lattic it was onerted with riperding corn, which sooceased the light troops, and even the more mental of whole latticities during the engage which slotly lengths of the La Poches, their wide was posed upon bligh ground above the villager habelong lengths of the La Poches, their wight was posed upon bligh ground above the villager habedone and Gamarra Mayor 1 their centre covered a range of survey hills on the left bank of the Zadorra, and Gamarra Mayor 1 their centre covered a range of survey hills on the left bank of the Ladorra, and commanded the valley through which it flows, towards the south in front of Vittoria. Part of their felt using was drawn up, touching the left centre on steep and commanding ranges above the village of Scholyant de Al z. A streng reserve was posted in reas of the centre at Gonecha. Their high through lined the lank of the Zadorra in front of the centre and the bridges of the centre unit controlled. A moody space of the tree week provided the second counter that river were field works had been throun up in front Abechave and Gamarra Mayor. Thus prosted the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and then the protection and the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and the held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and then the protection and the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covered the city of Vittoria, and held the enemy covere reged in lattle order. The altes out numbered them he about 4 000 men, but in this number are included three divisions of Spaniards

A elear and cloudless sun rose on the field of The allies stood to their arms and marched ra full confidence of victory from their bisonnes on the Bayas Lord Wellington airranged his army in three divisions the right under Sir Rowland Hill, including Stewart e, a Portuguese, and a Spa-nish division, the left under Sir Thomas Gruham, with the first and Oswald's divisions, two brigades of eavily, and a Spanish division, and the centre, under Wellington in person, included four divisions of Sir Lours Cole, Baron Alten, Lord Dallionine, and Sir Thomas l'icton, formed in two columns So strong was the enemy's centre, and so well was it defended by their enormous force of artillery, that the attempt to pierce it, would have caused very severe loss, though the great extent of the line would with a less formidable post for the cen-tre, have favoured such an attack. It was therefore necessary to force back their flanks, and delay any assault upon the centre till the right or left corps of the 'licd army should have passed the Zadorra, and he so well advanced as to give a powerful support in flank to a front attack. Wellington perceived that the position, though otherwise well chosen, was hable to be taken in flank, for at a glance he saw its weakness

"The Spaniards under Morillo began the action, and attaked the heights with great gallantry—their leader was wounded, but remained on the field, the enemy stood firm, and made great efforts to retain their ground, perceiving when two late, that they had neglected to occupy it in sufficient strength

"Strong reinforcements were sent from their centre to he support, so that Sir Rowland Hill found it necessary to detach thither first, the 71st sumd it becomeny to detech unitary arm, the first regiment, and the light infantry battalions of Major General Walker's brigads, and successively other troops; the contest was very so ers, and the loss considerable. Here the Hon. Lientenant Colonel Cadoran was mortally wounded; an officer in Lord Wellington a words, of great real and tried gallanreinington a warm, of greats were indirected pattern who had acquired the respect and regard of the whole profession, and of whom it might have been expected, that if he had lived, he would have rendered the most important services to his country. At length the enemy were driven at the point of the layoust from these beights; and mader the the tayout from them begins ; and that't the cover which the possession of this ground afforded, Sir Rowland crossed the Zadorra at La Puebla, reased the difficult defile two tollers in length, which is formed by the beights and the river and then attacked and won the village of Sabijana de Alva which covered the left of the enemy's lines. They wash covered us in of the county's lines. I say on their part, made repeated attempts to regula this important point, and with that bope drew from their centre a considerable force i again and again they sendeavoured to recover the village but their ef-forts, though beavely and persoveringly made were umarrow fal

"The difficult nature of the country delayed the communication between the different columns, and it was late before Lord Wellington knew that the 3rd and 7th divisions, under the karl of Dalhousie and any full nursesses, under the case as Indicesses, that arrived at their appointed station. The 4th and the light divisions, however crossed the 7a-dera insuediately after 5th Hawhald had gained presention of Satijana, the future at the bridge of 5 cetares, the latter at the Tern Precise 5 shrows the best of the 1st of the Tern Precise 5 shrows. at the *ame time the Larl of Dall on we column arrived at Mondoners, and the Erd division, under Sir Thomas Picton, charged and took the bridge higher up, and crossed, and was followed by the 7th These bridges the enemy ought to have destroyed, but from the beginning of the campaign, n want of fore-ight had been manifested in all their operations, though when in action their generals displayed the habitual promptitude of experienced commanders. The four divisions which had now crossed, and which formed the centre of the alhed army, were destined to attack the heights on which the right of the encines centre was placed, while Sir Rowland should move forward from Salajana, to attack the left. The I reach had based those heights with artillers, which opened on the allies, as soon as they attempted to advance from the river, and with so destructive a fire, that it became necessary for them to halt and bring two brigades of guns to oppose it. Meantime the contest was maintained at Sabijana with great obstinacy, the enemy feeding their attacks from a wood, in which their troops were assembled in great force when a brigade which Sir Rowland had detached along a range of mountains to turn their flank appeared, and at the same time Sir Thomas Picton approached their front, they gave ever their attempts to recover the village, and began to think rather of retreat, than of a successful resistance And when Sir Thomas pushed on to take the large circular bill in the flank, while the 4th division moved simultaneously upon the village in the centre, their whole force prepared to fall back upon the town, retreating before the allies could close, but keeping up a hot fire from their artillery The 8rd division first came in contact with their columns. and by a gallant attack captured 23 of their gum, which they had not time todraw into the road. The other divisions pressed them in front. At this moment, both the winning and the loring game were played with coreal shall, the allies advancing by espayed with equal same, measures arranging of se-chellons of battalions, in two or three lines, second ing to the nature of the ground 1 and the French retiring before them in the most orderly manner and taking advantage of ery favourable opportu-nity to make a tand. And here it happened that General Colville brigade which was on the left centre, and most in ad ance became by an accicentra, and most in all ance beamer by an accident of the ground separated from his support; the enemy who loss no opportunity in action, attacked firm, though out of 1,000 seen 1 lost 250

"While the right and the centre following up finel success, were push get in certal pack upon
"While the right and the centre following up finel success, were push get in certal back upon "White the left as all succing pon that sown by the high road from Bibe. Se Thomas Graham with that column, had been moved as the recording evening to Marrons, and had then so considerable a round to mak that t as tru a clock before he began to descend into the plan. General Giron, with the Spanish arm bad been detached to the left under deferent view of the state of affairs t but having been recalled and reached Ordina on the yesterday he marched from thesee in the sourning a as to be in read uses to support hir Thomas Graham, if his support should be required

"The enemy had do isless of infastry and some "The enemy gast at aroon so this only and moner cavalry advanced you the Dilbon road, resting their right on some strong heights correcting the village of Gamarra Mayer and both that village and thechaen were strongl secupied as tites a The Leights were attremed lash in face and flack by Brigulier General Pack's Portuguese Prigade, and Longa a Spanish daision, an period for Major General Anson's lengues of light diagonar, and the 5 li division of infantry, all under the examined of Major General U nold, and ther were carned, both Spanish and Portuguese beliaving admirably. Longa then with little resistence, got per ensign of Gamarra Menor, and the larger village of the same many was stormed and fals his Brigadier General Robinson's brigade of the 5th division, shich advanced under a least for of artillery and musketry without firing a shet. The eventy suffered reversly there and lost three pieces of cannon. Sir Thomas Gridian then proceeded to attack the village of Absolute with the let disigon, they formed a strong latters against it, under cover of which Colonel Halkett's brigade advanced to the attack supported by General Bradford's brigade of Portuguese infantry. Three gans and a howitzer were taken on the bridge here, and the village was curried. While the contest of Abechuco continued, the enemy seeing their commumeation with Bayonin threatened, marched a strong body to their right in the hope of recovering Gamarra Mayor They were driven back in confusion, made a second attempt, and were again repulsed, for Sir Thomas had loop holed the houses in front of the bridge, placed willers to flank the approach, and stationed several battalions concerled along the walls, and their fire repulled the enemy upon a third advance. But the Yrench had two divisions of infantry in reserve upon the heights on the left of the Zadorra, Sir Thomas, therefore, could not cross the river with such a corps in front till the troops which had moved upon the centre and the left of the French, shookl have drives them through Viltaria. About six in the evening this was done, and the corps which held him in check retrosted, lest it should be taken in rear. The left then crossed the Edderra, took possession of the high read to Bayonne, and forced the right as well as the left enters of the secure yack rists the Fampelium read; and now they were unable to held any pedition long smooth for drawing off their artillery and begritze. In the supremire language of another who here sho part in the vietney. They were the provided heat of the same than the strency they were the provided heat of the same and in the strency they were the provided heat of the same and the strency they were the provided to the town, and all proud about the term. Every where here they had been attached every where she provided and now very where were put to under root.

"They themsel "s had in many actions made strence had they reduced an army even of my volunteers, to such a state of total wrete. Stores, hagging artitlery every thing was alandoned; doe gon and one howitare only were they also to carry off and the gen was taken before it could reach lampetines; 131 pleers of beas out sance on travelling carriages, were taken power than 400 easters, more than 14,000 round of ammentation, and easily two millions of more than continued and the strency of the strend of the country was also the strend of the and the left of the French, should have driven them shield of 501 limitsh killed 2,000 wounded 1 190 Vertopers and 50 Spaniaria killed, 80 and 464 wounded—the total love not appossit x to 5,004 The French acknowledged a found 8,500—enquestionally it was greater; and mobe than 1,000 primaries after the same and the source were altern, for as soon as they feath determined the control with the control of the contro any in fight. Having a and one-half their annummation waggons, they had not the power to blow up the bridges; had this been done, the jurious would have been greatly impeded, attempts had been made to break them up with piek axes, and in this they partly succeeded in reveral places. But the country was too much inter-ected with ditches for eavalry to set with effect in pursuit, and infantry who moved in military order, could not at their utmost speed keep up with a rout of fugitives. Yet precipitate as their flight was, they took great prima to bear off their wounded, and dismounted a regiment of cavalry to carry them on. And they carefully endeavoured to conceal their dead, stopping occasionally to collect them and throw them into ditches, where they covered them with bushes. Many such recept cless were found, containing tento twenty bodies.

"The Intruder narrowly escaped The 10th Hussars entered Vittoria at the moment that he was hastening out of it in his carriage. Captain Wyndham with one squadron pursued, and fired into the carriage, and Joseph had barely time to throw himself on his horse and gallop off under the protection of an escort of dragoons. The carriage was taken, and in it the most splendid of his trinkets, and the most precious articles of his royal plunder. Marshal Jourdan's staff was among the prophics of the field, it was rather more than a foot long, and covered with blue velvet, on which the imperial eagles were embroidered, and it had been tipped with gold, but the first inder secured the gold for himself. The case was of red morocco with silver clasps, and with eagles on it, and at either end the Marshal's name imprinted in gold letters. Lord Wellington sent it to the Prince

Regent, and was graciously presented in return with the staff of a Field Marshal of Great Britain. The spoils resembled those of an oriental rather than of spoin resembled code of an occasion remove hands as European army; for the Introduce who in his relievable situation had abandoned himself to every liked of semsuafity had with him all his loweries. His plunder his wardrobe, his sideboard, his larder and his cellar fell into the conqueror's hands. The brench officers, who carried the postliential manners of their nation wherever they went, followed his example as far as their means allowed, and thus the finest wines and choicest delicasies were found in prefusion. The wives and the mistraines of the officers had enthered together in one house, where they were sale, and from whence they were sent in their own carriages with a flag of truce to Pampeluna. I'codies, parrots, and monkies, were among the prisoners. beldom has such a scene of confuslog been witnessed as that which the reads leading from the field I battle presented p-broken down warrens atoried with claret and champagne others lides with ratables dressed and understed, cashs of brandy appared of every kind, barrels of money books, papers, sheep cattle, horses, and rollers, abandoned in the flight. The briggage was presently rifled, and the follow re of th camp aftire! themsel es in the gala dresses of the flying enemy ; l'ortuguese boys figured about in the dress conts of k rench general officers a and they who happened t draw a woman a wardrube us the lattry converted silks and solins and surbes dered muslim, into scarls and makes for their mangerrade triumph. Some of the more fortunate soldiers got possession of the rany chest, and looded themsel es with money t Let there, said Lord Wellington when he was infermed of it; they descrip all they can find

acre it ten times more. The camp of every divimen was like a fair; benches were laid from waggon to waggon, and there the rolders held an anct or through it e might, and disposed of tueli plander as had fallen to their share, to any who would purchase it. Even dollars became an article of sale, for they were too heavy to be carried in any great numbers, eight were offered for a guinen—guineas which had been strick for the payment of the troops in Portugal, and made current by a deeree of the Regency, ham, the gold currency. The people of Vittoria laid their share of the spoils, and some of them indemnified themselves thus for what they had suffered in their property by the enemy's exactions.

" The cits sustained no injury, though the French were driven through it, and though great part of the bittle might be seen from every window thing could be more mouraful than its appearance that night,—a lantern at every door, and no one in the streets—It was the first place where the allies had found that the inhabitants were I rench in feeling Two days of heavy run impeded the pursuit, but the run sixed many houses from the flaines, for the French wreaked their vengeance upon every thing which they could destroy in their light Every house at which the pursuers arrived had been gutted by the fugitives, every village set on fire, and the few inhabit cuts who had not taken flight in time had nict with no increy, at every step the allies found havee, and flames, and misery, the dying and the dend. Such was the prine among the fugitives, that, finding the gates of Painpeluna closed, they attempted to force their way over the walls, and did not desist till they were opposed by a serious fire of cannon and muskery. A council of war was held there, in which it was resolved to blow up the works and abundon the place; I with this inten-they destroyed ammunition and tore down palleader from the outworks. But the intruder knew that they descreyed amminition and tore down paisables from the outworks. But the lutrifier Linew that the presention of an strong a festrone would in some degree cover the flight; and the last act of his numried authority was to order that every artist of food and field should be taken from the Spanisard, who were within reach.—By the rigorous execution of this order the quantity in the lowe was more than doubled; and having left a gardene absorbed that the strong the strong that the strong th by the darkness and confusion, they recepted with smaller los than they must eitherside best suffered. They were pursued along the road to Bayone, and disloded from every other post where they stress to make a stand and drives scross the Bi-danson, which forms the boundary in that direction letween Syale and St. Februstian was blockaded by Spanish troops. A force was also despaticled agricul Operad Clausei, who made a nerve ex-cept after being all bit grans. On the let of July the strong caustie of Liversite's residency, and soon every fertified post routh of the Elico was in the hands of the Spanistels. On the 6th, Suchet quitted Valencia; and on the 7th, the last divisions of Joseph's army, driven by a succession of brilli-ant manousces, from the fertile valley of San Esterin, presed the Pyreners. They had been pursued by Hill, through the difficult defile of Lanz, from Pampeluna, while their right had been threatened by Lord Dalhousie's movements to-wards San Estevan Lord Wellington had now possession of the passes of San Latevan, Domia Maria, Maya, and Roncesvalles, and from the rugged ridge of the Pyrenees, his sentinels looked down on the fertile plains of I ranec. In forty five days his army had penetrated thither from Portugal; unresisted, he had marched 400 miles, defeated in a general action the forces of Joseph, taking all his artillery, and despoting him of much of his pluider, had driven him hurriedly through a strong and defensible country, and compelled him to quit with disgrace that land of which he was the titular sovereign. The only places in Spain still in possession of the French were Pampeluna and St. Schastan, preparations were made to reduce these their last strongholds

When the intelligence of these triumplis reached England, the national feeling was strongly excited, and those demonstrations of general joy which they so richly merited took place. A rich consolation was now afforded for all the sacrifices Britain had so nobly made, when she saw the enemy of freedom so signally foiled. A general rejoicing took place throughout the land, and the victory of Vittoria was celebrated by the village bonfire, and the festive light of cities. Thanks were voted to the army by both Houses of Parlament, and

783

Marquis Wallington was made Field Marchal of Lengthand mader currentmatures of speculine bosons accompanied by the letter from the Prince Repress, written with his own knot. The Prince these wrotes: "I feet I have nothing more to say but derought to after up my prayers of gratitude to Providences, that it has in its conspocent bounty bessed my sountry and my self with such a General. You have sent me among the trophics of your surfivalled fines, the staff of a French Marshall, I send you, in return that of Esgland. The Brittish army will bail it with submissions.

that army will rail it was set amount.

The definal at y north was I (it throughout Darspe and affected Napoleon In the mides of the successes be had galaced as Germany at the field of Intern and Hanness with the most bitter anyer and disappelatures. It was evident that unless immediate efforts were most content that unless immediate efforts were most entered to arrest after Wellington to the most efforts economyomese might enter the was might be earlied for the was a forter to the second of the second of the property of the second of the secon locures of Finner.

Preparations were therefore made to meet the ungency of the crisis; a the wrecks of the armies of Pertagal, of the centre, and of the north were sellected; their thinned ranks were filled by retafercements drafted by a new concentration; and the concentration which while the control to be ablest generaly.

Soult, Duke of Delineties, who is not become would get drive the British out of Speni-

Soult took the field at the head of nearly 100,000 men, and with the immense advantage of being able to concentrate his whole force at any point he might select, whilst Wellington's army, with two singes to cover, was necessarily spicial over an extended line, while from the nature of the ground it had taken up, the different divisions, though stationed in strong and commanding positions, were cut off from these communication with each other, by abrupt and frowning precipies steep rocks, and impassable ravines. It was evident that the approaching contest would be one of no ordinary interest, both from the momentous consequences in volved, and from the high reputation of the hostile commanders.

Operations were commenced against Pampeluna and St. Schastian These were two of the four fortresses which Bourparto had seized before throwing off the mask, and disclosing his designs against Spain. Both are strongly fortified-Pampeluna indeed is one of the strongest in the Penin ula, and St Sebastian lay so near the I rench coast, that no vigilance could prevent its receiving supplies by sea Lord Wellington therefore blockaded the one, and besieged the other. He had indeed first resolved to besiege Pampeluna, when Sir Rowland Hill invested it on the 25th of June, but after examining the formidable nature of the place, which mounted 200 pieces of ordnince, and was garrisoned by 4,000 men, he resolved not to assault it, as it could only be carried at a great waste of lives. Strong field works were thrown up around it, so that the investing force had command of the roads and communications, mine redoubts were erected on favorable beights, armed with the gone captured at Vittoria; and Lord Delhousie who had hitherto conducted the blockade, committed its management to the Spanish army of reserve under O Donnel. Sir Thomas Graham with 10,000 men, was appointed to conduct the operations before St. Sebastian. This town is built upon a low Penissah, which runs north and south; there rises at the extremity a rocky height called Monte Orguello, which measures at the base 400 yards by 600 and time steeply to a point on which is a small citadel called La Mota, a defensive line near its foot cuts off this height from the town, and its southern face is covered with batteries which run into the lower defences of the place. The fortifications present a very formklable appearance. The sole land ap-proach is by a low sandy submans, occupied by works, and evaruanded by the castle gums; but so the left flask are consuderable sand bills about 700 yards distant, which cufflade and take in reverse the front defeners. A double into of works crossed the fatheres, with counter-searp, co and way and glacia, but those which run lengthways comes only fa single line for treating to the water to render them inaccounts they to built without any cover list the northern line is completely exposed to the sund hiffs the trunces, which flows by that side of the town, may be forded before and after low water for several bours, the tid recoding so much that a

-80

the town, may be forcied before and after few water for serveral bours, the tid recoding so much that a space is left day by which roops may be marched to the foot of the kins. It was determined to effect a breach in the easters will from the sand hills, and as soon as it was fermed, to sterm by bobly advancing to the walls at lew waters previous to which the enemy required to be driven from the convent of St. Harushopse and the advancey works. The guns, amount on, and stores, but feel landed from Passages, and so the lath laterness were opened against the content. Lext day the south end of the church was beaten down, the rest of the convent reportedly in flames, and the half-ing almost reduced to a rt ell. A D pounder and hownzer battery was planted on the eppe he ride of the Urumea, to fire on the adje ning red a bt junt the 17th the works and convent were extred; though the assailing parts, by advancing too far, suffered much from the tre of the fortress, and were harassed by a body of troops cent to the relict of the convent they kept their ground havever, The batteries fixed on the rand bills were finished, and mounted with twenty heavy gone and twelves moriars and howitzers, and he the 25th two price ticable breaches, respectively thirty and ten yards wide, were assaulted at low water time. A mine had been formed under the glacis of the front line of works, the bursting of which was to be the signal for the attack of a storming party of 2,000 men. Favoured by the confusion and alarm caused by the explosion, they were enabled to reach the larger breach with little loss, but the garrison speedily recovering from their temporary punic, opened so sweeping and destructive a fire, in front and flank, that after a gallant resistance, they were driven back with the loss of more than one fourth of their numbers Sumulated by this success, the French a few hours after, made a sortie, succeeded in surprising the Portuguese troops in the trenches, and carried back with them 200 prisoners

Lord Wellington, who had on the 14th committed

Lord Wellington, who had on the 14th committed the conducting of operations to Graham, no sooner heard of this unfortunate assault, than he returned from his head quarters at Lezaca, and finding that his supplies and amminition were nearly exhantised made arrangements for the temperary suspension of the siege. That same night, on his returns to Lexica, he was told that the French had overstrossed his troops at two passes to the right, had poured with an overwhelming force into the valles of the systems, and were advantage on Pampelman. To the officer who conveyed to him this altaming forces and the state of the second of the sec are given the man given brees intend of Venuingman splatters, and and Mortilo's Spanish in Indistry occupied the pass of Roncevalles to the atternish splitt there were supported at libearet by Cole a, sind at Oliopor by I seem of rislona. The rate of lifestian was healed by Hill, who had Walkere and part of Fringles brigades. The remainder of the real daties was placed in reserva in the valley; and Amaraste Portugueso use by in the passess esset of Mara, about fifteen used by Hill and Campbell Purtuguese brigade was at Las Abdalece, within the French territory. The 7th and light of rislones occupied the belights of Santa Harhara, Vera, and the Poerdo de Schalas bolding evaneunication with Hastan from the last point.

At San Everan the 6th derivine was placed in rerea on their right, with those of Giron on the print of the state of the College of read to the life of the Santa San

The me oftain region which they occupe I, pre-eened predictly grand and partirrague is river; with the except on of the fertile and I caut ful confi-era end of the value of San Patevan, the exc of the beholds, sees only the every and wild variety of alpane seeners. Mauntains of the most varied forms are piled together, at one part piercing the clouds with their gray and jagged pinnacles, at another, long and laborious paths conduct to green and rounded summits. Every where are wild rivines, and torrents choked up by huge fragments of rocks. These wilds are traversed by narrow and stony rords, unding through dark and shadows fast-nesses, the only sounds he ad by the solution fraveller, are the rush of the torrent, and the scream

of the engle

Soult's lirst object was the relief of Pampelina, and he intended to attack on the same day both the passes of Roncesvalles and Mayn, the roads from which converge upon that fortress. The right of the allied arms, as we have alreads mentioned, was at Honcestalles, ground consecrated by the genus of romence. On the 24th, Soult attacked General Bying at the latter pass, with nearly 40,000 men, Sir Loury Cole moved up to his support, and the two generals maintained the post throughout the dry against great superiority of numbers, with distinguished brivery, but in the afternoon their position was timed, and in the night they retreated to Zeiberi. The same day Hill's corps was attacked by two divisions of the enemy's centre, who were aided by an unexpected chance. Two advanced videttes, posted on a high ground, to give timely warning of their approach, fell asleep during the heat of the day, the enemy thus advanced unnoticed, and were in the camp almost before the his supplicted be given. Favoured by this miceked made arident, they gained the position which af of the a them a passage to Pampelena in the rear of Lexicalitida right flank; and though liftly after a bit vry loss, recovered the key of the position, he withan unable to pursee his advantage and re-assures frit, as he had heard of General Cole's intended of movements; he therefore fell lank to Irarita. Wellington ha log been acquainted with those events during the night, took immediate steps to concentrate the army on the right, still keeping up the investments of the fertiveness for the reliaf of which the enemy directed their efforts. This would have been accomply-boil on the 27th, had the post have been accomplished on the 27th, had the post of Zoliri been turnishe, but Prison and Cole, con-vinced of the contrary retired dust same morals to a position four rules from Parapelans, to cave the blockade; and here as they took op their ground they were blocked by Lord Wellington. His pre-sence was required there for the parameta a tunit demo was high because of the appractia at their friends; and the Spanish general, despairing of some of his guns, and the sneary having action forth, took four-tern of them. But the bope of the garrison were doomed to be soon blasted

The French assumed a bill on the rights and valuely endocurred to possess it, ill injust ended the conflict. Next morning I also than with the third division arrived from San Estevan and formed across the ralley of the Lanx behind Coles left. Scarcely was this position taken up, when a superior force attached them I but it was so well classes and without that the French were per by a simultanesses and will directed fore as their front. For all the third direct lack with isa.

mense loss. Soult never recovered this false movement; the battle became peneral along the whole front of the height held by the 4th division; only in one point did the French succeed in establishing themselves upon the British line, and from that they were speadily dislodged. Los as regiment of this brave corps charged with the broonet, and four of them made four different charges. Soult now perceived that no impression could be made upon the allies' front, till be could do so in safety, he sent back his goins to France, and now determined to attempt the relief of Pampelium, by attacking Sir Rowland Hill, and thus turning the allies' left.

The numerous and superior force which had crused Hill to retire, followed him, and arriving at Orters on the 29th, brought a strong reinforcement to Soult. The position of the I reach, Lord Wellington considered, to be one of the strongest and most difficult of access that could be occupied, but he resolved to attempt it, and as they were man-cenvering upon the British left, and endeavouring to turn it, he attacked them on both flanks, and in front, and notwithstanding the extraordinary strength of the post, carried it. In proportion as he graned ground, he sent troops to assist Hill, who was thus embled to attick in his turn, and Soult, now builted on all points, began his retient, which he accomplished in an orderly manner, but with severe loss. The loss of the French in these actions was estimated at 15,000, the British and Portuguese had 862 killed, 5,335 wounded, and 700 missing, the Spainards, who were only slightly engaged, lost but 204. "The actions of the Pyrenecs were remarkable for the extent on which the operations were carried on, the nature and celebrity of the ground, and the importance of the object at ainke. Lord Wallington had never more occasion f r sil his skill, and that skill we here more wall notly displayed it his movements were all well-dirocted, well-timed, and well ascented; and the superiority of the British and Fortuguese armice, generals and men, as a never more decisively proved than on the occasion, when the French displayed their utmost talents and a verted their nemost courage."

courage."

No sooner had Soult retreated, than preparations were made for the renewal f the slegs. If St. Senstain it is stores in the heiging trails were relained, and more artillery arrived from England. The garriers had press the lateral in strengthening and adding to their defences. The plan now formed wa to is, open their remeable where or ach red of the first treech, and connect 15 with the second whole was to it ripht; add to it smother on the left, and demodich a demi-hattles to the contract of the state of the left of the whole, by which the approach was flanked. A morter fattery was also exceed to finhed. A newtar fattery was also errected to more the cauthe across the law. The slegs recommended on the 28th, and the latteries opened two dax aft a 1 w unoverselful sorties were at tempted by the garrison, who enden outself to require a night the lay or done of ring the day 1 cleared away the rubbeds, and at the point to which the grams were directed, let down large soile beams, to break the free of the slot. On the 22th the one-pit fine was nearly subleads, and they had been many men by the ejected two-slots, and near were lavited to relatively for the soon in "Such more were lavited to relatively of the soon in "Such more than the way to mean it a browning the solid side of the trong the way to meant a browning. Next Thomas Gratian way to meant a browning hereon. The options of attack was composed of the 2nd brigade of the 5th division, commanded by General Robinson, supported by 150 volunteers of the light division, 400 of the 1st, and 200 from the 4th, with the remainder of the 5th as a reserve, the whole under Sir James Leith's direction. About eleven o'clock on the 31st, the advanced parties moved out of the trenches, and the enemy almost instantly spring two mines, to blow up the wall on the left of the breach, along which the troops moved, but as they were not in very close order, or very near the wall, not above twenty men were crushed by the ruins.

The garrison prepared to make a most formidable resistance, and from two batteries of the castle opened a fire of grape and shells on the columns. The forloin hope was cut off to a min, the front of the following parties were swept away as by one shot, the breach, when the assailants reached it, was presently covered with their bodies, many as they ascended, were overthrown, by those above them rolling down, and the highest the wounded and the dead, were hurled down the ruins together. From the Murador and Prince batteries, from the keep of the castle, from the high curtain to the left of the breach, from some ruined houses about 40 yards in front, loop-holed and hined with musketry, a concentrated fire was kept up, a line of intrenchments carried along the nearest parallel walls swept the summit of the breach, and the hornwork flanked and communded the ascent, almost every possible point was manned.

All that the most determined courage could day was repeatedly tried in vain by the troops, as they were successively brought forward from the trenches "Nothing," says Sir Thomas Grahain, could be more Lillacions than the appearance of the breach. Not hithstanding its great stent, there was but one point where it was possible to exter and that only by sig do files. All the incide of the wall to the right of the currian formed a perpendicular scarp of at least "0 feet to the fevel of the streety, so that the marrow ridge of the currial itself, formed by the breaching of its cod and fronty we the only scre-sitle point. During the screen we have only scre-sitle points and proportions for the signs the currial proportions for the signs the correct by respectively the screen of the signs of the sig introncluments and tim. Press in the horsework, on the rumpuris, and mixed of the stown reposite the hermach ready to form a mean descript. In ord muskety to both flathed of the percent test to post the hermach probability of the certain. It mas estimated the attempt to gain the redge. So extra old continuous a fire was kept up on the way to the breach that order was kept up on the way to the breach that order were sent to remove the devel of diging which per vented the progress of the troops. Under these despirate formunitations, Graham adopted the bold resolution of evidency the grain to be torned against the curtain. A how a fire was unmerchal to present any only a fire first above the knoth up as at troops and kept p with see they are present plants further than the curtain. A here a fire was unmisted to prod precision of practices. Heamwhite Societies all of the present plants of the times have at mostile, and green possesses gainstif further the themses now at mostile, and green possesses and a transition of practices. Lien li was determined to renew he attack. Once the secret and the trough were ordered to averal and bet a very kazard to gain the riley a natitate was also made on the Loriawek. Ju t as the men restrict the branch the first of the smilery personated the (looke of a quant ty of eartridges, brhuit one of the traverses of the curtain, which threw the French into considerable confusion The narrow pass was gained and kept, hats were waved from the terre plein of the curtain, the troops rushed forward, and drove the enemy down the steep flight of steps near the great gate leading from the works into the town. At the same time a detachment which occupied the right of the breach, forced the barricades on the top of the narrow line-wall, and entered some houses near it. In many places scaling ladders were needed, before the men could get down. The assailants now effected a lodgment on the summit of the breach, and the troops impetu-ously pushed forwards. The French dead lay heaped upon each other between a round tower and the right breach The contest was still continued from barricades in the streets, and musketry from - the houses, but between four and five in the afternoon, the French were driven from their last defonces into the castle By this time several parts of the town were on fire, and to add to the horrors of the scene, the vindictive enemy fired shells into About three in the afternoon, the day, which had been very sultry, became suddenly cold, the sky was over east, and with the blended gloom of the rain and the smoke, give the appearance of a dusky evening, but the darkness of night was fearfully lighted by the flames of the burning town

A dreadful storm of thunder, rain, and wind ensued, and man's wrath rendered it more dreadful than the elements. Miny officers had fillen, and the few that remained, could not restruin the headlong fury, and license of the men, many of whom their passions heated by the terrible assult, raged like demons. The spectacle was terrific, for as the garrison of the castle fixed down the streets, the fames raged and the falling ruins created the sol-diery mad with introlession, were plundering the houses, and the frequent xploakes of fire-arms, showed that a fearful work was poing on. Saveral days clapsed before order was restored, during which the town presented an axin scene The few remaining inhabita is secured steptified with horror; they had soffered so much that they looked with apath on all around them, and carcely moved, even when the crach of a falling I saw made the expitors run. The bodiesse English, in risqueese and French soldiers lay bespect on each other so determined that the one such attacked and the other manutaised its ground. Many of the assail-nant lay dead on the rest of th bouses near the breach. The bodies were threw into the rules. and other excavatages, and there co ered over se as to be out of eight but so bestily and lightly that he did far and ones was tained; fires were kindled in the brunches, to commune those that send not be otherwise disposed of In the senait, 2,000 risen and officers had failen; Sr Richard Pietcher commanding en-meer an officer of great ability severaly wounded.

severely wounded.

I reparations were now made to reduce the certif, but the operations of the besserers were ret releft by the necessary of quesche in it, the finess with it had pread three in the holt tawn. On the 9th September 25 process of artistry operated on the casale with such iteratives first, that it is few hours the white fact was bed ted out the 3 larger of sufficient with the process of the state of the s -

Some made an attempt to relieve St. Bolastian, en

the very-day upon which the British earned it. The the very any upon we chief strength of the covering army consisted of 8,000 Spanish troops, under General Frere Two French divisions forded the Bidassoa in front of their line, ascending confidently the strong heights; the Spaniards stood steady, and when their column had nearly gained the summit, made such a strong bayonet charge, that the French broke, fled down the hill, and crossed the Bidasson with such precipitation, that many were drowned by missing the ford But having haid down a pontoon bridge, with 15,000 men they rando a general attack on the heights of San Markini As the enemy came on, Lord Wellington rede along the Spanish line, and was received with Idud and repeated vivas. The French got a second bayonet charge, fled for their lives, and were again driven in panic across the river, the bidge suik with the pressure, and many with it, to rise no more Lord Wellington spoke in the highest terms of the conduct of the Spaniards on these occasions

During the ineffectual attempt to reach St Sebastian by the high load, strong columns of the enemy having forded the liver, strived to turn the right flank, and gain the one which lay near it. As the heights there were not judged turble, the Portuguese, and Inglis' brighdes retired to a lofty and steep ridge near the convent of St Antonia. No sooner did the French perceive this than they lost hope of gaining the position, but as the heavy rains during the day had rendered the fords impassable, they attacked Skeriet's brighde on two points, in order to gain the bridge of Bern, and ultimately succeeded in effecting a passage by it, though exposed to a severe fire, which caused much loss. The defents suftained in these attempts were peculiarly mortifyin to the French military pride, as the Spanish troops majory had been opposed to them

After the fall of St. Schastian, nearly a month e speed before Lord Wellington could commence assume the defensive till Pampelana surrendered. But that he might do this with greater advantage But that he ought do this with greater advantage when the proper essaon arre of he resulved to deperts the ensemy of an advanced position on the right of the Bladsson, the Ley of which was the strong monatum of La Rhome before the passed vers. Ment La Rhome had been already remark able by ha ing been the object of a sevace costs; it in 1731 because its scenarial served as a watertower which commanded the hole country bepower which commanded use now country to-incent the 1 process and Hayorna. On it it is was a hermitage which the I which had converted into a military post; prepared alterapts were hade to storm it, but it was found unpossible to scale the rock on which it stated. The commy held it that hight, too they suit a rock on the most tale-ras night, now there with a rock on the most influences to the right of the hypatrials. When the fig-cleared spacet may be a Lord W limpton reconstruct, a sail perceived that I was beautiffically of acrees on the right, and that has less difficult of acrees the right, and that has less on the right and that has a like an attack in ght be sealed in the same time on the right and reconstruction of the same times on the right and acrees the right and the same takes by Dari being the clean of the camp in the little before the same and of the camp in the same than the same that the same times are same the same times are same to the camp in the same times are same to the same times are same times as the first of the same times are same times as the first of the same as the first of the same as the first of the same times are the same as the first of the same times and the same times are the same as the first of the same times are the same as the first of the same times are the same as the first of the same times are the same times as the first of the same times are the same times as the first of the same times are the same times are the same times as the same times are the

On the 31st October the garrison of Pampeluna, 4,000 in number, sui rendered after a four months' blockade, and when Don Carlos de Espain took possession of it, he shewed a proper spirit, and rofused to grant terms to the garrison till he ascu-tained that none of the inhabitants had been subjected to violence or ill treatment during the blockade In the autumn of this year, the British, exposed on the cold and cloudy summits of tho Pyrences, with only rude huts and tents to shelter them from the blasts, suffered many hardships; the piquet and night duties were rendered pecu-liarly harassing in consequence of the inclement weather Their propinquity to France caused nany desertions, which severe examples were required to check. But no sooner did operations commence for entering the French territory, than the spirits of the men arose, and every beart beat high with confident expectations of victory and triumph.

CHAPTER XIII

Lord Wellington enters Prance—Present the Brethe-Adetions in the Pyresers—Prestice of the French at Reports —People to Municipa. Creating of the Adext—Britle of Orther—Such, returns to Tooleous—Bettle of Toolone—Marginia Wellingson, bright in Expland—His recycless—Hi or her the th. t. of Pyrismons—Made a Duks—Presents on Automate to Pyrismons—Made a

Broaz commencing operations in the French territory. Lord Well gion beauth to list any a proclamation, pre-crite g to them the conduct which they were so beerer after passing the frontler. It is well worthy f preservation, as an impressive contrast to the conduct of the I reach General in Figuin, who not only permitted but themsel reritated in excesses, the recital of which shocks horacally

"Officers and soldiers," he said, "must recollect that there nations are at war with France soldy because the raise of the French nature with not allow them to be at peace and if decreme of forcing them to submit to has, they and they must not forget, that the worst of the evils self-red by the suns to a formy in this prefigure town is not Cyain and Protuctual, have been sectassized by the importance of it is above, and the freedies at their includes and of the submitted of the submitted of the submitted and the tants of those countries. To a special had an accountry of the nature to which they can andered worth of the nature to which the running and asworthy of the nature to which the running and asworthy of the nature to which the running and as-

T enforce it is admirable ad fre was however an easy matter. The limitsh trusps indeed mount the strict due place and inspection of their off cers, were effectually restrained, nor was any such restraint in most cases necessary, but the Spanish and Portugueso, burning with the sense of past wrongs, and their minds occupied by the remembrance of the atrocities committed by the I rench in the Pennisula, were disposed to retaliate on the inhabitants the injuries with which their own countries had been visited. Instances of outrige accordingly at first occurred, but Lord Wellington s firmness in bringing the culprits to punishment, soon put a stop to these vindictive nets, which tho peaceable demeanour of the people had done no-thing to provoke The strictest discipline was preserved during the compaign in southern France; and the highest price demanded was paid for the forage and other supplies of the army Tho inhabitants, many of whom had left their dwellings on the approach of the invaders, speedily returned, and secure of a favourable market for their produce, opened a lucrative traffic. It was in this instance shewn how much the moral conduct and character of an army depends on its generals, never perhaps since the days of the great Gustavus, had such discipline been maintained in an enemy's country, the Spaniards and Portuguese, stifling their bitter remembrances, obeyed the injunctions of the great chief whom they had followed to victory, and behaved so well, that, by the confession of the French themselves, their own armies were thoso whom they chiefly drended

On the failure of Soult's efforts in the Pyrenees, he proceeded to form a strong line of defence, twelve miles in length, protecting the town of St. Jean de Luz, and extending from the ser, across the Nivelle to the heights beyond Amboe. The whole position had been fortified with the utmost the columns cloud up. Night put an end to the firing, and found the ailles in rear of the French firing, and found the allies in rear of the Fresch, it is Under cover of night, foult withdrew from the original part of the position, and left Lord Wellougton army in possession of the whole line. The bean of these optendid operations was, through the first found his long proposed and strongly fortified position, with the less of 50 gars, 1,500 princers, belies afters and ammunition. Soult presents, as in the seaso of gars, Julio primeres, better stores and annumiation. Soult had 70,000 men, but this troops did not fight. The loss of the allies announced norgy and print. The loss of the allies announced no soulced be averaging the season of the season o officet.

effect.

The Precish new concentrated themselves within an it trucked camp in f set of B rease. Lend VI gian to a p personn strengthened by a line I del nest companie, while it is missed the terrory jies left next suggested by the sea, bit programmes and Camberg U. travejes a reconstructed between the data of the real line of line in the state of the reads, preclashed further in 1 as sace a 1 due reads traveguithmenth for the control of the programmes.

tion was under the fire of the fortified town of Bayonne; his right rested on the Adour, and was protected in front by a morass caused by a rivulet which falls into that river, his centre rested with its right in this morass, and its left hy between the Nieve and the Adour, resting upon the latter, defending the former, and communicating with General Paris' division, at St Jean Piedde Port, the whole position so strong as not to admit of an attack, so long as the enemy kept in force within it. As soon as the state of the weather and the roads permitted, materials for bridges were collected, and preparations made for the passage of the Nieve, on the 9th November, Sir Rowland Hill with the right crossed at Cambo, supported by a division of Beresford's, which crossed likewise at Usteritz Both these operations were successful, and the French, driven from the right bank, retired in the direction of Bayonne, on a range of heights parallel with the Adour they arranged a considerable force, but the British carried them and the adjoining village of Villa Franche Next morning, Soult boldly attacked the British left under Sir John Hope, whose services on this occasion, Lord Wellington and he could not enough applaud

The British fought with the utmost bravery, under Hope's skilful directions, who himself was in the thickest of the fight, had his hat and clothes shot through in many places, had two horses killed under him, and was wounded both on the shoulder and the leg. The French, though their plan of attack had been well framed and was well supported, were totally defeated by comparatively small number of English. On the 11th and 12th, the

sucmy made again two menecosaful attacks on the same quarter. Soil taxing thus falled in his attempts on the alies left, peased through Bayenne during the night, and made a most deeper to attack upon the right, under Util it was great odds, 20,000 French in measure columns, against 1,4000 British and Fortaguese. The seamy came on, determined to gain to his dign of St. Perre will the great road leading to St. Jean Pied de Diett, and break through the position. I'll de position were satisfy and ably made. A heavy fi i rullery caused great lavaed among the advancing French colonina y still they established themsel es in front of the post, and were gausing ground, when the brigades marrhing from the flunks arm of at the ry time of sech, and engared them. The context that full well was lose and bloody but in just of the repeated at vances of the French, they were at length driven lack with great starget er. Soils retired findies, that all his first were value but he present same quarter nd engaged them. The contest that full wed was toors and thoory but un pase of the repeated at vances of the Fernach, they were at length driven lack with great staget or. Sout retired finding that all his first were value to the was pursued to the eyeng ground, and his retirin and displained troops there soutemed considerable loss. If at tempted to make a stand on a favorable loss, the free his travel nesses, and occupied in great streen the ability on the first from which his tray were directly and lost free game. Hill copy on protect, maintained this galant centent. Level Wedliperton who was table to corone up till the a over c. pr. or dhim self hietly delighted with the ability at 1 con fact of the Green's plant the self the free plant is the first present and as be n fe up 1 Hill, book how bearily by hand, with the fact kernach, a Hill, the day's year own pr and a lee tarefued the groon I, result 141 the had to be heart and means of the body.

these contests the French lost, by their own account, 1,300 killed and 4,600 wounded, the allies had nearly 5,000 placed hors do combat. Thus baffled in all their attempts to dislodge the British, the French main body retired from Bayonne, and marched up the right bank of the Adour towards Dax

The weather was very wet, and the roads so mary, that Lord Wellington placed his troops in cantonments and gave them a season of rest. The British advanced posts were now very near those of the enemy, their right rested on the Adour, their left on the sea, and thus they remained in peace till the beginning of February

Indeed the military glory of the imperial armies was now become obscured, and a long succession of disasters in every quarter of Europe had made the troops lose heart. In the battle of Leipzig their forces had been destroyed, Saxony and Bavaria had revolted, and the success of Austria had brought the Russian, Prussian, and Austrian armies to the Rhine Napoleon, everywhere beset by cnemies and dangers, was demanding of the people, who had enjoyed such BLESSINGS under his sway, impossible sacrifices and exertions He had caused the obsequious senate to pass a decree for the levy of 300,000 men, and the doubling of the public contributions this was impossible, but still much was done to recruit his ranks, and replemsh his exhausted treasury. But his people discontented, now openly murmured against his iron rule,—the hard working citizen apprehended ruin, the mothers of France bewailed their silent hearths -and all classes sighed and praved for peace southern France especially, the inhabitants hated

Napoleon and were anxious to rend supplies to the British camp, such "golden opinisms" had brid lington won from them by his secure protection from injury, and the surfet bosonor of all his control of the supplies and the surfet bosonor of all his control of the supplies and the proposals repeatedly made to human the British by Irregular variance and cut off their supplies; and were content to leave to their own armon—the objects both of their fars and haterd—the processation of the of their leaf and narred—the protection in the war. It is curious t notice h polees feeling at this time as evinced in the following address to his control of state. He yes were thoroughly specied to his peritous position. "Wellington," said he "is in the south) the Rossians threates the northern frontier | America, the south-castern; yt, shame to speak it I the nathy he not rises yt, shame to speak it I the nathy he not rises a masse to ripet there is every ally he abandoned me—the he arties have betrayed me—libered. No prace till Manuch is no flures, i—l demand sy you 300,000 men. I will form a camp at Herdrant of 100 000-monther at Lyan-me twind at M tz. ad 100 000-asother at hypon-seq ture as as no-With the remeants of my former levies, I shall ha a 1,000,000 of men onder arms. But it is sur-whorn I demand from you-full-grown men in the prices of life; not those subscrable conscript atrip-lings, who chok, my horpitals with sick, and my with the cry war i were the strength of conflicting passions which belied within his leven t. He had reason to be agrated—for his throne we bettering and heaving moder him! The people saw his hope her woodlines in spite of the read false reports with side him high the columns of h Mentger under his personal inspection, were filled Many of the French intion beheld with satisfaction the progress of the exiled family were reviving, and before the Duc British and Foreign armies d'Angouleme went to the British camp, an agent of Louis XVIII arrived at Bordeaux, who was instructed to see M de la Roche Jaquelin, and inform him that the king depended on him for La Vendée In Roche Jaquehn—a name rendered famous for the sacrifices made by those who bore it in the royal cause—had been a firm friend of the Bourbons in their time of adversity, he inherited the virtues, glories, and fate of his brother, and ended the proclamation to his followers in the samo cloquent and emphatic words, used by him twenty years before, when he went forth to a hopcless contest with the revolutionary armics—"Si j'anance, suives moi—si je recute, tuez moi—si je meurs, and spendeman went through tendeman and Torraine, and speedily raised anew that feeding which the meaning and speedily raised anew that feeling which the national convention had found so difficult to repress

A plan was formed to free Ferdmand VII, but the person who should have conducted it, died just at the time when it was about to take place La Roche Jaquelin's designs were suspected, an express warned him that Savary had issued orders to have him brought before him, dead or alive, h escaped to Bordenux, and thence with difficult reached the British head quarters, where he assure the commander that the inhabitants of Bordent were prepared to take up arms in the royal can 50 soon as a British force should appear He was anxious that a few hundred men should be sent to land him on the coast of Polton, and divert the attention of the two my, while be proposed to raise the La Vendeaus. Lord Wellington heard his communication with much interest; but doubling whether the people were prepared to take up arms for the Bonzbonn, deciled to part with any troops for the proposed expedition as he was now; reparing to pass the Adour

* If I advance, follow me—if I go back, kill me—if I dia, arenge me

While Vapoleon was asming to arrest the nations against but in the booth by diplomation art he was also trying to conclude a treaty with Ferdinand. The articles in which were that Spain blould be vaccated by the troops of France P ruges and England and that all prisoners should be given up. This treaty if agreed to, would have been instructed to bapoleon, by giring him. If the garments in Vapoleon, by giring him. If the garments have in the war and the one crumity of employing Seachet a corpy in France.

Feminand wa and usthat the treaty should be agreed to by the Bann in Government; the progress of the events just narrated, however, of feated it. On the 1 of Jan, 1814 the Property of An Iria, Ro. 1a, an 1 K. ng of Prioria, passed the filth near and wher large arms were a powerful reason why Napoleon should consent to the term of agreemal perceas imposed by them. The september 1 percentage and the interior overers of it. Frence nations but in 1844 framework to Alpa, the Ethic and the 1 typics. Irrated by the demand 1 Asponson origination of the 1 typics of the 1 typics of the 1 typics of the 1 typics of typic in opposition against him were arranged both the royalists and the theoretical republicans, who spoke of violated professions, of outrages committed on freedom, public rights, and private property, during a reign in which the strength of the nation had been wasted in foreign wars, so that Napoleon had lost all claim upon the support of the people, whom he made obedient to his will. Amid this general apathetic indifference, he sent an ambassador to Chatillon to confer on peace—and to strengther his claims, he prepared to take the field

We must now return to the operations at Bayonne In the middle of Feb, Lord Wellington's army advanced, cut off the communication of the French with St Jean Piel de Port, and drove them across the river Bidouze, the Gave de Mouleon, and the Gave d'Oleron By these movements Soult was obliged to diminish his force at Bayonne, and to withdraw his troops from the right of the Adour, above the town

While part of the army was thus occupied, Sir John Hope prepared to cross the Adour below Beyonne, and Admiral Penrose, with a naval force, waited to co-operate with him. Gen Stopford, with a corps of 600 men, crossed on the 23rd on rafts constructed of pontoons, the enemy, hoping to overpower him before succour should arrive, attacked, but, by the assistance of a rocket brigade, the French were repelled with great loss. At night a breeze arose, by which the vessels were enabled to reach the mouth of the Adour, and the boats, which had been brought together for the purpose of constructing a bridge over the Nieve, attempted to make their way through the surf.

The first, which had the chief pilot on board, overset; the second gained the beach, the rest returned to await the following tide "it being scarcely possible said the Admiral, " that one scarcery possible said the Admiral, "that one in fitty could then have effected the prevege." To the south-west of the fiver a pilot was landed, who was to walk thence to the Adour and make signals from within the bar to guide the vessels; without, nothing was seen but one line of heavy surf—the bar at that time preline of beary surf—the bar at that time pre-senting peculiar dangers. But nothing can withstand the energy of British sailors; with the prext tite, the beats and vessels crossed the surf, and made their way up the river after an unequalled diplay of gallanty on the part of officers and men. By means of there boats, a brilge nearly 300 park also heagth, was thrown across the Nieve; and Bayons was closely blockaded by the troops who were in read-pers to stand to their arms.

The actabilishment of a communication across the Adout opened to the allied amy the direct road to Boutheaut, where a strong party extend in Communication of the control claim. But as the direct through which this lay was not only unproductive but unsacourable to military operations, Wellington resolved to march on Orther, where Sudt was in strong position. Leaving Sir John II po with the left wing to blocked Bayoon the British advanced in direct columns. Berre-lard with the left, by Le sigh n at to Orthery, the cataly and John directly on the bridge but leaving on article; corbit on strong appears at that point. On the Tribe of I wanty the What was find that in crossed by a pontoon bridge, and Hill, with the 2nd, remained on the high-road to Sauve-terre, opposite the bridge and river. The sol-diers, by supporting each other, crossed the river without danger or loss.

Soult's army was drawn up on a range of tabular heights a mile in length, in the direction of Day, the right of which terminating in a steep hill was protected in the front by the village of St Boes. His left rested on Orthez, commanding the passage of the river, while the centre was covered by the protrusion of the wings. He had a reserve of Vilatte's and Harispe's divisions, and Paris' brigade Wellington resolved on an immediate attack. Beresford was to carry the village of St Boes on the right, and the hill above it, Picton was to fall on the French centre and left, Alton's light division was to proceed up a ravine between these two columns, and give support where needed, and Hill having crossed the river by a ford two miles off, was to master a point in Soult's rear, and cut off his communication with Pau

At nine in the moining, Cole, with the 4th division, carried St. Boes Marshal Beresford directed his efforts against two lines posted on the hills above, but the ground was so narrow that the troops could not deploy to attack the heights, and Lord Wellington, seeing that he could not turn his enemy's right without extending his line farther than safety permitted, changed his plun, and bringing up two other divisions, attacked this wing on the left, drove it from its position, and thus made the victory secure, for his centre being forced, Soult was obliged to withdraw his guards, which had sulfored little loss, and onlessed a general retreat, under the fire of the British guns.

Heantime Hill forord the passage of the Gave above the town, and was moving towards the enemy's rear to cut of their retreat. As soon enemy's rear to cut oil their retreat. As soon as the French perceived this movement, they quickened their speed—as they hastened so did hir Rowland, till their retreat bectime a flight. Wherever their flight was impeded they sof-fered greatly; the ground and ditches were strewed with their killed and wounded; the infantry took I big gans and 1,200 prisoners, the cavalry many more. The victory would have been att need by more decisive results had not Lord W lington been struck on the number of a sword by a mo k t ball and so swerely bru ed, that he o aid n t cross the interacted country in time to direct the maryments of the divisions in the pursuit. At du k, the allied army halted near Sault do Navailles ; it had lost, in killed, wounded, and mlaving loss than 2300-GO of which were Portugues. The enemy estimated their loss at nearly 15100

The enemy estimated their loss at nearly 16 000 --ment of which wire descritions of conceripta. When we can their the danger to which loss the limits was a proced we may say that the rich ty which has been dearly porchased by Mai loss. A service was the containin softered by blim, that it was necessary to 100 him from his borne. In connection with this feel lentworks observe that the press and behaviour as a liter was an proced as his conduct as a green with all the army. But it, indicated the state of the conduct of reshelds and a superior off the best during taglified, is the unit in of patience with courage; that we is of duty, which restrains him from an ostentatious exposure of a life, of the value of which he could not affect to be ignorant, and that brilliant gallantry, which flashes terror into the eyes of the enemy, and kindles in his army an enthusiasm which nothing can withstand"

The main body of Soult's army having been joined by two battalions of conscripts, and the garrison of Dax, retreated on St Severe, while another column marched on the Aire, for the protection of a magazine, but not finding either Aire or St Severe a tenable position, Soult fell back upon Agen Heavy rains and the swollen state of the river impeded the progress of the allied army, but as soon as the bridges which the enemy had destroyed could be repaired. Lord Wellington sent a detachment to occupy Pau, the capital of Bearn Sn R llill then advanced upon the enemy, posted on a ridge of hills, with their right upon the Adour The Portuguese brigade of Da Costa, moving against them, could not drive them away, they fell into confusion, but, as the enemy advanced to attack them in their disordered state, a brigade came to their assistance, and repulsed the French, who were at length forced to give up their whole position, after sustaining great loss. Soult was then obliged to continue his retreat; he conducted his army up the right bank of the Adour, but finding the road to Bourdeaux open, he resolved to direct his right wing upon that city—thus carrying the war into the heart of a royalist province of France. So soon as Napoleon's garrison at Bourdeaux were compelled to abandon that city, by the approach of Beresford with the Duke d'Angouleme, the inhabi316 LIRE OF THE tants gave expression to their loyalty. The innis gave axinomion to their loyalty. The white fig waved from the amount of every steeple. Louis XVIII was provialmed, and the air rong with the shout of Vire Ie Roi! As the Dake entered the city some cried out, "He is of our blood; he wa born a Franchinan, and feels like a Frenchman f' numbers blessed him; mothers pointed him out to their children, and sold. " Now we shall no longer lose our son in the war! The feelings of royalty t urst forth in emotion. There were not marks of selfish adulation ; the tribute of their bearts was fraught with danger; for the treaty of Chatilion was not concluded, and no other French province had made e decisive movement for the Bourbons. On ti I t of Jan., the allied sovereigns had crowed the Phine declaring their role object to be the conclusion of peace and the re-atricting of France to the territories also pos-sessed before the Revolution. This manifesto produced much good; it opened the eyes of the French and courseced them that Napoleon s object in teromoting the war was appraidingment and eminteen.

ment and smotten.

Hearwhile the Emperor's conduct showed the impre lene of deeleration, by the discipling the legislative secentily with an incuting reprimand, while his immediate followers collections are collected as a conductive of the second of the legislative that the second of the professional arise to resume they amount of the professional arise to the second of the second of the professional arise to the second of the secon non t arts to remain we minimal of the ben-bant of his simp succeeded in gaining several imperiants are not specified an appoints, who were substituting from the system of is a c in litter of obtaining from the system of a second honorable beaus. But his ambitus is second honorable beaus. But his ambitus still deceived him Though he consented to send an ambassador to Chatillon, in obedience to the wishes of his people, he instructed him to use every means to embarrass the proceedings of the Congress, so that it seemed difficult to judge how the negotiations would terminate. The French nation was little disposed to rise in a body, and endure fresh sacrifices for Napoleon, his only source of strength was in those veteran soldiers whom he had led to his wars. Lord Wellington's march to Bourdeaux greatly weakened his power, and the effect of the popular movement there was felt throughout Fiance.

Soult published an angry proclamation, full of abuse of the English nation, and invectives against the leader of the victorious army Aware of Beresford's movement on Bayonne, he resolved to assume the offensive. He made a demonstration against Sir Rowland Hill, to whose support Lord Wellington sent two divisions. This reinforcement arrived before the French came up, and Soult judging that the British were too strong to be attacked, retired to Lambege During the two next days the allied army halted to give time for the Spanish reserve from Irun and the heavy cavalry to come up On the 18th of March, they moved onwards in two columns, on both banks of the Adour, the French retiring before them Soult's rear guards were found posted in the vineyards around the town of Viz, these were cleared that the army might advance by the high road. The French then retreated to Tarbes, near which Soult had concentrated his whole army on the right of the Adour From Tarbes they were forced to retire by Hill's light troops, who drove them to the heights; and Clinton's movement determined Soult to rotire to a ridge of hills near bis rear stretching across the road of Tournay and nearly purallel to it. On the "1th Soult retired to Toulouse destroying the bri lges on his way; the weather once more favoured him by retarding the moveonce more tayoured him by retarding the movements of his antagonists, so that he had time to fortily his position in front of that city. Lord W illington a trop is did not reach the Gan man till the 7th when they balted before Toulouse. Coupens a space of ground two m los in length from north to south and a mile and a quart in his wall if from exit to west. On the lost bank of the nor retands the Fau bourg St. Oppn a, surrounded by a lofty brick wall of great tinchesse flashed by towers; it is connected with the town by a bridge. Two miles the will appear the canal can be supported to the surroundaters the river the canal and liver surroundaters the river the canal and liver surroundaters. the city on three eides on the fourth the re la an open space between the Garonne and the furmer. To the call to the canal rises a range of hights, beyond which flows a river called the fire over these pass all the made from the eastward. The knuch had for these them with five redoubts, connected by line of introch-ments, "They had see! Lord Wellington ments. "They had seal Lord Wellington "made every preparation for the-from". The bridge over the Ers, 1y which their right could be approached. La I be a broaks from by the eveny but as the result from triege to Tou laws co lin not be travered by artill ry and cavelry. Will not not Lord treating but their reaching the trief to the breach in their familiable position. On the 25th Lord Wellington attempted to throw a bridge across the river at Portel, a little above the town, which failed owing to the rapidity of the current. A few days after, Hill's corps succeeded in crossing, but the rains rendered the roads impassable, though this would have involved the cutting off of Soult's communication with Suchet, after repeated failures the attempt was abandoned The enemy had, however, left one bridge standing at Croix d'Orade, this was secured by a party of hussars, who dislodged a superior body of Fiench cavalry posted in the village On the 10th of April, two divisions crossed the river—the whole army was under arms—and preparations were made for an attack

Wellington's dispositions were as follows Beresford, with two divisions was to cross the Ers by the taken bridge, and drive the French from Mont Blanc, then to proceed along the left bank till he gained the enemy's right, where he was to form and attack, Frere's Spaniards, after a simultaneous assault on the French left, were to march along the heights, and join Beresford, the 3rd and light divisions were to the river, and Hill with the right was to keep the Flench within their intrenchments on the left of the Garonne The cavalry were so disposed as to resist the French hore, wherever needed The battle began at seven o'clock, when Picton drove in the French picquets at Pont Juneau, the enemy on returng set fire to a large chateau, in the ci pressavenues of which they had in vain cought refuge. Beresford then crossed the bridge and carried Mont Blanc. Ho then proceeded along the Ers in three open columns, finaled by akinulators, till baring gained the point of attack, they wheeled up and arivanced in line against the French right, on their way reposed to a heavy camonade from the enemy's guns, which were well served, Frere a Spaniarly moved against the left, driving before them a French brigade; but when they drew near the intrendments, they were met by such a shower of grape that they grow enulused and the enemy taking advantage of this, drove the Spaniards down the bill with much slaughter. One regiment however gallantly retained its ground till Lord Weilington recalled it. But, protected by the light division, the scattered Spaniards were railled and the French, at 7 naving gained a position for a brief space on the right of the allies, were dre ren back. dr ven back.

Meanwhile Bore f rd had been more success-Aleanwaite Deet : In tast order more success-ful. Claricon a division had established them-selves on the enemy! Innet and Colo marched up the heights on the enemy angle, and form-ed on the summit. The all I shall now 10,000 men drawn or on the same range with the enemy an I Bereaf rd only awaited the arrival enemy an I Bernef rd only awaited the arrival of hit gen in follow up his success; for with-out artillery the mon-ments again it the centro could not be consistend, as it ell in the still oc-cupied a f-raidable line of intrenchments. The combat was it refere superaded, and & uit-had an opportunity of relativeing his carality, and drawing from the subsuits of the lown and it canal as many thosps as be could essential the bad guided as me alreadage by it repulse of the figantistic and it we true of friction when exceeding the lastra-through of properties a ful-attack into a real one on the bridge nearest the Garonne, was stopped by the formidable nature of the ditch, and being exposed without cover 321 to a severe fire, compelled to retreat with a heavy loss across the river Hill had succeeded in confining the enemy within their works before St Cy prien, and threatening them with a

About noon, Beresford got up his guns, and the battle was renewed, he moved at the head of two divisions directed against the enemy's ledoubts in line. Soult waited not for the attack, but anticipated it by a heavy assault both in front and flank upon the foremost division, after a fierce struggle, British bayonets decided the matter, and the French were driven back upon their works The two chief redoubts, and the fortified houses in their position were carried by Pack's brigade All these things were seen from the roofs of Toulouse, which were crowded by spectators. The French again advanced in a powerful body, made a vigorous attempt to regain the lost works, but were repulsed with loss As a last chance, Soult changed his front, and took up a new line, but all his effort were vain—the enemy was driven from their redoubts, and compelled to retire across the canal, under cover of their fortific d bridges. On the left of Garonne, Ilill had obliged them to give up their advanced wall of intienchments, and retire behind that of the suburb By four O'clock the action was over, from the adge the allies with their artillery looked down upon the city, and the inhabitants saw the English, Portuguese and Spanish banners waring upon the coopered hill. The victory was not gained without severs lose for the combai was by both sides obstinately maintained. Of Britash and Fortuguese 4,500 were killed and wounded, and the loss of the Spaniards exceeded 2,000—some of the British regiment; especially in the 6th division, lost more then hill their numbers; and many supersor officers were wounded. The French sailered less, but two of their generals were killed, and three two of their generals were killed, and three taken with 1,000 of their men.

After the battle Soult withdrew within the city and made preparations? r defence At the prospect of a sacge the inhabitants were starpped; while the army in number 20,000 prevested them from making any demonstration of attachment to the cance which they favored. On being summored to surrender Soult replied that he would rather heary himself beneath its walls; this was probably only ment as a threat, for the sixth observing forsections of the weathers of his position, be related to the start of the factors of the position, the first of the weathers of his position, to relate the start of the weathers of his position, to relate the start of the weathers of his position, to relate the start of the weathers of his position, to relate the start of the weathers of his position, the related to the start of t ireated with his whole force and marched on Castilinatory. Orest wa the joy of the people of Toulouse when the allied army took possession of it; and their enthin land was still more excited when they heard of the abdiction of Nephelon, and the restoration of the Diprivant. On the 50th of March Paris had capitalists and on the 11th of April, Lonsparte had relinquished eliciaims to the throne of France. On the 15th the Creat of Article relayers to the the capture of the control of the control of the capture of the control of the capture of t and on the 20th Napoleon left Fontainbleau, and set out for his mimic sovereignty of Elba.

The blood shed in the battle of Toulouse might have been spared, had the state of affairs in Paris been communicated without delay On the evening of the 12th despatches from Paris arrived, and the restoration of the Bourbons was announced to Soult, he refused to send his adhesion to the new government, and proposed a suspension of hostilities till be could ascertain the real state of public affairs Lord Wellington made arrangements to pursue him, but on the 17th, Soult acknowledged the provisional government of France Toulouse was not the only scene of unnecessary slaughter. On the 14th the governor of Bayonne made a flerce sortie upon the investing troops. By a furious attack with superior numbers, the French drove from the village of St. Etienne that part of the allied troops which were stationed there, General Kay, who commanded the outposts, was slain, the picquets were driven back, and General Stafford wounded, and Sir John Hope, hastening to the scene of action, had his horse killed, and was taken prisoner. Thenight was very dark, and the French threw up blue-lights, and thus directed their guns But reinforcements arrived, and the enemy were driven to the citadel, after severe fighting at close quarters, during which many bayonet wounds were given on both sides, and the onponents could only see to fight by the flashing of each other's muskets In this affair, the nilies lost 800 killed, wounded, and taken, the I'rench still more With this sad episode, the great drama of the war ended, and the long struggle maintained by England against the powerthathadenslaved Europe sesmed closed. In the middle of March Bonaparte finding he could make no more use of Lerdinand of Spain, liberated him. He entered Spain by Catalonia, and procreding by Ocrona to Sira-gova, went to Valencia, whom he resided be-fore he went to Madrid. He entered Madrid by a triamphal arch, the poyful chime of the church bells, and the acclemations of multi-tudes expressing the roy at its windication of the national independence. the ponishment of the tyrant who had brought such evils on their country, and the restoration of their legitimate kin.

timate kith.

In concluding the bistory of Lord Weilington a brilliant operations in hyain and I rance it is unnecessary to do more than past out the value of his services. His career begun at Rolleys, and terminated at Toulouse, may be pronounced unparalleled in history. The mintary reputation and power of I rance were at their beight, and there were those who believed it impossible to rest their force when gold dry the genu of vapoleous. Weilington maintained the courtest topf banded—weilout alledweiling to the services and the services are serviced to the services are serviced to the services and the services are serviced to cannot the content top: manced without about the content of the co that he assumed the command, the state of things was ultrily all red, Detale I ovidence had raised in Arthur W. Healey as in trunced to do tray like despotium of Napoleon, as in break the close of the railons. As he had the atmy on, each operation gave the troops and hor Latinus trute confidence in their general.

DURE OF WELLINGTON Wherever he met the French, he defeated them, when want of forces, of food, or of co-operation compelled him to retire, it was with such order and lessure, that neither the hopes of his own arm; were weakened, nor those of the enemy raised "After the battle of Tulavera," says Di Southes, "and the series of provoking misconduct by which the effects of the victory were trustrated, he perceived the course which the enemy would pursue, and anticipating all their temporary advantages, he determined how and where the vital struggle must be made. The foresight of a general was never more admirably displayed, and if there be one place more appropriate than another for a monument to that leader whose trophres are found throughout the whole, it is in the lines of Torres Vedras that one to Lord Wellington should be erected When he took his stand there, Lisbon was not the only stake of that contest the fate of Europe was in suspense, and they who, like Homer, could see the balance in the hand of Jupiter, inght then have perceived that the fortunes of France were found wanting in the scale There the spell which bound the nations was broken, the plans of the tyrant were baffled, his evertions were defled, his armies were beaten, and Europe, taking heart when she beheld the deliverance of Portugal, began to make a movement for her Own—for that spirit, by which alone her deliverance could be effected, was excited Foresight and enterprise went hand in hand, he never advanced, but so as to be sure of his retreat, and nover retreated, but in such an attitude, as to impose on a superior themy. He never gave an opportunity, and never lost one. His movements were so rapid as to deceive and automish the French, who prided themselves upon their own celerity lie folied general after general, defeated army after army cal tured fortress after fortress, and raised the military character of Great Britain to it old standard.

tain to it of designation.

The spirit of the country rose with its successes. Lagisand once more felt her strength, Such was Wellington a influence over the men whom he conducted to victory, that not an untrage not an excess both in play was compilited; and the French who had made war outrage not an every most an injury wax committed; and the French who had made war like awarger, in very combit; they invaded the warfare when they we introduce the meeting. In flace my Willington a name was blessed by the pre | Feldam, andered, has it failen to any composers to look back upon bis carrer with auch felings. The seliminals war was carried on with the higher to principles of joint taken from aggran litement, or with the hope of adding new conquests to our donational; but it was a defen in necessary and retributive was a of 1601 to procure security to not selves, with the object added bands, of first processing of the procure of the processing of the proces

-was then known that he, had been elevated to a dukedom, and he had received the insignia of every distinguished order in Europe the 10th of May he quitted Paris, and after paying a four days' visit to Toulouse, repaired to Madrid, where Ferdmand confirmed the honours paid to him by the Cortes, and appointed him Captain-General of Spain On the 5th of June, he left Madrid, went to Bourdeaux, reviewed the troops, and made preparations for their embarkation On the 14th, he took leave of the army, and on the 23rd of June, he landed at Dover, under a salute from the batteries, and proceeded to London. He was recognized as his carriage passed up Parliament Street, and greeted with loud applause After a short interview with his family, he hastened to Portsmouth, where the Prince Regent gave him a worthy reception, his distinctions honoured him in the face of Europe, for the Emperor of Russia and the King of Prussia were then at the English court. On the 28th of June, he first took his seat in the House of Lords great number of the Peers were present. this occasion he appeared in a field-marshal's uniform, with the insignia of the Garter, and was introduced to the house by the Dukes of Beautort and Richmond. To support the dignity of his dukedom, £300,000 were voted by parliament for the purchase of an estate, with such an additional grant of income, as made up the annual amount of his parliamentary allowance to £17,000 On his introduction to the House of Lords, his patents of creation as Baron, Earl, Marquis, and Duke, were all read on the same day. No ceremony of honour was omitted on this occasion; the Duchess of Welington, and this mother were present. After the casts had been administered and the Duke had taken his seat, the Lord Chanceller Eiden additional him for the purpose of corregion to thanks of the Home which had been to adto him the preceding evening for the twelfth line.

The House of Commons in voting their thanks, had appointed a Committee of the House to wait upon his Grace to communicate the same and to offer him their congratulations on his return. The Duke signified that he was desirous of expressing to the House his answer in person. He was admitted the following day; a chair was set for him in the nu ble of the lloure: as he came in the whole lloure rose upon his entrance. The Spraker baying informed him that there was a chair in which be might repose the Duke set down for a short time—the serjeant standing on his right hand with the mace grounded—and the lione re-sumed their seats. The Duke then row and addressed the Speaker thost "I was anxious to be permitted to attend this House in order to return my thanks in person for the honour they have done use in depoting a Committee of the members to congratulate me spon my return to this country and this after the flour-bad animated my ex ritors by their applause upon every occasion which appeared worthy their approbation; and after they had filled up the measure of their favours by confirming agon me at the recommendation of the lines legent, the policy gift that any subject ever received. "I begat will not be desimed presungituous in me to express my admiration of the efforts unde by this House and my country, at a moment of unexampled pressure and difficulty, in order to support the great scale of operations by which the conflict was brought to so fortunate a termination.

"By the wise policy of parliament, the government was enabled to give the necessary support to the operations which were carried on under my directions, and I was encouraged by the confidence reposed in me by his Majesty's ministers, and by the commander-in-chief, by the gracious favour of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, and by the reliance which I had on the support of my gallant friends the general officers of the army, and on the bravery of the officers and troops, to carry on the operations in such a manner as to acquire for me those marks of the approbation of this House, for which I have now the honour to make my humble acknowledgments Sir, it is impossible for me to express the gratitude which I feel, I can only assure the House, that I shall always be ready to serve His Majesty in any capacity in which my services can be deemed useful, with the same zeal for my country which has already acquired for me the approbation of this House"

On Saturday the 9th of July, the Duke of Wellington was entertained at a banquet by the corporation of London, great magnificence was displayed on the occasion, and he was presented with the freedom of the city in a gold box, and with a splendid sword. In returning thanks, he gratefully alluded to the support of his officers, and the bravery of his troops.

When he received the sword, he snergottenly declared that he was ready, whenever called upon, to employ it in the service of his King and country should thin pren that the general wish of Europe for a peace should be disappointed. He did not then suspect how soon his pledge hould be redeemed.

On the 5th of August he felt England again, having here appointed Ambasandor Tatract-duary and Plenipotentiary to the court of France. On his way to larke her lifed the Netherlands and, in company with the Prince of Orange made a careful examination of the frontier fortresses on the line. On the "4th of August, in was presented to Louis XVIII., delivered his cardentials, and took up his residence in Tara.

CHAPTER XIV

K polices a return from $10--Dake of Wallington proceed to phase him-Propuratio — Majordon det of in the Provision entroor. Fut to of Q is re Draza—B bthe of Ligay--Provision of the B & of We'll grown army —I atthe of W terline, and stated defined of h ge' on.

It was not to be supposed it at the sile of Illia would calmy reason Superition of the int Lent of his 1s. Lif. Lent though po wheel of one id will statent and accor mpletiments was unjoy ulary that it now which happinent as unjoy ulary that it now which happinent is considered by the Emperor's successes, were not syst preparent for codars the reign of a price of calm and early temper. Discribent was will by spread throughout Francop Len systilate were called by swing them proceeded.

DUKE OF WELLINGTON and crime, enjoyed in peace, the republicans could not brook legitimate monarchy, the army murnilized for their lost chief, and their gen-331 erals, accustomed to the ghttering prizes on which Napoleon had allowed them to speculate, cared not for peaceful honours The flery and volatile French, whom at all times it is so easy to excite, had their discontents fanned into a flame of rebellion by the many personal and political adherents of the late government, who had failed not to impress upon them that France was now " fallen from her high estate," and shorn of much of her glory

Such was the state of matters, when Europe was struck with dread by the intelligence that Napoleon, eluding the vigilance of the English cruisers, had landed on the coast of France with a small detachment of guards—was welcomed by the soldiery, who crowded to his hanners—and was marching upon the capital The fruit of the conspiracies of the Bonapartists was now apparent done their work Well, everywhere it was reported that he was about to assume the sceptre Ilis partisans had of equity and peace, that, as every detachment sent against him had only swelled his force, so no efforts could resist him. These representations did not over-late the danger, with a few honourable exceptions the soldiery joined him, the last recourse of the court, Macdonald's force, stationed near Fontainbleau, on the appronch of the Emperor, trampled their white cockades in the dust, and surrounded him with cocking of delight. Louis had already fled from the Tulleries, and on the 24th of March, 1815, Napolcon onco more entered Paris, where he was received at the palace by all the afherents of his cause; and found in the spart ments just treated by the King a brillant a semblage of these who in former threes had filled the most prominent places in 11 s own councils and entry. Najobeon edulonally in proved the short pace which the versa conclous the brief struggle which he was conclous awaited him profession of liberality were made to conciliate the different parties, and made to concluse the different perties, and every effort used to site up the peap by a sol-enn ceremonal was hild at the Champ de Mai; Parts was fortified and incremit; prepa-rations made in most ring and equipping the army—in which happloon was awas his roly change of sall y depended. When this solidan change of sovervigues took

333

When thi sudden change of swrriging fone place in France the powers who signed tha treaty of laria were in congress at Vienna, where the Dake of Wellington was prevent as it o plempot nitary of Orial Britain having let laris for that capital on Jan. "Ith The moment like news of a pide as moreometric than the press of a pide as moreometric." reached them, the Congress published a pro-clamation in these word. — By breaking the convention whe established lim in Ellis, convention which established lim in Elba, Imagaria distings the only title on which his reil tence depended. By appearing again in Iranes, with polyects of discord riche has diprived himelically a protection of the law and manifested to the nutwerse that there can belified be peace not trace with lim. The powers consequently declars that Applican Burgour has placed himself without the following the control of the traction and that, a an enemy and distarter of the tranquility of the world, he has rendered himself liable to public vengeance." All Europe once more prepared for war. It was evident that Napoleon owed everything to the soldiery-150,000 veterans unwilling and unaccustomed to ordinary labour, the treaty of Paris had thrown idle-and till this ferocious military force was effectually humbled, there could be no peace for the world. A formal treaty was immediately concluded, whereby each of the four great powers bound to maintain in arms 150 000 troops. But the zeal of the contracting parties went beyond the terms settled by the treaty of Vienna, and scarcely was Napoleon seated on his throne, before he heard that in all likelihood he must do his best to defend it against 300,000 Austrians, 225,000 Russians, 236,000 Prussians, 150,000 men from the minor states of Germany, 50,000 from the Netherlands, and 50,000 English under the Duke of Wellington, in all 1,110,000 armed men

Napoleon, conscious of the stake for which he played, and of the odds against him, was indefatigable. When he landed at Cannes, the army numbered 175,000 men, the cavalry had been greatly reduced, and the effects of the campaigns of the three preceding years, was visible in the deficiency of military stores and arms, but especially of aitillery. By incredible exertions, and notwithstanding the pressure of cares and anxieties, the Emperor, before the end of May, had 375,000 men in aims—including an imperial guard of 40,000 chosen veterans, a large cavalry force, and a well-appointed train of artillery. Not only was Paris strongly fortified, but all the positions in advance of it on the Seine the Marne tions in advance of it on the scine the married and the Aute, and among the praweges of the Vorgerian bills with Lyons, had been granted by strong defences. Havena, at Met, and Suchet on the Bwiss frontier, commanded rivinous which were judged sufficient to detein Schwarzenberg for a time on the upper liking and the elege of the fortierese behind him, would detain him still longer Meantime Napoleon resolved to attack the mo t slert of his posent resort to truck a me mo the resort of the enemies, the Prussans and Lnglish beyond the Sambre—while the Austrians were thus held in check on the upper Illine and before the armies of the north could debruche on the armies of the morth could debouche on Manbelme to co-operate by their right with Wellington and Blaceber and by their right with Redwarterplerg. If though that the Belgian army would offer little opposition; and by some great battle has heged to brake the attength of the Furgiean confederary. Eartions corresponding to the magnitude of the occasi in were made by the allies—their troops pourced in on the furnities of Plancis; the Previous at succeeding the previous description of the Company of eres, and an army of English Belgiane, and Hanoverians was assembled to the Netherland made the Public of Wellington Wellington bad arrived at Brussele in April, and lumedies by concerted they and of specialous with the firm is necessarily whose treeps were collected on the Number and Meroes we doccuped Charlend Namur and Letter the into the conformed commented they file right with the Balkoft Willington as may jo their called the wear ready in set in crossect, see a greend had to key this separate line of comparison. munications, connected on the one side with England, on the other by the lower Rhine, with Prussia. The first object was to cover Brussels, and also to guard the approaches from France by Tournay and Mons, and prevent any attack upon Ghent from Lisle, these roads were carefully examined, and Wellington's army arranged so as to encounter any offensive movement. The main difficulty to provide for was, in case the enemy should advance on any single point with force, for the advance troops to check them, so as to afford time for the allied armies to concentrate in a position to protect Brussels

Bonaparte left Paris in the evening of the 11th of June he exclaimed as he entered his carriage, "I go to measure myself against Wellington" On the 14th at Benumont, he received that part of the army which had been prepared to act under his own orders, they had been most carefully selected, and formed the most perfect force he had ever taken to the field, it consisted of 25,000 of the imperial guard, 25,000 cavalry, 350 pieces of artillery, and veteran infantry enough to swell the host to 130,000 men Marshal Ney commanded the centie, Jerome Bonaparte the left, Marshal Grouchy the right among the infantry generals were d'Erlon, Reille, Vandamme, Girard, and Lobeau, among the cavalry Pajol, Excel-mans, kellerman, and Milhaud Bonaparte reminded them that this was the anniversary of Marengo and Friedland, and asked, "Are they and we no longer the same men? The madmen! a moment of prosperity has blinded them. The oppression of the French people is beyond their power. If they enter France they will there find their tomb. Soldiers I we have forced murches battles and dangers before us. For every Prenchman who has a heart the moment is arrived to conquer or to perish ! His oration, vigorous and animated as ever thrilled to the hearts of his devoted soldiery

Blucher's Pruwians numbered 100,000 men The Duke of W llingtens varied and motly army amounted in all to 7, 000, of whom only 3.000 were English-and these clif fir young sol liers, for the flower of the Peninsular army had been sent to America. The King a German Lecion Lowever 8,000 strong were excellent worthy fill were of their call in Dake. The Hanverian amounted to 14,000 the hansa troops Dutch and Belgian under the Prince of Orange, were nearly 17140 men; but much dependence could not be placed in the Belgian part of the army. The first divi ion occupied language Brain-ic-Comte, and havelles communicating with the Fru slan right at Char lerol. The second, under Lord Hill, was can toned in Halle Oudevar !, and Grammontwith most of the cavaley. The reserve under Pictro w re at Brown! and Chrot. Wellington close Onatre Drs. as the point at which should bump arts afrom on that side b was to be left in circle it it it allied troops were concentrated. That junction was lay acompil hed, though all hapdens shill in managring and activity of movement were und to the rent it. On the to mone of Thurster the 15 h fle Funch de un la lun Preschen ou poste en lun

DUKE OF WELLINGTON west bank of the Sambre, and assaulted Charstol, the purpose of Napoleon was to crush Jucher purpose of traposeous in as to or using the contract of carara lace then fall on Brussels then fall on Drussels

Ziethen maintained his ground so long at Charlerol, that the alarm spread along the In spite of severe loss, whole Prussian line he then fell back upon a position between Lighty and Amand, where Blucher, at the head of his whole army, evcept-Ing Bulows division, which had not let come from Liege, awaited Napoleon's attack Bonaparte had failed to beat the Piussian divisions in detail, it remained to be keen when ther the second part of his plan, that of separating Blucher from Wellington's army, would succeed Accordingly, while the former concentiated his force about Ligny, the French main road between Brussels and Charleton They drove in some Nussau troops nt Frasnes, and pursued them as far as the farm-house at Quatre Bras, which derives its name from the circumstance of the roads from Charlerot to Brussels, and from Nivelle to Namur, crossing each other

At half-past one o'clock of the same day, a Prussian officer came to the Duke of Wellington's quarters at Brussels, with the intelligence of the Fr nch movements By two o'clock the Duke issued orders to all his canton ments, for the divisions to break up, and effect a jungfrom on the left of Quality Bras there the British Reneral intended his whole force to night, the 16th That night a ball, which was to have been given at the Duchess of Richmond's hotel in Brus els, was intended to be pat off but as it seemed expedient that the inhabitums should be as luttle as possible ac-quainted with the progress of certait, at the Duke of Wellingtion a request it proceeded— bine-if enjoining the general officers to appear in the ball-room, but each to guit the apart ment quiedly at ten ocket, to finis his areptetive division on reute. Soon after the younger officers were summoned from the dance for officers were already mustering. The Duko retired at twelve and left the town at six next morning for Quatre Bras. The reserve quitted Burnels during the night, mobilerred by the inhabitants, none but the military and thorities knowing of the event till next day

When hapoleon came up from Unarl rol about noon on the 16th, he was uncertain whether to make his attack on Blach r at lighty or an the Legilian at Quarie Bras. But the Anglo-Belgian army was not yet concen-trated, while the Prussian with the exception of one division was be therefore resolved to devote his personal attention to the latter The main strength of his ermy accordingly was directed against Blueber or three in the was directed against solution of there in the att moon while it submitmats, yet I mild able attack on W Bin t me justion was be-gun by N y with Loked men. The Duke of W Bington brid a conference

The Duke of W. Hilliam field a constructed with Rincher on the blut at Bry-and fixed with bliss the milliam to result to be all pits whatever occurs the errors of the day might arecome. The impre awaited the ar-soult of Key moder many despirantaneas; they we pressly outcome mixed and both on marking accordingly, while the jet and were fresh, and milliam first fresh,

DUKE OF WELLINGTON. and had all the advantages of ground, being posted among growing corn, as high as the tallest man's shoulders, which, with the sloping fields, enabled them to draw up a strong 329 body of currassiers close to the English, screened from view Many of the Duke's troops, his cavalry in particular, had a long way to march, and had not arrived, so that, when the contest began, there were only 19,000 of the allies up, and of these but 4,500 British infantry

It was important to maintain the position occupied by the Belgians, which was an allignement between the villages of Saita Mouline and Quatre Bras, the possession of the roads that the allies should maintain, for the highroad led to Brussels, and was intersected by that road which led to the right of the Prusstans stationed at St Amand The road to Brussels to the right of the allies is shirted by a dense wood called Le Bois de Bosse, along the edge of which was a hollow way like a avine The French strove to secure this wood, as from it they might debouche upon the Brussels road, in spite of the efforts of the Plince of Orange, the Belgians gave way, and the French Occupied the disputed post. At this moment, Picton's division, the Brunswickers, and one of the guards, came up, and entered into action "What soldiers are these in the Vood programme of the Prince o that his troops had been driven thence, "Belginns in said the Duke, who discovered the gians in said the pure, who discovered the state of motters, it they are French, and about to debouche on the road, they must be drived out of the wood. Maitland, with the groundlers of the guards after meeting a destructive fire from an ortifule enemy realised upon it; each tree bush and ditch and a small divide which runs it rough the wood, were successively mate by the French polots of the sidy defence, till they were drawn from every just. The French heavy columns again advanced to force the wood, but the close fire all determined charge of the British draw them back. After a time boars deadly conflict, the British

210

After a time bours desaily conflict, the British remained matters of the post,

The battle raged a fi realy on every other point. Fictor brigate near the farm-hone andered dreoffully from the voltage of the French posted in from the nile, ground; while his mea, entangled among the fall rye would not fire with precise at Creptinents had then to throw themselves into equares to resist a despirate and sended chang of the French cavalry who from their one-calculations of the fire of th ment; two company of which with their colord, were swept of and rot to pieces their commutes averaged their death by protocolor as compelled them to where about. But though defracted in the U y of arged down the caseway to firessel and carried two gurts with it was extended; it moment they approached a fire of grayes-thed opened on the mit and the light and less protocolor them. The fact was the fire the color of the DUKE OF WELLINGTON. off with much loss, which would have been increased, had the English cavalry been in a Condition to pursue them Ney retired to his 341 oliginal position at Frasnes, and night found the English, after a severe and bloody day, in Possession of the field Several regiments were reduced to skeletons, and many brave officers had fallen, among others, the Duke of Brunswick was shot soon after the commencement of the battle, and many other regretted names appeared in the list of the slain But the honour of the day was great, for the French had been decidedly repulsed.

With worse fortune, Blucher fought as severe a battle at Ligny, With 80,000 men, he had to encounter 90,000, led by Napoleon Though the Prussians behaved with great bravery, the Villages of Amand and Ligny Were repeatedly taken and retaken during the day, and a body of French cavalry penetrated to the very heart of the position It has been said that two of the French divisions hoisted the black flagit is certain that on both sides little quarter was either asked or taken In the course of the day, the old Prussian General had his horse shot under him, and in the hurry of the fight was ridden over, unseen both by his own men, and by the French But Bulow had not jet arrived, and the successive charges of fresh divisions of the enemy, compelled the Prussans to retire Blucher retreated on the river Dile, towards Watre It was dark when the battle ceased, and Bonaparte did not know the route the Prussians and taken till twelve o'clock on the 17th, when he ordered Grouchy to pursue them with 32,000 men, but this corps

34

di l not move till three in the afternoon, were only at Gembleux that night, and did not reach only at Ormoteux manging, and of the other war will soom on the 18th, when Thickman corps was attacked by them. At Ligny the Principan lost 14,000 mer and 15 gains. The Duke of W lington did not bear of the rivest of the Previous till seren o clock on the morning of the 17th for an alde-de-camp whom Blucker had sent to acquaint him of it, Pombref at dayl git a certained the state of matters they found out how little real success matters they found out how hittle real success hat been canned over the Provision by the French for filludier had fallen back most leierly, and this reargement dud not reactant Bry till three to the morning. The Dok had already collected his troops at Quatre Brass, and was prepared to have maintained that receiving a prepared to have maintained that revisions rendered it necessary for him to adopt a corresponding movement. If there is no clock to making a first property of the top of the transfer of the property of the most property of the most property of the propert march wa conducted a leasurely and in such admiral is order that the enemy ill and to a ture to male tit but a large body of lares time to more till om a may occi in con-till med the cavalry of the rearginal in br Lord Ux rides. Welliamboratined to Water-bo in candidate of being) fred there by Illu-cturated in the decisis count it began. The charbet re the decisis count therain and any was ming them as were mineral with company and an initial enemged futural the appropriate when they preside the fit, and tend of the future proposed listen sate on the Lairant the database, they fire and damang the future in the database of the future of the future the dripping corn, amid a storm of rain, thunder and wind, in the sure hope of victory on the morrow

Having finished all his arrangements on the evening of the 17th, Wellington rode to Blucher, to inform him that he had thus far acted on the plan fixed at Bry-expressing his hope that he would be next day supported by two Prussian battalions. Blucher replied, that after leaving a single corps to keep Grouchy at bay, he would himself march to Waterloo with the rest of his army. Wellington returned to the scene of action, expecting that Blucher would be able to come up in time But so terrible was the state of the cross-roads be-tween Wavre and Mont St. Jean, and such torrents of rain fell, that though Blucher began his march, he found it impossible to come up until long after the time anticipated

"The scene of this celebrated action," says Sir Walter Scott, "must be familiar to most readers, either from description or recollection The English army occupied a chain of heights, extending from Merke Braine on the right, to a village called Ter La Haye on the left. Corresponding to this chain of heights, there runs one parallel to them, on which the French were posted. A small valley winds between of various breadths at different points, but not generally exceeding half a mile The declivity on either side into the valley, has a varied, but gentle slope, diversified by a number of irregularities of ground. The field is crossed by two high roads, or causeways, both leading to Brussels,—one from Charleroi through Quatre Bras and Genappe, by which the British army had just retreated, and another from Nivelles. There reads traverse the valley and meet behind the village of Mont St. Jean which was in the rest of the Indition and the same of Mont St. Jean, which must be carefully distinguish of from the kromer as much cover to the read of the Indit is than the Village of that name. On the Charlered in the Armonic Commonwe called La Have Same included at the foot of the declivity less ling that the Sales was also sales of the Indian Country as village called La Die Albance give same as to the range of high the Research from the same of the Sales of the same of the Sales of the same of the Sales of the Sales of the same of the Sales of the Sales Mont Et. J. an. and these two points formed to only if the role is not 12 ft. b. armles, "Ancil find 1 of the mile II harmles, commont at dain the antitof the valley, surrounded with gradie. If it and a wood, two seres in test, there is tree. If find the beight and II mist. Jean, the ground list into a fill we helter to the reconstill not the Buttl. Inflaterar of this seem it salls if the rest to a fill was believe to the reconstill not the second and in the street to a fill with the street when the same is the problem which rought to conserve a fill wells. On that meet two roules in the react the Dutch army.

244

i placettle malit en tWatche.

"D. But beame nite grown la figme en the 17th. It was much lat thefer Napose been resided it it, to ful all lie Allane leon resided it it, to ful all lie Allane leon resided it it, to ful all lie Allane leon resided it it, to ful all lie Allane leon resided it it, to ful allane leon resided it it ful allane leon grown and the placette leon ful allane leon grown and the little ville resided it is full allane leon grown and the little villent error if the little flower getted.

"In the morning, when Napoleon had formed his line of battle, his brother Jerome commanded on the left-Counts Reille and D Erlon the centre-and Count Lobeau on the right Marshals Soult and Ney acted as Lieutenant-Generals to the Emperor The French force on the field consisted of 75,000 men The English army did not exceed that number Each army was commanded by the chief, under whom they had offered to defy the world So far the forces were equal But the French had the very great advantage of being experienced forces of that nation, whereas the English in the Duke of Wellington's army did not exceed 35,000, and although the German Legion were veteran troops, the other soldiers under his command were those of the German conting-ents, unaccustomed to act together, and sus-pected to be lukewarm in the cause in which they were engaged

"The British army was divided into two lines. The right of the first consisted of the second and fourth English divisions, the third and sixth Hanoverians, and the first corps of Belgians, under Lord Hill. The centre was composed of the corps of the Prince of Orange, with the Brunswickers and troops of Nassau, having the Guards, under General Cooke, on the light, and the troops of General Alten on the left. The left wing consisted of the divisions of Picton, Lambert, and Kempt. The second line was formed of the troops deemed least worthy of confidence, or which had suffered too severely in the action of the 16th, to be again expected until extremity. It was placed behind the declivity of the Leights to the rear, in order to be sheltered from the cannonade but sustained much loss from shells during the action. The cavalry were stailored in the rear distributed all slong the risilosed in the rear distributed all slong the line, but clicity posted on the left of the croter to the east of the Charletol caneway. The farm-house of La Haya Saints, in the Iront of the centre was garn-voxed. The villa, gardens, and farm-yard of Houseauts, formed a strong advanced prist toward the centre of the right. The whole Dutch to first is somed a sort of curve the centre of which was nearest to the ecomy, and the extremulser particularly on ecomy, and the extremilies particularly on their right, forware could cally backward. "The plans of the two-leaders were sallidently imples, Wellingtons object was to maintain in line of detect, till, by the country upon the Provision, he should have a upperfully of force. The difficulty of keeping his ground, as we have already observed, was much in crusced by the late bor at which the Pur-sions served. I justly plans was Vapoleone plant by right lay of my versely, and post lon-tering the property of the versely, and post lon-tering the lates of the provision of the country of the called heater the Lorentz could form a late. lureard gre t masse on free to desiror the fickish become the I current coult form a junction with them patter which he hoped to desiroy the I cursuant in their turn, by a tracking them on it cur march through the broken ground which lay between them and in fiftish in this expectation he was strengthened by the age ratios that the betached corps and or Or so went a Arep to I results I as Cock According to the unity of the same of the Cock According to the unity of the same with the Mars reposed a the a light carry with the mars reposed a they are of columns.

316

Provide at X and re-

after column, and squadron after squadron, should cause the enemy to waver

The morning of the 18th of June broke heavily, the whole day was stormy Soon after ten o'clock, a great agitation was seen in the French lines, and from one point, where stood a heavy column of infantry under arms, mounted officers were seen galloping with orders in various directions This was Napoleon's position, and the column was his famous Guard. Wellington was chiefly stationed during the battle near a remarkable tree in the centre of his position, but he moved during the action, with speed to every part of the line where his services were required.

Between eleven and twelve the battle opened with a cannonade from the French line, instantly tollowed by a fierce attack under Jerome, on the advanced post of Hougomont.-A cloud of voltigeurs preceded the column. The Nassau soldiers in the wood were driven back. The assailants surrounded the house on three sides, and made desperate attempts to enter, but a detachment of the Guards who occupied the villa, defended it, and from the loop-holed walls of the house and garden, poured upon the French so severe and unintermitting fire, that the ground was covered with their killed and wounded Fresh British troops were now sent to the relief of this post, and after great loss the Coldstream and 3rd Guards drove out the enemy and remained in possession. But repeated attacks were from time to time made upon it and though the defenders of the chateau displayed the utmost courage, the gate of the yard was at one period half forced in; but the hench were rejudied by the laynore. Sown after the roof and upper walls were on the from the shells of the French shatterles; but the coubat was berokedly maintained, and from the charted wall be deally streams of masketty o numally ps used forth. At the some tim that Hongymont was thus areaulted tile whole of the French cannon kept arraulted to whole of the French cannon kept ig an incertest fire upon the lines, particularly to right and crotter the British gam is were fully reliefs, and the contra and alramed but terres, innur at lease distribution of leastful barrocau in gife I rench o lumn that field the attack on it was more. I receiving that the assectit on it og most I real faller happings, under the fire of big gons, ordere la formid able att ck upon th leit e utre. All the firmand art of upon in the cause. All the numbers of and heart of the Brills and their commander were here required. The light then ps were dute a so by the fury of this charge and it foreign cavalry, by when they could be has been on put ed, gave way on all it. The Black Brus wick tolantry made the first steady or a taper Lik months W ! hagt n army during this acre n each regllogt in army during this act in each region ment functional castly as it taguars the illers are relifies deep. The distance between the same sail of a from a until daw up the battalion in line, when they a hald be called a unto copic or the appearance of the like resear log it, alternate squares of a chrosoft a take when a speciment of the research of the when a speciment of the research of the whole a from the castle of the same and the same both flanks from the side ones, during the day the Fiench cavalry often experienced the mur-derous effect of these combined fires —As the French column came up, General Kempt boldly advanced against it with only three British regiments in line—and these weakened by the loss of 300 men at Quatre Bras—poured in a volley and charged it, while Packe's brigade, volley and charged it, while Packe's brigade, from the extreme left, bore down at the same time upon the right division of this column with the bayonet, the French who had actually gained the crist of the position—could not stand this, and after delivering their fire, turned and fied—It was here that Picton fell, a musket ball having pa-sed through his brain. At this moment, too, Poissonby's dragoons made such an effective flank charge upon the branch columns at the time when they star-French columns at the time when they staggered under the fire of the musketry, that they broke the column with great slaughter, and took two engles, and 200 men, who were sent off to Brussels as the first fruits of the allies' success. But our cavalry, pushing their advantage too far, were met by a strong body of currassiers on the one flank, and lancers on the other—and, having charged up to the enemy's guns which covered the attacking column and sabred the cannoneers—were involved in an sabled the cannoneers—were involved in an unequal combat, so that they were forced to retire, taking off an eagle as they drew back General Ponsonby, their commander, fell, not expecting to come into action so soon, he was mounted on an inferior horse, his own charger not having arrived, and got into a ploughed field where his horse stuck, a body of Polish lancers, who gave no quarter, came up, he had just time to take out his picture and watch and commit them to the charge of his alde-decamp—his sole attendant—as remembrances to his lady when both fell piccod by their gi ars. His brigade arenged their commander so well that almost the whole I dish inners were cut to piccas before this day was over

Napoleon still persisted in obsidants attacks upon Le Hayr Sainte and his in antry columns were supported by a distrion of culturaters Against these the British strigate of heavy car atry—the Life Quard Oxford Biter and Scotch Grey -were led. Their meeting was Scotted trey were sed, their meeting was stem a combat at sword point, worthy of the best days of chivalry was kept up—the most days rate blows and passes were exchanged, the effects fighting is and to band like the mon-and, not with tanding the weight and armore of the curranters the power of the borws, and the bray my of their riders they could not atend the slinch, but were rulden down to great numbers. It was the floreret and closest our airy fight perhaps ever a end and ended in headl ng or ra gras lept, a o n'used mass of au n and Lorse - exposed to a close fire which soon put a period t their strumber.

All respected of rise the enemy ainfustry succeeded in carrying the farm of La Haya Sa are for the ammunition of its defenders was done, and the French entering cut to pieces 200 Hanoverian sharpshooters, who had maintained the post, but from this position they were driven out by shells. The contest still raged with uninterrupted fury, the enemy's efforts having slackened upon the ceutre and left, only to rage with double ferocity upon the right wing Napoleon exhausted his energies in fierce attacks both of horse and foot, supported by the whole strength of his artillery—200 guns keeping up a constant thunder upon the allied position. This fire was so destructive that Wellington directed his troops to retire beyond the exposed ridge, and he flat on the ground, till on the close advance of the enemy's horse, they were ordered to stand up in squares, advance, meet and repel their charge. The French cavalry undaunted, repeatedly charged to the very centre of the position—column after column like waves of the sea—with vain and useless devotion. They are they for their party and dealy for their heaveners. paid dearly for their bravery. As they came up, determined to sweep the square before them, their defeat, as they recoiled from the deadly vollies, resembled a heavy sea pouring itself upon a chain of insulated rocks, and then driven back. And amid all the tumult of that desperate action—the discharge of the artillery—the clash of arms—the shouts of the infuriated combatants—the groans and shrieks of the wounded and dying—the men behaved as on parade, and so certain was their orderly fire, that between the proper intervals the aidede-camps coully walked their horses round the squares The stendy bravery of our men shone with the brightest lustre. In vain did desperatcherosamong the French catalry disconary, their cashines and pitales at the squares to induce them to brack the ranks they regarded nothing but the actual clarge and waited for the word of command to repel the squadrons by their nurskery. In which did the cursasters ride round these seriled walls of steel, watching to an opening in wind did the cursasters ride round these seriled walls of steel, watching to an opening in wind did they cut desperately at the men or stand and gaze till she town, in van did the north for ideal and larger till she down, in van ded the north for ideal and larger till she down, in van ded the north for indidition of the steel of the series of the steel of

As in-first related of the Regist Orașa, deserves be bermemberd, anare les fine mary two which despite of Acting I search be noved. Highles for general, I fired on the first be faired of "Academic between I for fooder" the first be fair to organistically the section. He was the first because it will be the fooder of the first because it will be the fooder of the first because fire fooder. He was the first because fire fooder in the first beautiful fooder.

to the arduous task The Duke himself saw a Belgian regiment waver as it crossed the ridge of the hill, and was advancing from the second to the first line, he rode up to them, halted the regiment, and endeavoured to lead them into the fire himself, but all his efforts were vain, and other troops had to be brought up in their place During the scene of tumult and carnage the Duke of Wellington was everywhere, on account of the position of the armies, and the nature of the ground, exposing his person with a necessary but painful freedom where the struggle was most arduous, in the where the struggle was most arduous, in the hottest fire, and front of the danger, he was seen. There was scarcely a square which he did not visit in person, encouraging the men by his presence, and stimulating the officers by directions. During a hostile charge, he threw himself into one, and Providence protected his head during the flery shower. From the control post, he watched a very movement. his central post, he watched every movement and advance of the enemy, piercing through the smoke of battle with an eagle's eye, and galloping to every point—however exposed,— if it seemed to require his presence. Many of his short phrases addressed to his troops had a talismanic effect. As he stood before Mont St Jean, in the middle of the high road, several guns were pointed at him, distinguished as he was by his suite, and the movements of his staff who went and came with orders. The balls repeatedly struck, on the right hand of the road near him "That's good practice," and the Duke to one of his staff, "I think they fire better than they did in Spain." Riding up to the 95th when in front of the line, 47 and threatened with a formidable charge of cavalry he said, "Stand fast, forth—we must not be best—what will they say in England? not be best—what will they say in England for another occasion, when brate near were falling every moute, be said with cool could dence as if he had been merely a speciator "Never mind, we'll win this battle yet. Another regimes I in close comblest, was addressed by him in a common sporting phrase: "Hard pounding this, certificater, let's see who will pound longest. — Ill who I eard him have orders, received fresh confidence from his resources, the seek of the confidence from his resources. diness, decision, and cool composure. Illa stall fell man by man beside bim yet seemed stat left man of man event and yet expect in their own egony only to regard his safety. Fir William De Loney fell from his horse struck by a spont ball;—ha said to those who came to a n i bim "Leave me to die; attend to the Duke — See Alexander Cordon received lils mortal wound while exportulating with his General on the personal danger to which he exposed blue it. Lientenant-Col nel Can ning and many others dued with Wellington e name upon the revipring lips. An alde-de-camp was sent with an important metage to a general of brigs 1 t on 1 to return he was s of through the large, but borne on by the conscious ess of daty Le rode up to the linke delitered the en w t to bleme age and then dropped from his borse appearently dyler.

As y it is do not seem certain what or all them sacrofices had not been made in sain. The French, though reputed on every point, jernever 1 in investi attach, and the firi tid square. from the time and firing and asride appearance. Ore general officer stoted that his brigade had lost one-third of its numbers, and that the survivors were so exhausted with fatigue, that a brief respite, however short, seemed absolutely accessary. "Tell him," said the Duke, "what he proposes is impossible. He, and I, and every highsleman in the field, must dee on the spot which we now occupy."—"It is enough," a plied the general, "I, and every min index my command, are determined to show his fate."

Still the battle was far from being decided. It was three o'clock when La Have Sunte was taken, and after this the enemy repeatedly attacked the British position between the two roads. Hougoment was still beset, and a prolonged conflict maintained upon the plateau above that post, where the Guards under General Maitland, boro the brunt of a heavy cannonade, and pushing forward their squares as the French horse retired, were engaged with columns of the enemy's infantry. Along the whole plateau to the Charleror road, the contest was maintained in a similar manner, the infantry retiring beyond the fire of the artillery, then rising up and advancing in echellons of squares to meet the French cavalry, and occasionally going down the slope for enough to engage their infantry. The British horse were then in reserve, but were ever ready to charge such of the French as made their way through the intervals of the squares All this time not a single square had been broken, and the enemy had suffered severely, though our ranks were sadly thinned by the superior numbers and formidable artillery which had been bearing on them for so many hours. At five a clock the Prus-lans had not come up. It was runsoured that Bulows corps was at St. Lambert and that Blucker was marching is a smooth and that Bushwa copy was marching up from Wavre but encumbered by the state of the route of the route, and that Busher was marching up from Wavre but encumbered by the state of the route, and their leave at lifery only a few weak patroles of horse bad as yet appeared on the rench right. The fire of I rustian artitlery wen heard in that quester a little sit in five —but it appeared to return and reaso; for Bul w with only two brights and accepte for Easlay was kept in circle by Lobad. Grouchy also formed a rin og resistance to part of the Pro-sense Wavre. About half-part five 4 who brights were brought from illule copy to the crather from in anticipation of a renewal of the statet on the weak repair of the patroles of the resistance of the patroles of the patro low for the I remiss gues w re beginning to If and on his final, to the great prof it I I not on his final, to the great prof it I lact on who said "There give old Blocker at lact; and by the I to fit be ting such his forces are seen I into from the wood. "Na olega ha tetili hard in a of his faithful farries research sing from the wood.

Ya observa tettil Loviu in orchia chitchi Ouan, who, placed during the action either on in tell of La Belle All soon Lad Larlin drawn a tripper. Less nog Lis more remot portion or the belg to the result in the lattice and the belg to the result in the lattice.

to the feat of the alled position; he then cansed them to delike before him, and tilling them that the Haghsh army was marly discreved, and that to carry the position they had only to brave the fire of the actillary, he cancluded by puriting to the causeway, and excluded by puriting to the causeway, and excluded. There, gentlem n, is the road to Brussels! It was an world by foud shouts of lite l'Impereur, which induced our men and the Duke to think that Appoleon would in person had them forward to the attack, and every eye was directed to that quarter, but from the clouds of smoke, nothing could be distinctly seen. Meantime Wellington altered the position of his forces, so as to repet the assuit, and the 2nd and 3rd buttahous of Guards were formed in line and marched to the brow of the buil, where they were ordered to hiedown and shelter themselves from the fire

Led by Marshal Ney, the Imperial Guard advanced dauntlessly, rallying as they went such of the broken cavalry and infantry as yet maintained the conflict. The British line, by the successes on the right wing, had pushed forward, and was now changed from a convex to a concave position, so that the artillery ruled the French columns as they came upon the causeway, and so accurately were they directed, that the heads of the columns were constantly cut off, and they seemed to make no progress. Borne on, however, by the impetuosity of those in the rear, they at length reached the plain, and attained the summit of the ridge where the British lay concealed. At this important time, the Duke of Wellington, who had placed himseli immediately behind the Guard when be thought them near enough, gave the order. "Up, Guards, and at them! They spring to their feet, as if hy macic poured in on the French a well-almed fire, which made them stagger; a second volley put them in a kind of pende and the Duke galloging cheen up in their trans called our, which made them stagger; a second volley of the stagger of the stagger of the stage of the stagger of the stage of the stagger would be traced the day, but when he saw them red thoulevater the carsing min; with the facilities and trampling this down la-saids his admissions, "They are mingled together—saids I for the present "them a work his bead, as thouch I would speak as copies. Shoulder two he there from a cap-sing mid it sattemed from the flanks, i the I resident were they up to make, a two-tice time has the effort detail it is due a ware the death, but he said to Lettered, who remained at his side, the fatal words, "All is over—it is time to save ourselves!" With ten or twelve attendants, he put spurs to his horse and fled, leaving to their fate the gallant army which had that day shed their blood for him with such profusion

333

Meantime the Prussians drove the right wing of the French before them The Duke ordered his army to form four deep, fatigue and wounds were forgotten when the word was given to assume the offensive. The troops were instantly ready, and the illustrious conqueror himself led the general charge whole British army in line rushed eagerly down the slope, and up the acclivity beyond it, driving before them the scattered French who still maintained the combat. Amidst increased slaughter the whole or the enemy fell back, and the remains of the grand army rushed away from them in one tumultuous flight. As the British closed up, the French guns had gradually ceased firing, the cannoniers abandoned them—the drivers of the train cut the traces of their horses-infantry and cavalry, officers and soldiers, mingled in the headlong torrent, the fields and causeway were covered with baggage-waggons, broken arms, and overturned artillery, and flyers and pursuers drave headlong over the slain and wounded Everywhere the cry of "sauve que peut" was raised by the French, and the scene from which they fled, resembled a shore strewed with wrecks after a shipwreck. A slight resistance was made by four battalions of the Guard, who threw themselves into squares, and stood firm; but these were soon swept away, the British ഹ crowned the French position and 160 guns fell into their possession. It was fortunate that the Frussians were now on the field for that the Prussians were row on the field lor our cavalry were so calinated, that it was im-possible for them to contains the pursuit; whereas the Prussians were fresh and eager to press on. Their advance crow-of the van of the British army beside La Belle Alliance and pear it the Deke of Wellington and Prince

Marshal Biocher met, and embraced each other Marbal Blocher met, and embraved each other with bearty congratuations: the victorious ellies exchanged military greetings,—the Propient San balling their regimental bands to play "Got save the king," the limit is returning the compliment with three cheers to the humour of frames. Blocher ordered every man and bores in his army traphib of action to present the rear of the Fractic without allowing them to ruly. The ellicits we clear and the Pro-line accurately rode after the flyers, and the Iru ian cavalry rode after the flyers, and cut them down exceptions without nevery—The death of General Dubramo was an instance of their revera. One of the "Bluck Bronswick is evening him rode up; if e General begged quarter the sollier Loked at him stemp; with og lifted solar and only self—the link of liftenses died the day before ye tenday and though the best and only self—the link of liftenses is anyly through set has day; their personness a such yet roots over the day; their personness a term before the day in the liftenses of the lifte

The British army is nurched on the ground occupied by its Franch on the proved of my and the particle bake of Wellington returned to

Brussels As he rode over the plain, a bright moon shone on the field of battle, looking down mournfully on the heaps of bodies, in the stillness which succeeded to the roar of battle was only heard the cries of the wounded and dying. As he lode along, he could not restrain his tears, for the full flush of triumph was past, and there came the thought of how many who had passed with him through other battles, had survived to fall in this The words of the conquerar that night will be long re-membered as Wellington leaned back in his chair he rubbed his hands together, and exclaimed, "Thank God, I have met him—thank God, I have met him!" The loss on both sides was tremendous, the English were no novices in war, and even those who had seen the bloody conflict of Albuera, and the scenes before the walls of Badajos and St Sebastian, never saw such slaughter as at Waterloo On the 18th the British lost 15,000 men killed and wounded, 100 officers were slain, and 500 wounded, many of them mortally, of the officers who fell very many were highly distinguished. The Duke of Wellington was repeatedly in great danger hiniself, and only one individual of his numerous staff escaped unwounded in horse or person The French loss cannot be calculated, but it was immense, for besides what they lost in the battle, many were cut down in the retreat—and of 75,000 men, the half were never again collected in arms

By the victory of this memorable day, the Duke of Wellington finished his military career The glory of all former fields seemed to fade before that of Waterloo.—This was Welling-tone greatest triumph, for it secured peace to ion's gratest trainings for the current peace of harope and prestrated for ever the power of Napoleon I Boundless Joy—In spile of the heavy number of the brave new who had fallen —was 1 is at home. The Dukes despatches, dated the 10th, from the field of Waterloo, reading London late on the night of the 21st of June hext day the thanks of I arliament, and a resolution to erret a mooument to the Dake of Wellington and the army were carried by acciamation. I arliament, to its former grant, added from the portrians of an estate and the erection of a splendid mandon. It also voted thanks to Field Marshal Blueber and the Pruvian army The rewards of merit were extended to every rank of the British army present on the little each regiment was to bear the word Waterloo on its colours; all to hear the worm matericon on its colourn; and the privates were to be borne on it, in mater-rolls and pay lists of their respective copps as Waterly on one, and each man was to reckin that thay's work a two year service in the account of hit time for interrate of 194 or for a ten ion when declarated; the subditers officers the same and it was almenacted that lence we of the pen tenagranted for w w da should rise with the r nk to which the effect

There and new water on to enchange in the analysis and been does after the fault of the Nile. Bungarish for egit to lains it news of its clean, on tenerely any systemic red with him in his descript provines. These wit follow momitted themselves irrevently hastered to make pears with the Bon bong and on at least to the page with the Bon bong and on at least to the page of the Loral power by the nomination of "Napoleon II" failed, and the Emperor abdicated. The rest of his story is well known, he had time afforded him for meditation at St. Helena, where his resiless spirit quitted the body, after seven years of confinement, or rather of inspected residence. The wreck of his army, under Grouchy, effected their retreat to Paris, where Davoust took the command. The allies followed close in pursuit—Paris was invested but Wellington and Blucher, being anxious to spare the capital, in terms of a military convention generously allowed the French army to march out with their material, artillery, and baggage, and retire beyond the Loire. Political matters were left at the disposal of the restored monarch, Louis XVIII, who entered Paris the day after the allied troops had taken possession of it.

at alocal. A rordal of the same mat rist & r

CHAPTER XV.

Sketch of the Duke of Wellington's Political Life—M'ster-General of the Ordina ce—Mr Canning's Ministry
—Lord Goderich's—Wellington Prime Minister—I rosepects of the Government—Pest and Corporation Acts repealed—Cutholic Emancipation—Defeat and Resignation of the Ministry—A: cession of the Whigs to office—Reform Lill—Wellington called by the Ling to form a Ministry—His failure—William IV dismisses the remnant of the Reform Administration—Duke of Wellington and Sir Robert Perl take office—I here a rious defeats and Resignation—Dunce to the Duke of Wellington at Dover—Listinate of his Grace's Character

In noticing the political caréer of the Duke of Wellington, it is necesary to do little more than recall a few facts to the memory of our readers. The events which took place during his premiership are too much involved in the must of party politics, to permit a cool and impartial judgment being justed upon them, In that brief space scarcely any state-man had great relificultie to contend with noone err d tile crown more disint testedly, to the but great rdifficultie to contend with bonosser, dit is cross more desirate testelly, to this picturenty rone, by the straightforward lone is said maniforward to be started; his discrete and a count more respect, even by those with when the difficult of the office of Ma tersin near all of the Online on. A rom the years 15.21 to 18.77 his tirace held the office of Ma tersin near all of the Online on. On the acc. as a 1 Mr. Canning to the premi-critique for every ed. It is office. If the views with which Mr. Canning a numed the reiss of prement an ununted to a betrayal of the primarileged that he past deathy in the rareflex, this deministration had no other elements of rability that of genies of a character in reducing that the past deathy in the rareflex, this deministration had no other elements of rability that off genies of which was that they with out to preparents of the Latholte claim who Lad been upper ries of Lord Live ery oil deal ned to tak. If he had free past to the desired of the started of the control of the control his ministry, (for an amendment upon the Corn Bill had been carried by the Duke of Wellington in the House of Lords) expired on the Sth of August, 1827 The 8th of Jan, 1828, Lord Goderich, who had succeeded him, resigned. The King sent for the Duke of Wellington, and commissioned him to form an administration, with himself at its head Grace entered into communication with Mr. Peel, and others of Lord Liverpool's ministry who secoded on Mr Canning's elevation The arrangements of the Cabinet were as follows arrangements of the Caoinet were as follows the Duke of Wellington, First Lord of the Treasury, Right Ilon H Goulbourn, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lord Lyndhurst, Lord Chancellor, Lord Bathurst, President of the Council, Lord Ellenborough, Lord Privy Seal, Council, Lord Ellenborough, Lord Canada and Canad Right Hon R. Peel, Secretary of State for the Home Department, Earl Dudley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Right Hon W Huskisson, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Right Hon J. C Herries, Master of the Mint, Viscount Melville, Secretary of the Board of Control, Earl Aberdeen, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Right Hon C Grant, Duchy of Lancaster, Right Hon C Grant, Treasurer of the Navy and President of the Board of Trade, Viscount Palmerston, SecreBoard of War, Duke of Charence, Lord High Admiral

Such was Wellington's Cabinet Many difficulties beset the Piemier, parts of the country were in a disturbed state, opposition was active, Ireland was shaken by the demands of the Catholic Association, and the agitation of an Emancipation Act, and the agricators assumed a menacing attitude. The parliamentary service was opened on the "9th of Jan ; and the only incidents of note in the debate was an allu lon to the battle of Navarino, and some an air ion to the battle of Astraino, and some arresatic remarks of All Brougham on the phenomenon of a military prime minister in which he for the first time introduced the cri-brated phrases. The school metric indoors "This new power said he "has arisen and I trust to it and its primer, and do not lear the a idler with his boyont."

The first step of the Wellington ministry was to appoint a finance committee the next was the artif-ment of the corn laws. The bill was no actioned to the corn laws. The bill introduced for this juryose maintained the principle of protecting duties, instead of ab-ocide probit ition, and of an according and descending real according to the floctuations of price in the home market; the medium price being tetween 64a, and 65a. Lord John Brandle and the first section of the contraction. lineed a motion for a committee to take into inverie anotion Lie committee to take this consideration the regular des of the Tr and Corporate to Acts, resulted in a resolution for their in last repeat. On monetock up the m a for solith lift award to lique of Long. A more monetock and parallel flower of Long.

A more monetock along the short manner boat to general the sit name of limit type—that of Catt le I mancipati n. On the 6th of May, i rl Burkett moved for a Committee of the whel if me to tak int conferming the Catholic class with a siew i a final and energi t ey al a trent; the dilute 1 ted I neer tiere and the motion fra committee w carried by a rea relay of six and the re-sulf was the passing, a rea laties it at the pro-pertion from them, is enjoying but com-A in alternow was proposited with the laties upon the subject, who agreed to take the matter into consideration on the 9th of June. On that occasion, the Duke of Wellington spoke at length in opposition to the present entertainment of the measure, on motives of expediency. The Marquis of Lansdowne's motion, that the House should concurrent the Commons' resolution, was lost by 46

Meanwhile, the Catholics assumed a bolder attitude than before They resolved to commence determined and systematic opposition to Government; and finding that the 40s freeholders had a powerful influence at the county elections, they used every means, and succeeded in obtaining command of the voices of this class in Ireland. The first opportunity was afforded by the election for Clare county. Mr Vesey Fitzgerald, one of the members, had vacated his seat by accepting office. He had supported emancipation, but they could not pass over his connection with Government, and Mr O'Connell, the leader of the Catholic Association, was started in opposition to him. By the omission of a clause, the Association could return a member to serve, but he could not take his seat, and the success of the Cntholic candidate would afford Ministers a proof of the sway which the Association possessed over the Irish tenantry. By great exertions, Mr. O'Counell was returned, and the Catholics were every where roused to action.

In July, the law against the Catholic Association expired, and that body re-assembled to improve the victory obtained at the Clare election. They enumerated four pledges to be demanded of every one who should come forwand as a conditate for a west in parliament; that he should oppose the Diske of Welling-ton's multi-market thing ittlemandration was conceded support civil and relication was conceded support civil and relication with the support of the sub-letting act and support parliamentary reform. Local clubs were organized, weekly contributions were levined and willingly palit; and every first put the sub-letting and relication to be supported by the support of the support of high Protestant party rought to artistry to wired the Orange folders in Ireland and estab-ing a Brunswick club, in Dublin and Ut fer in all pirms were citied to rounds and or in in mulation of the Carbelle rent, a Protestant r nt was collected. The people of Irrhand seemed spitel into two mb by and add re-namies. The Brem wick club apread in Eng-land and a great Protestant meeting was teld in Kenr at I useed a Heath. All this time in hear at 1 unead a Heath. All this lines I is a reason when the Caract were investigation for the reduced of the Caract were investigated as the control of the Caract was investigated as the control of the Caract and the Caract a to the army in Spain; the doctor then holding a high office in the university of Salamanca. He addressed the premier by letter on the state of the country, and the importance of settling the question. The Duke's reply was in these words -"I nesure you that you do me but justice in believing that I am sincerely anxious to witness the settlement of the Roman Catholic question, which, by benefiting the state, would confer a benefit on every individual belonging to it But I confess I see no prospect of such a settlement Party has been mixed up with the question to such a degree, and such violence pervades overy discussion of it, that it is impossible to expect to prevail upon men to consider it dispassionately. If we could bury it in oblivion for a short time, and omploy that time diligently in the consideration of its difficulties on all sides, I should not despair of secing a satisfactory remedy." A copy of this letter was sent to Mr O'Connell and the Association, who regarded it as exincing that the premier was becoming convinced of the necessity of concession, and also to the Marquis of Anglesen, who, in his reply to Dr. Curtis, expressed it as his opinion that the Duke was wavering, and advised a conciliatory and constitutional mode of action on the part of the agitators Shortly after the Marquis wrote this letter, he was recalled, and the Duke of Northumberland appointed in his place "The rage of the Catholics was unbounded, as their hopes had been premature, and the storm howled louder than ever"

But at last the Duke of Wellington, determined by the imminence of the danger, resolved upon concession; and having secured the convent of his colleagues, and the permission of the king, he perspered to bring torward the measure. In the speech from the throne at the opening of the excelsion of 18.2 appeared the announcement of it, which took the nation by surprise and excised the fewn of the Protestant party. The announcement run thus——His Mayesty recommends that you should take into your consideration the whole condition of irrisonly and that you should take into your consideration the whole condition of irrisonly and that you should take into your consideration the whole condition of irrisonly and that you should take the processing the state of the ties can be effected constantly with the per-toanest security of our establishments in church and state with the maintenance of the reformed and take with the maintenance of the register of the beauty and of the clony of the realm, and of the churches committed to their charge Thew are the institutions which mu t be held These are no increments when it is to be sared in the Protestant knowledge, and which it is the determination of hills jety to preserte intitate. It is it by the treatment protonerals you to there on the countries the resembly recommends you to there on the countries they interesting to the feel is soft his propriate, the transpullity of the matted kingdom, with the sectoristic which will be a secure with the sectoristic patient.

L. successful trans of these deliberations." lim for the the preparately of the the against four of the against four of the Lords on the 31st of March, 1829 In moving the second reading of the bill on the 2nd of April, the Dake of Wellington, after dwelling on the disturbed state of Irriand, said, "I am one of those who have been engaged in war beyond most men, and unfortunately principally in civil war, I must say this, that, at any sacrifice whatever, I would avoid every approach to civil war. I would do all I could, even sacrifice my life, to prevent such a catustrophe. Nothing could be so disastrous to the country, nothing so destructive of its prosperity, as civil war, nothing could take place that would demoralize and degrade as such a conflict, in which the hand of neighbour is raised against neighbour—that of father against son, and son against father—of brother against brother against brother—of the servant against his master—a conflict which must end in confusion and destruction. It civil war be so bud, when occa-Etoned by resistance to government—if such a collision is to be avoided by all means possible—how much more necessary it is to avoid a civil war, in which, in order to put down one portion, it would be necessary to arm and excite the other. I am quite sure there is no man who now hears me, who would not shudder were such a proposition made to him, yet such must have been the result, had we attempted to terminate the state of things, to which I have referred, otherwise than by a measure of conciliation. In this view, then, I think we are justified in the measure we have proposed to parliament." The Duke then adverted to the checks which had been removed from other portions of the community expressed his contiction that the measure instead of weakening, would strengthen the church—said that he gave the come is four irrely without asking securities—and thus concluded "On the whole I entertain no doubt that after this measure shall have passed the Roman Cathelice will create to exist at a separate unterest in the state as they at present do. Leave no doubt that they will create to exist a dispersion of the other includes the continuous in this or the other Illuses of Tarling and the continuous in these parts that he had formed to ment. I arlument will then be disposed to look at their conduct, and every thing which look at their conduct, and every thing which rejects that country a they would look upon the project and the adarrs of hughand and Souther project in my topers of transmitty after a trial has been given to the network is all him to scrulde in committee to the transmitted has no scrulde in committee to the transmittent and laying between the tale of the case, and and laying below it a late of the case, and calling for the occasion. In the occasion, the occasion is the occasion. It all do to in the same confidence that participant will support may it at feel in the prewint case. The debate occup ed two days, as I the ansaure was carried by a majority of this. On the tief residing 213 jets voted for it, and 100 against it. The hugal A wast was given on the follow April. In consequence of the part taken by the results of the transport of the part taken by the results in their ways in the tall the Label Bill, the Larl of White thesa has better addressed invented to gather the control of the tution, that he might more effectually blind the eyes of the true supporters of Protestantism to his designs. This letter drew from the noble Duke an indignant disavowal of this absurd charge. Lord Winchilsea having declined to publish an apology, a hostile meeting took place between the parties on the 21st of March, when Lord Winchilsea having received the Duke's fire, fired in the air himself, and then made a satisfactory public reparation.

The passing of the Catholic Emancipation bill was accompanied by another for disfranchising the whole of the 40s freeholders in Ireland—a measure which excited little opposition. Parliament was prorogued on the 24th of June, and the ceding of the Catholic claims was the last important measure of George IV's reign. The passing of the bill tranquillized Ireland, but only for a short time, and after the measure had passed, the Duke of Wellington's ministry tottered. Discontent and disaffection reigned among the Tory party, and the Whigs looked on, and were ready to seize the reins of office. The question of Parliamentary Reform had been gaining ground—its advocates were assuming a strength which would in a short time dely resistance. Things were in this state, when the king expired, and William IV ascended the throne on the 26th of June, 1830.

This was the signal for renewed hostility to the cabinet from both the high Tories and the Whigs The first question which gave rise to discussion was upon the point, whether the parliament, after voting such supplies as were immediately necessary, should be at once discolved, or whether provision should be made for a recency in the arent of the king's demise before the re-assembling of that body; after a violent debate the ministry had only a small majority. On the 2thd July parliament was proroged by the king in person; it was a xt day dissolved by proclamation, and writs for the election of a new one issued on the 14th of 8 ptember.

the same of a permost. A ven to of circum stances told against the minister and the result showed a loss of fifty rotes. Ireland was also goth in commodion of the same of the

On the "nior townster Parliament opened. The preed from the throne merely mentioned. The preed from the throne merely mentioned the predictives in France and Parliam. To the when the address was moved in the Homes of Lord Lard Hery a treating to the coulied taken the throne of Lord Lard Hery a treating to the coulee taken to the Franch and Di vanorements and the was the treating of the coule for our yea. He felt permaded as poor min! to witness these trustice of the countries. The Dake of Well return is 7 jets dwell upon the expellencies of the their countries of the Treating of the through the treating of the treating to see many the country coreds long with these works of the extended of the treating the treating of the treating the treating the treating of the treating treating the treating treating the treating treating assumed a more hostile attitude. On the 17th of Nov, Sir II. Parnell moved "that a select committee be appointed to take into consideration the estimates and accounts presented by command of his majesty respecting the civil list. After a short debate Ministers were left in a minority of 29, and the Duke of Wel-

Earl Grey then took office, with a cabinet lington's government resigned determined to carry through the measure of Parliamentary Reform In the details of this question, and the discussions which took place upon it, we shall not enter The measure was rejected in the House of Lords by a majority of 35, and Earl Grey's ministry resigned. The or 55, and Earl Glos smillist, resigned. The Duke of Wellington was again called upon to take office, but the country was in such an excited state, outrages and destruction of proexcited state, outrages and destruction of proexcited state, outrages and destruction of proexcited state, outrages and destruction of property taking place in various parts, that the continuance in office of the noble Duke, seemed fraught with the utmost danger Enil Grey was again entrusted with the formation of a cabinet, and the Reform Bill was passed. On the 9th of June, 1834, the Duke of Wellington, having been appointed Chancellor of the University of Oxford, was installed in this hon-ourable office, with more than usual magni-A large assemblage of noblemen, clergymen, &c. accompanied his Grace to the Theatre of the University, and the various degrees were then conferred. Dr Phillimore, the Professor of Civil Law, made a lengthy oration on the merits of the newly-elected Chancellor, paid a just tribute to the memory of his predecessor, Lord Clarendon, and concluded by affirming that the University had 376 done liself the greatest borour by electing the Duko of Wellington as its Chancellor. On this occasion bonours were conferred upon a bost of publishers and gentlemen, who had studied at Oxford.

at Oxion.
When the Reform Bill came into operation the party who had been the means of pushing it probably servected a long tenure of office At first, indeed, the Conertratives did not matter much more than 100 members, but their numbers were increased under the leadtheir numbers were increased under the lead-craship of the relates and were now nearly doubled; they had a large majority in the Home of Lords; and the Whig cas be tind been weak ned by the secession of its ablest members. Earl Grey having from age retired, and lord Althorp took his scal to the II size of facels, will the Univer Rechamped, Lord Stanley and Sir Jaures Ornhum, deemed its their dairy on large to build office we ber the Whigs. Upon half Spener's death, Lord II its stress waterd up a time high to pupping I mid in Roselli as the leader in the House of Common. Illis Majority the minof Centus na. His Majesty the ught the min-itry unit to carry on the but news of the country and in particular he was averse to training and in generating Canarellogs by therefore had bond M Bourn in the trop-led medical with the official arma commits be-came be introded to send for the Boke of Millingt in to whom a letter was francistical. Not always to be and don't the say of the additional infinition reminest in Fig. II. Fig. 1, and we then in itsly—the Dake Indianal. Office III. Fig. 1, best sectors in a source to be II. Leel returned, and ascepted the premiership—the Duke of Wellington filling the office of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The principles on which Ministers proposed to act, were explained in an able address of Sir Robert Peel to his constituents at Tamworth—On the 30th of Dec., Parliament was dissolved, and a new one con-

voked for the 19th of Pebruary, 1835

The issue of this election is well known. The Conversatives injustered little more than 300: and the opposition refused to give them time to ingratiate themselves with the country, but resolved to try their strength upon the appointment of the Speaker, nominating Mr Aberciomline, in opposition to Mr Manners Sutton, who had held the office, with the approbation of all parties, for many years, in a House of 626 members, the Wing candidate was elected by a majority of ten Next camo the debate on the address, to which an amendment was moved in both Houses, and carried in the Commons. In the House of Lords the Duke of Wellington took the opportunity of vindicating his conduct in assuming the reins of affairs at his sovereign's commands, till Sir R Peel should arrive he proved that he acted in accordance with the constitution, and with the view of promoting the best interests of the country-that he had carried on only those functions of government which were absolutely necessary—that the late administration had become so shattered, as to render the formation of another necessary-that he was bound to render these service at his sovereign's call -he only desired that Parliament would give them time to bring forward their measures, when they could judge of the almority of their professions by their practice. In the lower increases of R. I. cale expressed his determination to remain at the past of duty multiple had been cratifed to lay before the House a programme of those measures which is intended to submit to the consideration of the House, and then if those measures did meet with their approval, they could reject them, and be would rejust time office.

retirs true onto:
The opposition, who lacked courage to more a direct rate fwant of confidence at it advove the ministry from office by moving an amend ment, e tablishing the periodiple of the appropriation of the revence of the first fourth to secular parpusers; in a House of all members, as voted to favour of it, and 250 against it;
in committee Minust rateing left in a minerity $123, and actual of "T restricts, and the Melbourse multity was restormed, and the Melbourse multity was restormed.

From that period until July 1841 the Buka remained in apporties. At that time he was a not called upon to take a part in the direction of the Material Russian. In this case, and the state of the Material Russian, and the state of the forest time of the Material Russian and the Material Russian of their approperties and in July 1844, because of their approperties and in July 1844, because of their approperties and in July 1844, because of the Material Russian Russian and the Material Russian Russia edvocacy of the principles which he held, by those who differed from him, has long since passed away, while those who agreed with him, regarded him with a peculiar degree of esteem and veneration, liberal-minded men of all parties looked up to him with that respect which talent and worth command towards one whose public life has been an unbroken course of consistency and excellence.

One other incident in connection with the life of the Duke of Wellington which we have to notice, is the banquet which was given to the illustrious subject of our memoir by the Cinque Ports, at Dover, when many distinguished individuals of all parties, assembled to do him honour On that occasion. Lord Brougham, in proposing the health of the illustrious guest, pictured in glowing colours the brilliant career of the noble Duke, pourtraying with burning eloquence the mighty achievements of the Conqueror of Napoleon I -In fact, the ex-Chancellor's oration was one on which no higher encomium can be passed than to say that its whole tone, and the eloquence and ielicity of its allusions, were worthy of the subject.

We are quite aware of the difficulties which present themselves in attempting to form an estimate of the character of the illustrious individual whose career we have endeavoured briefly to delineate, and the portraiture must necessarily be imperfect, as we want those minute touches and incidents of private and domestic life, the relation of which constitutes the distinction between historic annals and biography. So far as an estimate can yet be formed the record of his life is perhaps suffi-cient; and the reader cannot had to have re-marked some striking characteristics. As he

marked from a triking characteristics. As he follows Willington a successful extress he most have observed one born for entirence—endowed with those true qualities of bead and heart witch are fit for the highest and most responsible a stone, for assuming and maintenance descriptions of the stone of the of handen for the understeely high quali-ties of the Ferret conjuster were defaued by alloys from which Wellington was entirely from we see in the latter no striving siter

I'm't but the understanding clear and service Jet but the understanding clear and service under a low powers a scalety missealith to the fait in a last ion which so affected by the fait in a last ion which so affected last consequence and rainjuly of these and it has not a first which a separatiti or self-directually associated, concerning the fore older topy and the influence coungities fore older topy and the influence facuum as of a stee which is a large in the self-directually associated as the self-directual self-directua t abuse abuse a rear white the anomalies of high given it has along a valify but the biblip proof qualification of a transfermite, of its could be with the server to be abused to the linguistic with the biblinessery to be abused to the linguistic server. ment of every favourable, and the reparation of every adverse circumstance. We should commit a grievous error did we narrow our view to consider him merely as a soldier and conqueror-or even a strategist and tactician of the highest rank, though this is the point of the highest rank, though this is the point from which he is generally viewed, and the blaze of military glory which encircles his name, has tended to obscure some more solid, but not less striking features which are apparent upon thoughtful contemplation. In truth, no mere general would have achieved what Wellington has done, for the man who can dauntlessly win battles, and expose his person like a common combatant, is often the very last man fit for managing extensive and complicated trains of business, for conducting the affairs of conquered provinces, for sumthe affairs of conquered provinces, for summoning up the energies of a supine and lukewarm civil gonernment, conducted by men of shallow understandings, distracted by mutual jealousies, and alive chiefly to petty interests —as Wellington did in India and Spain,—in the latter country and in Portugal, single-handed, and yet dealing successfully with both the political and military relations maintained by England with those governments, and with the distant administration of the Brazils In France, also, after concluding the war, as generalissimo of the confederated army, acting as the main-spring of all the political arrangements connected with the occupation of that country, and lastly, as ambassador at the Congress of Vienna and Paris, successfully coping with the most accomplished European diplomatists,—all this, too, it ought to be remembered, without previous training but from the realy and intuities finight of a great and comprehe naive mind and by the experi-mental study of men and nation. Such has been Wellington a career aloft, as if stationed upon a high pinnaele ever a mark upon which men a eyes have been turned in fearor in hope in him we see vigour of body and mind; ex-In him we see vigour or body and mined ex-traordinary queckness of porception, unwanted application, dispussionate investigation, coul-bers of temper, undanated courage, physical and moral and the habit of conducting treat that environ men turned in Philemess to de-tractions men turned in Philemess to deanara, as is a successionly conducting them that envision mean turned in hitterness to demand of furtures why she cherished such a favourite? I him all these things together is it not allowable to ear, that his character diplays in a very high degree indeed, great majesty of mind?

All and much move that we might have said respecting fire grains and his commanding powers of insellect, are more than bone out by the period of this D. patche, which, constituting a raisable repository if rehistorizing diplay move fully than any other means that he calculated every step and a trade if bother or turnure equally with the most larger and the construction of the latter of early solved as a resonance of his character. I from the material and the character is the most larger in the character of the character is the character of the character is the character of the character is a resonance of posting a rescription. As the character is a superior of the character is a superior mean the character in the character is a superior mean that the character is a superior mean the character is a superior mean that the character is a superior mean the character is a superior mean that the character is the character is a superior mean that the character is a superior mean that the character is a superior mean the character is a superior mean that war wellelgaral with Loughlamet cases the fruit of disappointment, or at least of experience, would almost seem to have been indigenous in his mind, and were most conspicuously mainle-ted in the very height of success. The personal qualities developed are not less valuable—the patience of his inquiries, the capacity of his mind for all, even the mest opposite kinds of knowledge, and the good temper, sagacity, and consummate prudence which enabled him to evercise—or rather indulge his incre splendid qualities of promptitude, decision, and valour, the whole adorned by simplicity, generosity, justice, and good nature.

nature.

Such are our impressions on contemplating the career of the Duke of Wellington. He is throughout great and consistent, while leading others on to success, never losing command of himself. He is altogether complete no chink appears in the panoply of the mailed warrior. His has been a sustained career of success, the product of the weighed and measured exercise of all his great powers combining what in Napoleon's view, was enough to form a great general, even when the individual qualities were not, as here, of the highest standard—daring never too much—restrained by prudence, caution never damping his ardour. His course does not resemble the blazing track of a meteer, so much as the blazing track of a meteer, so much as the regularity, and steady growing brilliancy of a planetary movement, at length, in brightness and in majesty, "flaming on the forehead of the sky."

3 1 LIFE OF THE DEER OF WELLIAGTON

The noble and illustrious warrier and statesman whose glorious and eventful ille we have en leavoured briefly to delineate in the foregoing mage terminated bis earthly career at the rice are of 81 years. This event, which took place suddenly and unexpectedly occurred on a needay the 14th of September 18. aft ra lew hours allowed at Walmer Castle his official re tdenec as Wanten of the Citytum P rts.

The intelligence of this mountainerent was received at the time with the deepest recret tr nen of all parties in this nation and on th Continent of furotes and unit religioom personal throughout excisty in Great British on account of the borrof the country by the distill at her cherished bern The reward of the milie Duke were laterred on the 13th of har miler in St. I stale Callet draf clime to it I tearthly resingulate of the terric Y ton. The toneral - a publicanewas one of the most gotgroot and allemn of refactes that had everboury ben with and in Lana

A CATALOGUE

OF

USEFUL, INTERESTING, MORAL, AND RELIGIOUS BOOKS,

PUBLISHED BY

MILNER & CO.,

PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON,

AND HALIFAX, YORKSHIRE

MISCELLANEOUS.

ALL IN COLOURED CLOTH, UN-LESS OTHERWISE DESCRIBED.

Abbott's Young Christian. Frontispiece and Vignette, Imperial 32mo—1s 6d
Anna Lee, or, The Maiden, The Wife, and The Mother By T S Arthur. With 9 Full Page Engravings Fep 8vo Gilt Edges—3s 6d. Plain Edges—2s 6d

Arabian Nights' Entertainments Crown 8vo. 8 Steel Plates-2s 6d. Gilt Edges-3s, 6d

THE THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER

Arabian Nights Lintertainments. Fr and Vig Figal 3 m. - 1s. 64. GBs Infert-1-1s til. Backet of Howers and other Tales. By Christopher Von Ech. In. Light Sizel Plates. Git Date of the Common CBs Villenand.

In kan il lore leepabro Glit Edges-Ja Gd.
Illam I lore a tel. Limp Cloth-is Let of there re. Four Plates. Demy 18mo.

P. ket of there is, Four Plates, Demy 18mo, (iiit Flows a, Plain Flows-1a, 6d) Beauty t Cow Doctor Ir 18mo -6d.

Formulal Time hear 11 Medicine Letract Derry 1 mm Wilth I'm as Plan Ligger-18, bit Bibl Febors A D. by Text Book Frontispiero Demy 4 mm Rad I bees 61, Leather Olit

Index-5d Red or thit? It a with Tack-1 I masky U I for Tree or Toolers for New I ditum. In my pare I fulfill flack and I I es. Cl. Haln Flores-

There is a state of the state o

Note Direct Med to Imp. 3 may per P a Notard H say 13 Improve the lep of the Frank I frame I f un -1 ( liff (--) f)

Da 7 1 1 in all free Thire Parts on f o 11 - 2 to 1 pt free [1] - as 1

11 - 4 to Foliosp Ar Gill B &
t o - 11 1 a - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 1 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 1 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 2 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 3 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 3 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 3 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 3 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

1 3 to 1 - 2 t C | Gut 1 lyes 1

I v I in Is west To Parts F Co. 34 Vm in Dan since Follows for the fire they be a strant to a to a line of the strange of the str

Christian Preacher's Pocket Companion Demy 18mo —1s 6d

Clater's Every Man his Own Farrier Foolscap 8vo —19 9d

Chter's Every Man his Own Cattle Doctor Foolscap Svo —18 6d

Clater's Farrier and Cattle Doctor, Combined,

Foolscap Svo -2s 6d

Cobbett's English Grammar Royal 32mo —6d Cooke's Universal Letter Writer Front & Vig Royal 32mo —9d Gilt Edges—1s

Cope s Natural History. 425 Engravings Medium 8vo —59

Cope's (Dr.) Outlines of Sermons Foolscap 8vo

Frontispiece-3s

Culpeper's complete Herbal Numerous Coloured Plates Foolscap 8vo —4s Plain Plates—3s Culpeper's complete Herbal Royal 32mo Numerous Cuts —1s 6d

Culpeper's complete Herbal Coloured Plates

Royal 32mo —3s 6d

Domestic Cookery By Mrs Rundell Plates Foolscap 8vo Coloured Cloth—2s 6d Plan Cloth—1s 6d

Dr King's Domestic Medicines Fep 8vo —1s Edgeworth's (Miss) Stories for Children Fep 8vo Nine Engravings Gilt Back and Edges —3s 6d Plain Edges—2s 9d

Edgeworth's (Miss) Popular Tales Foolscap 8vo Nine Engravings Gilt Edges—3s 6d

Plain Edges—28 9d

English Domestic Cookery Foolscap 8vo Limp Cloth—1s

Finney's Lectures on Revivals Royal 32mo 1s 6d Finney's Lectures on Revivals Fcp 8vo Portrait—1s 9d MULKED AND CEMPTER 9 CHEFA DODGE

I'rnev a Bicletons of Sermons. Prolary 810 Front -In Pd. Finner a Lectures to Professing Christians Portrait. I relevan tro - la Pil Pleetwood a Life of Our Lord and Faviour Jesus Christ Imperial arma Gilt Lalgra-as

I res Book | Marters, 18 Engravings, Gilt. Idres - a 6d Plato Talgers - a Fergusen a Ili tory of the Roman Republic I rout. & Vig. Imperial 22mo. Gill Ed vs -

s &L Ilsin I leve - 4 G Hemith a Ht tory of Lagland. Demy 12ma.

Led Id was a CL Hieroglyphical little carly '00 cuts Red I her to Ill or if rland The I from the Roman Peri I to the Present Tim. By T. B. Rickly Milety From states and Francisco.

Region Practical W L Iron La Measure Is for in () Clab-t 1
Inform to for iverybody By Dr. Chase Indexp 6 or 1 mp.tl-st-la.

I readiled the Dangers. Fret & Vir 40 lut in ismo-i al Ji and Driven er i er Rel Fireals Jor Deteracy Royal Dino, Rel Figur -re letter at

J yes Scientif It - es Trapses wis ft. J an as (Th. W. S. 11 arise) Frentighes. Link on home of IAND at 1 (17 By Miss Committee I all Oft lock and a title storen or ten Is store a C'un at It as any A are and eta ? Lu. with the a ente ? ĭ wy bez⊸ie,

Leng Rivers A tale of American Life By Mrs M J Holmes Full Gilt Back, Sides, and Edges Nine Engravings Fool-cap 8vo -3s od Plan Edges, Lettered-2s. 9d

Curse of Chiton (The) A Novel —1s 6d Mangnall's Historical & Miscellaneons Questions Revised and corrected by E II Riches, LLD, FRAS Crown 8vo Red Edges-2s 9d.

Marian Grey A Novel -1s 6d

Mabel Vaughan A Novel -18 6d.

Manual of Croquet Front Royal 32mo, Paper Covers-3d Lamp Cloth, Gilt Edges-6d

Markham's (Mrs.) History of England With continuation to the present time, by E. H. Riches, LLD, FRAS Upwards of one hundred Engravings Crown 8vo -2s 9d

Murray's English Grammar Royal 32mo —Cl Pearls of Great Price Crown 8vo Beautiful now Edition Handsomo Steel Frontispiece and Vignette Full Gilt Back and Edges-4s

Pearls of Sacred Poetry Demy 18mo -1s.

Penny Table Book Penny Books (Mrs. Sherwood's) 10d per Packet of 12

Penny Books (Mrs Mitford's) 10d. per Packet of 12

Queechy By the Author of 'Wide, Wide World' Full Gilt Back, Side, and Edges 9 Engravings Foolscap 810—3s 6d Plain Edges—2s 9d Ready Reckoner Royal 32mo Red Edges—1s Ready Reckoner Red Edges Demy 32mo -6d

Reciter (The General) With Engravings Fcp 8vo Limp Cloth Part I—1s Part II—1s.
Reciter (The General). Numerous Engravings

Foolscap 8vo -2s.

6 MINER AND CONTANT & CHEAP BOOKS.

Lobertson & History of the Reign of Charles V Front and Vig Imperial 8.mo —28.
Robinson Cruson 1 Illy traitons, I object 8 for.

Oilt lick & Edgre Centre Block, &c. — S. 6. Hobbson Crows Fep bro. 2 Ill strations— a farred Garland (The) Crows 8 fo. 1 cantifons— faith a. Handsons Site! I ronk and Vig Got bilgra— 4.

Gin I lyra—

Serred Garland (The) Fooleap 8 fo. I ronk for I lyra—

Serred Garland (The) 1 t Series. Fronk and

Viz R rat 3 ma Gilt Ld -- la Cd. Pe-cool fort. (till Dig. -1a Cd.

botted Chief (Th.) by Mas Parter Foolom, by Mas I have I will be the first factor by Mas I have the first factor.

G. thee's Sol and Adopt. I process of.

Thind I from -2a Od.

blakepears of Orgate Works, With Profess by Martine Life of Author and a Uniter
I strait. Dring No.

blakepears of Orgate Works, With Profess by Martine T. Comments.

I strait. Dring No.

blakepears of the Martine Add a Uniter
I strait. Dring No.

comments of the Last Algre, and Central War

comments. Mrs.) I straids. These Sol comments of Mrs.) I straids. These 8 1 stee.

batteer At 1 Pres Large and II saled Type for the Invaling all the Trust and August 19 to 19 to

In 1

1 n - 1 (1

سم د حلداتا

8 MILYIN AND COMPANY'S CHEAP DOORS.

Wil Wile World (The) By E. Wetherell, Full Gilt Back Sid and Dilger. 8 Lugravings, 1 olscap 8 a.-3-6d. Plain Edges-La Od.

YEW SERIES OF SPELLING BOOKS.

I desp 800 - C'eth-6d each.

C nont a Releasir Spelling Isolatant by Markhama Spelling and Reading English Guy New Unit helpelling 14 % I reading a New Lool on Spelling Rock Ha or a Logic Spelling Hack Ha Crementary Spelling Hack Dy Dr. Webster Vye a Universal Spelling Dock

Uniform with the spellings

No. of Cos. With 10 1 graving a 1 n No. and H. Dry Hawtrand Dr. of Latin Geometric Harbins H. of Fland I 1 eril 17 10 12 15 1 Header 1 eril 19 500, 12 to 17 1 Intervent 12 1 Header Wall grave 4 (1) 4 3 1 2 con Herry

POETICAL SERIES.

Foolscap 8vo. In Coloured Cloth.

Burn's Complete Works	8 Steel Plates	Full
Gilt Back & Edges 3s 6d	Plain Edges 2s	9d

- Byron's Poetical Works 8 Steel Plates Full Gilt Back and Edges 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d.
- Byron's Don Juan. Front and Vignette. Royal 32mo 1s
- Cowper's Poetical Works 8 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d.
- Dryden's Poetical Works. 8 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s. 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Gems of Poetry for those we Love 9 Plates Gilt Back & Edges 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Longfellow's Poetical Works Full Gilt Back, Side, and Edges, 9 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s 6d. Plain Edges 2s 9d.
- Milton's Poetical Works Full Gilt Back, Side, & Edges 8 Steel Plates 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Moore's Poetical Works 8 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s. 6d. Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Poetical Keepsake, (The ) 8 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Scott's (Sir Walter) Poetical Works 9 Illustrations Gilt Edges 3s 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Shelley's Poetical Works 8 Steel Plates Gilt Edges 3s. 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d
- Wordsworth's Poetical Works 8 Steel Plates. Gilt Edges 34 6d Plain Edges 2s 9d

JUST PUBLISHED!

NEW EDITIONS

HOULDSWORTH'S CHEETHAM'S PSALMODY, WITH AN APPENDIX

RT

J V ROBERTS Mux.Doc, Ch.Ch, Oxon

Organistatthe Parish Church Halifax.

Quarto Edition, Paper Covers 6 6
Best Cloth, Red Edges 15
Hall Morecook, Phill GHE Each, CHIt Edges 15
Royal Syo, Best Cloth, Red Edges 25
Royal Syo, Paper Covers 6
Covers Syo Dest Cloth, Red Edges 3

THE WIDE, WIDE WORLD LIBRARY.

DEMY 18MO

New Editions Bound in the Best Cloth Plain Edges—1s 3d Each—Various Coloured Cloth, Gilt Edges—1s 6d Each Frontispiece and Vignette in each Book

Abominations of Modern Society Æsop's Fable Illustrated All for Love, or, the Outlaw's Bride Anecdotes of Napoleon Bonaparte Anna Lee, The Maiden, the Wife, and the Mother Annals of the Poor (Richmond's) Anson's toyages Arabian Nights' Entertainments Around the Ten Table Talmage's Aunt Dinah's Pledge Barbara Stafford, or, Silent Struggles Barket of Llowers, (Tho). and other Tales Baxier's baint's Rest Beautiful Thoughts from the best Authors Boliever's Dally Remembrancer, or, the Paster's Morning Visit Believers Daily Remembrancer, or, the Pastor's Evening Visit Bogatzky's Golden Trea-Bury-Morning

Dogatzky's Golden Treasury-Lycning

Brown's Concordance to the Holy Scriptures Buchan's Domestic Medicine Buffon's Natural History Bunyan'sPilgrim'sProgress Burns' Poetical Works Cancelled Will (The) Changed Brides (Tho) Children of the Abbey Clarissa Harlowo Cook's Voyages round the World Cottage on the Cliff (The)

Bride's Fato (The)

Cowner's Poetical Works Crumbs Swept Up
Culpeper's British Herbal Curse of Chifon (The) Daily Comforter
Death-bed Triumphs Divorced Wife (The) Doddridge's Rise and Progress
Domestic Cookery

Don Quixoto de la Mancha Doubly I alse Down in a Saloon Dr King s Domestic Medicines Dr Willoughby & his Wino

Li quette and Dictionary of Lore Eve Stanley A Morel E entres at Home Patr Play

of Inglewood Parrett Ferret Fashion and Famine Patal Marriage (The) Patheriese Fanny

Perm Learne Paners Daughter (The)

Five Martite of St. Albane (The)

Fortune Sealer (The) Foxe's Book of Martyre Gates Ajer (The) Colliner's Travels

Hairem of Bruges (The) Heires (The)

Harrey's Meditations and Contemplations History of England (The) Lineary of the sance-Pros-

ta W Code Hustory of the Presien War Homestead on the Hill-ride Haw Re Won Her

Hugh Worthington Information for Deary body

Inheritance (Tite) Justin Harley

Katharine Allen or, the Gold Driek Lamplighter (The)

Lens Birers Life of John Nelson

Lif of Mrs. Pletcher Life of Manoleon Bounnarta Lif of Washington

Lite of Wellington Lixry Glen, & other Stories.

Lang allow allowtical horas Lost Matress (The) Love in a Cottage, & Mary

Moratan

Love in High Life, and The Lost Brade Males Chiton Madel's Michael

Maiel Vanchan Manfron : or, The One-Handed Mank

Marian Grey; or, The Helr-Marriage: or, the might have been Duchess Married in Hane

Many Decrees Mary Howard: or. The Contact Ovphase Hellmurna Hosse

Maltim's Postical Works Libraic Revision, the Landlord's Daughter

Minston Bride (The) Moore's Lalla Bookh and Irish Melodies Mango Park's Travels

Mysteries of a Convent and Maria Monk Mysteries of Paris

Mews from the Invisible World. Fick of the Woods Hiust or, Derkness and

Daylight Old Distillery (The) Old Helmet (The)

Out of the Fire Pamels; or Virtue Reverded Pagrie of Secred Postry Planter's Danghter /I het Popule Homer's Ried

Connector Green Bedre (The) Rejected Will (The)

Best or The Illie of the Markentie Bobisson Crusos

Romance of the Forces Ross Lee

13

Rosa Olark Rose Mather Ruby Gray's Strategy Ruth Hall Sacred Garland—1st Scries Sandford and Merton (H18tory of) Scottish Chiefs(The)[at Sea Shipwrecks and Disasters Soldier & Orphans (The) St. Clair of the Isles SundaySchool Reciter(The) Busan Gray and Lucy Clare Swiss Family Robinson Sybil Campbell, or, the Queen of the Isla Tales of the Wild and the Wonderful

Temperance Reciter (The)

Temperance Tales Tempted Wife (The) Ton Nights in a Bar-Room. Three Sisters (The) Lucy Sandford Two I cars before the Mast Uncle Tom's Cabin Wandering Jew (1 be) Wars of England (The) West Lawn White Slave (The) Who shall be Victor Why did Ho Marry Her Wide, Wide World (The) Wife's Secret (The) Wife's Victory (The) Loung Man's Companion Loung Woman's Companion

ROYAL 32mo —COLOURED CLOTH—GILT EDGES—1s. 4d. EACH

Embellished with Frontispiece or Frontispiece and Vignette

(Nicholson's) Brown's Concordance Smith (Life of the Rev Tlike James) Smith's, The Book you will Smith's Book that will Suit Want You Smith's, The Book that you Smith's Bread from Heaven Smith's, The Church as it oughtto be, & Refreshing Dow-Drops Smith's Early and Latter [Souls Rain Smith's Food for Hungry Smith's Fruit from the Tree of Life

Smith's Glad Tidings of

Good Things

Book that will Suit You !

Smith's Gleams of Grace Smith's God is Love Smith's Good News for All Smith's Good Seed for the Lord's Fiold Nows Smith's have you heard the Smith's Light for Dark Dave Smith's Love of Christ, &c. Smith's Manna in the Wilderness Morcy Smith's A Messenger of Smith's More of Christ Smith's Pearls from the Ocean

Smith's Believer's Daily Remembrancer—Pastor's Morning Visit Smith's Believer's Daily Remembrancer—Pastor's Evening Visit Smith's Rills from the l Block of Ages Smath's Profitable Portions for the Lord Day finish's Secred Postry

Smith's Eliver and Gold Smith's Sunny Bublects Bruith's Voice of Marcy Amith's Wyordslystion, ke

ROYAL 32mo -GILT EDGES -- 1 EACH.

Illustrated either with Frontispiece, Frontispiece and Vignette, or Illuminated Title. POSTRAL OTER BOOKS. MENS, SEPERWOOD'S JUTAN-

Bridal Gift (The) Evergroup (The) First Love and other Poster Forget me not (The) Genns of Postry for those T Ym WE KOTE Genne of Secred Portry

Heart's Line (The) Reber's Portion Heman's (Mrs.) Bongs of

the Affections Hours of Thought radio bas and tad ond I Porms ITTO era

Language and Pretry of Morre Irish Makalies. Batters, &c Moore's Lalla Rockh

More's (Mrs. IL) Missellancous Por gas My Postie Companion Orange Howarast Œ, Dry things of Lore Portio Giff of Priendship Poetical Kerreake Poetry of Love (The)

Secred Harp (1 be) beared liarn of American Posts

Thomson's Seasons, &co Wedding Olft (The) Toung's Night Thoughts

ILE TALES. Boys will 1. Boys Carolina Mordanut Christman Carol, and other fhood Joys and Sorrows of Child-Juvenile Takes Maid of Judah (The)

KITHAR (LING SwiveCollage, & other Tales. Two Enights (The)

MINITALATIONAL Above Pables, with Apoli-

CELLODE Amondates of Christian Mar-Anonicias-Itoligious, Moral, ko IIII-tory Aust Linna's Mortes from Backet of Flowers (Men. Beecher's Lectures to Young

Better Land (The) Dicomheld's l'armer's Doy Book for the Lord's Day Door of Family Worship Banyan's Come and Welcome to Jesus Christ Bunyan's Law and Grace Unfolded Children's Friend Berguin's

Christian's Pattern, and Christian Perfection

Clarke's Scripture Promises Country Minister's Wife The Daily Food

Dictionary of Love (A) Doctor Syntax in Search of the Picturesque Fawcett's Christ Precious

Gems by the Way-side Gems of Picty [happy Gems of Thought

Great Secret, or How to be Heart and Hand

Juvenile Friends (The) Juvenile Tales (Mitford's) Kiss for a Blow

Law of Kindness Life of Colonel Gardiner

of Abel (Doddridge's) Life of Joseph and Death Lilliebright, or, Wisdom &

Folly Love Gift for all Seasons

Imperial 32mo Mamina's Pictures from the [Knowledge Mason's Treatise on Soli-Bible

May Flower Hester Mrs Memoirs of

Ann Rogers Memoirs of Mrs Newell

Paul and Virginia, Elizabeth, &c

Pike's Early Religion Inforced

Pike's Persuasive to Early fance

Pike's Volves for Persever-Pike's True Happiness Poor Pleasant Hours

Richmond's Annals of the Sabbath Musings, by Bond

Smith's, The Church as it Ought to be

Smith's The Love of Christ Smith's Railway & Steamboat Companion

Smith's Way of Salvation Sunday School Reciter-First Series [2nd Series Sunday School Reciterlen Nights in a Bar-room Todd's Angel of the Iceberg Todd's Great Cities Todd's Lectures to Children Todd's Simple Sketches

Todd's Student's Manual School Sunday Todd's

Teacher Todd's Truth Made Sumplo

Vicar of Wakefield. Wilson (Bishop) on the Lord's Supper and Sacra Privata

200 Pretty Little Tales

ROYAL 32mo,—GILT BACK, SIDES, AND EDGES,—COLOURED CLOTH—10d, EACH, Illustrated either with Frontispiece, Frontispiece and Vignetie, or Illuminated Title.

American Child Annie Benson; Oc. The

Spoiled Frock Dalos in the Busket Beautiful Gate, and other

Tales (The) [Dind Farmer and his Children (The) Book of Riddles & (The) Bunyan's Darren Fig-Tree.
Bunyan's Grace Abounding

Bunyan's Heart's Lass in Heart Trouble Bunyan's Jerumiem Sinner Saved, htt. Dunyan's Solomon's Tempie Spiritialized, &c. Bunyan's World to Come Children of England's Own Book (The)

Christian's Pattern Cottagers of Glenburnis Death of Abel. In 8 Books Economy of Human Lif Titta Chifford (or the Picca Orphan (Storia Dimbeth; or The Luies of Etiquette for Ladies and Gertianen, &c. Etiquette of Love Couri-

Eliqueits of Love Coursship, and Marriage Eliqueits or the Perfect Lady and Gentheman

Lady and Gentleman Filial Affection; or Home Restored

Carden of Words & Flowers

Gartenii of Howers Gaine Ajar

Goldsmith's Pretical Works Omide to Health & Long Life Happy Winter (The); Oc.

The Children of Hanson Lodge Hermin of the Beach (The) Hole in the Pocket (The)

Holiday Stories
Household Posses Jack and Ann., (Illustry of)
Joan of Arc. A Posses

Josa of Art. A Posm Just Bight; or A Little Wrong

Javenile Recentle (The) Javenile Tales for Boys & Otris Kim for Blow (A) [Plato

Language of Plowers, Onl.
Life of Dick Whittington Life of Joseph, the Bon of Little Berlin's Secret

Little Town Lady & other Porms
Love in Cottage
Love's Offering

Lucy Sandford
Maris Monk
Mary Mortton
Mary Reymond
Mary Reymond
Mason's Select Remains Mead's Aknost Christian Meson's of Joan of Are

Monro's Irish Meledies Mysteries of a Convent

Nelson's Journal Nursery Rhymes Moral Stories . Pastor's Sketches for Youth Paul and Virginia Poems for all the Year Round Poetle Gift of Friendship Poor-honse Sam for Poems Pretty Little Pretty Little People Pretty Little Stories for Pretty Little People Raven's Feather, & Mic & [Family Nick (The)

Rose Villa, or, The Happy Beymour Manor, or, Lucy Shepherd of Salisbury Plain and Sophia

Six Months in a Convent Sweet Mary, or, the Bride made ready for her Lord

By Mrs Palmer Tales aboutAnimals(Grand Tales aboutBirds, &c(Grand Tales from the Bible (Grand

papa's

Tales of my Father Thoughtless Little Fanny The Experiments of Living Three Sisters (The) & The

Fatal Dream Todd's Lectures to Children [2nd Series —1st Series

Todd's Lectures to Children Tom White, the Postboy Two Half-Crowns (The) Two Shoemakers (The) Uncle Paul'e Stories for

Boys and Girls Wesley's Life of the Rev ftion John Fletcher Weslevon Christian Perfec-

Wreath of Triendship Young Lady's Letter Writer

BY THE AUTHOR OF THE "BASKET OF FLOWERS" A Tale Basket of Flowers [Tales for the Young Christmas Eve, and other Caster Eggs, & other Tales Lustace, the Christian War-[other Tales Garland of Hops (The) and Genevieve, and other Tales Godfrey, the Little Hermit. Good Pridolin (The) & the

Wicked Thierry, &c Henry of Eichenfels, and Lewis, the Little Emigrant, other Tales Pet Lamb (The) and other

Swiss Cottage, &other Tales Tom, the Sailor, &c. Two Knights (The)

MISS EDGEWORTH'S JUVEN-TLE STORIES other

Basket Woman, rStories Stories Birth-day Present, & other False key, & other Stories Forgive & Forget, & other Lazy Lawrence, and other Stories

Orphans (The) and other Simple Susan, and other Stories

MISS EDGFWORTH'S POPU-LAR TALES

Contrast (The) Grateful Negro (The) &c. Lame Jervas, &c.

Lottery, (The) & Mural the Unlucky Out of Debt out of Danger, (Gloves

To-morrow Will (The) & the Limerick MEL STEENOOD'S JUTES- I THE TALKS.

Boys will be Boys Careline Mordaunt : or, the Coverness Christmas Carol, and other How to Flean, & other Tales

Jors & Sources of Childhood Litt's Gud's Kospeaks (The) Little Heary and his Pearer lattic Lady (The) &co

Lattle Woodman & his Dor Come

Locy and her Dhave & the Good Mures Locs Chro (Hurbry of ) Maid of Judah (The)

Pope and the Emperor, The Sceneant Dale, and the Or phen Mary &c.

Burta G ev Boss of Tanneloure Timothy and Philemon. other Tales

Two Brothers (The) k other 100 Rew Pretty Lattic Tales 100 Pretty Lettle Takes

TRIMORA TOAL-AITH IR-BRANT LA Broken Merchint (The) &c

trakers. Debere and Creditor

Ordardale or The Peace Drunkard's Wif (The) &c. Haven's lame and Don't-bema Huny Receipt up Appearances

Lest Penny (The) & other Stormes Tother Stormes Lost Children, (The) and Lorers and Husbands

Manay's Daby and other Burney Married and Einstel Stories Our L ttle Harry & other Pleare, the Organ Boy &c.

Poor Woodcutter & other btories Detiron from Dustress thehes have Whom Lates in the World

Sweetbearis and Wives True Inches or Bealth without Wines Durch Bont Mary Year's

OUT. br I blue les Who are Happiest? & other Who is Great at? & other Stories (other Stories Wounded Boy (The) and

Royal 32mo Roxburgh bindings is, 8d. each. Embellished with Prontispiece or Frontispiece and Fignette.

American Receirt Book Clater's Every Man his own Arabian Virbia Entertain-Parrier |Cuttle Doctor ments (sury-Morning Clater's Freely M a his own Bogatsky's Gobien Tros-Brown's Concordance Culpepe 's I, ery Man his own Doctor

Duchan's Domoratic Medeine Domertic Cookery Bunyan's Pilgrim's Property Todd's Student V mal Calpeper's Compt to Hertal W tte Scripture lintary

THE COURAGE LIPEARY.

PONTA - OPEN REDUCTION TO THE TERM OF SHULLING PART.

C. I et he i Markegres rlege, to preste la acade to the forest Identification of French Land to Numerica et His in the Changer I've en effect to the Island er to the Harr 114 343 A1 731 730 C At the Property of A ** . $5 PH A + 1 m 1 + no -, 30mi amilitims inc Arrect / Kef N 1 + h Anny Settle of 12 th Nelson Anna le or the Maiden. Wife as d Mother Annie Binan, or, The trolliers be Angel and thill (Hie) to Amenia Versia round the Vor d forrite Arablen Nights' I nterisiu-A Wright around the Cross Aunt Dinah's Pledge Balos in the Basket, &c. Barbara Fianord, or, Silent htrus glas Basset of Liowerr, I c Paxter's Saints' Rect. Beams of Silver from the Star of Bellichen

Beent ful Gate (The) &c

Mon

Bei cher electurent broung

(Pris ering neighbed 11 1 2 ml 55 1 mm 151, 1 A had I are era of list fishin In in the fire cell inclu Prostella a too be a Tren-P M -- ME mile Il trlan tin't i Trearom -1 to year It + ) ( the Latin Day ( ) Bireathin e of Jana Tiri Int Gift (17) } Brite a late, The I to the elite of Chil t limrn's Comminue i Prum sTravi sindingstria Buches rellian to Modh hip Buffen's Satural History Buttone Pil rime Propress 2 Parts With Cuts Bunann's Choice Norks— Lirst Series [2nd Series Butivan's Choice Worls-Bunyan's Choice Works-Third beggg Bunyan's Choice Works-Limrth beries Bunsan's Roll War Burns Portical Works Buth r's Hudibras Byron's Childe Harolde Dyron's Select World Byron's Choice Works

Oable Boy's Story Osposile I Will, The Changed Brides, The

Chapone Gregory Pennington, and Dodsley Children of the Abbey

Christmas Eve, &c Christ's Famous Titles Christian's Pattern, and

Christian Perfection Christian's Every Day Book Christ Precious

Clariera Harkowa Charle's Scripture Promises Clater's Every Men his own.

Cattle Doctor Terrier Chain's Every Man his own Cobbett's and Marray's

English Grammars Occha's Letter Writer Cook's Yoyages

Octavities Portion and Desmane Works Cooper's Set Lione Occupat's Deershover Cooper's 607

Occurry Last of the Mohl-Cooper's Palot Oottage Gardener Outs

Cottagers of Gienburnia Are Cottneer's Key to the Holy beriptures Country Minister's Wif

Comper's Postical Works Crumbs Bwept Up Culpeper's Bettish Herbal Otheper's Every Man his own Doctor Dally Comfurter Daily Food

David Price, Adventures of Drath-ted Trium: ha Death in the Pot

Deltor and Crollion, Lc. Destiny by the A thor of

Marries

Divine Garland (The) by Bay W Walters Diverged Wife, The kn.

Doctor Syntax Bodd's Beauties of Shak-Bodd's Beauties of Ristory Dodd's Description to Young Men Doddrides alies &Progress of Religion in the foul Donesto Cookery Outs

Down in Salcon, &c Doubly Pales Dr Willoughby & His Wine Dryden's Portical Works

Drvden's Vired Elm (thillerd & Ross Villa Dispurite or the Prefera Contieman III.anv

Ebquettes or the Perfect Etiopette for Ledies and Gentlemen ПО Elegactic and Dictionary of Energy the Christian Warrior, &c. Bix Plates Eva Stanley A Moral Evenings at Home

Explorts of King Arthur, to Pair Play Pales Huy, &c. The Parmer of lagies coff west Fashion and Famine Patal Marriago, The

Fatheries Panny Forn Leaves Francy slievi valued Deliator Phat Love & other Porms I laber's Danebtr

The Fire Xights of ht. Allers Flowers, their Morals, 1'me terms, and Languero Posterica Knowledge (pross learnst me not, in l'outre & French and Forget Lo. I crtone breker, The

Dook of Martyre

Triukliu's Works Gema by the Way-Side Gens of Pottry for those we LOVO Gems of Spered Poetry Gems of Thought Glory through I nith-I ifo of Heinrich Stilling Godfrey the I ittle Hermit Goldsmith's Portical Works and Vicar of Wakefield Good Time Coming Grateful Negro, Hie &c. Great Secret, The Co Guide to Health and Lconous of Human Life Heart a Lase, The Heaven the Abode of the Sainted Dead Herrenly Home (The) Heavenly Recognition Heber a Poems Herress of Bruges, The Henry, Larl of Moreland Hervey's Meditations History of the Inquisition History of the Kussian War History of Pugland Cuts History of the Tranco-Prussian War, with map Homertead on the Hill-Side Holiday Stories, &c How He Won Her A Scquel to Tair Play How to Please, &c. Hugh Worthington Hangarlan Brothers, The I Love but Thee, &c I'll tell Thee all I Knew. &c. Inheritance, The Italian, The Jack and His Eleven Brothers, &o Joysand Serrows of Childhood &c

Justin Harley A Romance

Just Right, and Poor-house Sam Juvenile Recoval e and Invenile Takes Katharine Allen, or, The Gold Leid Kert a Poetical Works kiri e White's kemains Like for a Blow (A) Lampli hter The (Plowers Imgungs and Poetry Tena Rivers I if to of Colonel Gardiner Life of Toon of Arc, and Poem by Souther Life of Lord Nelson Life of Josephand Death of Abel Life of John Nelson Jife of the Rev J Tietcher Life and Labours of the Rev F Charles Life of the Rev T Wesley Life of Mrs Fletcher Life of Washington Life of Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington Life of Napoleon Bonaparte Life of Oliver Cromwell Little Berthn's Secret. &c Little Girl s Keepsake, &c Little Henry & Lincy & her Dhaye Little Woodman, The, and his Dog Cresar Lizzy Glen & other Stories By T S Arthur Looking unto Jesus Longfellow's Peetical Works Longfellow's Song of Hiawatha, & other Poems Lost Heiress, The Lottery Ticket, The, & The Contrast

Lore in High Lafe, and The

Lost Bride, to Los un Octtage & Mary

Moreton. Lovers and Horbands Lover's Offstrag, and Postic Guft of Franchism Makel Chiton - A Noval Mabel's Mustake

Mahal V prben Mamma albutures from the Phhia, ko.

Man-of War Lafe-A Boy's Ernetianon Mantroto, or, The One-

Marran Siray Marriage or, fine might

Married in Haste Mary Derwent New Howard

Mothurst's (The Rev T W ) Lagitt in the Dark Valber Madharat's (The Rev T

W) birestas from Lebenon.

Methourns House. By Il. Wetherell Memorin of Ca aber Memoirs of the Lif of Dr.

Augm Clarks Memoirs of Mrs. Rogers Memotrs of Mrs. Aswedl Memoges of Mercy Milton's Poetical Works

Minnie Herman, the Laptlord's Danshi

Missing Bride The Missionary Appealotes tak Person

Missionary Approaches. Al Berles

Moura's Choice Wester

Monra's Lails Rookh and Irah Melodica, 9 Plates More's (Mrs. II.) Poetsoal Horks Mothers of the Wise & Good Mungo Park's Travels in

Attitude Mysternes of Convent & Mar Monk

Mysteries of Udolpho Kew Shilling, The Nack of the woods RIDA | Or. Darkment & Day-

Hent Nothing but Money O'Hallorun or, The Insurgent Chief

Old Lowish Baron, and Castle of Oiranio Old Halton Olmey Hymne

odd Dartillery (The), Out of Date Out of Danger, La Ont of the Pire.

Inley's \ies of the Eridences of Christianity Paley's Natural Theology Pamela or Virtue Benard-

Paul and Virginia, Flicaboth and Bernela Planter's Danishter Tha Parasing Instructor New Pro's Later of Martery &

Imag nation Porus for all the Your Round, Lo Porms and Tales, by Mrs.

Hemana Postical Keepsaks, The Postry of Lore, The Pope, Blair Gray, Dodd, ke

Pope's Poetical Works Pope's Homer Odymer Pope's Homer's Hisd

Power of Prayer (The) Pretty Little Poems for Pretty Little Peoplo Queechy, by E Wetherell Queen's Badge, Tho Reciter for the Million Religious Courtship Rest, or, The Hills of the Shatemuc Richmond's Annals of the Poor Robinson Crusoe Rob of the Bowl Romance of the Forest Rosa Lee Rose Mather Rose Clark, &c Ruby Gray's Strategy Ruth Hall, &c Sabbath Musings, by Bond Sacred Garland—1st Series Sacred Garland-2d Series Sacred Harp (The) Sacred Harp of American Poetry Sandford & Merton, History of Scripture TruthsIllustrated By Timson Scottish Chiefs, The Scott s, Sir W , Ludy of the Lako Scott's, Sir W , Lord of the Isles Scott's, Sir W, Lay of the Last Minstrel Scott's, Sir W, Marmion Scott's, Sir W, Rokeby Shady Side, The Elielley's Queen Mab, &c. Shelley's Choice Works Shelley's Select Works Sherwood's, Mrs , Parting Gift Shipwrecks and Disasters

nt Sea

Sidney De Grev Silver Star Simple Susan, &c. Simpson's Koy to the Prophecics Simpson's Plea for Religion Smuh (Life of the Roy J. of Cheltenham) Smith's The Book that you Want Smith's Bread from Heaven Smith's Early & LatterRain Smith's Good Seed for the Lord's Field Smith'sLight for DarkDays Smith's Manna in the Wilderness Smith's Rills from the Rock of Ages Smith's Sunny Subjects for all Seasons Smith's Fruit from the Tree of Life Smith a Book you will Like Smith's Pearls from the Occan Smith's Food for Hungry Souls Smith's Good News for All Smith's Gleams of Grace Smith's Believer's Daily Remembrancer—Pastor's Morning Visit Smith's Bellever's Remembrancer—Pastor's Evening Visit Smith's Book that will suit You Smith's Sabbath Reading Smith's Glad Tidings of Good Things Smith's Have You Heard the News Smith's God is Love Smith's Voice of Mercy

Smith's Messenger of Meroy

24 RILEGE AND COMPANY'S CHEAR DOORS.

Smith's Way of Salvation bunith's Sacred Poetry Singth's Love of Christ, &c Smith's The Church is

Sauth's The Church is Ought to be, & Betreahing Des Drops

Smith More of Christ Smith's fairer and Gold Songs of the Affections

bongs of the Affections byeng of Shillelah St. Clair of the Islan Stephen's T. a.s in Egypt and the Holy Land Stepping Hea on and String's Reflections on the North of god

bunday when Reciter— First Sex bunday School Reciter—

Feered haries Sunny Memories of Foreign Lands

Busen Gray and Letey Clars History of S ett Marty or the Bride made ready f her Lord Swase F mit) Mobinson

hybri Cang heli Tales of Battles by Ses and Land Tales about Animals, litres.

and I mbes Takes and Stories of Ireland
Takes for lich and Poor Takes of Home Lif
Takes of I siry Land

Temperance and Band of Hope Reciters Temperance Tales

Tempest and burnhine
Ten hights in Her Hoom Tendlens of Warnaw
The Biglow Papers, & The

Anally Papers
The Book of I amily Worship
The Cottage on the Chiff

The Deep, Deep See, A Saflor's Voyages
The Descried Wife, by Mrs. Southworth
The Evergreen, in Postry &

The Evergreen, in Poetr Prose The Gates Ajar The Garland of Hope The Harres

The Herrore
The May Flower
The foldier's Orphune
The Rejected Wif
The Rejected Wif
The Terusted Wif

The Temptal Wif [Book The New Joe Miller's Just The Wandering Jow The Wif 's Source Thomson's Portical Works Ther's Majoral History 1st

Take's Ratural History 1st Hence Take Natural History 3d 5 ness Tudd's Angel of the Incherg

Le Todd's Lectures to Children Todd's Sindent's Manual Todd's Sinday School Teacher, &c., &c.

Toes White the Postboy and other Flories Treporths Bank of Patth True Riches, and Riches ha Wirgs Two Half-Crowns, The. &c.

Two Shormakurs, The, &c.
Tw Y are before the Mark Twice-Told Tales
Uncle Tom Cubin
Uncle Paul's Stories, &c.
Versa or the Child of

Adoption War Path, The Watte Improvement of the

Watt Logic Watts Scripture History Watts Workl to Come Where a in Sir W Scott Mark as a Program Harte, West Lawn by Mre Heles Who Shah bo Vi to re Who Shah bo Vi to re Who did He Marks Here Wide Wide World The Wide Wide World I enter Wife a Victory, The Je Wisson's Wonderful Charret ra Wonders of Nature and Art Wondsworth a Select Locus

1

Worder orther I to retion,
White Dee of Least in Ac Yells, Christian They Young Mines Block of Amic ment
Young Manes Rest Compamen
Young Man's Own Book Young Woman's Best Correpoint in Young a Postford Works
200 Pretty Tales

DIMY 32mo - MISCELLANFOUS-GILT EDGLS-COLOURLD CLOTH-6d FACH

Sinners A Rive for a Blow Babes in the Basket Backet of Plowers Baxter # Call to the Unconverted Baxter's Now or Verer Broot 's Apples of Gold Chesterfield's Advice to his Son Christian's Journal Dairyman's Daughter, The Tawcett's Advice to Youth Fencion's Pions Thoughts Heart and Hand History of Jesus, The History of Jack and his 11 Brothers History of Ann and her 11 Sisters

A Full Christ for Empty

Hill's Deep Things of God Hill a It is Well Huarcy's Glory of Christ Janeway's Tol en for Children Language of Plowers Lan of kindness Little Henry and his Bearer Mason's Crumbs Pure Gold from the Mines of Windom Rowe's Devout Fxercises Sabbath Talks about Jesus Sabbath Talks with Little Children on the Psaims Sacred Poetry Scott's Force of Truth Smith's Guido to God&Glory Susan Gray Young Cottager, The Young Lady's Letter Writer

DEMY $2mo.—ABBOTT'S WORKS-GILT EDGES-OOLOURED GLOTH-8d. EACH.

Caleb in the Country Caleb in Town Child at Hotos China and the English Countr Stone Every Day Duly Turende Religion Houry Head Lattle Fillowoher M Downer thoms Path of Pease School Boy Teacher Way of Salvation Wy to do Good Young Christian

PENNY QUIDES.

Guide to the Lover's Letter Writer Guide to the New London Letter Writer How to mak Pics and Puddings, by Mrs. Eundali

How to make Sours, Gravies, and Bauces, by Mrs. Bundell How to Okeve, by an Oth Hand. How to cook Fish & Gamb. by Mrs. Rondall

DEMY 32M0—LIMP CLOTH.

COLOURED PLATE.—GILT SIDES AND EDGES.—SIXPENCE EACH,

Etiquetie of Love Litiquetie of Courtehip Fliquetie of Marriage Litiquetie for Gentlemen Litiquetie for Ladies Elizir of Beauty Forget-me-not & Rine Bell Ooklen Wedding Ringfden Hand-book to Flexer Out-Language of Flowers Language of Love Rose and Lily Snowhrop and Daler

JUVENILE SERIES—LIMP CLOTH.

ROYAL 32mo —LIMP CLOTH —FRONTIS-PIECE, or FRONTISPIECE & VIGNETTE SIXPENCE EACH

Alleine's Precious Promises Almost Christian, Tho Angel and Child Annio Benson, The or. Spoiled Frock Babes in the Basket Beautiful Gate, The Blind Farmer, The Book of Riddles, &c., The Bridal Gut, The Children of England's Own (Tho Children of Hanson Lodge Cooke's Universal Letter Writer Cottagers of Glenburmo Death of Abel Diadem, The Dick Whittington, Life of Economy of Human Life Eliza Chifford, or, the Pious Orphan Elizabeth, or, The Exiles of Siberia Etiquette for Ladies and Gentlemen, &c Etiquette of Love, Courtship, and Marriage Etiquette, or, the Perfect Lady and Gentleman Evergreen, The Filial Affection, or, Home Restored Garden of Weeds & Flowers The

Garland of Plowers Gates Ajar General Receipt Book Goldsmith's Poetical Works Gnide to Health & LongLife Happy Winter (The), or, The Children of Hanson Lodge Heart and Hand Heart's Ence, The Hermit of the Beach (The) Hole in the Pocket (The) Holiday Stories Hours of Thought Houschold Poems Jack and Ann, (History of) John of Arc A Poem Just Right, or, A Little Wrong Juvenile Keepsake Juvenile Tales for Boys & Gir's Kiss for a Blow (A) Language of Flowers Life of Dick Wh ttington Life of Joseph, the Son of Israci Little Bertha's Secret Little Town Lady, & other Poems Love in a Cottage

Lover's Offering

Manual of Croquet

Lucy Sandford

Maria Monk Mary Moreton Mary Raymond M. son's Sciect Remains Mead's Almost Christian Memors of Joan of Are Modern Receive Moore Lalls Rookh

Moore's Irish Melodies My Postie Companion Mindersen of Con and h isom's Journal Ware Described Occurry New London Letter Writer

Murwry Rhymos Pastor's literies Paul and Virginia Perfect Lady & Confirmen Porter for all the Your

Bound. Poetic Gift of Triendship Poor-house Ham

Pretty Little Poems for Pretty Lettle Propie Pretty Lat Stories for Pretty Lattle People

Rs en's Peathe . de Rose Villag or the Rappy Panelly.

Bermon Manor or Later and Southis Entriesed of Pallsbury Plain

hix Months to Con ent Smith's Refreshing Dev-Dropa Sweet Mary or the Bride made ready for her Lard Take about Anturals Talce about hirds & Fishes Tales from the Dible Takes of my Father Thoughtless Little Pauny Three Experiments of Liv-

mg. The Three Spiers, The

Tom White, the Postboy

Two Half-Growns, The Two Shormakers, The Uncle Paul's Stornes Raiding Geft. The Wesley Promitive Physics COOK N HOLD I W Wreath of Freend with, The Young Lady SLetter Writer,

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE BASKET PLOYETS.

Desket of Ployers. A Tale for the Young Christian Warrace The Christman F.vs. &n Caster Legs Ourland of Dops, The Genevieve and other Tales. Good Princips, The

Henry of Elchend in to Lettle I migrant, The Lattle Hermit, The [Tales Pri I amb. The and other Bow of Tempeloure Timothy and Philerann Two Brothers. The 100 New Pretty Little Takes

100 Pretty Little Tales T. S. ABTRUE'S WORKS. Broken Merchant, The Cedardale : or the Peace-

makers Delant and Creditor Drunkard's Will The

Haven't-time and Don'tbe in a livry Keeplag up Alexandel Last leuny 1be, &c Lost Children, The

Lovers and Hustands Margio's Baby Married and Single Our Little Harry Pletre, the Organ-Boy cie

Poor Woodcutter The